3 BANKS CLOSED IN $6,000,000 ILLINOIS CRASH

OTHERS WEATHER A HEAVY RUN

Remain Open at Night to Handle Saturday Business —Farm Loans Blamed— Fifth Failure in Week.

By the Associated Press.

QUINCY, Ill., Nov. 15.—Three Quincy banks are in the hands of bank examiners tonight, two affiliated depositories in small towns of Illinois and Missouri are closed. The remaining banking houses of this city, after weathering a heavy run of withdrawals, remained open for the usual Saturday evening business and announced they would do business as usual next week.

The community was in a highly nervous state, evidenced by long lines of customers waiting at windows to withdraw funds. A group of leading citizens, however, gave assurance in a signed statement appearing in the afternoon Whig Herald and Journal that the remaining banks would continue to serve the public.

Depositors were urged to make their customary deposits and essential withdrawals without hysteria.

J. W. Gardner, president of the State Savings, Loan and Trust Co., blamed the situation on the shrinkage of farm land values.

Other Banks Crowded.

Quincy's remaining banks handled a rush of business during the evening. Both downtown banks and the three in outlying districts were crowded to the doors during the two-hour banking period. They reported, however, that abnormal withdrawals had ceased.

Crowds that appeared to be continuing the runs started this morning, but checked during the afternoon, were made up, to a large extent, bankers said, of workers cashing weekly and bi-monthly payroll checks. There was, according to bankers, an evident lack of concerted withdrawals.

The head of one of the downtown banks announced that $700,000 in cash lay in the bank vaults this afternoon and that the banks were in a position to withstand any further difficulties. It was reported that $450,000 had arrived from Chicago and St. Louis in two airplane shipments.

Missouri Subsidiary Affected.

The overnight closing of his bank, oldest in this part of the State, brought the situation to a crisis and was followed by the closing of a branch bank here and in Payson, Ill., 15 miles away. On Nov. 15 a State bank in Green City, Mo., a correspondent of the defunct Quincy-Ricker National Bank, closed its doors. The succession of shutdowns had been started a week ago, however, by the failure of the Quincy-Ricker depository, only national bank in the city.

The State Savings Loan & Trust Co. had $6,216,000 deposits when its last statement was issued, and $1,000,000 capital. The South Side State Savings Bank and the Payson State Savings Bank at Payson, branches, closed during the morning.

A run was started on the Broadway State Savings Bank, another branch, but it weathered the storm and by noon conditions here were normal. All day long, however, long lines of depositors filed into the Mercantile Trust & Savings Bank and the Illinois State Bank, downtown banks, and the State Street Bank & Trust Co. in South Quincy, seeking to withdraw their funds. The latter is the largest bank of the community. Assurances were given that there was no danger of their closing, but the nervous throngs paid little attention.

Business Men in Conference.

A committee of leading merchants and manufacturers met this afternoon for several hours and discussed methods of relieving the tensity.

Gardner's bank was founded by C. H. and Lorenzo Bull, pioneers, who gave the original institution their name.

His statement on the closing of the bank and its branches said:

The closing was decided upon as the only way to save the assets of the bank. The steady withdrawals by both savings and commercial depositors since the closing of the Quincy-Ricker made heavy inroads on the bank's quick

SOLDIERS PATROL MADRID STREETS AFTER TWO DAYS OF RIOTING BY STRIKERS

General Walkout Paralyzes Transportation and Threatens Food and Water Supply of Spanish Capital.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Nov. 15.—Puerta del Sol, the Times Square of Madrid, was dark and deserted tonight except for heavily armed police patrols; transportation services were at a standstill, the city's food and water supplies were menaced and martial law appeared an imminent possibility at the end of two days of labor riots.

There was fighting in the streets during the day between police and rioters. At noon a general strike called out street car and subway crews, workers at the power houses and water works, pressmen in the newspaper shops, factory workers and bakers.

An emergency Cabinet meeting ordered military protection for the light, water, gas and food supplies; placed military trucks at the disposal of the police for transportation of bread, posted a guard of soldiers in the streets, and was thought to be ready to proclaim martial law the moment it seems necessary.

At least two and possibly four men have been killed in the last two days. At least a dozen seriously wounded, 100 other less seriously injured. A hundred or more men have been arrested.

The general strike is due to end on Monday, but meantime, strike headquarters have ordered cafes, bars, theaters and all amusement resorts closed all day tomorrow.

Origin of the Trouble.

The trouble began on Wednesday at the funeral of four workmen who were killed in the collapse of a building. A demonstration in protest against the construction of flimsy buildings was repressed with violence by the police and two men were killed before the rioters were dispersed. The disorders broke out afresh today with a strike of 40,000 construction workers called as a protest against "police brutality" in breaking up the disturbance of the day before. Five thousand university students participated in the demonstration with the workers.

Heavy police guards were thrown about Government buildings tonight.

Two newspapers, El Debate and A. B. C. were reported preparing to get out editions tomorrow morning despite the strike order because their staffs do not belong to the striking unions. Police provided a guard for these two plants in the expectation that disgturbances would develop there during the night.

So far as could be learned, nobody was killed in today's rioting, but despite the secretiveness of the police it appears certain that many were injured.

Strikes in Other Cities.

At Malaga a general strike is in progress and soldiers have been ordered to operate the bakeries.

Meanwhile, strikes continued in Oviedo, Barcelona and Valencia, the most serious of which was at Oviedo, where 20,000 coal miners walked out.

The King left yesterday on a hunting trip, and apparently the authorities did not consider the situation serious enough to warrant asking him to return.

FREED FROM LIFE TERM BECAUSE OF THIRD DEGREE

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 15.—The Missouri Supreme Court this afternoon freed Maurice W. Nagel, 27 years old, of Kansas City, of a charge of having been an accessory to the killing of a policeman, for which he is serving a life sentence in the penitentiary, because of insufficient evidence and error by the trial Judge in admitting in evidence an alleged confession, which was said to have been obtained through torture by Kansas City policemen. The Court reversed the conviction and ordered discharge of Nagel. He has been a prisoner since June 15, 1928.

Nagel was jointly charged with five others, several of them gangsters, with the murder of Traffic Policeman James H. (Happy) Smith in Kansas City, June 14, 1928, in connection with $19,000 robbery of the Home Trust Co., during the Republican National Convention. Smith was shot when he attempted to halt the flight of the robbers from the bank in an automobile.

John Messino, Tony Mangiarcino and Carl Nasello were hanged last July 25 for Smith's murder and Tony Bonello was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Nagel did not participate in the robbery or murder, according to the evidence, but it developed that he owned the automobile used by the robbers. The prosecution contended Nagel had lent his car for the robbery, with the understanding he was to share in the loot, and he was charged with first degree murder, as an accessory to the killing.

The defense contended, and the Attorney-General's department conceded before the Supreme Court, that the confession admitted as evidence was an involuntary one. There was other evidence that Nagel had been beaten with a rubber hose, a blackjack, a chair and a revolver, and that he had been subjected to torture by the police before he signed the confession.

Commissioner Berryman Henwood, who wrote the opinion in Division No. 2 of the court, held the confession was involuntary and should have been excluded, and that there was no other evidence supporting the verdict. "A verdict based upon mere suspicion will not be permitted to stand," he said. Judges David E. Blair and J. T. White concurred. Judge R. F. Walker was absent because of illness.

"Our review of the record has satisfied us that the discovery of any additional proof against the defendant is very improbable, and that nothing would be accomplished by remanding this case for another trial." Commissioner Henwood concluded.

The holdup and killing occurred about noon during one of the days of the national Republican convention. As the robbers' car swept down the street the occupants fired machine guns. Besides killing Smith, they wounded another officer and one person died from shock.

RADIO MURDER TRIAL DRAMA TO BE PLAYED IN SIX DAYS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—A murder trial drama requiring three hours for presentation, is to be enacted before the microphone of the National Broadcasting Co.

It is to be split into six consecutive installments, the first of which will go out Tuesday, Nov. 25, and the last, Sunday, Nov. 30.

The production, "The Trial of Vivienne Ware," is under the supervision of John Golden, theatrical producer, and George Gordon Battle, distinguished lawyer, will take the part of the attorney for the defense.

The drama was written by Kenneth M. Ellis, especially for the radio. The WJZ network will be used, with broadcasts on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Sunday at 9:30 p. m. (St. Louis time), and on Saturday, Nov. 28, at 8 p. m.

ENCYCLOPAEDIA BRITANNICA FILES PLAGIARISM SUIT

Seeks Injunction Against and Accounting From Publishers of "The World Book."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Two sets of reference books, the "Encyclopaedia Britannica" and "The World Book," went to court today, with Encyclopaedia Britannica, Inc., charging the publishers of "The World Book" with plagiarism and demanding an injunction and an accounting. "The World Book," is published in Chicago by W. F. Quarrie & Co.

Publishers of the Encyclopaedia charged in Federal Court that "The World Book" of 12 volumes had infringed the ownership rights of material in the "Encyclopaedia Britannica," which is in 28 volumes. The charge is made that the publishers of "The World Book" represented the Encyclopaedia Britannica as being "essentially British," which the New York company denies.

The company asks "not less than $250,000" damages on the eleventh Encyclopaedia edition but makes no estimate of damages as applied to the current, or fourteenth, edition.

Bank at Havre Closes.

HAVRE, France, Nov. 15.—The Commercial Bank of Havre, in which merchants were stockholders and depositors, suspended payments and closed ots doors today.

KILLS SON-IN-LAW THEN HIMSELF IN FAMILY QUARREL

DAUGHTER SOUGHT HELP OF FATHER

Husband Came Home Drunk, Threatened to Leave Her, She Says— Son Finds Parent's Body.

John W. Latty, retired city fireman, shot and killed his son-in-law, Edward J. Larkin, 45 years old, a clerk, then killed himself, in Larkin's rooms at 5044A Easton avenue last night, after interceding in a quarrel between Larkin and his wife. Latty lived on the first floor of the two-family building.

Latty, who was 65 years old, died outright of a bullet wound in the head. Larkin staggered downstairs, collapsing in the rear yard, and died at the City Hospital of wounds in the head and chest.

Latty's daughter, Mrs. Helen Larkin, told police Latty first walked behind her husband's chair and shot him in the head. Mrs. Larkin fled downstairs screaming, after which apparently Latty shot his son-in-law in the chest and killed himself.

Came Home Intoxicated.

In substance, Mrs. Larkin's story was that her husband came home intoxicated, as was his custom on Saturdays, and began a quarrel, during which he announced he would leave and demanded a grip. Weeping, Mrs. Larkin went downstairs and complained to her father.

The father went alone to the second-floor apartment and remained almost an hour talking to Larkin. When he returned, Mrs. Larkin rejoined her husband and Latty went to his bedroom apparently to get his revolver.

"Eddie was sitting in the living room with his back to the door and I was in the kitchen, when father came up again," Mrs. Larkin said. "Father went into the bathroom. A minute later he came out and walked straight into the living room and shot Eddie from behind. I ran downstairs screaming."

Finds Father's Body.

Latty's son, William, heard the shots and started up the rear stairway, passing Larkin who was coming down. In the living room he found his father's body on a divan. The revolver, with three discharged cartridges, was in his hand.

Latty, for 35 years a fireman with Engine Co. No. 30 at Vernon and Arcade avenues, was retired on pension about 10 years ago. Since then he had worked occasionally as a watchman. He is survived by his widow and four children. Relatives said he and his son-in-law quarreled only when Larkin was drinking.

$10,000,000 FOR CAMPAIGN TO KEEP UNITED STATES DRY

"Country Is Going Wet Unless We Sell Prohibition," Chicagoan Tells W. C. T. U.

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 15.—"The country is going wet, unless we reach the masses and sell them prohibition as we would sell them soap," Alonzo E. Wilson, director of the American Business Men's Prohibition foundation of Chicago today told the Women's Christian Temperance Union which is holding its fifty-sixth annual convention here.

The selling, he said, was to be through a $10,000,000 advertising campaign, chiefly in newspapers, which had been arranged. The W. C. T. U. members, he said, could help by commending the foundation to their home town business men.

President Ella A. Boole's recommendations for a series of 20 or more regional "campaign conferences" next winter, to supplant the usual general national convention; for "educational" work in the public library, the public school and the Sunday school; for a worldwide "week of pentecostal prayer" in the cause of temperance; and for many other incidental activities were approved unanimously.

ORDERS FOR MILLIONS IN WHEAT EXECUTED IN CHICAGO MARKET

December Fluctuates Quarter of Cent in Wild Trading; 50,000,000 Bussels Sold to Italy.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—A day of trading, described by veteran observers as without precedent, kept the Chicago wheat pit in a state of excitement today.

Although buying and selling orders amounting to millions of dollars had been executed during the session, the fluctuation of December wheat was held to one-quarter cent, most of it going at 73 cents even. December wheat at Winnipeg, meanwhile, was selling at as low as 58 cents, one of the lowest levels ever reached, according to traders here.

Although confirmation was lacking from official sources, newspapers said the rumor persisted that the Grain Stabilization Corporation had contracted for sale of 50,000,000 bushels of wheat on long-term credit to Italian buyers. If this were true, the Tribune said, it would be the second largest sale in American grain annals, ranking only below the 100,000,000 bushels sold by Julius Barnes after the war to European buyers at more than $2 a bushel.

MEASURE TO STABILIZE CUBAN SUGAR INDUSTRY IN EFFECT

President Machado Signs Chadbourne Bill Involving $42,000,000 in Bonds to Restrict Sales.

HAVANA, Nov. 15.—President Machado today signed the bill embodying the Chadbourne sugar plan, thus making law a $42,000,000 scheme to stabilize the Cuban sugar industry.

The plan involves the retirement immediately of 1,500,000 tons of surplus sugar, this amount to be released systematically over a five-year period. The project provides for the issuance of $42,000,000 in Cuban Treasury bonds to finance the carry-over at $4 for each 325-pound bag.

Thomas L. Chadbourne, American author of the plan, said tonight it meant the solution of Cuban economic problems. With Dr. Viriato Gutierrez, who aided in drafting the plan, he left today for the United States. They will sail for Europe next Friday in an effort to arrange a world agreement for restriction of sugar sales.

Specific bequests totaling $247,500 to six daughters, three sons and eight grandchildren are listed in the will of Abraham Wolff, president of the A. Wolff Corporation, dealer in junk metals, who died Nov. 10 at his home, 6321 Southwood avenue.

The will, filed at Clayton yesterday, stipulated that most of the bequests be paid in stocks and bonds of the Consolidated Petroleum Products, Inc., the Puritan Oil Corporation and the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Co., and named his widow as residuary legatee.

Miss Frances Wolff, a daughter, was bequeathed $100,000; Mrs. Rosie Lipshultz, a daughter, $50,000; Mrs. Bessie Jacobs, a daughter, $25,000; Mrs. Eva Cohen, a daughter, $500; Albert Wolff, a son, $5000; Samuel Wolff, a son, stock in Wolff Corporation; Mrs. Jeanette Rothenberg, a daughter, $5000, and William Wolff, a son, shares, the value of which is not given.

'NOT TOO HIGH, BUT IS TARIFF HIGH ENOUGH?'--SMOOT

Head of Senate Finance Committee Declares Measure Is Proving Aid to Business Recovery.

SAYS WAGES, FARM PRICES ARE KEPT UP

Makes Statement After Conferring With President— Calls Meeting Monday on Public Works.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Senator Reed Smoot, whose name is attached to the new tariff act so widely condemned and defended in the recent political campaigns, said today, "the question now is whether the tariff is high enough, not whether it is too high."

In a statement, after conferring with President Hoover, the veteran Finance Committee Chairman held the tariff to be aiding business recovery. He said wage levels were being maintained in all major industries as a result of "agreements brought about by the President."

Says Tariff Made Jobs.

"Thousands and thousands of poeple are at work today with the boot and shoe, textile and other industries, who would be idle except for the new tariff," he added.

"The prices of corn, butter, wool and other agricultural products are higher today than they would have been, as is proved by the prices everywhere else in the world.

"Agricultural products in the rest of the world have dropped to such levels that they would be flooding our country if it were not for the tariff. The purchasing power of the farmer is being sustained, thus creating more work for other people.

Cites Lack of Reprisals.

"Far from reprisals as the result of our increased tariff, only one nation has increased its tariffs since we undertook revision and that hardly affects us at all. Moreover, in the three years previous to our revision, 30 nations had increased tariffs against us.

"Under agreements brought about by the President, wage levels of the United States are being upheld in all the major industries and since the tariff bill passed wages have been falling in every country of the world except the United States. And, with this widening difference between American and foreign wages, the question now is whether the tariff is high enough, not whether it is too high."

Would Build Postoffices.

Erection of Federal postoffices in towns having postal receipts as low as $3000 a year was suggested by Smoot. The law now limits such construction to towns having postal income of not less than $7500. The Utah Senator discussed the public building program after his talk with President Hoover. He said it might be well to change the law.

Smoot called a meeting for Monday of the Public Buildings Commission, of which he is chairman, to consider further authorizations for public works throughout the country.

With the President, he discussed the legislative outlook. The principal aim of the coming session, he said, will be to expedite passage of appropriation bills.

Predicts Big Revenue Drop.

The Utahan predicted a falling off of $500,000,000 in Federal revenue this fiscal year, and said he would be willing to forego the usual 3¼ per cent reduction of the public debt if this would prevent a deficit.

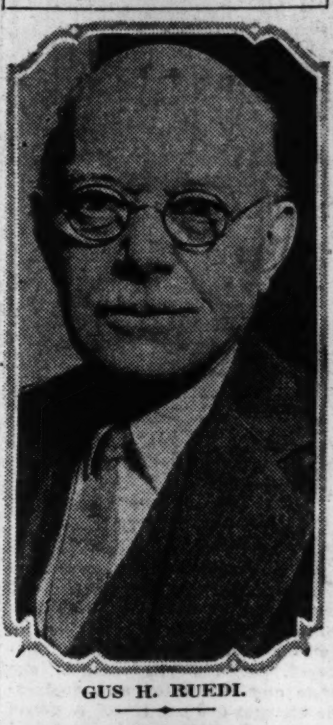
Smoot said there was much demand from business interests that the Government proceed with normal expenditures despite the threat of a deficit, even if it was necessary for the Treasury to offer bond. He said he would prefer, however, to keep the appropriations down to a level where bond issues would not be required.

To Punish Careless Doctors.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15.—Doctors and surgeons found guilty of causing the death of a patient through carelessness or inexperience will be classed as criminals and subjected to punishment, under the terms of amendments to the penal code which a Government commission is drawing up.

Ousted After 27 Years



GUS H. RUEDI.

RUEDI, MARRIAGE LICENSE CLERK FOR 27 YEARS, FIRED

Picturesque Figure at City Hall One of Six More Employes Discharged for Backing Tamme's Rival.

Six employes of the office of Recorder of Deeds Tamme were discharged yesterday because they supported or he thought they backed Alderman Lange, his principal but losing opponent in the last primary election. A week ago Tamme fired four other members of his staff of about 60 for the same reason. It is thought he has completed his cleanout of politically "disloyal" aids.

Tamme, a State officer independent of municipal control and choosing his employes at will, would not admit his motive was political revenge but issued this statement:

"The office of the Recorder of Deeds is an institution of public service and it is, therefore, but right and just that courtesy, efficiency and economy be maintained in its various departments. To attain these results it is absolutely essential that each and all of the personnel be loyal and faithful and they that lack these attributes cannot do otherwise but fail."

He did not charge the dismissed employes had not been courteous, efficient or economical. Asked if the fact that they did not support him was the reason for their discharge, he said: 'They didn't support me but I don't know who they did support. Faith is the foundation of a public office and loyalty its cornerstone." Tamme said he "imagined" the new employes he would appoint would be men who had given him political aid.

Ruedi Among Those Ousted.

Gus H. Ruedi, for 27 years marriage license clerk and latterly regarded as a sort of picturesque institution at City Hall, stands out among those fired by Tamme. He resides in the Seventeenth Ward at 3659 Laclede avenue. The Republican organization of his ward did not slate a candidate for the nomination as Recorder and Ruedi has not disclosed whom he favored. During his career, Ruedi estimates 100,000 pairs have obtained marriage licenses from his office. He would put them at their ease when he thought they needed that help and sometimes would offer a bit of advice. His pay was $150 a month.

Tamme announced the appointment of George W. Hartman, Twenty-second Ward Republican committeeman, 3121 North Taylor avenue, to succeed Ruedi. Hartman's organization indorsed Tamme and gave him a plurality for the nomination. Hartman has been a clerk in the Building Division for a somewhat smaller salary than that of his new place.

The others dismissed are: Barney Nash, a comparer, 1317A St. Louis avenue, Third Ward, $140 a month, in service seven years or more; Walter Ehrlich, a clerk, 3645A Garfield avenue, Twentieth Ward, $140 a month, there about five years; Albert J. Muellmann, a Deputy Recorder, 3405 Cherokee street, Eleventh Ward, $175 a month, there about 23 years; George W. Barth, a copyist, 2315 Menard street, Eighth Ward, averaging about $100 a month, employed seven years, and Richard Franke, a photostat operator, 2748 Meramec street, Eleventh Ward, $125 a month.

$4,480,000 IS REPORTED GONE FROM CLOSED BANK

Examiners Say $3,840,000 of Securities and $1,000,000 Cash Are Missing From Defunct Caldwell Nashville, Tenn., Concern

STATE SEEKING A PRIOR CLAIM

Louisville Court Dismisses Suit for Receiver for Inter-Southern Company, Largest Stockholder in Missouri State Life.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Bank examiners have reported to Attorney-General L. D. Smith that $3,840,000 of securities, demanded of and placed Sept. 25 in the defunct Bank of Tennessee by Caldwell & Co. during the last examination of the bank, which since has closed with liabilities of $13,000,000, are not now among the assets, and that $1,000,000 in cash, demanded and deposited at the same time, has dwindled to $32.55.

While the Attorney-General is hopeful of recovering State of Tennessee deposits amounting to about $3,400,000 in the closed bank, he fears that the disappearance from the assets of $4,840,000 in securities and cash, removed since the September examination, might seriously complicate the recovery of State funds.

Seeks to Establish Prior Claim.

He announced today that he would take immediate steps to impound the assets of the closed bank and of Caldwell & Co., investment bankers, for both of which receivers have been appointed, so that the State of Tennessee can exercise a prior claim under the law against all unpledged assets.

How much money will be left to satisfy the claims of other creditors of the bank, should the State succeed in forcing a prior claim to regain State money deposited in the bank from the general and State highway funds, is problematical. A thorough examination of the affairs of the closed bank of Caldwell & Co. is under way and probably will require several weeks. Until that is finished, it cannot be definitely determined that anything of value will be left for ordinary creditors.

Rogers Caldwell, head of the closed bank and of Caldwell & Co. and his immediate associates, are sureties on indemnity bonds to secure the deposit of State funds in banks designated by the Caldwell interests, but as the Caldwell concern has collapsed there is a serious question whether the indemnity bonds will fully protect the State deposits. Caldwell has not appeared at his offices downtown since the failure and could not be reached for a statement.

Caldwell Aiding Examiners.

It is understood he is co-operating with examiners and bankers to straighten out the affairs under examination. The Caldwell interests last January purchased a $29,000,000 road and bridge bond issue and the apportionment of money from the sale of those bonds accounts for the large deposits of State money in the Tennessee bank. Under a special act of the Legislature of 1929 the State Highway Commission could call for this money as needed and a funding board of five State officers was given power to designate the depositories.

The Attorney-General has not found that the law has been violated with respect to the deposit of State Highway funds, but questions the authority of the State Treasurer to have $336,000 of the general fund in the closed bank, a sum in excess of that prescribed by law.

Inquiry at Knoxville Also.

While the audit of the affairs of the Caldwell bank in Nashville proceeds, a similar examination of the closed Holston Union National Bank at Knoxville is under way to determine what assets are available to take care of more than $2,000,000 of highway funds deposited in that bank.

Examiners have found securities in both banks of very low value, due to the dwindling prices of securities in the last year, and depositors of both banks undoubtedly will be called upon to take

HOOVER BOARD OPPOSES REPEAL OF DRY STATUTE

Commission Also Said to Be Against 4 Pct. Beer or Any Request for National Referendum.

FINAL REPORT IS STILL TO BE WRITTEN

Those in Charge of Enforcement Prepare Budget, Including Cost of 500 Additional Men.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A decision against repeal of the eighteenth amendment has been reached by President Hoover's Law Enforcement Commission, and the actual writing of its prohibition report is nearer than at any time during the last 17 months, it became known today.

Although a final decision on the recommendations to be included is described as still in the offing, some general agreement has been reached, and not only repeal but four per cent beer or any request for a national prohibition referendum are authoritatively reported out of the picture.

Meanwhile, those charged with the enforcement of prohibition as it now stands are busy on figures to be presented to the House Appropriations Committee, including among other things, the cost of adding 500 additional men to the enforcement personnel.

After a conference late yesterday, both Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock and Attorney-General Mitchell today considered their estimate of future costs.

No Yearning for Enforcement.

At the same time, however, Congressman Byrns (Dem.), Tennessee, who has supported every prohibition enforcement measure voted by Congress in the last decade, made a statement that he would reserve a decision on the present addition of 500 dry workers. He asserted he did not feel there had been a deep yearning to enforce prohibition.

Only a few of the 11 members of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission were here today. Technically freed of their task by a 10-day recess, they nevertheless worked on statements that will be laid before the whole commission when it reconvenes Nov. 24.

Under present plans, five or six such statements will be ready by that date, and with these before them the members will discuss the tentative conclusions, possibly change some of them, and weld the whole into a final report.

Each Member to Write Opinion.

It has also been planned to have each member, after the task is done, write an opinion telling how his own decision was reached, and his feeling toward the recommendations to be included in the report itself. These will be laid before President Hoover probably before the end of December.

In discussing his views toward the present prohibition situation, Congressman Byrns, the ranking minority member of the House, asserted that so far he felt "the results of efforts to enforce the dry law have been nothing about which we could boast."

"Understand," he said, "I am not making charges against anyone, but it seems that the trouble has been in the general attitude. It might be either at enforcement headquarters or the methods used throughout the country."

Byrns explained he believed the enforcement agency should be given all facilities requested for proper enforcement but added that if they failed to carry out enforcement then criticism from Congress would be justified.

RUEDI, MARRIAGE LICENSE CLERK FOR 27 YEARS, FIRED

Twentieth Ward committeeman, and Deputy State Food Commissioner Nestor, Third Ward committeeman, had supported Lange for the nomination in the primary last August, but Tamme won after a difficult fight. The Eighth Ward organization was split.

Chief Deputy Recorder Thompson, who had explained in Tamme's absence when the others were fired recently that the reason was disloyalty because the workers had supported Lange instead of Tamme, notified the six men orally yesterday that their services would not be required after two weeks.

DENIES EMBEZZLING CLARA BOW'S CLOTHES

DAISY DEVOE.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY FITTS of Los Angeles, Cal., says Miss Devoe, former secretary and companion of the movie actress, confessed embezzling articles of clothing and money from her employer. Miss Devoe denies she made any confession and declares the charges are not true. A grand jury investigation will be made.

CLARA BOW AND PROSECUTOR SUED BY HER EX-SECRETARY

Daisy Devoe, Discharged by Actress Also Names Rex Bell in Suit for Valuables.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 15.—Daisy Devoe, discharged former secretary to Clara Bow, film actress, filed suit in Superior Court today against Miss Bow, her cowboy actor friend, Rex Bell, District Attorney Buron Fitts and three of his investigator, for recovery of jewelry and other articles valued at $2200.

Miss Devoe charged the District Attorney with wrongfully holding her property at the request of Miss Bow and with seizing it without proper process of law.

She demanded also $5000 exemplary damages, charging she had been the victim of "malice, fraud and oppression."

ILLINOIS OCTOBER OUTPUT OF COAL SETS MARK FOR YEAR

Exceeds by 1,000,000 Tons the Monthly Average Thus Far in 1930; Below 1929 Figures.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 15.—Illinois coal production for October exceeds by more than 1,000,000 tons the average monthly output for the preceding months of 1930, says the report compiled today by Director John G. Millhouse of the State Department of Mines and Minerals. This is below the average of last year, however.

The October output of 155 mines in 28 Illinois counties was 5,233,946 tons, and the mines were in operation an average of 18 days. Last year each man produced 112 tons in October and this year the average was 118 tons. In October, 1929, there were 175 mines in operation—20 more than in October, 1930.

Ten fatalities occurred in October—one for each 523,394 tons of coal produced. As compared with coal production, the fatal accidents during last month weer fewer than in the preceding months of 1930.

INCREASE IN EMPLOYMENT IN SOME LINES LAST MONTH

Labor Department Reports Average Decrease of 1.4 Pct., However, in 13 Groups.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The Labor Department's bureau of statistics reported today that employment in anthracite mining, bituminous coal mining, retail trade and crude petroleum producing had increased in October.

The average in 13 leading industrial groups, however, the bureau announced decreased 1.4 per cent compared with September, with a payroll decline of 0.8 per cent.

The increases in anthracite mining were 5.5 per cent, Retail trade was 3.8 per cent, bituminous coal mining 1.4 per cent and crude petroleum producing 0.2 per cent. Excluding manufacturing, the 13 selected industries showed a decrease of 2.2 per cent in the number of employes but a gain of 0.4 per cent in payroll totals. Manufacturing industries reported a decrease of 1.4 per cent in workers and 2 per cent in payroll totals.

Packers' Testimony Ended.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Argument in the packers' consent decree case will begin Dec. 1, presentation of testimony over a period of six weeks having ended. Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. called more than 100 witnesses in an effort to prove that the decree which confines them to meat packing and closely related lines should be modified. The Government, in turn, presented voluminous testimony calculated to show that the huge resources of the two packing concerns made the present regulations necessary.

FRENCH DOUBTFUL OF DO-X MAKING ATLANTIC FLIGHT

BLIMP DAMAGED IN NEEDLESS HUNT

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—"Will the Do-X dare attempt the trans-Atlantic crossing?"

French aviation experts are asking this question today. The tribulations of the giant seaplane since it left Germany have caused most of them to doubt the wisdom of such a venture.

French critics say that the breakdown after leaving Amsterdam proves that the Do-X is unable to remain in the air when two of its engines fail, even when the plane is not carrying a full load. Under such conditions, French experts declare that an attempt to cross the Atlantic would be dangerous and almost certain to fail.

On the other hand, Dornier, constructor of the ship, says that it was only fog which induced her captain to bring the Do-X down at Ile de Ro and not an accident. He does not understand why his wireless messages were not received by French stations, because the radio machines on the Do-X were working perfectly.

DO-X Near Bordeaux; Flight to Lisbon Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

BORDEAUX, France, Nov. 15.—The seaplane DO-X, its mastery of air and water established, floated in the tranquil Gironde Estuary 30 miles from Bordeaux tonight, prepared to take off Tuesday for Lisbon on the next installment of her flight to New York.

The Havas News Agency late today said that atmospheric conditions when the DO-X reaches Lisbon will determine whether the ship will continue on her trans-Atlantic voyage to the United States.

She flew up this morning from St. Martin Du Re, where she spent last night after having come down in the dark after a flight from Calshot, England. St. Martin Du Re is about 100 miles from the point where she landed, but the DO-X covered the distance like a steamboat, under her own power.

Tonight the officers and crew slept aboard their flying hotel, but tomorrow they were to come ashore as the guests of the city.

French Dirigible Damaged.

The flight from Calshot, while it ended successfully, caused some concern for the safety of the DO-X during a period when her wireless was silent. One ship which went to search for the seaplane came to grief.

The little French navy dirigible, V-10, not much larger than an American blimp, took the air last night to look for the huge plane and give her help if possible.

The flight started well, but after an hour or so her motors began to miss and the ship lost altitude, but the crew brought the little ship down to a rough landing, the undercarriage was damaged and some of the crew were slightly injured.

This was serious business in France, whose air forces have figured in repeated crashes lately, and an investigation was begun to determine whether structural faults were responsible for the accident.

Officers of the V-10 reported an explosion had preceded the landing and a main girder of the skeleton crumpled. Facing the danger of a second blast which might ignite the gas bag, the crew jettisoned everything moveable to lighten the craft, but she came down with a sharp jar in a pitch-dark night.

Men Extricate Selves.

The men were pinned under the wreckage of the cabin, but extricated themselves before neighboring farmers arrived. The gas bag was deflated today and the wreckage removed.

Tomorrow morning the DO-X will make the short run to Bordeaux and will remain for seven hours to give sightseers a chance to look over her huge bulk. Then she will return to Gauriac and on Monday morning make a series of trial flights. French airmen will have a chance to go up in her.

NEW CUBAN DISTURBANCES; MOB STONES ARMY GUARDS

Commanding Officer of Patrol Injured in Street Attack Despite Martial Law.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Nov. 15.—Martial law, in effect since Thursday, failed today to prevent an attack by demonstrators on an armed patrol, the commanding officer of which was injured.

An insurgent group attacked eight rural guards and their commander, a Captain of cavalry, in front of a safe in a downtown section. They used stones for weapons and with a heavy barrage unseated the officer from his horse. Three men were arrested.

Otherwise the day passed quietly. Soldiers are patrolling all sections of the capital carefully. All attempts at gatherings are broken up immediately and persons under suspicion are questioned. In addition to the military guard 2500 policemen assist in keeping order.

A Government communique said tonight that several other disturbances besides the one in front of the cafe had occurred over the island in the last 24 hours, but all were minor.

At Moron demonstrators were routed by heavy streams from a fire hose, while other minor affairs were reported from Cardenas, with none injured, and Santa Clara. Matanzas and Santiago de Cuba were quiet.

POLAND TO NAME PARLIAMENT; 81 DEPUTIES IN JAIL

All These Prisoners Belong to Opposition .Which Dictator Pilsudski Is Seeking to Overcome.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, Nov. 15.—Poland's 15,000,000 voters tomorrow will choose 444 members for the Sejm, or Parliament. A largely increased Government majority was generally expected over that of the last Parliament which consisted of 118 pro-Government, 216 Polish opposition and 83 national minority opposition Deputies.

The only question that remains is how many opposition Deputies will be elected despite the fact that 81 opposition members of Parliament are in jail, several party candidate lists ruled out, various organs of the national minorities, such as German and Ukrainian, suppressed, and according to opposition estimates 5000 citizens arrested in the course of the campaign.

Marshal Pilsudski, virtual dictator, who has been vainly trying to secure a Government majority in Parliament since the 1926 coup d'etat wants 300 pro-Government Deputies so the constitution can be changed to enlarge the President's powers.

assets, and there was every indication that the condition would continue.

"The principal cause of the bank's difficulties is the situation in regard to farm loans. The business was established and developed through the business of farm loans since the days of the L. & C. H. Bull Bank. The very condition that made the bank is now the cause of its trouble. Farm values have shrunk from 40 to 60 per cent. The bank has these loans as assets, but they are not liquid. It is too early to talk of the bank's future. I believe there are sufficient assets so that the depositors will not lose."

WOUNDED PREMIER OF JAPAN IMPROVES

Hamaguchi Has Satisfactory Night—Prayers Said for His Recovery.

TOKIO, Nov. 16 (Sunday)—Premier Hammaguchi, shot and wounded severely Friday by an assassin, supposed patriotic fanatic, had a satisfactory night and at 6:30 a. m. today was sleeping peacefully. His temperature was lower, 99.5 degrees.

Prayers were offered in Buddhist temples for recovery. Hamaguchi was said by physicians still to be in a serious condition. His intestines were pierced by a bullet, fired by Tomeo Sagoya while the Premier was at the Central Railroad Station.

Police holding Sagoya in close confinement refused to make public what caused him to attempt the murder. He is a member of the "Love of Country Association." Sagoya is thought to have become deranged by prolonged opposition to the Hamaguchi Government which accepted the London naval treaty.

In procuring the ratification of that treaty by Emperor Hirohito, Hamaguchi said Japan, in attempting less warship tonnage allocation than Japanese naval and other critics demanded, would gain international good will.

Receivership Suit Against Southern Life Dismissed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 15.—The receivership suit of a group of stockholders against the Inter-Southern Life Insurance Co. was ordered dismissed today by Circuit Judge Lafon Allen. The Court held that such a suit could be brought only by the State Attorney-General or Insurance Commissioner, and not by stockholders.

The Inter-Southern company is the largest stockholder of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis, owing 147,000 of the 500,000 shares, or 29.4 per cent.

The suit for receivership of the Inter-Southern company, brought by Thomas P. Bradley of Detroit, Mich., and other stockholders, charged fraudulent management of the Inter-Southern company, the books of which show $160,000,000 in life insurance policies.

In its reply, the Inter-Southern company asked that the suit be ordered dismissed to clear its name and to hasten the sale of about 2,000,000 shares of its stock held by Caldwell & Co. of Nashville, Tenn., now in receivership. The Caldwell holdings are a majority of its stock. A lengthy hearing was held by Judge Allen in chambers before his decision was announced.

The receivership petition against the Inter-Southern Co. charged fraud in connection with the sale of the Missouri State Life stock to the Inter-Southern. Caldwell & Co. formerly owned more than 30 per cent of the outstanding stock of Missouri State Life and it is alleged it transferred 150,000 shares of Missouri State to Inter-Southern at a price of $88 a share when the stock was selling at $32.

It was also alleged in the receivership petition that Shelton M. Saufley, former Insurance Commissioner of Kentucky, and Bush W. Allin, present commissioner, permitted Caldwell & Co. to withdraw from the state depository at Frankfort "large sums of money or securities equivalent to money of the presupposed value of $16,000,000." It is charged that the insurance company officials "menaced" Commissioner Allin until he agreed to the transactions. It is stated in the petition that Saufley, after leaving the insurance commissionership, entered the employ of Caldwell & Co.

Executives of the Inter-Southern Co., in a statement, said the suit for receivership was merely an attempt to embarrass the management "at a critical time when the public mind is in a state of doubt and uncertainty."

News of Consolidation Stops Run on Hermitage Bank.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Heavy withdrawals from the Tennessee Hermitage National Bank, which began yesterday, abated today, following the announcement that the Commerce-Union Bank had taken over the affairs of the former "with the co-operation and financial support of the other Nashville banks."

Absorption of the Tennessee Hermitage National Bank by the Commerce-Union Bank forms an organization with assets of more than $20,000,000, Edward Potter Jr., president of the latter, says. The Commerce Union Bank is affiliated with the Broadway National Bank.

Announcement of the merger was made early today and was signed by officials of the banks in the Nashville clearing house. The statement added: "The interests of the depositors of the Tennessee Hermitage National Bank are now fully protected."

Although there was a long line standing outside the bank when it was opened at 9 a. m., the crowd dispersed when it learned the bank would continue to honor checks on both demand and savings deposits as they were presented.

U. S. Flyer Escapes From Prison In Chile, Crosses Andes by Horse

Tells of 500-Mile Trip in Cold on Arrival at Buenos Aires—Lives on Pine Nuts When He Loses Rations.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 15.—An account of how he made his way over the snow-covered trails of the Andes in his escape from a Chilean military prison was told to the Associated Press correspondent by Orville de Larm, San Francisco aviator, who was arrested in connection with an abortive revolt against the Government.

De Larm arrived in Buenos Aires last night after his 500-mole trip in which he faced sleet, snow and hunger and wore out four horses. He escaped from the military prison at Conception on Nov. 1 after laboriously filing the hinges of his cell door with a hack saw blade obtained at the gunshop of the Carabinero Barracks.

Avoiding the highways, as word of his escape and his photograph had been sent out, he walked all night and by the next day had gained the comparative safety of open country, where he bought a horse.

Aided only by a tourist map and the compass of the plane in which he flew a party of six revolutionists from Argentina to Conception—the plane Friendship, in which Amelia Earhart flew the Atlantic to Europe—he set his course for the Argentine.

Snow and sleet fell daily during his crossing of the Andes, making the footing so precarious that his horse fell 23 times. At the outset he had supplied himself with dried beef and bread, but lost his provisions when the horse fell into a snowdrift. Thereafter for many days, he lived only on pine nuts.

In avoiding the frequented trails, he crossed the border three times before gaining a path that led him through the lofty mountain range and was forced to swim the Biobio River twice by hanging to his horse's tail.

He traveled mostly during the night and slept in the day to throw off pursuers and protected himself from the extreme cold by wearing two suits of clothing and a native poncho. He changed horses three times as the unshod hoofs of the animals became disabled from the rough footing.

Finally, almost exhausted, he arrived on Nov. 13 near the ranch of a wealthy Turk near Zapala, Argentina. At Zapala he took a train for Buenos Aires.

He said the Chilean authorities had not filed formel charges against him or Reid Smith, Reidsville, N. C., his mechanic, and that the latter had not been informed or the real purpose of the expedition. He said he had been obliged to leave Smith in the prison because of illness. De Larm plans to leave for the United States soon.

TINY BRICK HOUSE DEDICATED AS BIRTHPLACE OF U. S. TRADE

Governor of Virginia Makes Address in Customs Building on 224th Anniversary.

YORKTOWN, Va., Nov. 15.—The tiny brick customs house that was the birthplace of American trade 224 years ago was dedicated as a national shrine today.

Only a small number of the many visitors present could be admitted to the dedicatory exercises within the little house where Gov. Pollard delivered the address of the day.

"This is a monument to the birth of American trade in this, America's first port of entry," he said, "but it is also a monument to the love of state and country of Mrs. Arthur Kelly Evans whose generosity made possible the restoration of this great national shrine." The Governor unveiled a portrait of Comte de Grasse, French Naval Commander at the battle of Yorktown, painted and presented by Mrs. Eugene Deland Saugstad of Alexandria.

Mrs. Evans, a descendant of the first patentee of Yorktown and a resident of Atlanta, Ga., and Hot Springs, Va., was presented with a badge by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

The little customs house, built in 1706, will be one of the shrines within the national colonial monument provided for by Congress.

Missouri Board's Order to Cities Service Co. to File Schedule Likely to Be Tested in Courts.

FURNISHES SUPPLY IN KANSAS CITY

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 15.—A move to bring natural gas pipe-line companies in Missouri under the jurisdiction of the Missouri Public Service Commission, and to establish regulation of their rates and service, now uncontrolled by the State, was made today through issuance of an order by the commission, directing the Cities Service Gas Co., a pipe-line company supplying natural gas to a company in Kansas City, to file its schedule of rates with the commission.

This order, which undoubtedly will be carried to the courts, is the first step in a test case to place the natural gas pipe line companies, which are entering Missouri in increasing numbers, on the same basis and under the same regulation as other public utilities.

The pipe-line companies have escaped regulation heretofore, due to their claim that they are operating in interstate commerce, and are not subject to State control. As a result, their rates to large industrial consumers who are served directly are unregulated, and the commission has had little control over natural gas rates in towns served by subsidiaries of the pipe-line companies, because of the wholesale prices fixed by the pipe-line companies.

Price Discriminations Involved.

If the commission sustains its position in the courts, and brings the pipe-line companies under its control as public utilities, it then will have authority to go into discriminations in prices fixed by the pipe-line companies, which have enabled a high level of prices to be maintained for domestic consumers.

Should the pipe-line companies be classed as public utilities in the impending test case, cities and towns along their lines in Missouri, or individual consumers, then could take steps, under the Public Service Commission law, to compel the companies to furnish service. The companies now select their own customers and markets. Under their present status it has been contended there is no means to compel them to render service to applicants.

It is known that the St. Louis County Gas Co., owned by the same interests that own the Union Electric Light & Power Co. of St. Louis, has considered taking steps to force the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation to furnish it with a natural gas supply. The Mississippi River Fuel Corporation owns a pipe line which brings natural gas from Louisiana to St. Louis, where it is sold to industrial consumers. This service has not been under Commission control.

Controlled by Doherty Interests.

The Cities Service Gas Co. supplies natural gas to the Kansas City Gas Co. at the city limits of Kansas City. Both the pipe line company and the distributing company, in Kansas City, are controlled by the Cities Service Co., holding company of the Doherty public utility interests.

The pipe line company receives 40 cents 1000 cubic feet for natural gas sold to the Kansas City Gas Co. for distribution to domestic consumers. The domestic rates in Kansas City are $1.29 for the first 1000 cubic feet, including a service charge; 90 for the next 1000 cubic feet, and 85 cents a 1000 for the next 48,000 cubic feet used in a month.

Rates for industrial consumers in Kansas City are as low as 18 cents 1000 cubic feet. The Commission learned that the sales to industrial consumers actually were made by the pipe line company, using mains of the Kansas City Gas Co., and that the latter company was paid a carrying charge of about 3½ cents 1000 for such gas, irrespective of the rate paid by the consumers.

In a recent hearing before the commission on another matter, an officer of the Kansas City Gas Co. testified, in answer to questions by members of the commission, that the pipe line company fixed the gas rates for industrial consumers in Kansas City and that the Kansas City Gas Co. received a carrying charge on such business.

Acting in Dual Capacity.

Under these circumstances, said Chairman Milton R. Stahle of the commission, the pipe line company was in dual capacity of selling gas wholesale to the distributing company as an interstate carrier, and also was selling direct to large consumers, with the distributing company acting only as an agent.

It is understood that other pipe lines entering the State use similar methods, selling wholesale to subsidiary distributing companies in towns, but selling direct to large industrial consumers.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 15.—A move to bring natural gas pipeline companies in Missouri under the jurisdiction of the Missouri Public Service Commission, and to establish regulation of their rates and service, now uncontrolled by the State, was made today through issuance of an order by the commission, directing the Cities Service Gas Co., a pipe-line company supplying natural gas to a company in Kansas City, to file its schedule of rates with the commission.

This order, which undoubtedly will be carried to the courts, is the first step in a test case to place the natural gas pipe line companies, which are entering Missouri in increasing numbers, on the same basis and under the same regulation as other public utilities.

The pipe-line companies have escaped regulation heretofore, due to their claim that they are operating in interstate commerce, and are not subject to State control. As a result, their rates to large industrial consumers who are served directly are unregulated, and the commission has had little control over natural gas rates in towns served by subsidiaries of the pipe-line companies, because of the wholesale prices fixed by the pipe-line companies.

Price Discriminations Involved.

If the commission sustains its position in the courts, and brings the pipe-line companies under its control as public utilities, it then will have authority to go into discriminations in prices fixed by the pipe-line companies, which have enabled a high level of prices to be maintained for domestic consumers.

Should the pipe-line companies be classed as public utilities in the impending test case, cities and towns along their lines in Missouri, or individual consumers, then could take steps, under the Public Service Commission law, to compel the companies to furnish service. The companies now select their own customers and markets. Under their present status it has been contended there is no means to compel them to render service to applicants.

It is known that the St. Louis County Gas Co., owned by the same interests that own the Union Electric Light & Power Co. of St. Louis, has considered taking steps to force the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation to furnish it with a natural gas supply. The Mississippi River Fuel Corporation owns a pipe line which brings natural gas from Louisiana to St. Louis, where it is sold to industrial consumers. This service has not been under Commission control.

Controlled by Doherty Interests.

The Cities Service Gas Co. supplies natural gas to the Kansas City Gas Co. at the city limits of Kansas City. Both the pipe line company and the distributing company, in Kansas City, are controlled by the Cities Service Co., holding company of the Doherty public utility interests.

The pipe line company receives 40 cents 1000 cubic feet for natural gas sold to the Kansas City Gas Co. for distribution to domestic consumers. The domestic rates in Kansas City are $1.29 for the first 1000 cubic feet, including a service charge; 90 for the next 1000 cubic feet, and 85 cents a 1000 for the next 48,000 cubic feet used in a month.

Rates for industrial consumers in Kansas City are as low as 18 cents 1000 cubic feet. The Commission learned that the sales to industrial consumers actually were made by the pipe line company, using mains of the Kansas City Gas Co., and that the latter company was paid a carrying charge of about 3½ cents 1000 for such gas, irrespective of the rate paid by the consumers.

In a recent hearing before the commission on another matter, an officer of the Kansas City Gas Co. testified, in answer to questions by members of the commission, that the pipe line company fixed the gas rates for industrial consumers in Kansas City and that the Kansas City Gas Co. received a carrying charge on such business.

Acting in Dual Capacity.

Under these circumstances, said Chairman Milton R. Stahle of the commission, the pipe line company was in dual capacity of selling gas wholesale to the distributing company as an interstate carrier, and also was selling direct to large consumers, with the distributing company acting only as an agent.

It is understood that other pipe lines entering the State use similar methods, selling wholesale to subsidiary distributing companies in towns, but selling direct to large industrial consumers.

In the order to the Cities Service Gas Co., the commission stated that industrial gas service involved gas actually sold by the pipe line company and not by the distributing company.

"Under these circumstances the commission believes that you are engaged in the distribution of natural gas in Missouri," the order stated, "and, therefore, subject to the regulatory laws of this state. You are now engaged in this business in Kansas City and other points without having on file (with the commission) any schedule of rates on which you are furnishing such gas. The commission, therefore, requires you to file a schedule of industrial gas rates for all gas distributed by you directly or through any agent."

Mandamus Action Probable.

Should the Cities Service Gas Co. refuse to file the schedule in accordance with the commission order, the commission would have the option, it was said, of ordering a formal investigation to determine if the company was a public utility and subject to commission control, which likely would be carried to the courts, or could proceed directly in the courts by applying for a writ of mandamus to compel the company to file the schedule.

Several natural gas pipe line companies are operating in Missouri or propose to build lines, and there has been a scramble by promoters and company representatives to tie up towns along the routes in franchise grants. All of the lines are interstate in character. The Doherty companies operate a pipe line in Southwest Missouri that extends to Springfield and another line extends from the Missouri-Kansas boundary to Sedalia. The Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Co. is building a line across the State.

Two Companies Retailing in St. Louis Without Regulation.

Sale of natural gas in St. Louis and nearby territory is entirely unregulated. Two companies are retailing it to industrial users without certificates of convenience and necessity from the Public Service Commission and without having filed schedules of rates with the Commission.

The Mississippi River Fuel Corporation, whose pipe line extending from Monroe, La., to St. Louis has a capacity of 100,000,000 cubic feet a day, sells direct to a number of large industrial consumers under contract. Some are in Missouri and some across the river in Illinois. This gas is sold at prices to compete with the cheap Illinois coal, in some cases as low as 13 cents a 1000 cubic feet.

The Missouri Industrial Gas Co., a subsidiary of Utilities Power & Light Co. of Chicago, and thus an associate corporation of Laclede Gas Light Co., buys natural gas wholesale from the Mississippi River Fuel Corporation and retails it to industrial consumers. It makes direct contracts at varying prices.

These companies have permits from the Board of Public Service to lay their pipes under and across certain streets, but no other operating authority from the City of St. Louis. They have picked their customers and have refused to recognize any obligation to serve others.

Despite the low rates at which the gas is sold to industries, the pipe line company asks Laclede and the St. Louis County Gas Co. to pay 40 cents a 1000 cubic feet for natural gas for domestic distribution. The distributing companies say this is more than they can afford to pay and as a result there is no natural gas available for use in the homes of St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Meanwhile, the pipe line company, with an investment of some $30,000,000 in its line, is selling not more than 40 per cent of its capacity. The unused capacity is more than the daily output of manufactured gas by both the Laclede and St. Louis County companies.

APPARENT SUICIDE IN PARK

Nick Milosevich Found Dead on Bench; Revolver Nearby.

Nick Milosevich, 4245 Manchester avenue, was found dead on a bench in Forest Park yesterday afternoon by a Park Department employe who investigated after hearing a pistol shot.

A revolver, recently fired, lay beside Milosevich on the bench and there was a bullet wound in his head. His wife told police he had been ill for some time.

BOSSY GILLIS PICKS POLITICAL ENEMIES TO AID JOBLESS

Mayor of Newbury Port, Mass., Makes List of 70 Headed by Editor Critic.

NEWBURY PORT, Mass., Nov. 15.—Mayor Andrew J. (Bossy) Gillis scored heavily on his opponents today in a real, old-fashioned "Bossy" Gillis style. He chuckled as he did it and even a few of those he hit were forced to show wry smiles.

His Honor awoke today smarting under an attack by a local newspaper, in which he was assailed for taking no action to relieve unemployment.

"Well," said he, taking up his pencil, "I'll fix 'em."

In short order he had written down the names of all his political enemies—70 of them—and appointed them to an employment committee, charged with the duty of solving the problem. First on the list he named Fred E. Smith and Everett E. Hicken, owners of the paper which criticised him.

OLDEST TRAVELING MAN DIES

Charles Terry, 94, Atchison, Kan., on Road 64 Years.

ATCHISON, Kan., Nov. 15.—Charles Terry, 94 years old, the oldest traveling salesman in the United States until his retirement several years ago, died at his home here yesterday of heart disease.

He was an active salesman 64 years and was voted dean of all the knights of the grip at a traveling men's gathering in New York in 1928. He was a Civil War veteran. Mr. Terry often recounted that he received first hand advice from Horace Greeley to "Go west, young man, go west."

Holdup Men Captured at Peoria.

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 15.—Two robbers who have been terrorizing outlying retail stores for several week-ends were captured tonight after holding up the Larkin store, obtaining $230. Elija Asquith, 29 years old, and Fred Schultz, 25, ex-convicts, were arrested in a vacant lot a few blocks from the scene by police officers.

MOON MOTOR CO. RECEIVER NAMED, SENECA C. TAYLOR

Action Taken on Stockholder's Plea Company Is Being Liquidated in Benefit of Creditors.

The Moon Motor Car Co., pioneer in the automotive industry, has been placed in the hands of a temporary receiver by Circuit Judge Hogan on the application of a minority stockholder who alleged that the company was being liquidated for the benefit of creditors.

The receivership action was filed yesterday by Elmer Naslund, 3501 Connecticut street, who asked for an immediate order to protect the interests of stockholders. Seneca C. Taylor, lawyer in the Pierce building, was named temporary receiver.

The suit alleged that officers of the company—William J. Muller, president; F. W. Ayers, vice president, and Helm Walker, vice president and sales manager—have ceased performing their duties and have authorized a committee of creditors to liquidate the company. Since Oct. 31, it was alleged, the company has been in charge of F. G. Spoor, an officer of the Continental Motors Co. of Muskegon, Mich., one of the largest creditors of the Moon company.

Muller and his associates, representing Eastern capital, bought control of the company last spring and began the manufacture of the Ruxton front-wheel drive automobile in the plant at 4400 North Main.

Naslund's suit alleged that Vice President Walker shipped a large number of automobiles on consignment, without orders, resulting in the sale of cars at less than actual cost, when they were refused by consignees.

Total assets of the company were listed at $1,213,000 in the petition, against general liabilities and accounts payable of $205,000 and liabilities on commitments (materials ordered) of $492,900.

Shortly after the appointment of Receiver Taylor, two creditors of the Moon company filed a petition in Federal Court asking that a receiver be appointed to liquidate the company. The petition, filed by the Continental Motor Co., claiming $17,971, and Sellers Service, Inc., Chicago, claiming $2897, stated that efforts of a creditors' liquidation committee had been unsuccessful.

The Moon company grew out of the Moon Bros. Carriage Co., which made carriages for years before the first automobile was built. Joseph W. Moon, the founder, died in 1919 and was succeeded by Stewart McDonald and in turn by Carl W. Burst.

Burst and his associates—William D. Hemenway, Henry W. Klemme, Stanley Moon and John J. Dornself—sold out to the Muller interests last April. In September the company sued the former officers for $536,470 on the ground that the value of the property had been misrepresented and that sums of money were wrongfully diverted before the plant changed hands.

Shares of the Moon company, listed on the New York Stock Exchange, climbed from $3.75 to $16.50 before the sale was announced last spring. Last week a large block changed hands at $1 each. About 350,000 of an authorized issue of 500,000 no-par shares are outstanding.

COMMUNITY FUND ONE-THIRD RAISED, FOUR DAYS TO GO

Week-End Report Postponed and Will Be Made Tomorrow—Latest Total Announced $715,183.

After the omission of yesterday's report meeting to allow additional time for solicitation, Community Fund campaign workers will assemble tomorrow noon at Hotel Statler to add pledges obtained over the week-end to the total of $715,183, about 32 per cent of the goal of $2,200,000, previously announced.

Leaders of the campaign estimate that the fund is about 20 per cent behind the point where it should be to insure success by Thursday night, when solicitations are scheduled to end.

A number of ministers will make appeals for the fund from their pulpits today in response to requests from Community Fund leaders.

A minstrel show by the Shrine Chanters, followed by a dance, was given at the Moolah Temple last night. The entire receipts will go to the Community Fund.

35 Who Increase Pledges.

Among 35 additional increased pledges reported last night were the following of $500 or more: Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Steedman, $10,000, an increase of $400 over last year; Miss Mary Lionberger, $1300, an increase of $300; Monsanto Chemical Works, $1500, an increase of $500; Curtis Manufacturing Co., $1000, an increase of $250; William F. Peters, $1000, an increase of $250; Albert Bond Lambert, $900, an increase of $300; General Grocery Co., $720, an increase of $420; Guilford Duncan, $600, an increase of $300; Robert Gaylord, Inc., $600, an increase of $200; Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Holland, $550, an increase of $40; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Z. Salomon, $500, an increase of $100; Henry T. Brinckworth, $500, an increase of $450.

"Mom" and "Daddy" were the recipients last week of letters and pamphlets from nearly 100,000 school children, describing the work of the Community Fund.

Children in the kindergarten and first and second grades wrote their names on pamphlets bearing a reproduction of the Community Fund campaign poster and took the pamphlets to their parents or guardians. Those in grades from the third through the sixth, after receiving similar leaflets and a talk from their teacher, wrote letters expressing their ideas of the value of the Community Fund. Pupils in grades from the seventh through the twelfth wrote of their impressions of the Community Fund poster depicting a ragged urchin and a bent old man.

The satirical painting, "Were You There Whey They Crucified My Lord?" by Mark Symons, young British artist, which will be sold for the benefit of the Community Fund and which has attracted considerable attention at the Noonan-Kocian Gallery, 923 Locust street, will be on display today at the Art Museum in Forest Park.

The picture, valued at $5000, was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Otto Spaeth of Clayton, who purchased it in London in July.

This year's Community Fund goal is $200,000 in excess of that of last year. The money will be apportioned among 51 member agencies, according to their needs, after campaign and administrative expenses are deducted. These expenses last year amounted to 8 per cent of the goal of $2,000,000, or 160,000. Robert Kelso, Community Fund director, has estimated that this year's expenses will be about 7.5, assuming the goal of $2,200,000 is reached.

In some cases member agencies use a portion of their share for their own administrative expenses, for example, the Y. M. C. A. and the Provident Association.

Provident Society's Expenses.

Last year the Provident Association was allotted $307,544 by the Community Fund and had other income of $49,119. Estimated expenditures for 1930 included $190,820 for administration and social service and $170,000 for material relief, such as food, clothing, fuel, rent and like items.

Some other agencies put their allotment into a general fund, part of which is used for administrative purposes. Such member agencies as hospitals use their allotments to help make up deficits caused by free beds and medical care. Many of the agencies do not depend entirely on the Community Fund as they have endowments and other sources of income.

TWO DEAD MEN AND $10,000 IN ALCOHOL ON WRECKED CRAFT

60-Foot Liquor Launch Found Badly Battered on Coronado Strand Off San Diego, Cal.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 15.—With two dead men aboard and a cargo of alcohol estimated to be worth $10,000, a wrecked 60-foot launch declared to be a liquor-runner from Lower California, was found today on the Coronado Strand. The launch was badly battered. Nearly 140 cans of alcohol were found on the boat.

Identity of the two men has not yet been established. Drowning was advanced as the cause of their deaths. The launch seemingly was driven ashore during heavy winds last night.

Ship papers gave the owner's name as George A. Packard, Los Angeles. The boat was said to have cleared from Long Beach. Both men were young. Both bodies were in the engine room. Neither bore marks of violence. Apparently they had been dead about 12 hours. The theory was advanced that the high seas capsized the boat as the men were working on the engine, righting the boat only after both had died.

THREE LITTLE HOOVERS GOING TO WHITE HOUSE

Children of Herbert Jr. to Be Brought From West While Father Recuperates.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The hugs halls of the White House soon will echo again to childish voices, and a nursery will have to be established there. For three little Hoovers, Peggy Ann, Herbert III and Joan, children of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr., are being prepared for a transcontinental journey to the national capital.

The President's wife is now in Asheville, N. C., with her son, Herbert, who is regaining his health in a mountain-top retreat, while her daughter-in-law has gone to her California home to bring back the children.

The three will not tarry long in North Carolina. From the White House today came word they will come to Washington, and probably stay here. Three children would be rather too noisy to have constantly about one who isn't well was the judgment at the White House. And, since the children's mother has been devoting so much of her time in caring for her husband, it now appears very probable that President and Mrs. Hoover will have a chance to assume the parental role again.

Peggy Ann, an observant girl of 4, with blue eyes and slightly curly light hair, already is well acquainted with the White House. She had a birthday party there, right after the inauguration. She was consulted on all the plans, and, at her request, Mrs. Gertrude Bowman, hostess at the Girls Scout' little house, poured tea.

Herbert III, called Peter by the home folk, has grown to be a big boy—as large as Peggy Ann—since the inauguration visit. When his mother was in Washington she told her friends they'd hardly know Peter.

So it's Joan, the baby born last spring, the most fuss will be made about. And Joan is so tiny she will require a real nursery regime, with sleeping times, and feeding times, and charts, and height-weight-age tables, and all the other scientific formulae that the experts will recommend at President Hoover's own child health and protection conference.

With a great big lawn for airings, rooms large and light, and hallways that stretch from end to end, the White House is an ideal home for children. There's a pleasant third story, seldon seen by visitors, where boys and girls could play to their hearts' content, and as noisily as they pleased, without disturbing any grand luncheon or tea party downstairs.

CUT IN ELECTRIC RATES

Reduction Affects Six Towns in Central Missouri.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 15.—The Missouri Power & Light Co, today filed with the State Public Service Commission a new rate schedule cutting 1 cent from the rates for commercial lighting service in Boonville, Brookfield, Excelsior Springs, Kirksville, Mexico and Moberly.

The schedule goes into effect Jan. 1, 1931. Public Service Commission experts figure the cut will reduce light bills about $30,000 annually in these six towns. The drop is from 10 cents to 9 cents on the first 25 kilowatt hours for residence lighting and from 10 to 9 for the first 60 kilowatt hours for commercial lighting.

4218 AT STATE PENITENTIARY BUILT FOR 2660 CONVICTS

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 15.—Faced with a serious overcrowded condition, officials of the Missouri penitentiary are preparing makeshift quarters to take care of the constantly increasing number of prisoners.

The count at the institution tonight was 4218, which is only five lower than the high mark of 4223, reached yesterday. The prison is constructed to accommodate 2660 men.

Warden Leslie Rudolph said the board was making arrangements to move the commissary of the prison to an unused portion of a factory building and turn the commissary into sleeping quarters for about 175 men. When that space is exhausted, he said, the board probably would erect a temporary barracks on the playgrounds to accommodate 250 men.

In "A" hall, the negro quarters at the prison, there are 1003 convicts in cells designed to accommodate 608. Other cell buildings are correspondingly crowded.

Rudolph estimated the population at the prison by the middle of the winter would reach 4400 or 4500 men. The construction of the new $750,000 intermediate reformatory, seven miles east of here, will be of no benefit to relieve overcrowding until next spring, he said.

AID FOR JOBLESS FIRST ON PROGRAM OF NEXT CONGRESS

Drouth Relief Also Leading Item — Hoover Confers With Leaders on Expediting of Business.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Unemployment measures and relief for drouth stricken farmers have taken first place on the calendar of business for the approaching session of Congress as a result of a week of conferences between President Hoover and congressional leaders.

The pre-session discussions also have disclosed the probability that no recommendation will be forthcoming from the administration for a continuation of the emergency income tax reduction granted for this year's payments.

Leaders of both parties in the Senate have given assurance that every effort will be made to dispose of the legislative calendar within the three months of the short session but President Hoover must find a solution for the long pending question of disposition of the Muscle Shoals, Ala., power and nitrate plant before the threat of the Republican independents to force an extra session in the spring is dissipated.

Tentative plans now call for an appropriation of $60,000,000 to be lent to the farmers in the 21 drouth stricken states for the purchase of seed and fertilizer to plant next year's crops.

Speculation on Extra Session.

With the legislative program for the session rapidly taking shape, interest centers in the attitude to be taken by the Republican independents under Senators Borah of Idaho and Norris of Nebraska, toward forcing an extra session.

The administration will direct every attention to getting through the vital appropriation bills since failure to pass any of these might force the extra session.

Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, who will bear the brunt of the prospective battle in the Senate is still sick at his home here but he expects to be on hand when the session opens Dec. 1. It is likely, however, that he will turn over much of his work to Senator McNary of Oregon, the assistant leader.

Fights on Appointments.

Nearly 20 important recess appointments, including those of six members of the Tariff Commission, will have to be sent to the Senate for confirmation, along with approximately 50 nominations on which no action was taken at the last regular and special sessions.

Indications are the Democrats and Republican independents who fought the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill will oppose Edgar B. Brossard (Rep.), Utah, who was reappointed to the Tariff Commission during the summer. Friends of Brossard, however, predict he will be confirmed.

Senator Brookhart (Rep.), Iowa, has said he will challenge confirmation of Eugene Meyer Jr., of New York, recently appointed Governor of the Federal Reserve Board.

Several members of the old coalition have indicated they would make a minute examination of the qualifications of Claude L. Draper, Wyoming; Marcel Garsaud, Louisiana, and Ralph B. Williamson of Washington, if they are reappointed to the Power Commission. The last three were nominated during the naval treaty session but no action was taken by the Senate. President Hoover withheld recess appointments of these three men because of doubt as to his authority to make them under the law creating the new commission.

New Cabinet Member.

The Senate also will have to confirm a new Secretary of Labor to take the place of James J. Davis, Senator-elect from Pennsylvania, who is expected to resign Dec. 1.

Another post to be filled is that of Vice Governor of the Philippines. Nicholas Roosevelt of New York, chosen for this post, met with such opposition that the President gave him a recess appointment as Minister to Hungary.

Other recess appointments awaiting confirmation are: David Burnet of Ohio, Commissioner of Internal Revenue; J. Reuben Clark Jr. of Utah, Ambasasdor to Mexico; Harry J. Anslinger, Pennsylvania, Commissioner of Narcotics; Charles D. Mahaffie, District of Columbia, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission; J. Butler Wright, New York, Minister to Uruguay; Hoffman Philip, New York, Minister to Norway; Floyd R. Harrison, Virginia, member of the Federal Farm Loan Board, and David H. Kincheloe, former Representative for Kentucky, Judge of the United States Customs Court.

Review of Senate action on all nominations since President Hoover took office shows that of 12,202 appointments, four have been rejected and 67 withdrawn.

WOMAN RECORDER

MISS MARGARET A. NORTON.

FORMER ST. LOUIS WOMAN NODAWAY COUNTY RECORDER

Miss Margaret A. Norton, who was elected Recorder of Deeds of Nodaway County, Missouri, on Nov. 4, is a former St. Louisan and a graduate of Central High Schools.

Miss Norton was born in St. Louis in 1899, and attended Rose Fanning School before going to Central High, where she won the scholastic H. She is the daughter of the late Frank H. Norton, who was superintendent of the Seventh Division of the Railway Mail Service. The family lived at 3504 Halliday avenue until 1925 when, following the death of her father, Miss Norton and her mother moved to Maryville, Nodaway County, Mrs. Norton's former home.

Miss Norton says she has inherited an interest in politics, and last spring was persuaded by friends to file as Democratic candidate for Recorder of Deeds. She defeated her opponent in the primary election by 37 votes, and deceived a majority of 300 votes in the recent election. Her victory was the result of hard work by herself and friends, she says. She personally visited every business house in the 15 towns in the county and on Saturdays campaigned among the farmers, who came to Maryville to trade.

Ex-Mayor Found Shot Dead.

ADDED $52,500,000 SOUGHT FOR ENGLISH FUND FOR IDLE

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The large increase in unemployment is responsible for an additional £10,500,000 (about $52,500,000) for the unemployment fund and £750,000 ($3,750,000) for extra salaries and wages in a supplementary estimate issued today. A memorandum published with the estimate said the administration of unemployment insurance involved additional work.

The estimate also calls for money to assist the present crisis in the sugar industry in the West Indies which is responsible for advances of £5000 to Antigua, £112,000 to British Guiana and £7000 to St. Kitts.

Damage caused by the recent earthquake in Dominica was largely responsible for grants totaling £14,500, and the sugar crisis in St. Lucia for £2500.

The supplementary estimate prepared by the Chancellor of the Exchequer was submitted to Parliament.

Laborer Gets $12,250 Judgment.

A judgment for $12,250 was awarded by a jury in Circuit Judge Nolte's court at Clayton yesterday to Edgar Williams, a hod carrier, of 284 Dalton avenue, who was injured May 10, 1928, when a scaffold collapsed while he was working on a building in Webster Groves. He had sued E. E. Copeland, real estate dealer in the Chemical Building, and William R. Delling, plastering contractor of Maplewood, for $15,000.

BIGGER AND BETTER

PRESENTING THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX

Today the Chevrolet Motor Company presents the Bigger and Better Chevrolet Six, a new model of the six-cylinder car which has enjoyed such wide popularity.

In both the chassis and body of this new six-cylinder Chevrolet you will find expressed, as never before, Chevrolet's well-known policy of progress through constant improvement.

For—without departing from the basic features which have won the enthusiastic approval of over 2,000,000 buyers—Chevrolet has produced a six-cylinder car which represents an entirely new standard of quality, value and refinement in the low-price field.

Your first impression of the new Chevrolet will be one of striking fleetness, grace and beauty. The car is longer, lower and modernly smart. The radiator has been deepened and its appearance enhanced by a curving tie-bar and chrome-plated parabolic headlamps. The long hood lines sweep back unbroken to blend gracefully into the new Fisher bodies. And never was Fisher's fine craftsmanship more evident than in the bodies of the new Chevrolet Six!

Not only are the bodies roomier and more comfortable, but as you study them you will discover many gratifying new features and pleasing refinements—many examples of that painstaking attention to detail which is the basis of true quality.

Mechanically, too, the new Chevrolet Six is a better automobile. The wheelbase is longer. The frame is stronger. The steering is easier. The clutch is more durable. There is a smoother, quieter, easier shifting transmission. In fact, wherever finer materials and more advanced design could add to Chevrolet quality or increase Chevrolet's traditional economy of ownership—improvement has been made. See the new Chevrolet Six—and you will agree that here is the Great American Value!

» » AT NEW LOW PRICES « «

Chevrolet has long been one of the lowest priced cars in the world. Yet due to the savings of volume production and increased manufacturing efficiency, the Bigger and Better Chevrolet is offered at new low prices. Come in today. See and drive the new Chevrolet Six. Learn the new economy of owning a modern, fine quality, six-cylinder automobile.

REDUCTION IN BATTLESHIP SIZE TO BE PROPOSED

Reservation, Apparently Inspired by Britain, Under Discussion by Small Naval Nations.

Implies American Opposition to Budgetary Limitation Plan Is Awkward for England.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

GENEVA, Oct. 15.—Drastic reduction in the size of battleships from the maximum tonnage, of 35,000 fixed by the Washington treaty will be proposed by small naval countries for incorporation into the Geneva disarmament pact, it is learned today.

Delegations to the Preparatory Disarmament Conference here which did not participate in the London conference—Spain, Norway, Sweden, Poland, Greece, Turkey and Holland—are still studying the memorandum jointly prepared by experts from the United States, France, Japan, Italy, Great Britain, Ireland and Canada, which is a memorandum of the salient features of the London treaty which it appears desirable to incorporate in the proposed Geneva treaty.

The Spanish delegation has drafted a reservation which provides that: "Powers whose total tonnage does not exceed the specified figure will have full freedom of transfer. As regards other Powers, figures will be determined irrespective of proportionality on the basis of total tonnage and special needs. The greatest possible freedom shall be allowed for transfer of tonnage from capital ship to cruiser category and from cruiser and submarine to destroyer category."

The reservation on the limitation of dreadnaughts which appears to have been inspired by the British is still in a formative state and has not been officially drafted since discussions are continuing over what maximum unit of tonnage shall be fixed for the big battleships.

Having obtained questionable approval, through a tie vote yesterday for the principle of limitation of land armaments: that is, indirectly through the limitation or reduction of budgets. Viscount Cecil, head of the British delegation, today announced that unless "certain other naval Powers accepted the principle" Great Britain would not be able to apply the procedure to her naval armaments.

In other words, she would have to use direct limitation in dealing with the American and Japanese navies and the budgetary system as regards Europe's land armaments.

Hugh Gibson of the American delegation refused to accept the inferential responsibility for Britain's predicament and announced that neither reservations nor alternate texts would be submitted by the American delegation. The final adjustment would be left to the world conference.

The commission today confirmed its vote of yesterday supporting the budgetary system of limiting land war armaments, by a vote of 15 to 1. Hugh Gibson abstained from voting and Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian delegate, cast the opposing ballot. The vote was taken after three and one-half hours of discussion.

AUTO AGENT HELD FOR FRAUD

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 15.—Hugh Hickman, formerly an automobile agency owners at Mount Vernon, was escorted to Greene County Jail late today to face a Federal charge of using the mails to defraud.

Hickman was caught several months ago at Bagnell after being a fugitive more than a year. He was returned to Mount Vernon and tried on a charge of selling mortgaged property. The case resulted in a hung jury. Since the trial Hickman has been held in jail at Mount Vernon. Federal authorities made an investigation of Hickman's activities. The new charges against him are based on the alleged sale of fraudulent chattel mortgages.

PENNSYLVANIA WOULD INTERVENE IN POWER SUIT

State Cites Its Interest in Case Against Clarion River Co. to Take "Water" Out of Assets.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Through Attorney-General Schander, the State of Pennsylvania has asked permision to intervene in the injunction suit recently brought in the District Supreme Court by the Clarion River Power Co. against the Federal Power Commision in an effort to emasculate the 1920 water power act.

By the suit, the company, a subsidiary of the Associated Gas and Electric System, is seeking to enjoin the commision from wringing out $6,387,731 of alleged "water" from the company's plant investment said by the company to be $11,033,000.

The suit, which will start Monday strikes at the heart of the power act by challenging the authority of the commision to eliminate from the capital structure of the company charges other than the "actual, original legitimate investment." The Clarion River project is licensed under the water power act.

As a test case, the suit, as it affects the power commision's jurisdiction over hydro-electric projects, is comparable in importance to the St. Louis & O'Fallon Railroad valuation case.

State Official's View.

Schander in his petition to intervene, declared that since the Clarion project was located in Pennsylvania, it was to the interest of the state to see that the company's capital structure was deflated to the actual, original legitimate investment. His brief points out that the water power act gave the Federal Government the right to recapture the plant at the expiration of the license, and further provided that, if this right be waived, the state and its municipalities shall have "preferential rights" to take possesion upon payment of the legitimate historical cost, less depreciatino.

"The state accordingly has a direct interest," the brief continues, "in sustaining the jurisdiction of the Power Commision to inquire into, ascertain and fix the amount of the investment of the complainant in the aforesaid project."

The Schander brief was filed yesterday, two days after 12 prominent attorneys, headed by Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard University, had asked permission to intervene in the suit as amicus curiae in behalf of the electrical power consumers of the country. The 12 attorneys acted as special counsel for the National Popular Government League, a liberal, nonpartisan organization with headquarters in Washington under the direction of Judson King.

Charge Against Mitchell.

The league brief charges that the consumers' position in the suit had been jeopardized by Attorney General Mitchell and the Department of Justice, who are nominally in charge of the defense. Mitchell, in a recent advisory opinion given to President Hoover on the water power act, cast doubt on the constitutionality of the law. This ruling, given in the so-called New river case, is assailed in the league brief as "wholly at variance with the spirit, intent and letter" of the law, and an embarrassing action of any government counsel in the case.

While the Department of Justice is nominally in charge of the suit, the real work of the Government defense will be in the hands of Charles A. Russell, solicitor of the Power Commission, who wrote the memoranda on which the commission eliminated the alleged water from the company's claimed capital charges.

Among the lawyers who, like Prof. Frankfurter, signed the league brief are former Federal Judge George W. Woodruff of Berwyn, Pa.; Frank P. Walsh of New York; former Gov. Kendall of Iowa; Henry T. Hunt of New York; State Senator Edgar A. Brown of South Carolina, and Harold Evans, former Pennsylvania Public Service Commissioner.

MAYOR WALKER IN HEALY TRIAL

To Be Called by Defense of Tammany Leader on Bribe Charge.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Mayor Walker will be called as a witness in the trial of Martin J. Healy, Tammany district leader, and Thomas T. Tommaney, former clerk in the Sheriff's office, on charges of selling George F. Ewald a place on the Magistrate's bench, it was announced definitely for the first time today. Unless Hiram C. Todd, the special prosecutor, anticipates him, Sydney A. Syme, trial counsel for Healy, will put the Mayor on the stand, he said. "The defense case would be incomplete without him," the attorney asserted.

The Mayor, he declared, will be asked to repeat his public statement that Healy made no overtures for Ewald's appointment to the magistracy, and that the designation was given on the recommendation of the Steuben Society. The case will be called Monday and it appears certain that the trial will go forward at the scheduled time.

Now Millions of Adults, too, check Colds
2 WAYS at once!

To relieve that "stuffed up" feeling in the head, snuff Vicks up the nostrils; also melt a teaspoonful in hot water and inhale the steaming medicated vapors.

Mothers were first to appreciate the modern method of treating colds externally, because it avoids the constant "dosing" so upsetting to children's delicate stomachs.

Now millions of adults, too, prefer Vicks for their colds, because, just rubbed on, it brings relief two ways at once:

(1) Its medicated vapors, released by the heat of the body, are inhaled direct to the air-passages, quickly clearing the head and easing the breathing.

(2) At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, thus helping the inhaled vapors to break up the congestion.

SNOW, GALES AND RAIN HIT STATES ALONG PACIFIC COAST

Storm Warnings for Territory From Santa Barbara to Alaska; 2-Inch Fall in Spokane.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—With gales menacing small craft off the coast and snow and rain falling generously, winter apparently had come to the Far West today.

Storm warnings were posted for the entire coast north of Point Concepcion, near Santa Barbara, to Alaska. Small boats were warned to remain in harbors for the next 24 hours.

Rain swept along the south lowlands into Central California and was forecast for Southern California by night. Snow was falling over the uplands and in the mountains into the Rocky Mountain territory.

A snowstorm and heavy winds diminished the hope of finding alive six missing flyers in British Columbia. Seven American and Canadian rescue planes were held to the ground at Prince Rupert.

Snow fell over the Northwest during the night and was heaviest in Eastern Washington. Two inches fell in Spokane.

Snow on Peaks Near El Paso.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 15.—Snow topped the mountains in this section today. Peaks of the Sierra Madre, across the Mexican border, were blanketed with white, and snow was visible on the west side of Mount Franklin of the American side of the boundary. Freezing weather was forecast for tonight.

PROSECUTION OF MOTORISTS IN SAFETY ZONES HELD LEGAL

City Counselor's Office, in Opinion to Chief Gerk, Reverses Ruling of Police Judge.

Motorists who drive through safety zones or pass such zones on the left when signs direct otherwise may be prosecuted legally for careless driving, the City Counselor's office ruled yesterday in an opinion written for Chief of Police Gerk.

The ruling was sought after Provisional Judge Stein, in Police Court, announced a policy of dismissing motorists charged under the safety zone ordinance on the ground that the ordinance failed to specify each of the 500 or more zones. The City Counselor's office is preparing a new zone ordinance which, it is thought, will be effective without specifying each zone.

Motorists who park at the curb opposite safety zones, a subject also governed by the questioned ordinance, may be prosecuted for failing to obey a reasonable direction of a police officer if they refuse to move when asked by a policeman, according to yesterday's opinion.

PURSE DISAPPEARS ON TROLLEY

Woman Falls Asleep, Awakens to Find $60 Gone.

Mrs. George Hellmuth, 4468 Maryland avenue, reported to police yesterday that she had lost a purse containing $60 and a gold crucifix when she fell asleep in a seat on an Olive street car Friday afternoon.

Boarding the car at Sixth and Olive streets, Mrs. Hellmuth said, she took a seat, and another woman, about 45 years old, sat down beside her. Shortly afterward she fell asleep, she told police, and awoke at Sarah and Olive streets to find her purse and seat-mate gone.

COMMUNISM GAINING AMONG NEGROES, CONGRESSMAN SAYS

However, Progress Is Not Alarming, Fish Declares After Hearing at Atlanta.

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 15.—The statement that Communists have made more progress in enlisting the support of Negroes than he had anticipated was made today by Congressman Fish of New York, as the House committee, of which he is chairman, completed hearings in three Southern industrial centers.

Fish said he was somewhat surprised but not alarmed at the Negro situation. He gave close attention to R. C. Miller, Atlanta Negro, who said he was a former Communist organizer working out of Charlotte, N. C.

"Our condition," said Miller, "is miserable, and the Negro will put religion aside and join anything to better himself." He said the Communists claimed the support of 100,000 Negroes at the time he left the party because he did not desire to swear allegiance to Soviet Russia against the United States in event of war. Social equality and a determination to "banish Christ from the skies and capitalism from the earth" were Communist slogans, he said.

John Hudson, Assistant County Solicitor General, gave the committee details of capital charges pending here against Joe Carr, formerly of Wheeling, W. Va., and M. H. Powers, formerly of Duluth, Minn., who are being prosecuted for "attempting to incite to insurrection against the state."

A hearing will be held at New Orleans Monday and another probably at Memphis, Tuesday.

Luncheon for Benefit of Convent.

A luncheon for the benefit of the Helpers of the Holy Soults will be held Thursday noon at the convent hall, 4012 Washington boulevard. Proceeds will go to the building fund.

LECTURER, "BROKE," CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTED EXTORTION

Tries to Scare Wichita (Kan.) Oil Operator With Pistol, but, Failing, Flees.

By the Associated Press.

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 15. — E. W. Parks, who gave his address as Topeka, was held in jail here today while police investigated his attempt to extort $5000 from Ed Hawkins, oil operator. Parks was arrested last night at the rectory of St. Mary's Cathedral, where police found him after tracing a telephone call. Earlier in the day he had appeared at Hawkins' office and demanded $5000 after displaying a revolver, police said. When Hawkins refused the demands, Parks fled.

Parks said he was destitute and could conceive no other way to obtain funds. A recent lecture tour in which he spoke on religious subjects was a financial failure, he said. Police said it was doubtful that the case would be pressed.

'POLITICAL CHAOS IN 1932,' BORAH PREDICTS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Senator William E. Borah of Idaho wrote this note today while waiting for a Washington train:

"I have just one thing to say about the recent election. I have never known so little party spirit among the people. The people are more and more voting for individuals and less for parties. There no longer keep pledges as parties, no longer keep pledges as patries, and therefore voters try to elect individuals in whom they repose their confidence. I venture the opinion that there will be political chaos in 1932."

He refused to comment on the recent Democratic runaway in Illinois for three reasons: "Mrs. McCormick is a very dear friend of mine. What I might say would be unpleasant reading for the administration."

About the anti-prohibition agitation he wrote: "I do not have any idea what the Wickersham Commission will report. I doubt if it meets the issue as it is. The time has passed wherein any good purpose will be served by discussing light wines and beers, or modifying the Volstead act, or leaving it to the states to determine the alcoholic content, etc.

"The real fight is over the eighteenth amendment—shall it be repealed, and, if so, what plan is to take its place? Any report which does not meet that proposition will be of little value."

ARRESTED TWICE IN 3 HOURS ON POLICY GAME CHARGE

Oscar Biedenstein, Once Released on Bond, Taken Again in Raid on Gambling Equipment.

Arrested twice within three hours by different squads of police in connection with the same case, a man who said he was Oscar Biedenstein, 24 years old, of 4269A Castleman avenue, was charged yesterday with aiding in the setting up of a gambling device. An extensive outlay of policy game equipment was confiscated at the time of the second arrest.

Biedenstein, who was first arrested shortly after 9 o'clock Friday night, as he sat in a parked automobile at Beaumont avenue and Pine street, surrendered to the police a number of tickets in the "Gold Bag" policy game which he had with him, and ownership of which, police say, he admitted. About three hours later police of the Soulard district, investigating the midnight operation of a job printing press in a house at 2902 Milton avenue, found a young man, who gave his name as William H. Duncan, of 4269A Castleman avenue, busy printing forms for the "Gold Bag" policy game.

While they were taking an inventory of the adding and duplicating machines, ticket books, account form and printing supplies, Biedenstein, who had been released on bond, called at the house. Both he and Duncan were held.

POLICE SMELL MASH, FIND LARGE STILL IN RESIDENCE

Attracted by the odor of fermenting mash, Police Sergeant Arnold Bullmer of the Mounted District early yesterday discovered the fourth large still in his district in 10 days, at 6812 Lansdowne avenue.

The plant, not in operation at the time, included four sections of still equipment, a mash vat with 15,000 gallons of mash, and 220 empty alcohol cans. A man who said he was Charles Legnani, 42 years old, was arrested at the house, and according to police, admitted ownership of the still and mash.

Police discovered a small copper-boiler still and 10 gallons of mash at 3960 Kennerly avenue Friday night, and arrested a woman booked as Mrs. Margaret Sheehan, 45.

WOMAN EX-OFFICIAL ENDS LIFE

RICHMOND, Mo., Nov. 15.—Mrs. Irene G. Buckley, 43 years old, former Ray County Treasurer, died late last night from a bullet wound in the head self-inflicted earlier in the day. Several days ago Mrs. Buckley, who lived with her 16-year-old son Ernest, borrowed a revolver from a neighbor, saying she wanted protection from prowlers. Yesterday morning she fired a shot through a window apparently to test the weapon, and when her son rushed in, she told him she had decided to end her life. The youth ran to the home of an uncle, several blocks away, for aid. When he returned with his uncle they found Mrs. Buckley on the floor with a bullet wound in her head.

In addition to Ernest, she is survived by another son, Clarence, 19, a student in Central Business College, Kansas City, Mo.

$1750 DAMAGES AWARDED GIRL

A verdict of $1750 in favor of Margaret Susan Heckert, 14 years old, 736 Aubert avenue, was returned by a jury in Circuit Judge Falkenhainer's court yesterday for injuries she suffered when she stumbled two years ago in the ice skating rink of the Winter Garden at 520 De Baliviere avenue. The verdict is against the St. Louis Hockey Club, operator of the rink. She sued for $10,000.

CHILD WELFARE CONFERENCE TO BE OPENED WEDNESDAY

President Hoover to Address Meeting, With Secretary Wilbur as Chairman.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—How to take the baby out of the hands of all well meaning persons who know nothing of its system will be tackled here next week by experts in the duties of child training.

In the opinion of Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, who will open the White House Conference on Child Health and Protection, Wednesday night, "There is nothing that people know so much about—so much that isn't so—as the baby."

Yet, he believes it is the expert's job to stop it from crying, and the conference is designed to start new thinking which will "pull the whole level of handling the American child up to where it belongs on the basis of present information."

An address by President Hoover will open the conference after Wilbur has called the 2000 delegates to order and welcomed them. The President's speech will be broadcast by the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia system.

A second general session Friday morning will be addressed by Secretary of Labor Davis, vice chairman of the conference, and a Friday evening session will hear Miss Martha Van Renssalaer, director of the conference, and Wilbur as chief speakers.

Two Killed by Canned Heat.

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 15.—Canned heat caused a second death tonight when a man named Hutchinson died in a hospital here without regaining consciousness. J. T. Harvey of Bloomington, his companion, died earlier in the day. The two had engaged in a drinking party at the railroad station in Glasford.

CHARGED WITH INTERFERING WITH SPECIAL OFFICER

Claude Grisson Injured After Ordering Policeman Off Premises During Perjury Case Inquiry.

A special police officer, investigating the Gorman Craig perjury case, Friday, was "forced to use reasonable force" in subduing a man who ordered him off the premises at 2105 South Fourth street, he reported to his superiors. The man, Claude Grisson, 47 years old, 2105 rear South Fourth, was treated at City Hospital for lacerations of the face and scalp, and charged with interfering with an officer.

The officer, Lawrence Walker, said Grisson ordered him to leave, and when he refused, stating he was in performance of his duty, Grisson grappled with him and attempted to grasp Walker's revolver.

Craig, on trial for robbery Thursday, stated he was at a party at 2105 South Fourth street when the robbery occurred. He presented alibi witnesses who corroborated his statement. The jury, however, found him guilty and assessed his punishment at three years in prison. Thursday night the alibi witnesses confessed they had testified falsely. A warrant charging perjury was issued against John B. Sullivan, 2310 South Broadway, one of the witnesses.

FIRST AID TREATMENT SERIES

Series by Red Cross Will be Started Thursday.

A series of 15 weekly lessons in first-aid treatment will be begun by the St. Louis Red Cross Thursday night at two different classrooms, one for men at the Washington University Medical School, 602 South Euclid avenue, and one for women at the Downtown Y. M. C. A., 1528 Locust street. Both classes will begin at 7:30 p. m.

At the conclusion of the course, those who pass tests will receive Red Cross certificates. Registrations may be made at the office of the Red Cross, 2221 Locust street.

Home From India With Elephant.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Miss Dorothy Holt, 20-year-old student, came home today bearing gifts from India. One of these was an elephant, a baby one, presented to her by Nizam of Haidarabad, Royal Prince of India, whose favor Miss Holt found while on a two-year tour of that nation and Europe. The gift was the Prince's little token of esteem, Miss Holt said.

OUR HELD IN $400,000 REAL ESTATE FRAUDS

Woman, Sister, Brother-in-Law and Business Associate Accused in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—John Naughton, 40 years old, and Mrs. Hilda E. Schroeder, 43, who were in the real estate business in Chicago, are under arrest here today on charges of conspiracy, embezzlement and larceny.

They were arrested on the request of the Chicago police. The pair said they came here because their business failed in Chicago. Both said the total shortage charged to them would amount to between $125,000 and $150,000. They denied the embezzlement charge, stating they lost the money as a result of the business depression and have not profited one penny. "There was nothing criminal in our conduct," said Mrs. Schroeder. They came to Philadelphia four months ago.

A 15-year-old son living with Mrs. Schroeder is in the care of the police pending the disposition of his mother's case.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 15.—Edward Markwiese, 33 years old, and his wife, Margaret, 30, were held by authorities here today in connection with the alleged real estate frauds, for which John Naughton and Mrs. Hilda Schroeder, Chicago realty dealers, were arrested in Philadelphia. Mrs. Markwiese is a sister of Mrs. Schroeder and her husband is an insurance salesman.

Roland Steinle, counsel for Mr. and Mrs. Markwiese, announced that the pair would fight extradition to Chicago, where warrants, charging them with conspiracy and embezzlement, have been issued.

Chicago authorities charge the Milwaukee pair were agents of Mrs. Schroeder in fraudulent deals involving 53 parcels of Cook County real estate. The scheme, Detective Sergeant Harry Larson of Chicago said, was to execute and sell second mortgages on real estate which already had been mortgaged to capacity.

Mrs. Rose K. Rothsted, wife of former vice president of Armour Co., Larson said, lost $300,000 in a deal with Mrs. Schroeder.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Mrs. Hilda E. Schroder disappeared last July after she was accused of embezzling $400,000, the police said today. She had been in the real estate mortgage and loan business 20 years. John Naughton was an office associate.

Chicago police hold six warrants for her. She also is known as Ruth Chaney and Mrss. George Gibbett. More than a dozen clients have made complaints against her, charging they sought mortgages from her, but received only receipts in return for cash.

Helium Reported in Belgian Congo.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 15.—La Gazette says important helium supplies have been discovered in the Belgian Congo. The supply is said to be sufficient to offer some competition to American sources of the gas, which is used extensively to inflate balloons.

ARTIST AND WIFE ACCUSED OF INSURANCE FRAUD PLOT

Arrested in New York After Studio Fire Resembling One in Their Buenos Aires Quarters.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Victor Rosso, 32 years old, Argentine portrait painter, and his 28-year-old wife, Amy Laura Horne Rosso, were arrested tonight on charges of arson. Chief Fire Marshal Thomas P. Brophy called the case "one of the most brazen international plots to defraud insurance companies that has come to my attention."

Rosso and his wife conducted an art gallery in a building on West Fifty-sixth street which was swept by fire Oct. 26. The painter said the fire destroyed 160 paintings and many art objects which had been insured in Mrs. Rosso's name for $206,130.

Brophy said officials of the Argentine Republic cabled that Rosso was listed as the occupant of a studio in Buenos Aires which was destroyed by fire Jan. 14, 1927. The contents of the studio were insured for 100,000 pesos.

DIES AFTER CHASING HORSE

New York Policeman Overexerts Self to Capture Runaway.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. — After chasing a runaway horse several miles through crowded traffic and capturing the animal by throwing his arms around its neck, Patrolman William T. Vorden, 35 years old, fell dead tonight from a heart attack.

The horse is a police mount. It was being ridden by Patrolman Francis J. Murray and slipped at 155th street and Eighth avenue, throwing the rider. Before Murray could remount the horse ran away. Vorden, who was off duty but in uniform, jumped on the running board of a taxicab and pursued. The taxicab came alongside and he leaped from the running board, seizing the horse's mane and clinging to its neck until it stopped. Vorden stood for a moment panting, then fell directly under the horse's hoofs. He was taken to the Knickerbocker Hospital, where he was pronounced dead.

KING OF SIAM TO PLAY GOLF ON VISIT TO U. S.

To Travel With "Extremely Reduced Suite;" Operation on Eyes to Be Performed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—Without public appearances except in the capital, the King of Siam will spend most of his spring days in America at that quiet Western sport called golf.

Thus Major-General Prince Amaradat Kridakara, the Siamese Minister, today outlined the plans of the Eastern potentate for his visit to this country.

With an "extremely reduced suite," the absolute ruler of more than 11,000,000 people will travel and live much as would any wealthy private citizen abroad. That, the Minister explained, is the way he lives at home. Bangkok, his capital, boasts not a single guardsman corresponding to the President's Secret Service men.

Prince and Princess Svasti, the father and mother of his royal consort and an uncle and aunt, will be in the party. King Prajahipok will have two personal servants; Queen Rambai, one lady-in-waiting.

Operation on Eyes.

"The chief purpose of the visit is to have an operation performed that the doctors say will improve the King's eyesight," the Minister said, recalling that though his majesty is but 38, cataracts have so impaired his vision that "golf is the only sport he can enjoy."

Time was when the King had his tennis almost daily—with his 26-year-old Queen. She likes golf, also.

For although these sovereigns are unique in autocratic power, even in the civilized East, King Prajahipok's chief pride is his modernity, and his democracy. The Minister attributed the quiet success of the 150 years' reign of the dynasty to "the happy circumstance that they realized long since that dictatorship must be backed by public opinion."

He Likes Motor Boats.

From his court with its 60 motor boats, its dozens of automobiles, and its Minister of Royal Household—who both heads and is surrounded by tremendous staffs—King Prajahipok will sail to Hong Kong on the royal 2500-ton yacht. The party will cross the Pacific on the Canadian-Pacific steamer Empress of Japan, arriving at Vancouver on April 17.

Thence by special train they will come direct to Ophir Hall, a palatial White Plains, N. Y., estate placed at the disposal of the monarch through the State Department, by its mistress, Mrs. Whitelaw Reid.

After a few days' rest the King and Queen will go to Washington —perhaps for not more than a day. The operation will be performed immediately after they return to Ophir Hall, where they will remain until the end of July.

GIVES HAVEN FOR JOBLESS

San Franciscan to Supply Two Meals Daily to 2000.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—A haven where 2000 hungry unemployed may obtain two hot meals a day without charge, is under construction here and will be ready, it is hoped, before Christmas.

Officials of the St. Vincent de Paul Society, a philanthropic organization, said a wealthy San Franciscan was financing the building. A physician will be maintained for free services to unemployed suffering from colds, undernourishment and ailments due to exposure. The center is under construction at Clara and Ritch streets and is half completed. Officials said the donor imposed but one condition on his gift, which was expected to be perpetual. Under no conditions must his name be divulged.

TEXAS EX-JUDGE KILLS SELF

Covey C. Thomas Takes Life on Street in Cotulla.

By the Associated Press.

COTULLA, Tex., Nov. 15.—Former Judge Covey C. Thomas, 60 years old, unsuccessful candidate for Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court last summer and one of the best known attorneys and ranchmen in Southwest Texas, shot and killed himself on a street here today. Several persons saw him fire a bullet from a .45 caliber revolver into his head in front of a fire station.

Thomas had held several political offices and for 12 years was District Judge of the Eighty-first District. Several years ago an accident caused amputation of his left leg, but he continued his legal practice. About a month ago, he suffered a nervous breakdown and since then had been despondent.

Ukranian Protest Parade.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Fifteen thousand members of the United Ukrainian Societies in Greater New York braved a driving rain today to conduct a protest parade and mass meeting against alleged Polish atrocities in Polish Ukrainia. About 200 war veterans, marched in soggy uniforms, some wearing trench helmets. Then came 400 girls dressed in the picturesque peasant costumes of their native lands.

Frank E. Morrow Gets Divorce.

SAYS CHILD WAS DISCOURTEOUS IN WALKING OUT OF MEETING

Conrad Hobbs, Chairman, Tells How Former Ambassador Failed to Give Scheduled Talk.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 15.—The action of Richard Washburn Child in walking out of a meeting of the Institute of Current International Problems of the United States in Boston, Nov. 13, resulted in a statement from Conrad Hobbs, chairman of the institute, today, in which he said: Such conduct seemed "unworthy of a former Ambassador of the United Sttaes and discourteous to the distinguished speakers and guests."

Child, who was to have delivered a 35-minute address in opposition to America's adherence to the World Court, asked a question and then left the hall, telling newspaper men afterward that he was "disgusted."

Chairman Hobbs explained that every effort was made to have both sides of each topic fully and fairly presented at the meeting. Twenty-six persons of prominence had been approached to speak in opposition to the World Court proposal.

"Following Prof. Manley O. Hudson, Bemis Professor of International Law at Harvard University, who spoke for adherence," said the statement, "Mr. Child limited his remarks to one question which had little to do with the address.

"He thereupon left the room, refusing to answer questions or hear the rest of the discussion. Such conduct at a meeting of this kind seems to me unworthy of a former Ambassador of the United States and discourteous to the distinguished speakers and guests of the occasion."

3 AUTO PLANTS REHIRE 10,000

Oakland, Fisher Body and Hudson Resume Activities.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 15.—The renewal of activity in at least three large factories in the Detroit area was indicated by announcements from factory officials today.

These factories are the Oakland Motor Car Co. and the Fisher Body Corporation plants at Pontiac and the Hudson Motor Car Co. plant at Detroit. By the middle of next week, these factories will have recalled 10,000 employes to start production of 1931 automobiles and bodies. Nearly 3000 will have been taken back at the two Pontiac factories while an additional 1000 will be taken back to the Hudson factory, making a total of 7000 at the latter place. In all cases only former employes are being returned. The Hudson factory is working on a five-day schedule.

INDIAN WOMAN CAN'T DO WITH ONLY $1050 A MONTH

Asks Senators to Increase Her Allowance; Others Tell of Real Poverty Among Tribes.

By the Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Nov. 15. — Jeanette Tiger Burgess, Seminole from Konawa, complained today to a Senate sub-committee on Indian affairs she could not manage on her $1050 monthly allowance and wanted the Senators to help her get an increase. Mrs. Burgess suggested that the Indian agency here pay all current bills, such as gas, lights, groceries and gasoline and give her $1000 a month for "incidentals." The Senators were curious to learn how she spent her present income and she went into detail as to the cost of opearting her fleet of four automobiles.

J. H. Sixkiller, court clerk of Adair county, previously had testified 1100 Indians in that county were in a desperate condition and had no source of income except the cutting of sub-commercial timber.

A Congressional act that gave county courts of Oklahoma probate rights over restricted Indians was referred to as "the crime of 1908," by Senator Wheeler of Montana, committee member, who said he intended to seek the repeal of the law. R. B. Drake, chief probate attorney of the five civilized tribes agency here, declared county courts of ten probate Indian estates which were dissipated before his office had even been notified the Indians were dead.

MAN FOUND DEAD; KILLED SELF APPARENTLY IN GARROT FASHION

Body of Valentine J. Tobias Discovered in Field; Rope Twisted Around Neck.

Valentine J. Tobias, 5248A Neosho street, was found dead in a field at 6000 Eichelberger street yesterday afternoon by police who had been summoned by an anonymous telephone call. Apparently Tobias had tied a rope around his neck, inserted a stick and twisted the rope until he choked.

Tobias, who was 52 years old, was reported missing Friday by his wife. She said he had been in ill health and out of work.

American Author Dies in Rome.

By the Associated Press.

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 15.—Word was received here today of the death in Rome, Italy, of Harvey Wickham, musician and author. He was at one time a music editor in San Francisco. He was born at Middletown, N. Y., 58 years ago. His best-known books, "The Misbehaviorists," "The Impuritans" and "the Unrealists," composing a trelogy.

DEATH CERTIFICATE WITHHELD IN POISONOUS FLOUR MYSTERY

Three of 21 Made Ill, Still in Serious Condition; No Arrests As Yet.

By the Associated Press.

HARRISBURG, Ill., Nov. 15.—Coroner Gibbons of Saline County today instructed the clerk of Raliegh township to withhold the death certificate of Mrs. James Grisham, from the files until an investigation of her death is made by county officials.

Mrs. Grisham died Tuesday, apparently from poison, and three of 21 relatives who attended her funeral at the Grisham home near Raliegh Thursday are seriously ill from eating food made from poisoned flour.

The three are George Grisham, a stepson of the dead woman; the Rev. James Alberts, and Charles Deering, both of Harto, Ill., and both brothers-in-law of Mrs. Grisham.

County authorities, through an analysis of flour in the Grisham farm home near Raleigh, Ill., have determined it was poisoned. Mrs. Grisham became ill Oct. 30 and gradually grew worse. Her husband, F. J. Grisham, said he had also been violently ill.

No arrests have been made in the case.

WHISKY WORTH $10,000 SEIZED

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Nov. 15.—Chief of Police Lew Moore last night led a raid which resulted in confiscation of 500 gallons of whisky in 20-gallon barrels secreted in an old building next door to the city hall. Otto Slayton, whose bar was padlocked on State order three weeks ago, was arrested in connection with the liquor cache. Officers say the liquor, which was destroyed, had a retail value of about $10,000.

At the same time city officers were conducting their raid, Federal prohibition agents confiscated two stills, about 29 gallons of whisky and 1000 gallons of mash in the vicinity of Qulin, southeast of here. They arrested Thurman Darnell, 24 years old, his 14-year-old borther, Harvey, his mother, Mrs. Belle Thurman, and Fred Coble. Edward A. Maddux was arrested in another raid.

Doctor's THREE RULES
Big Help to Constipation

WHAT a joy to have the bowels move like clockwork, every day! It's easy, if you mind these simple rules of a famous old doctor:

1. Drink a big-tumblerful of water before breakfast, and several times a day.
2. Get plenty of outdoor exercise without unduly fatiguing yourself.
3. Try for a movement at exactly the same hour daily.

Everyone's bowels need help at times, but the thing to use is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You'll get a thorough cleaning out, and it won't leave you weak and uncomfortable. This family doctor's prescription is just fresh laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients that could not hurt even a child. But how it wakes up those lazy bowels; How good you feel with your system rid of all that poisonous waste matter.

Clean up that coated tongue, sweeten that unpleasant breath. Get rid of those bilious headaches. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will soon free the bowels from waste. You'll eat better and sleep better, and feel better all over. Generous bottles at all drug stores.

BANK FILES SUIT INVOLVING $8000 IN NOTES OF O. G. KOENIG

Natural Bridge Trust Co. Seeks to Set Aside Conveyance of Realty Made by Head of Old Depository.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by the Natural Bridge Trust Co., successor of the Natural Bridge Bank & Trust Co., in which the court is asked to set aside a conveyance of realty made by Otto G. Koenig, former president of the latter company.

The petitioner states it holds notes signed by Koenig early this year for a total of $8000, the notes having been assigned to it by the Natural Bridge Bank & Trust Co., in whose favor they were executed. The present holder avers that unless the title to the realty is reconveyed to Koenig, in whose name it stood previous to Sept. 30 last, it may not be able to realize on the paper.

According to the petition, Koenig transferred, without consideration, the realty in which he had an equity of $55,000 to the Koenig Floral Co., conducted by him. The realty is located at 4654 West Florissant avenue. It is alleged that by divesting himself of title he sought to hinder and delay creditors, especially the trust company.

Koenig told a reporter the notes mentioned are not yet due but he would take care of them at maturity. He denied the realty was conveyed without any consideration and added it was no part of the security for the notes. A reorganization of the bank took place following the confession of its vice president and cashier, George A. Lubeley, he was short more than $156,000. The confession was made to Koenig, then president of the bank. Lubeley was recently sentenced to five years in the penitentiary on his plea of guilty to three counts of embezzlement in connection with the shortage.

TWO BOATS WITH 900 CASES OF LIQUOR SEIZED AT NEW YORK

In Addition to Coast Guard Activities, Dry Raiders Get $120,000 Supply and Arrest 16.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The ax of the prohibition department and the cannon of the Coast Guard struck simultaneous blows today at the source of some of New York's liquor supply.

Two boats, the High Strung and the Patricia, were seized by Coast Guardsmen, upsetting plans of the two boats' skipper to land liquor under cover of the dense fog. A shell from the gun of a Coast Guard boat cut a tiller rope and stopped the High Strung off Block Island. Three men aboard the speed boat were arrested and 400 cases of liquor were seized.

The Patricia was heading for the Brooklyn shore in Gravesend Bay when the Coast Guard, whose approach was concealed by the fog, came alongside. The craft had 500 cases of liquor aboard. Three persons were arrested.

Ashore, prohibition agents found liquor valued at $120,000 in two places raided. Sixteen persons were arrested and a hunt for half a hundred more was intensified. The persons sought, Federal agents said, are members of a new liquor syndicate operating on a large scale and using radio for the directing of their liquor-laden craft.

The sudden attack on the organized traffic is the result of secret "John Doe" indictments returned by a Federal grand jury. The exact nature of the charges will not be disclosed until the indictments are opened Monday.

ATTORNEYS PAY TRIBUTE TO RETIRING JUSTICE MOONE

Group Meets in Old Courthouse to Honor Official Who Was Not Renominated.

A tribute to Justice of the Peace Elmer L. Moone of the Fifth District was paid yesterday by a group of attorneys who met in his courtroom in the old Courthouse and expressed regret he was leaving the bench. Moone was not renominated in the primary last August, being defeatd by A. Samuel Bender, who was elected. Bender will take office in a few days. He sat on the bench with Justice Moone and joined in the expressions of other attorneys who praised the retiring Justice.

At an informal gathering after regular session of court, at which W. Scott Hancock presided, speeches were made by the chairman and Samuel I. Sievers, Shepherd R. Evans, T. D. Drury and Pleasant P. Mason.

In response Justice Moone said he had tried more than 40,000 cases during his term of office, and always endeavored to render his decisions without fear or favor.

HOMESTEAD BUILDING & LOAN NAMED IN RECEIVERSHIP SUIT

Mrs. Matilda E. Musler filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday asking appointment of a receiver for the Homestead Building & Loan Association, 101 North Ninth street. In her petition she states that she owns $6000 of the company's stock but neither she nor other stockholders have been notified of any meeting in the last year or more at which a new board of directors could be chosen.

She alleges the corporation has ceased to write new business and its assets are being denuded by payment of salaries to various employes. Robert Schuster Jr., secretary, is in active control, according to the petition. Neither he nor Robert C. Powell, president, could be reached. These officers, with the board of directors, comprising A. H. Beddoe, W. R. Parker, Robert W. Brown, R. F. Foster, George R. Hunsche, August Kern Jr. and Dr. Carroll Smith, are named as co-defendants in the action, which was set for hearing before Judge Hogan, Nov. 20.

ST. LOUIS COUNTY COLLECTOR FILES 3227 SUITS FOR TAXES

Willis W. Benson, Collector of Revenue in St. Louis County, filed 3227 suits to collect delinquent State income taxes and delinquent personal taxes amounting to more than $25, in Circuit Court at Clayton yesterday. He said he would file in Justice of the Peace courts before Dec. 1, 5000 other suits for personal taxes under $25, and also would file in Circuit Court within the next two weeks, 10,000 real estate tax suits.

Of the suits filed yesterday, the income taxes are for 1927, 1928 and 1929, while the personal taxes are for 1926, 1927 and 1928.

Clear reasoning leads directly to Atwater Kent—with eight years of leadership behind it—with more than THREE MILLION satisfied owners.

The same superior workmanship that built up this great popular preference is responsible for this year's outstanding advantage in tone quality—the Golden Voice.

The same genius that developed the use of Screen-Grid a year in advance is responsible for this season's exclusive convenience feature—the Quick-Vision Dial, with all stations always in sight and evenly spaced from end to end, for easy, accurate tuning.

This same resourcefulness perfected Atwater Kent Tone Control—giving you true self-expression in radio music, with four definite shadings of the Golden Voice.

And this same foresight planned the beautiful, harmonious simplicity of the new model designs—the kind of radio you'll want to live with, now and through the years.

Your soundest investment in radio today—now and for the years to come—is the new Atwater Kent with the Golden Voice. See and hear it at your dealer's.

MAN KILLED AS ANTI-FASCIST TRAITOR, PARIS POLICE SAY

Investigation Said to Disclose Plot to Assassinate 12 Fascist Chiefs on Recent Anniversary.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Police investigating the murder of an anti-Fascit named Carti, who was found slain late last month, said today they had uncovered a vast anti-Fascist plot hatched in Paris two years ago.

As the police described it, a kind of revolutionary Italian anti-Fascist council was held in 1928 at a cafe in the Place de La Republique, with its presiding officer, a former anti-Fascist Italian Deputy who is regarded as the chief of all anti-Fascist forces in Europe and is supposed to live in Berlin at present. Carti was the secretary.

The council decided that on the next anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome—which was Oct. 28 of this year—12 men were to enter Italy and assassinate an equal number of Fascist chieftains.

When the 12 reached Italy about three weeks ago, however, they were said to have been arrested and imprisoned by Italian authorities. The leaders of the anti-Fascist Council, thereupon determined that one Savorelli, who recently was found slain in Paris, was a traitor. Shortly afterward they found they were under police surveillance and decided that Carti also was a traitor, police say. Carti was found slain at Sartrouville Oct. 29.

At the time of the eighth anniversary of the Fascist march on Rome Italian authorities announced that some 20 persons had been arrested for plotting against the Fascist regime and would be imprisoned.

I. C. C. MOTOR TRANSPORTATION HEARING HERE TOMORROW

Co-Ordination Will Be Considered in Inquiry; Traffic Bureau to Be Represented.

The Traffic Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce will be represented at an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing to be held at the Coronado Hotel, beginning tomorrow, on the question of co-ordinating interstate motor transportation. Commissioner Brainerd and Examiner Flynn of the Commerce Commission will conduct the hearing.

The commission is making an investigation of motor transportation throughout the country on its own motion. Its inquiry has to do with the transportation of passengers and property in commerce by motor vehicles on public highways by or in connection or in competition with common carriers subject to the Interstate Commerce Commission act.

At present there is no Interstate Commerce Commission regulation of bus or common truck lines. The hearing, which is one of a series being held in all parts of the country, is solely of a fact-finding nature.

DROWNS HERSELF IN BOWL OF WATER IN CITY HOSPITAL

Miss Anna Pekowski, Ill of Nervous Disorder, Previously Had Slashed Throat.

Suffering from a nervous disorder, Miss Anna Pekowski, 28-year-old patient in the observation ward at City Hospital, ended her life yesterday by submerging her face in a bowl of water. She had been out of notice of the attendants only a few minutes when her body was discovered.

Miss Pekowski was taken to the hospital last Sunday after she had slashed her throat at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pekowski, 2587A Warren street. Police were told that she had gone to their home from her own residence at 2610 St. Louis avenue, early Sunday morning, in an extremely nervous state. She had been at the hospital on four previous occasions for treatment, her parents said.

FARM PRICES STILL DECLINING

Further Drop Below Oct. 15 Level Expected This Month.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—A further decline in farm prices below the Oct. 15 level, which was the lowest for any month since February, 1916, was regarded as probable today by the Department of Agriculture. Prices of practically all commodities excepting hay, veal calves and eggs, shared in the general decline from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15 and those commodities made only slight advances.

Up to Nov. 12, prices of several farm commodities had made additional declines at the central markets. All grain prices have continued downward since the middle of October. Wholesale commodity prices, however, after declining steadily from August, 1929, to July, 1930, showed signs of stability during the past three months.

BLIND STUDENTS ON TRIP

34 From St. Louis to Spend Two Days as Guests in Kirksville.

KIRKSVILLE, Mo., Nov. 15.—Thirty-four students in the School for the Blind in St. Louis, accompanied by their teachers, will come here tomorrow afternoon for a two-day visit under auspices of the American Home Department of the Sojourners' Club, in co-operation with the Northeast Missouri State Teachers' College and the Kirksville School Board.

After giving a program at the Teachers' College Monday morning, the blind students will visit various classes, demonstrating their ability in typing, basket weaving, cooking, sewing and other arts. They will give another program at the Kirksville College of Osteopathy and Surgery and that night will be guests of the Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs in joint meeting.

U. S. TO SELL AUTOS, PIPES, DIAMONDS AND PICKLED ONIONS

Cigars and Suspenders Included in Seized Merchandise to Be Sold at Auction Dec. 17.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Government of the United States will become on Dec. 17 sort of a notions, novelty and variety emporium. Philip Elting, Collector of the Port of New York, announced today that merchandise seized for violation of the revenue laws as far back as 1926 would be auctioned.

The Government will sell everything from automobiles to atomizers and from pipes to pickled onions.

For the women there are diamonds, furs, bloomers, perfumes, beads, cameos, shawls, blouses and one spool of silk. Gentlemen will find a choice assortment of cigarettes, cigars, chewing tobacco, undershirts, suspenders in the several fashionable shades, watches and fish hooks. There are knives, pistols, cartridges. There is even a roulette wheel.

JUDGE WALKER GRAVELY ILL

In Hospital at Jefferson City Since Tuesday.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 15—The condition of Supreme Judge Robert F. Walker, who has been in St. Mary's Hospital here since last Tuesday suffering from an attack of appendicitis and an intestinal disorder, was reported to be grave tonight.

Judge Walker, a Democrat, the senior Judge of the Missouri Supreme Court in age and in service in the court, will be 80 years old Nov. 29. He has been in ill health for more than a year and recently spent several months in Chicago, at the home of relatives, recuperating from a major operation. He has been a Judge of the Supreme Court for 18 years. His term expires Dec. 31, 1932.

COUNTY PAROLE BOARD GOES

The St. Louis County Parole Board, composed of the four Circuit Judges, held its last meeting yesterday before being supplanted by the system of each Judge handling parole cases coming under the jurisdiction of his court, authorized by State law in counties having a population of more than 200,000 persons. The last census put St. Louis County in his class.

Gross income of the Judges remains the same, although they lose the $1500 annual salary as members of the parole board, since they are members of the new Jury Commission Board, which pays a similar annual salary. Circuit Clerk Oscar Jacobsmeyer receives $200 a year as clerk of the jury commission.

THREE ARRESTED AFTER FIGHT AT MIDNIGHT IN RESIDENCE

Clarence Chamberlain Says He Struck Man Found in Wife's Company With Pick Handle.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chamberlain, and Frank Kiraly, who describes himself as an artist, have been directed to appear in Police Court tomorrow to answer charges of disturbance of the peace as the result of an altercation Friday midnight at the Chamberlain home, 5724 Theodosia avenue.

Kiraly, who gave his address as 7231 Stanley road, St. Louis County, suffered lacerations of the scalp and was treated at city hospital before being released on bond. A policeman who had been sent to the Chamberlain home reported he found Kiraly bleeding from the injuries.

Chamberlain, a construction engineer, explained he returned home unexpectedly, and finding Kiraly there with Mrs. Chamberlain, struck him with a pick handle, the policeman said.

Kiraly and Mrs. Chamberlain, who also described herself as an artist, made no statement. Kiraly is 40 years old, Chamberlain 41, and his wife, 42, according to the police report.

VERDICT IN HUTHSING DEATH

Salesman Victim of Heart Disease, Says Coroner.

Death was due to chronic heart disease.

LINER GETS ST. LOUIS PHOTOS

Album Given Captain of New Ship Named for City.

A bound album of photographs of St. Louis, compiled by the Foreign Trade Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, was presented to Capt. Robert Niss, commander of the new motorship St. Louis, by Dr. Georg Ahrens, German Consul at St. Louis, at a captain's dinner aboard the ship, according to advices received by the Chamber from the New York offices of the Hamburg-American line.

The album, which is bound in leather, bears the title "The City Beautiful." It contains photographic prints of the beauty spots and centers of interest in St. Louis, after which the motorship was named. The book will be placed in the library aboard the ship, and will be available for passengers crossing the Atlantic.

EX-CONVICT DRIVER OF CAR THAT KILLED MAN

Austin Warren Peck, Who Also Figured in Another Crash, Bares Identity.

A man who described himself as Warren Peck, real estate dealer residing at the Congress Hotel, and who figured in two automobile accidents Friday night, in one of which a man was killed, was questioned by Capt. Hoagland of North Market Street Police Station yesterday afternoon and admitted that he is Austin Warren Peck, former convict, paroled in 1921 after serving a few months of a five-year term for embezzlement.

In recent years, Peck said he had abandoned the use of his first name, calling himself Warren Peck or A. Warren Peck.

The great-grandson of the late Charles H. Peck, who left a large estate, Peck and his brother, Robert, conducted a stock brokerage business in the Merchants-Laclede Building until 1920, when they were arrested and charged with defrauding clients. Both were convicted of embezzlement but Robert's sentence was reversed by the Supreme Court. Austin Peck was paroled upon representations that he was tubercular and would die if confined.

Peck, who is 35 years old, is under $5000 bond in the death of John Scherzinger, 72 years old, a stationary engineer employed by the City Water Department, who was hit by a machine driven by Peck at East Grand and Blair avenues at 8 p. m. Friday. Less than two hours before a car driven by Peck collided with a machine driven by Thomas Crider, 2818 North Twelfth street, at Kingshighway Northwest and McLaran avenue. Crider, cut on the head and legs, refused to prosecute.

MAN ENDS HIS LIFE IN PARK

Edward W. Allen, 60 years old, of 1107A Linton avenue, shot himself yesterday in O'Fallon Park. A motorist who heard the shot took Allen to City Hospital where he died.

No note was found and police did not learn any reason for his act. His widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Allen, identified the body at the Morgue. The bullet entered his brain.

How a "Nice Old Gen Of Yale" Beat the P Connecticut Politi

The Democratic Governor-Ele Dry, Philosophically a Wet, Legislature With Which He Operate, Fight, or Play Politi

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
Of the Washington Staff of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15.

OF all the upsets in the recent elections, the Democratic victory of Wilbur L. Cross, dean emeritus of the Yale Graduate School, over the strongly intrenched Republican machine of J. Henry Roraback, utility magnate and political boss, stands out as one of the most spectacular and unexpected.

On Jan. 7, Dean Cross, now 68 years old, will take the oath of office as Governor of this snug little State of Connecticut, the first Democrat elected to the position since 1912, when the Bull Moose movement split the Republican vote. He has pledged himself to give the State a decent, responsible and representative administration. It will be his first public office.

Back in the muck-raking era, Lincoln Steffens stigmatized Connecticut as "fat, corrupt and contented." Times and political methods have changed somewhat since then, but the State which prides itself on its "steady habits," has allowed Roraback, a former railroad lobbyist, to carry on with one of the most far-reaching State political machines in existence. Dean Cross spiked this machine with a majority of more than 6000 votes.

Several efforts were made in the past by Democrats to break the Roraback domination. Good men, like Hamilton Holt, the editor and educator, ran on the Democratic ticket only to find themselves without effective support on election day. Within Republican ranks there were sporadic attempts to break down the Roraback control, but the boss ruthlessly punished the reformers and continued to name the Governors, Senators and State and county officers. As national committeeman, State chairman and the money-raiser of the Republican organization, it was natural to assume officials were beholden to him.

Roraback's Wide Activities.

But Roraback was not only the political boss. He was the active agent of big business. He is president of the Connecticut Power & Light Co., which operates two-thirds of the public utilities of the State. He is a director of several banks. He is on the board of the large insurance companies having their headquarters in Connecticut. He is a director in the United Gas Improvement Co., the huge Morgan public utility system.

Roraback is big, handsome, urbane, rich and respected. His political opponents, except a small group within the Republican party, have not charged that he profited directly by mixing politics and business. The men he put into high public office were, for the most part, of unimpeachable personal integrity, apparently the type the State wanted. In past elections the Democrats had a difficult time in finding candidates who could make an issue of "Rorabackism." The State was contented.

Dean Cross, superannuated recently by his university, stepped into the political arena in June to challenge Roraback and his methods. From the outset, he showed himself to be a man of high courage and rare individuality. These attributes were responsible for his success.

The "practical" Democratic politicians, who had repeatedly gone down in defeat against Roraback, were first amused and then alarmed at the Cross candidacy. According to their charts, the professor didn't have a chance even in this year of depression. Their charts, however, had no place for personality, courage and resourcefulness, all of which Dean Cross had in a large measure.

At the Democratic convention—Connecticut does not have the direct primary—Cross laid down the law to the politicians and made them like it. He had no faith in the State chairman or the secretary. In a conference before the convention, he told the inner group that these men could have no part in his nomination or his campaign. His ultimatum was that if these men were re-elected to office and his candidates rejected, he would not accept the nomination. After hours of wrangling, the professor won his point. His selection for State chairman, former Representative Patrick B. O'Sullivan, was elected the next day and Cross accepted the nomination.

His Stand on Prohibition.

The next fight was on prohibition. Dean Cross is a personal Dry and a philosophical Wet. He is opposed to the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and intended that the Democratic platform should be unequivocally wet. Al-

How a "Nice Old Gentleman Of Yale" Beat the Powerful Connecticut Political Machine

The Democratic Governor-Elect, Personally a Dry, Philosophically a Wet, Has a Republican Legislature With Which He Is Willing to Co-Operate, Fight, or Play Politics.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 15.

OF all the upsets in the recent elections, the Democratic victory of Wilbur L. Cross, dean emeritus of the Yale Graduate School, over the strongly intrenched Republican machine of J. Henry Roraback, utility magnate and political boss, stands out as one of the most spectacular and unexpected.

On Jan. 7, Dean Cross, now 68 years old, will take the oath of office as Governor of this snug little State of Connecticut, the first Democrat elected to the position since 1912, when the Bull Moose movement split the Republican vote. He has pledged himself to give the State a decent, responsible and representative administration. It will be his first public office.

Back in the muck-raking era, Lincoln Steffens stigmatized Connecticut as "fat, corrupt and contented." Times and political methods have changed somewhat since then, but the State which prides itself on its "steady habits," has allowed Roraback, a former railroad lobbyist, to carry on with one of the most far-reaching State political machines in existence. Dean Cross spiked this machine with a majority of more than 6000 votes.

Several efforts were made in the past by Democrats to break the Roraback domination. Good men, like Hamilton Holt, the editor and educator, ran on the Democratic ticket only to find themselves without effective support on election day. Within Republican ranks there were sporadic attempts to break down the Roraback control, but the boss ruthlessly punished the reformers and continued to name the Governors, Senators and State and county officers. As national committeeman, State chairman and the money-raiser of the Republican organization, it was natural to assume officials were beholden to him.

Roraback's Wide Activities.

But Roraback was not only the political boss. He was the active agent of big business. He is president of the Connecticut Power & Light Co., which operates two-thirds of the public utilities of the State. He is a director of several banks. He is on the board of the large insurance companies having their headquarters in Connecticut. He is a director in the United Gas Improvement Co., the huge Morgan public utility system.

Roraback is big, handsome, urbane, rich and respected. His political opponents, except a small group within the Republican party, have not charged that he profited directly by mixing politics and business. The men he put into high public office were, for the most part, of unimpeachable personal integrity, apparently the type the State wanted. In past elections the Democrats had a difficult time in finding candidates who could make an issue of "Rorabackism." The State was contented.

Dean Cross, superannuated recently by his university, stepped into the political arena in June to challenge Roraback and his methods. From the outset, he showed himself to be a man of high courage and rare individuality. These attributes were responsible for his success.

The "practical" Democratic politicians, who had repeatedly gone down in defeat against Roraback, were first amused and then alarmed at the Cross candidacy. According to their charts, the professor didn't have a chance even in this year of depression. Their charts, however, had no place for personality, courage and resourcefulness, all of which Dean Cross had in a large measure.

At the Democratic convention—Connecticut does not have the direct primary—Cross laid down the law to the politicians and made them like it. He had no faith in the State chairman or the secretary. In a conference before the convention, he told the inner group that these men could have no part in his nomination or his campaign. His ultimatum was that if these men were re-elected to office and his candidates rejected, he would not accept the nomination. After hours of wrangling, the professor won his point. His selection for State chairman, former Representative Patrick B. O'Sullivan, was elected the next day and Cross accepted the nomination.

His Stand on Prohibition.

The next fight was on prohibition. Dean Cross is a personal Dry and a philosophical Wet. He is opposed to the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act and intended that the Democratic platform should be unequivocally wet. Although Connecticut is wet—it has not ratified the eighteenth amendment—many of the wets in the convention thought it would be good political strategy to be non-committal or vague on the subject in the platform. Dean Cross again laid down the law. The platform came out for repeal of the Volstead act and the eighteenth amendment and for return of control of the liquor traffic to the states.

Roraback made the same mistakes as the "practical" Democratic politicians. First he underestimated Cross' ability, and then he became so panicky as to expose himself. He named for the governorship a prosperous but colorless candidate, Ernest E. Rogers, about whom little could be said for or against. With such an opponent, Cross was able to point to the man behind the candidate and make an issue of Rorabackism.

Roraback also put his party in a straddle on the prohibition question. The writer was told by good authority that the original draft of the Republican platform came out for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment, but that Roraback, playing the game along the old, conventional lines, struck out the repeal item and ordered the party to carry water on one shoulder and beer on the other.

The last six weeks of the campaign, residents say, gave the State the most interesting political battles it has seen since the days of Cleveland. In addition to major strategies, the professor turned politician, showed the old hands political tricks that were not in their books.

Cross' election has been hailed as a Liberal-Progressive victory, but this is true only in a limited sense. Connecticut is a conservative State and the principal issue was decent, representative, responsible government against a one-man machine administration. Cross is not a liberal in the sense that La Follette, Norris, Borah, Pinchot and Roosevelt are liberal. He says that he is a Jeffersonian Democrat and that his liberalism is of the same type as that of John W. Davis and Senator Walsh of Montana.

How Dean Cross Sees It.

How did this fine old gentleman, a scholar all of his life, get interested enough in politics to run for the highest office of the State? How and why was he elected, and what will he do with the Governorship now that he has beaten one of the strongest machines in the country? The writer interviewed a number of the leading Connecticut politicians and editors to get the background of the story, and after considerable time was able to get the Governor-elect's own version. Unlike the average office holder, Cross has no love for personal publicity.

Sitting in his office at the Yale Review, the erudite quarterly of which he is still the editor, Cross belied his 68 years. He has the ruddy color of an out-of-doors man, which is heightened by his closely cropped white hair and his deep blue eyes. His wiry figure showed none of the strains of an intensive campaign of 75 or 80 speeches during the six weeks preceding the election.

"To what do you attribute your election?" he was asked.

"The support of the decent people of Connecticut and the mistakes of my opponents," he promptly replied, running his fingers through his hair. "The people

Andree's Last and Tragic Polar Adventure Now Reconstructed From Long-Lost Diaries

Swedish Experts, From Writings Ice-Locked for 33 Years, Present Official Narrative of What Happened When Intrepid Explorers Started Off in a Balloon to Cross North Pole.

A narrative reconstructed from the diaries of S. A. Andree and Nils Strindberg by Professor Hans W. Ahlmann, Professor of Geography, University of Stockholm.

STRINDBERG

A photograph of Andree's balloon departing from Spitzbergen on July 11, 1897, and portraits of the three occupants.

IT was only 3 o'clock in the morning on the 11th of July, 1897, when the water in Virgo Harbor, Dane's Island, which previously had been as smooth as a mirror, was ruffled by the first catspaws from the south-southwest. By 4 the wind had grown quite fresh, with now and then a squall, while the clouds moved northwards at a good rate.

Everything pointed to the south wind being steadier on this occasion than before, and that this supposition was general was confirmed by the fact that two Norwegian sealers put into Virgo, seeking shelter from the storm from the south.

Andree was called early in the morning and went on shore to examine things. He said at 8 o'clock that he would like to think the matter over for an hour. All the personal belongings were to be packed up at once, however, letters finished, etc.

Between 8 and 9 o'clock it was quite clear in the north, while the clouds from the south sailed across the sky in quick succession. The velocity of the wind, which, close to the surface, varied between 16 to 32 feet per second, was clearly considerably greater at a height of 975 to 1300 feet. Thus, if the direction and strength of the wind were fairly favorable for an ascent, its squally character spoke against it.

In logbook No. 2, kept by Nils Strindberg and found on White Island, there are nine pages written by him in shorthand. On the first of these, written atop their stranded balloon on an ice floe at 1 a. m. on July 21, in 82:38.7 north latitude and 29:40:0 east longitude, and addressed to his fiancee, there is given his detailed account of the hours before the start.

Decision to Start.

Strindberg wrote: "It was grand when it was at last determined that we should start. Andree, Fraenkel and I and (Alexis) Machuron went on shore (from the Swedish Government tender Svensksund, which conveyed the expedition to Dane's Island) and looked at the balloon from the roof of the balloon-house. After we had discussed the possibilities of starting, Andree asked us what we thought: 'Shall we try or not?' Fraenkel at first answered evasively, but then said that (we?) should (go) on . . . I answered: 'I consider that we ought to attempt it.'

"Andree was serious and said nothing. We all went on board again. We did not yet know what was to be done, but when he had come on board Andree at once said to Capt. Ehrensward (of the Svensksund):

"'Well, now we have been considering whether the start should be made, or not; my comrades insist on starting, and as I have no fully valid reasons against it, I shall agree to it, although with some reluctance. Will you, then, send all hands on shore to begin the work of dismantling the balloon-house.'

"And then everyone woke up. The sailors had never worked so willingly before nor had the carpenters. But now they were happy. I stayed on board awhile getting together my things and some instruments. Andree went on shore to direct operations.

Wind Favorable.

"The harbor presented a lively picture. Two sealers had just come in and one had been lying there before. The latter had to shift anchorage so as not to be in the way of the balloon. The weather was gloriously beautiful and the wind a fresh S. S. W.

"I went ashore and packed a few articles in the car of the balloon. The work of removing the front side of the (balloon) house went on briskly, and one plank after the other was thrown down. The balloon stood there steady and secure protected against...(?) the winds by the canvas on the fourth and fifth floors.

"I took some photographs of the work. Then I compared chronometers for the last time. When we came on board breakfast was just being served and we were persuaded to sit down to the table in company with the chief and the doctor. The chief took in a bottle of champagne and a toast was drunk to a prosperous journey for us.

"Time did not allow of the others getting anything to eat before the start. We had to satisfy ourselves with sandwiches and ale in the car. When I came on land again the balloon was being allowed to lift a little. Some small balloons were let go to test the direction of the wind, which proved favorable.

In the Car at Last.

"It was quite an inspiring sight when the balloon had been lifted to such height that the carrying-ring of the gondola left the ground. Andree gave orders. I walked about taking photographs up to the last minute.

"The balloon had now risen to such a height that the carrying-ring was a good distance above the ground and was held fast by three ropes.

"The moment had come to attack the car. When this had been done and a sufficient number of bags of ballast had been taken on board the time had come to say goodbye. This was done heartily and touchingly, but without any signs of weakness.

"Then Andree cries: 'Strindberg and Fraenkel, are you ready to get into the car?' Yes! and so we got in. Now my thoughts turned for a moment to you and my dear ones at home. How would the journey succeed?

"And how fast my thoughts came, but I had to restrain them. I asked Machuron, who stood nearest and whom I had found most congenial, to give my love to you.

"I wonder if a tear did not tremble on my cheek at that moment. But I had to see that the camera was in order and to be ready to throw out ballast, etc. And now all three of us stand there on the top of the car. There was a moment's solemn silence.

"Cut Away!"

"Machuron says, 'Attendez un moment! Calme!' (Wait a moment. Be calm'). The right moment comes.

"'Cut away everywhere!' comes Andree's voice. Three knives cut the three lines holding fast the carrying ring and the balloon rises amid the hurrahs of those below.

"We answer with a: 'Hurrah for old Sweden!' And then we rise from out the balloon house. A peculiar sensation, wonderful, indescribable! But one has no time for much thought.

"I photograph for a while and then we see that we are descending. Ballast is thrown out but we dip into the sea a moment. Then we rise again. And now everything seems to be going all right.

"We can still hear the hurrahs at a distance. I take one or two more photographs and then prepare the last card to you which I intended to throw down on Hollander Naze. But forgot it."

According to the notes in Strindberg's memorandum almanac, he and his comrades entered the car at 1:43 p. m. and three minutes later on the balloon rose. It was now christened "Ornen" ("Eagle").

A Slow Ascent.

In the description just given of the start, it is peculiar that Strindberg says nothing of the fatal loss of the drag or guide lines and very little of the dipping of the car into the water, an incident which was of such importance to the continuation of the journey.

These events, which took place a few minutes after the balloon had left its anchorage, are described in the book on Andree and his companions, from information given by eyewitnesses to the start.

The balloon rises slowly, with rather erratic movements, some 150-300 feet, and drives in a north-easterly direction across Virgo Harbor, drawing after it the guide lines which glide over the water, leaving behind them a broad, sharp furrow like that made by a vessel.

Over the middle of the harbor the balloon begins to sink lower and lower; then comes a sharp jerk which, according to one statement, forces the car half way down below the water, though according to another witness it merely sweeps the surface. The balloon at once rebounds like a vast ball and continues to rise, while the travelers empty eight bags of sand, thereby losing 450 pounds of invaluable ballast at the very start.

Immediately after this dipping, one of the sailors on shore is heard to cry: "Why, the drag-lines are lying here on the shore!" This causes a great sensation, for the intention was, of course, to make the journey at a height of 450 to 600 feet by means of the drag-lines, whereby a certain steering-power could be obtained.

Loss of Guide Lines.

At first it was thought that the ropes had broken off, but on examining them closely, it was found that the screwing-on section had come unscrewed. The lines had been laid out along the shore in an easterly direction, in order, if possible, to give the balloon a turn towards that quarter from the very start, enabling it to clear Amsterdam Island. They had evidently got kinked here and there, and when the balloon rose these began to untwist themselves. This, in its turn, caused the screws, which had only a very few threads, to come unscrewed, so that the lower two-thirds of the three ropes fell to the earth together. The loss of these ropes meant that the ballast had become diminished by 1160 pounds.

The loss of the guide lines caused the whole balloon journey to take place altogether in another way than had been intended, for the travelers now found themselves in an almost ordinary, free balloon, which would be compelled to obey the direction of the wind.

Sails, which were attached to the balloon, and which had been hoisted while in the balloon house, had now to be lowered quickly, as otherwise, in the hard wind that prevailed, they would have prevented the balloon from turning right again.

Fraenkel was seen climbing into the balloon carrying ring to clear the sails which were being lowered by Andree and Strindberg.

First Entries in Diary.

Andree has made no notes in his diary for the first few hours, evidently being too much occupied with the technical management of the balloon. In Strindberg's memorandum almanac, however, there are short communications.

Thus, he says briefly:

"Guide-rope lost." Immediately afterward, Hollandar Naze was passed at 1:56 p. m. After 18 minutes they are athwart the middle of Vogelsang Island and are sailing onwards at a height of 1850 feet.

According to what could be observed from land, the "Eagle" then swung off to the east across the north point of the island, where it disappeared in a cloud.

It is clear that the cloud into which the balloon disappeared immediately it had passed over Vogelsang corresponds to Strindberg's note stating that mist was forming. It was then 2:20 p. m. The average speed of the balloon amounts to 29 feet per second.

Only four minutes after the balloon had entered the cloud there is a note that the "Eagle" had sunk to such an extent that the remaining parts of the guide lines touched the water. The cause was that the balloon had come out of the sunshine into shadow. This sensitiveness to temperature conditions, especially to clouds and mists, displayed by the "Eagle"—as by all other balloons—will play a decisive part during the continuation of the journey.

Up Higher in the Air.

To make good the loss of the lower parts of the guide lines, the travelers began to repair them. One of the ballast lines was drawn up, most probably to splice it on to one of the guide lines.

While this work is going on, photographs are taken at hours marked on the films. It is evident that during the last few minutes the balloon has arisen considerably, for it is stated that 110 cubic feet of gas was lost at a height of 1600 feet.

The course at this high level is somewhat more northerly than before. Clouds now begin to surround the balloon except to the northeast and over Spitzbergen.

Tired after all the exertions of the first hours, the polar travelers drained the first of the bottles of ale they had taken into the car in the hurry of departure. Then they set to work vigorously at splicing the guideline work which was finished by 4:24 p. m.

The height of the balloon is 1600 feet and the wind south-southwest. Strindberg once more takes the bearings and they approach the drifting ice which can be clearly seen in the north and northwest. During the whole of the time, endeavors have been made, but in vain, to catch sight of the "steamer," by which is probably meant the "Express" which was to make a depot on the Seven Islands immediately after the start.

A few minutes later the balloon begins to be surrounded by light mists, which are not dense enough, however, to prevent photographs being taken of the first drift ice that is visible.

The inland ice is seen beautifully on the east side of Wiedje Bay, the temperature now rising to 4.26 F.

Carrier Pigeons Released.

For the next half hour the balloon follows the edge of the ice at a distance of 1600 feet.

Spitzbergen disappears in the mist. Far below, a sea gull is seen accompanying the balloon. The "Eagle" begins to sink slowly. "Descendons doucement par un sinusoid" ("We are slowly sinking in a winding curve") writes Strindberg just after 5:29 p. m.

Under the "Eagle" the sea is full of finely divided ice and has a beautiful, dark blue, changing tint. The balloon is at a height of 760 feet and the four first carrier pigeons are released. The messengers flew off approximately to the west, but they never reached their destination. When Andree hung up the empty cage, a shower of peas fell into the car and evidently excited some mirth.

The ice-floes become somewhat larger and are well rounded off. About 6 p. m. they pass ice characterized by Strindberg as being lately broken up. The "Eagle" floats at a good rate in a north-northeasterly direction. The fresh breeze which prevailed at the start is still blowing in the desired direction.

The travelers now take their first dinner, consisting of sandwiches and broth with small bits of macaroni, which they had brought with them warm.

A soft whistling is heard for a long time in the large balloon valve. (Due doubtless to the fact that the gas had begun to leak.) It is quiet and hot in the sunshine. The only sounds heard are the shrieks of the birds, the whistling in the valve and, now and then, a crash from the ice.

Andree descends into the car to rest. He has directed the start.

In Freezing Temperature.

During the whole of this eventful day, July 11, Andree has not had time to make more than a few brief remarks in his diary, and these are now partly illegible. On the inside of the cover of his diary we find, however, a rough copy of the message to be sent by the first buoypost. He uses this rough copy, too, when on another leaf of the diary he writes the communi-

Andree's Dread Of Catastrophe

A SENSE of impending disaster must have crept over Andree the day after they embarked on their flight. Despite the ballast that had been thrown overboard, the balloon settled lower and lower until, at intervals, the car bumped the ice floe, then slowly rose and floated onward. Finally it came to a standstill. It was 11:45 P. M. on July 12. Andree, keeping watch alone in the car, wrote the following lines in his diary:

"ALTHOUGH we could have thrown out ballast and although the wind might, perhaps, carry us to Greenland, we determined to be content with standing still. We have been obliged to throw out very much ballast today and have not had any sleep or been allowed to rest from the repeated bumpings, and we probably could not have stood it much longer.

"All three of us must have a rest and I sent Strindb. (Strindberg) and Fr. (Fraenkel) to bed at 11:20 o'clock and I mean to let them sleep until 6 or 7 o'clock if I can manage to keep watch until then. Then I shall try to get some rest myself. If either of them should succumb it might be because I had tired them out.

"It is not a little strange to be floating here above the Polar Sea. To be the first that have floated here in a balloon. How soon, I wonder, shall we have successors? Shall we be thought mad or will our example be followed?

"I cannot deny that all three of us are dominated by a feeling of pride. We think we can well face death, having done what we have done. Is not the whole, perhaps, the expression of an extremely strong sense of individuality which cannot bear the thought of living and dying like a man in the ranks, forgotten by coming generations? Is this ambition?

"The rattling of the guide-lines in the snow and the flapping of the sails are the only sounds heard, except the whining of the basket."

THE OFFICIAL NARRATIVE

Following is the authentication of the official story of the Andree Polar Flight, which begins herewith, by the three Swedish scientists who prepared it:

AT the request of the Swedish Government and the heirs of S. A. Andree, Nils Strindberg and Knut Fraenkel, the Swedish Society of Anthropology and Geography has prepared the official story of the tragic flight of the polar balloon "Eagle" in 1897. This story is based on the diaries of Andree and Strindberg and other papers found on White Island in 1930, thirty-three years after the Swedish explorers disappeared from the world.

The diaries and extracts of diaries here published are authentic copies of the Andree and Strindberg diaries found on White Island and prepared for publication by the Swedish Society of Anthropology and Geography.

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 17, 1930.

In the reconstructed narrative the words used are, to the greatest extent the actual words of Andree and Strindberg, arranged chronologically and put together with nothing added except such words and sentences as were necessary to make a connected story and elucidate it. Quotation marks are used only for the longer extracts from the diaries.

Says Bleached Flour Makes Poor Bread.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE aromatic oils in the flour-making part of the grain of wheat are what gives bread the pronounced good taste and flavor. The application of whitening processes to flour causes the destruction of the aromatic oils in the baked products, which become tasteless and often obnoxious while in the mouth and cause a slow flow of saliva and insufficient mastication. Thus, the former staff of life enters the digestive organs in a manner hindering the proper action of the gastric juices.

Bread made of bleached flour is not hunger-stilling. Today bread is not eaten as the staff of life—for the good taste peculiar to bread made of unbleached, natural flour, but is only eaten in hiding—a dish to be covered with butter or jelly or as toast. No one anymore eats one piece of bread after another because of its good quality. The whole nation was made to believe that bread had to have a dead white color. Who has a right to tamper in this manner with the foremost food of the nation?

The people have answered to the destruction of their bread with a lesser consumption of bread to the extent of 140,000,000 bushls of wheat per year.

In order to bring back good bread, to help agriculture and the affiliated industries, President Hoover, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Chairman Legge have been made familiar therewith, but they refused to listen. My work is very much approved by the Federal Department of Agriculture. My letters to President Hoover have been sent to the Department of Agriculture for an opinion, yet the President remains deaf. Chairman Legge declared my work as of no value, this after I had cornered him as to agricultural matters. Now let the people judge.

Talkies for the Hard-of-Hearing.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AT least one theater in St. Louis is equipped so the hard-of-hearing may enjoy the talkies. Why don't the others follow in the footsteps of the Fox on Grand boulevard and install the same devices? Last week was the first time in 25 years that I was able to hear every whisper spoken on the stage, and I sat in the loge at that.

Is it asking too much to have you print this letter in an endeavor to get the other theaters to give as much enjoyment to the deaf as I experienced?

(MRS.) HELEN JACOBS.

For Strict Party Government.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IT seems the recommendations of the Bar Association and Citizens' Committee failed to accomplish results. It is well that such turned out to be case. While the selection of Judges and other candidates for office is a matter of serious concern, the party method of nomination is the one that ought to be followed.

This thing of men setting themselves up as superior to party because of selection by private groups is wrong. No man can be bigger than his party. When he undertakes it there is bound to be a comeback. Note the case of Grover Cleveland. Parties are founded upon principles and ideals. Men elected to office are morally bound to conform with these in the administration and conduct of their respective offices. It is by their acts in measuring up to these principles and ideals we judge of their fitness in position, all of the preachment of reformers to the contrary notwithstanding.

The whole trouble lies with party committees. It seems one of these, the Democratic, fails to function. I am told this is due to the organization and personnel of the committee. Surely these defects may be rectified. Why cannot the representative men of the party get together and bring about a reorganization that will meet with the requirements of the occasion? Then we will have candidates to select from who will come through proper channels, where responsibility can be fixed for their success or failure.

Terminal Yards Smoke Nuisance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

COMING over the Fourteenth street bridge, on a recent morning, there was so much smoke being given off in the Terminal yards—between Fourteenth and Eighteenth—that it was impossible to see the Eighteenth street bridge. Yet the sun was shining in the east. There is a pocket edition of a round house where engines are overhauled just on the west side of the Fourteenth street bridge—believe me there was some smoke coming from it and it kept it up for an hour.

Where is the smoke abatement boss, the one who has been telling us flat dwellers that he will haul us all up for having a smoking chimney? We South Side flatsters all have a vote and these smoky engines don't and he should clean up the Mill Creek Valley.

STOVE PIPE.

THE PREVENTION OF PANICS.

"Can prosperity be managed?" is the subject of an article appearing recently in the Saturday Evening Post. The author, Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., does not answer the question categorically, but he does present proof that progress is being made in that direction.

For instance, the depression of 1907 was a credit panic, which will not occur again because the Federal reserve act provides the preventive machinery.

The depression of 1921 was aggravated by the large stocks of merchandise and materials in the hands of manufacturers, jobbers and retailers, which the practice once contemptuously characterized as "hand-to-mouth" buying has measurably eliminated. As a result of the unemployment conference called by President Harding in that year, the Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover, organized three national surveys to assemble and collate data on business cycles, on seasonal operation in the building industries and on economic drifts, or changes.

Those surveys, plus enormous private study and investigation, have produced what Mr. Gifford calls a "new kind of economic literature." He also uses a happy phrase, "the newer economics." This new school, in contrast with the old school of economics which concerned itself with the past, tackles "the moving present," and the still more difficult "problematical future." It moves in no mysterious way its wonders to perform. There is no taint of magic in it. It has nothing up its sleeve except sweat and statistics. It pins its hope to the drudgery of eternal vigilance. Facts are its meat and drink; not the facts of a special field, but all the facts of all the arts and crafts of all the world.

From the information thus obtained and charted, his company, Mr. Gifford explains, knew in May, 1929, that a business slump was imminent and that it would last through 1930. A few months later it foresaw a depression of less severity but of longer duration than originally estimated. The Bell System's contribution to reducing the shock has been to maintain its construction program on full schedule.

In his paper Mr. Gifford does not outline the information on which the Bell company was able so accurately to forecast the depression. Its general character may be assumed, but the essential points of this necessarily bulky information might, we believe, have been advantageously enumerated.

It would be interesting to know, too, how many enterprises of Big Business dimensions have installed research departments similar to that of the Bell company and, if they were all similarly equipped, would they by some joint effort be able, not merely to mollify the severity of the depression—a valuable service, to be sure—but would they be able to prevent the panic? For, in the analysis, prevention is, of course, the great objective, and that objective must be reached if industry is to answer affirmatively the question, "Can prosperity be managed?"

It is a fair inference, we think, that the great automobile industry, so marvelously efficient in so many ways, had no inkling in May, 1929, of the imminent depression which the Bell company clearly foresaw. The automobile industry was then zooming along scaling new peaks of production, seemingly unaware of any cloud on the horizon, apparently persuaded of the permanency of prosperity which spokesmen of consequence in the political as well as the industrial world were preaching with Utopian fervor. But if the motor manufacturers had read the future as the Bell company did, and if all our financiers and industrialists were possessed of this information, what would and should have been their procedure? Single-handed the Bell company's best effort was to maintain its construction program. That solitary contribution could not stem the tide. Could the tide have been stemmed, could the decline have been forestalled and normal industrial health and vigor be conserved if industry generally had scanned the seas with the Bell periscope?

The new school of economics, Mr. Gifford takes pains to tell us, is still a fledgling. It has its spurs to win. It may not yet be called a science. It has not yet developed a technic. But when it comes into its own, when fact-finding machinery has been perfected, along with comparable statistical and industrial skill, to read the industrial heavens aright—what then? Will business, thus armed with facts and knowledge, sit silently at its desk while a Congress, in the grip of a ruinous greed, piles heavier burdens on the back of trade already wearying under its load? Can there be an assured prosperity in the world of today while the Government, in the matter of the tariff, thinks and acts in paleozoic terms?

If the new school of economics fulfills its high purpose, economic enlightenment will have to rout out the present economic darkness in Government—the darkness that still cherishes a superstitious belief in the dodo of special privilege.

EX-CHAMPION TUNNEY'S VICTORIES.

Gene Tunney was never a popular champion. The crowd didn't like him, and he didn't like the crowd. Obviously, he didn't chose pugilism for love of the game. To him it was a means to an end. Having attained his end—a million or more—he quit the profession. And he has learned that keeping the million is something of a fight, too; as difficult almost as making it. Certainly there have been many attempts to dig into his winnings. Thus far he has stood off all claimants. The law has given him the decision every time. And whatever Tunney lacks in showmanship, magnetism, or whatever quality it is that enthralls the multitude, we believe his victories as an ex-champion in the solemn setting of justice are sincerely, if quietly, applauded by all square shooters.

BILL ROPER LEAVES THE FIELD.

Yesterday's game between Princeton and Yale was something besides the fifty-fourth grapple of Old Eli with the Tiger. It was the last as a coach for William Winston Roper, who first began coaching the Orange and Black a quarter century ago. Although his stay at the University of Missouri was for only a year, Roper's team of 1909 at Columbia was one which bulks large in the gridiron career just closed. The Mizzou team of that year was the one which convinced Roper "the team that will not be beaten cannot be beaten." Kansas had won from Missouri 12 years handrunning. Weight, 20 pounds to the man, and performance again favored the Jayhawkers, but Roper's Captain "Curly" Ristine and his plucky youngsters won out, 12 to 6, to become Valley champions. Unlike a number of prominent coaches, Roper himself made good on the field. For three years he played end rush for Princeton. The day McKinley was re-elected he carried the ball over against Columbia. He went down after punts with Art Poe. He was on the field when Al Sharpe of Yale kicked a goal from the 53-yard line. He attended President Roosevelt's White House conference on football and helped secure the adoption of the President's suggested rule changes. His retirement reserves for the law and the Philadelphia City Council energies which produced a bright and exemplary record in college sport.

THE WORLD IN 1830.

The Montreal Gazette, which has been rolling off the presses regularly since 1778, indulges its readers in the luxury of retrospection by presenting, with a recent issue, a facsimile of the paper dated 100 years ago. Mostly European news was printed (and that only 24 days old, the editor notes in a modest boast), with a scattering of local items and nothing at all from the United States.

The world of 1830, as recorded in the crowded columns of minute type, was a troublous scene. France, after her bloody July revolution, had a bad headache and a new Bourbon, Louis Phillippe, on the throne. The virus of revolt had begun to spread, inoculating Europe for the epidemic of 1848, and the Gazette chronicles sundry insurrections and abdications in the German states, faint rumblings in Spain, sinister stirrings in Naples. Greece, newly free, was appraising the Continent's royal scions for the kingship. Belgium was aflame and fighting the stiff-necked Dutch King, and the Gazette publishes her Declaration of Independence. The happiness of England's new monarch, William IV, was interrupted by a fit of gout, which the editor regrets served to "interrupt disagreeably the easy course of His Majesty's honest pleasure." There are advertisements of such commercial items as puncheons of Demerara rum, pipes of superior sherry, boxes of Havannah segars, dulcimers and lutes, stout twilled levantines, black and colored bombazeens, trunks of India silks. And there is a mournful poem, "She Never Blamed Him, Never!"

All this seems very far away and long ago, but one item presents a vivid episode in the still unfinished fight against tariffs and trade barriers, against greed and what we now call Grundyism. It reads:

> Letters from Frankfort-on-the-Main speak of movement in no fewer than 40 of the states of Germany, with a view to put down the odious system of laws by which almost all the internal commerce of that portion of Europe has been converted into a system of smuggling, and which imposes an enormous tax on the consumers, while it brutalizes the character of the traders. Even in Vienna a rising is said to have been provoked on this account. At Frankfort the mob seems to have been serious—one of the Burgomasters was hanged in effigy in front of the town hall. The real hanging of a dozen or two of these municipal personages will, we expect, be the upshot of their ignorant and vexatious regulations, unless they contrive very speedily to alter them.

THE ANTARCTIC'S DESOLATION.

Life in "Little America," as told in the daily reports of Russell Owen, will be recalled by Post-Dispatch readers as a rather jolly adventure. That diarist of the expedition, to be sure occasionally held his breath as tragedy was averted by a thin margin and the beauty of the frozen grandeur evoked vivid homage, but mostly his picture was that of the humdrum experience of the camping party that contrived to get a lot of fun out of existence far from the modern conveniences.

Admiral Byrd's story at the Odeon Friday night, illustrated with moving pictures, was different. For all its terse matter-of-factness, it was a stirring narrative that shiveringly visualized for the audience the Antarctic's murderous cold. For more than a year those explorers lived in the final desolation in which the imagination of Anatole France has beheld the ending of the drama of man on the stage of the earth.

As the great French writer saw it: "Women, children, old men, crowded pell-mell in their noisome caves, will peep through fissures in the rock and watch a somber sun mount the sky; dull, yellow gleams will flit across his disc, like flames playing about a dying brand, while a dazzling snow of stars will shine all the day long in the black heavens, through the icy air. * * * One day the last survivor, callous alike to hate and love, will exhale to the unfriendly sky the last human breath. And the globe will go rolling on, bearing with it through the silent fields of space the ashes of humanity, the poems of Homer and the august remnants of the Greek marbles, frozen to its icy surfaces."

Byrd and his men saw and survived a sunless world, looked down upon the pole and returned without a casualty in an epic of efficiency and daring.

MACHADO'S TYRANNY.

President Machado of Cuba has issued a decree suspending constitutional guarantees throughout the island and steps are being taken to establish a state of martial law. Some weeks ago we quoted Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, who had just returned from Havana, as predicting an early economic collapse there, accompanied by revolution. Whether or not the mailed fist methods of Cuba's President can avert disaster remains to be seen.

Incidentally, much of the dissatisfaction in Cuba is centered around Machado, who resembles less a constitutional officer than he does a dictator. In 1924 he made a passionate avowal that he would never seek a second term, yet once in office the perfume of power began to intoxicate him. When his first term was drawing to a close, he forced through a constitutional amendment extending the presidential term to six years. When the six years was up he got himself re-elected for another six years.

On numerous occasions Machado has used the presidential office to enforce his will upon the people of Cuba. It is reported that his grip on the island's election machinery is so firm that it is impossible to oust him and his henchmen by means of the ballot. This condition might be tolerated if all was well with Cuba; instead, the island is in a condition of intense economic depression. The sugar industry, the island's main source of revenue, suffers from world overproduction, beside the heavy duty assessed by the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill.

The Cubans want a change. They are tired of Machado and his harsh decrees, his martial restrictions, his will-to-power. If they could blow off steam, as we did in the last election, perhaps it would not be necessary for soldiers to patrol the streets. As has been shown recently in Peru, the Argentine and Brazil, the Latins will get relief through revolution if they cannot get it through the ballot box.

Mexican Exasperation at Our New Tariff

Mexican exports in general not seriously affected by new law, but several lines are hampered; little reason seen for higher rates on off-season vegetables, as they compete scarcely at all with U. S. products; another example is chick peas, former source of income to our railroads; such levies are obstacles to good will.

ANY nation has a right to determine its own tariff rates. We have exercised that right and from our national point of view no one has just cause to complain. We may have been mistaken as to our own best interests, but that is "our business." We may have sacrificed the good will of our neighbors, but this also, in the narrower sense, is our own affair.

In a larger way, it is not our own affair. Such things are less and less so as the world comes increasingly to depend on the flow of goods across international boundaries and as the peace of the world is assured or threatened according to the friendliness existing among the members of the family of nations.

The effect of our tariff on the attitude of certain of our Latin American nations is a case in point, for, though most of them are affected by the new rates in only a minor way, unfortunately some of those with which our trade is of major importance, such as Cuba and Argentina, are affected in some of their important lines of production. But even these grievances are not a measure of the ill will that may be caused by vigorous exercise of what are admittedly our "right."

Legislation affecting minor lines may arouse resentment out of all proportion to its economic effect, embitter international relations and make difficult the development of the spirit of Pan-Americanism which we are so anxious to foster.

The reaction in Mexico against our tariff is an example. The new rates do not affect her lesser exports in a serious way, but they do affect a number of minor lines in which she is especially interested. It is hard for us to appreciate why the fate of these should touch Mexico so nearly.

The explanation lies in the fact that Mexico, like most Latin American countries, depends for her money income from export trade on a few lines. This makes the Mexican economic position a weak one, for unfavorable prices for one of the main exports upset the balance of trade and cut down the money on which the country relies to pay the amounts due foreigners for the money they have invested in the country.

Hence these minor lines, lines which may develop if the foreign markets, and especially that in the United States, remain open on favorable terms, are ones Mexicans watch with special concern. Any action which cuts off their chance of success seems peculiarly unfriendly. A number of the rates in our new tariff are exasperation tariffs to Mexico. The difference her shipment of these goods now makes or is likely to make in the future, she argues, is little indeed for the United States, but it is very real for her.

Her grievances involve especially certain vegetable products. One provision, that establishing a tariff on garbanzos, the chick peas which are so important a factor of her trade in her Northwest, seems to her not only bad for Mexico, but foolish for the United States. We do not raise chick peas nor do we eat them in large quantities.

Chick peas find their export market in Southern Europe, the Caribbean region and South America. Railroad connections and the custom of the trade have made their accepted route of shipment through the United States by way of our Atlantic and Gulf ports. Our railroads earn freight by carrying them and firms in the United States make profits by handling them. But the new customs law puts a tariff on them of 1¾ cents a pound. Shipments must now, so the Mexicans claim, go by more expensive routes and the profits of the producers will fall—to whose advantage?

But the trade that finds its future most seriously affected is that in off-season vegetables and specialties such as melons, green peas and beans, early onions, garlic, chile, lentils, rice, dry beans and nuts. These come in greatest amount from the hot west coast, where in the years since the Mexican revolution a promising industry has been built up.

Now the chief market for these products is in the United States, where the off-season products reach the counters of our grocers as early as the middle of November, when supplies from our own truck gardens are cut off by the approach of winter. There is no real competition with American production, or practically none. The end of the season of shipments overlaps by two weeks the beginning of that of the same articles produced in one small area in this country. That area is Imperial Valley in Southern California.

From the Mexican point of view this new tariff—raising the rate, for example, on fresh tomatoes from half a cent a pound to 3 cents—seems like a barrier raised to favor not even a district but a spot in the United States, to the great disadvantage of an industry, success of which has been closely watched by all who hope to increase the number of the Republic's export crops so as to strengthen her economic position.

The law is the less defensible because it shuts off from Northern consumers, so it is argued, supplies for their tables which, except in negligible amount, can never be supplied from our own lands. Maximum exasperation, minimum benefit!

There is an ironical phase in the new rates. The trade is Mexican, the laborers who do the work in cultivating the fields and packing the harvest are Mexican, but the money invested in the industry is largely American. The act which theoretically is to encourage a limited American industry in the United States in fact discourages a larger American industry in Mexico.

CAUSE FOR REGRET.

From the Portland (Me.) Evening News.

IT is a cause for regret that the first woman to stand an excellent chance of election to the Senate should have been defeated. Women should be represented far more in public life by members of their sex. But it is certainly desirable that the first woman to achieve the honor which Mrs. McCormick sought should be intellectually honest and not play the game as sordidly as the lowest machine politicians.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.

THIRTY-ONE paces forward, 31 paces back—the guard of honor at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington still stands watch.

For four years now a sentinel has walked this post. Eyes to the front, shoulders back, chin in, rifle on shoulder in precise position, he paces back and forth. Ten hours out of every 24 the vigil is kept.

And to these khaki-clad men, the honor of guarding the tomb of the Unknown is one of the greatest that can come to them. They are proud of their lot. They get tremendous satisfaction in walking those 31 paces forward and 31 paces back. And if a crowd is around the tomb, the minutes fairly rush by for them.

From the engineers at Fort Humphreys, the infantry at Fort Washington and the cavalry at Fort Myer, this guard detail at the tomb of the Unknown is recruited. Eight men are chosen from each of these posts.

THEY are selected in competition. Neatness in dress, drill, manners and discipline determine the winners. Each detail guards the tomb for 15 days, and the sentinel walks up and down in front of the hallowed spot for three hours and 20 minutes each day. The remainder of the day he is free.

Aside from the fact that selection for guard duty at the tomb is a coveted honor, other factors make the assignment a popular one with the soldiers. Principal among these is that during the 15-days at the tomb they are free from all other duties.

The guard is charged with seeing that nothing is done that will constitute disrespect for the Unknown. Before the guard was established, visitors were in the habit of sitting on the tomb, eating lunch there and scattering papers about the grave. Attempts were made even to chip off bits of the granite for souvenirs.

SINCE establishment of military authority, all that has been corrected. No one is permitted even to touch the tomb now, and those who make the pilgrimage to Arlington pay their tribute to the Unknown in an atmosphere most impressive.

Presence of military authority also serves another purpose. One feels instinctively that he is on hallowed ground. The impressive solemnity is in accord with the whole idea of honoring an unknown hero.

Visitors continue to come in great numbers. The first bus loads are there as soon as the gates of Arlington are opened at sunrise, and they come until the cannon at Fort Myer booms at sunset. No count is kept of the number of visitors, but officials believe that more come to Arlington every year than to any other point of historic interest in the capital.

A PEEK INTO THE FUTURE.

From the Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

A PREDICTION: Five years from now the owners of bus lines will be complaining that aircraft are hauling too many passengers and too much freight and should be restricted by legislation. Since history began there has been yelling for legislation.

C. & A. TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION DEC. 11

Abraham Lincoln Once Represented the Railroad in Its Lawsuits.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—When they sell the old Chicago & Alton Railroad at auction, Dec. 11, in front of the station at Wilmington, Ill., many will recall that Abraham Lincoln used to be its lawyer. He defended it, back in the 1850's when it was beginning life as the Alton & Sangamon. In 1865, it hauled his funeral car to Springfield.

The road is valued at approximately $125,000,000. It has a little less than 1100 miles of track. The present sale is a culmination of preparatory plans for its absorption by the Baltimore & Ohio. These plans have been developing for several months, through dickerings with the holders of the bonded indebtedness against the road, which amounts to some $60,000,000.

Predominantly a "short haul" road, the advent of the automobile and the bus to general use in this field of transportation was a severe blow, and eight years ago when a coal strike and a railroad employes' walkout struck its important revenue area in the Illinois coal fields, it went into a receivership. William G. Bierd, president of the road, was appointed receiver and has continued in that capacity since.

But for three decades before 1890 it had had its financial difficulties, too, and went through sales and receiverships more than once. In 1896, E. H. Harriman bought the road for $39,000,000 and issued $40,000,000 worth of bonds against it. Harriman left the scene at the turn of the century and other roailroad groups, including the Union Pacific, tried several times to rehabilitate the property, but abandoned their efforts, usually with losses.

During most of the 77 years of its existence it has been distinctly a "home" railroad. It developed with the country it served. It hauled the food of its own people, distributing it among other "home folks," or taking it to terminals in Chicago, St. Louis, or Kansas City, but was not concerned about transcontinental passenger traffic.

"There may be a misconception in other parts of the country about my attitude on public utilities," Cross replied. "Public utilities, per se, are not a political issue in this State. There is no fight for or against municipal or government ownership. The privately owned utilities are for the most part well managed and the rates are within reason. Both in Hartford and New Haven there are separate companies giving splendid service. Mr. Roraback, through his Connecticut Light and Power Co., controls almost all of the other companies, and while there has been mild and ineffective criticism that he used his political influence to get certain franchises, that issue did not arise directly in the campaign. My campaign was against Mr. Roraback and the utilities, and not the utilities alone, if you get what I mean. My point was that he should devote himself either to his business or to his politics. Then we would know exactly what he was doing. I charged that he had been mixing business and politics.

It was charged during the campaign that I, as Governor, could do nothing to help repeal the amendment. I replied that I could and would call for a conference of Governors to discuss ways and means of holding a constitutional convention to repeal the prohibition amendment. I realize that at the present time perhaps more than a majority of the Governors are dry. I am for a Constitutional convention, only as a last resort.

"Federal prohibition has failed. There will never be a complete solution to the problem, but state control would not and could not be as bad as the present failure of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act."

"What will be your method of dealing with a Republican House and Senate?" was the next question.

"It is too early to speculate about that," Cross answered. "Here on my desk are letters from Republicans promising support of various measures to come before the State Legislature. If the Republican majority wants to co-operate, I'll co-operate. If it wants to fight, I'll fight. If it wants to play politics, I'm willing to play politics. Everything depends upon what the majority does.

"As a matter of fact, both the majority and I will play politics, looking to 1932. If the majority thinks it is better politics to co-operate, we'll co-operate. But if they want a fight I am ready to take the issues to the people. The test will come on the attention to be given to State institutions. Heretofore efforts to better conditions in these institutions have been blocked. We shall see if the majority is against humanitarian legislation."

Tricks of the Speech Maker.

Dean Cross chuckled when asked to describe his minor campaign strategies. One could see that he had immensely enjoyed the give-and-take of campaigning.

"When I was talking to an Italian audience," he said, "I usually mixed in a couple of sentences in Italian. That always got an Italian crowd. We have a lot of Scandinavians in Connecticut, and when I talked to them I was able to use a few Scandinavian idioms. When I talked with the farmers, it was easy to recall my boyhood days and talk in language the country people could appreciate. One of my most effective figures of speech was to tell them how to get a settin' hen off her eggs. I didn't ask my audience to vote to turn rascals out. I told them that the only way to get a settin' hen off her eggs was to boot her off and to keep booting her off every time she tried to get back. The farm voters always got the point.

"I think the people also liked my positive stand against prohibition. I know that many drys voted for me in preference to the straddling candidate.

"It must not be forgotten that Mr. Roraback did not know how to meet my candidacy. At first he thought it good politics to refer to me as 'that dear old gentleman at Yale,' or as a 'dreamer of dreams.' That was easy for me. I merely stretched out my arms before the audience and asked if they thought I was too old or too dreamy to be their Governor. The response was always favorable."

In answer to the personal question as to when and how he, a distinguished scholar of eighteenth century literature, had found time to get interested in practical politics, Dean Cross said, 'I have been interested in policics all my life. As a young man I was a Cleveland Democrat. Politics have been my hobby. My old friend, the late Senator Brandegee, invariably referred to me as "the senior Senator." A small group of us have been debating politics at the Graduate Club for 30 or 40 years."

"A Decent, Uncalled Government."

"What will be the aim of your administration?" was the final question. The answer came back immediately, "To return the government to the people. For the first time in the last 15 years, the machine does not control all the State offices. We have the governorship. A number of the Republicans elected to office are men of unquesitoned ability and character. I am sure that they will act for the best interest of the State as a whole and will not seek to give special favors to certain large industries and businesses. I believe that before the law every business and every individual should stand on an equal footing. By holding officials responsible for their actions we can return to representative Government, a decent, uncontrolled government."

Few men and fewer politicians are blessed with such ardent friends and supporters as Dean Cross. At Yale, he is an institution, and it may throw some light on his reputation to note that he is known to some of the younger men like Senator Bingham as "Uncle Toby," a reminder of that delightfully human character in Sterne's Tristam Shandy. The Yale faculty voted for him almost to a man, and he had the support of the student publications, an unusual thing.

Competent political observers do not expect many striking innovations during Gov. Cross's administration. There may be fireworks if the Republican machine politicians try to fight in the open but that is not likely in such times as these. Furthermore, many independent Republican voters, tired of Rorabackism and attracted by Cross's personality and courage, were partly if not chiefly responsible for his election. Their mandate was given to a vigorous, courageous scholar. Unfettered, he has promised to give "contented" Connecticut a decent and representative government.

Besides the above, at 6:39 p. m. he has made a note about "guideline" and "steering arrangement," but it is impossible to decipher the words. Then follow some remarks respecting the chronometers.

Strindberg and Fraenkel have now the watch alone. Strindberg keeps the journal. The balloon is floating onward at a height of 2100 feet above a thin layer of clouds through which the ice sometimes becomes visible.

The height is increased to 2150 feet, but the temperature is still about 34 F.

Ice is now seen only along the horizon to the south-southwest, while the clouds have thickened below the "Eagle." Nothing is heard but a faint murmur from the southeast and east, and the whistling from the valve. The sun shines warmly, but light breaths of air are felt.

Fraenkel and Strindberg speak in a whisper, so as not to disturb Andree. Far away to the southeast, land is visible, probably North-East-Land.

Ballast Thrown Overboard.

When, at 8:23 p. m. the ice becomes visible for a moment between the clouds, the course is determined as being North 45 degrees E. (magnetic). "We are now traveling horizontally so finely that it is a pity we are obliged to breathe, as that makes the balloon lighter of course. And so Froenkel and I go and spit, too," writes Strindberg.

Strindberg makes his sun observations, while Fraenkel writes them down in Strindberg's memorandum almanac. A note is made of each little event, the hour and minute being given.

Just before 9:43 p. m. the balloon has sunk somewhat so as to touch the upper edge of the clouds at a height of 1600 feet. The danger of coming out of the sunshine and thus causing the balloon to fall still lower, induces them to throw a buoy and about 18 pounds of sand overboard.

As was mentioned above, the communication intended for a buoy post, and which Andree handed to Strindberg before he went to lie down, was not sent off until later on. We know this as this buoy has been found and the date given in it is July 11, 10 p. m. This hour agrees with the above mentioned note that a buoy had been thrown overboard, so that, in all probability, it was buoy No. 4, mentioned there.

First Buoy, With Message.

The buoy was found at Logsletten on the coast of the Norwegian Finnmark on Aug. 27, 1900, by a woman who was looking for wreckage. The buoy had driven ashore just before she found it, so that it had been carried by the waves 1142 days after it had been thrown from the balloon. It had not suffered any damage. It is preserved side by side with the message in the State Historical Museum, Stockholm. The communication is as follows:

"Buoy No. 4. The first thrown out on the 11th July, 10 p. m. G. M. T. (Greenwich Mean Time).

"Our journey has hitherto gone well. We are still moving on at a height of 250 m. (830 feet), in a direction which at first was N. 10 degrees E. declination, but later N. 45 degrees E. declination. Four carrier pigeons were sent off at 5:40 p. m. Greenwich Time. They flew westerly. We are now in over the ice which is much broken up in all directions. Weather magnificent. In best of humors.

"ANDREE, STRINDBERG,
FRAENKEL.

"Above the clouds since 7:45 G. M. T."

If we examine the original dispatch a little more in detail we easily note that the time given as "10 p. m. G. M. T." and last words "above the clouds since 7:45 G. M. T." are not in Andree's handwriting, but in Strindberg's. It is the latter who has added these lines after Andree had handed his communication to him.

Again Weight Is Cast Away.

It is now possible to determine when this was done. After the four pigeons had been sent off at 5:40 p. m. the balloon had floated at a height of from 1600 to 1850 feet. Consequently, Andree must have written his communication immediately after the carrier pigeons had been sent off, i. e., about 6 p. m. He had then given the dispatch to Strindberg with the order to put it into the buoy and to send off the latter at a suitable time. When, about 10 o'clock, the "Eagle" was sinking through the clouds, the buoy was thrown out with the 18 pounds of sand to lighten the balloon.

It is really remarkable that we are not aware in such detail of what took place on board the "Eagle" in respect to this buoy-post which, until the present moment, formed the most detailed communication hitherto received from the three men who disappeared outside Virgo Harbor on July 11, 1897, and whose fate can now be so clearly read from their own notes.

Immediately after the buoy had been sent off, the note was made, with a note of interrogation, "A shot heard." It must have been the ice cracking. A few minutes later, the ice gleams through the clouds.

Exactly at 10 p. m. the course can be approximately determined as North 60 degrees east. Twenty-two minutes later, five rungs of the rope ladder are thrown out as unnecessary ballast, and eight minutes later, six more rungs are thrown overboard in addition to 18 pounds of sand from the same sack as before.

Another Buoy Overboard.

Immediately afterwards, buoy No. 7 is thrown overboard. Strindberg notes in his memorandum almanac the communication it enclosed:

"This buoy has been thrown from Andree's ballon at 10:55 G. M. T. on the 11th July, 1897, in about 82 latitude and 25 long. 7. fr. Gr. We are floating at a height of 600 meters.

All well,
ANDREE,
STRINDBERG,
FRAENKEL."

This buoy was discovered in Kollafjord, on the north coast of Iceland, on May 14, 1899, 672 days after it had been thrown from the "Eagle." When found the buoy was rent on one side and the copper wire, which had supported a little flag staff, was missing. The buoy was sent to the Governor in Reykjavik, who forwarded it to the Minister of Iceland in Copenhagen, by whom it was sent on to Stockholm. When the dispatch was published, everyone was astonished to find how brief it was, although the leaf on which it was written afforded good space for more. Now we understand that the situation did not allow of Strindberg's writing in any detail.

Eight minutes after the buoy had been sent off a note is made that the clouds are moving at a height of no more than 1450 feet and that the temperature is 33.1 degrees Fahrenheit. Strindberg wonders whether it is cloud or land that is seen in the east-northeast, but it soon proves to be clouds.

The second installment of this dramatic narrative will appear in an early issue, probably next Sunday.

LIBRARY CIRCULATION INCREASE

A steady gain in the circulation of books by the St. Louis Public Library is shown in the October report of the library issued yesterday. An increase of 63,164 volumes over the figures for September and a gain of 5772 over October, 1929, are shown in the total of 349,338 volumes circulated during the month.

The Gravois Branch Library, at 5008 Morganford road, opened in September, 1929, showed the greatest gain for the period, sending out 1713 more volumes than during October of the year previous. Books in Braille type issued by the Blind Department of the Public Library amount to 2381. Borrowers' cards now in force total 167,197, according to the report.

DRAMATIC LEAGUE TO OPEN EXHIBIT OF 24 PAINTINGS

To Offer Prizes for Writings Based on Subjects Depicted; Religous Week Planned.

The Dramatic League of St. Louis announced yesterday that its season's program would open late this month with an exhibit of 24 paintings of Missouri subjects by Olive Holbert Chaffee with an offering of prizes for dramatic writings based on subjects depicted.

In January, a one-week festival of religious drama to encourage drama in churches, is planned, and a "Theater of Nations" among foreign-born groups during February and March. Everett Paul Griffin is president of the league and Sarah Gertrude Knott, executive director.

Salvation Army Property Trust.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The Salvation Army commissioners' conference has decided unanimously to from a trust company to take over the army's real and personal property in Great Britain, the same as is now done in the United States. Previously this property here has been under the trusteeship of the General. The decision is in line with the commissioner's recent action in eliminating the supreme power of the General.

Missouri Boy is Brightest

From three to twelve. That's the period which is most important to your child's development. And that's the time so many are retarded mentally and physically by energy-sapping constipation.

Watch your child, mother! At the first sign of unpleasant breath, coated tongue, headache, biliousness, lack of energy or appetite, give a little California Fig Syrup.

This pure vegetable product cleanses, regulates a child's bowels without discomfort. No danger of forming the laxative habit when California Fig Syrup is used. For it tones and strengthens weak bowels so they contine to act naturally, of their own accord. In colds or children's diseases, employ its gentle aid to keep the system from becoming irregular with toxins or waste.

Mothers everywhere are eager to tell of the benefits secured for their children, Mrs. A. W. Schnur, 7338 Bruno Ave., St. Louis, says: "I have used California Fig Syrup with Billy for two years in cases of upsets, unpleasant breath, coated tongue or constipation. It keeps him the brightest, happiest little fellow I know!"

Look for the name California when buying or you may get an imitation.

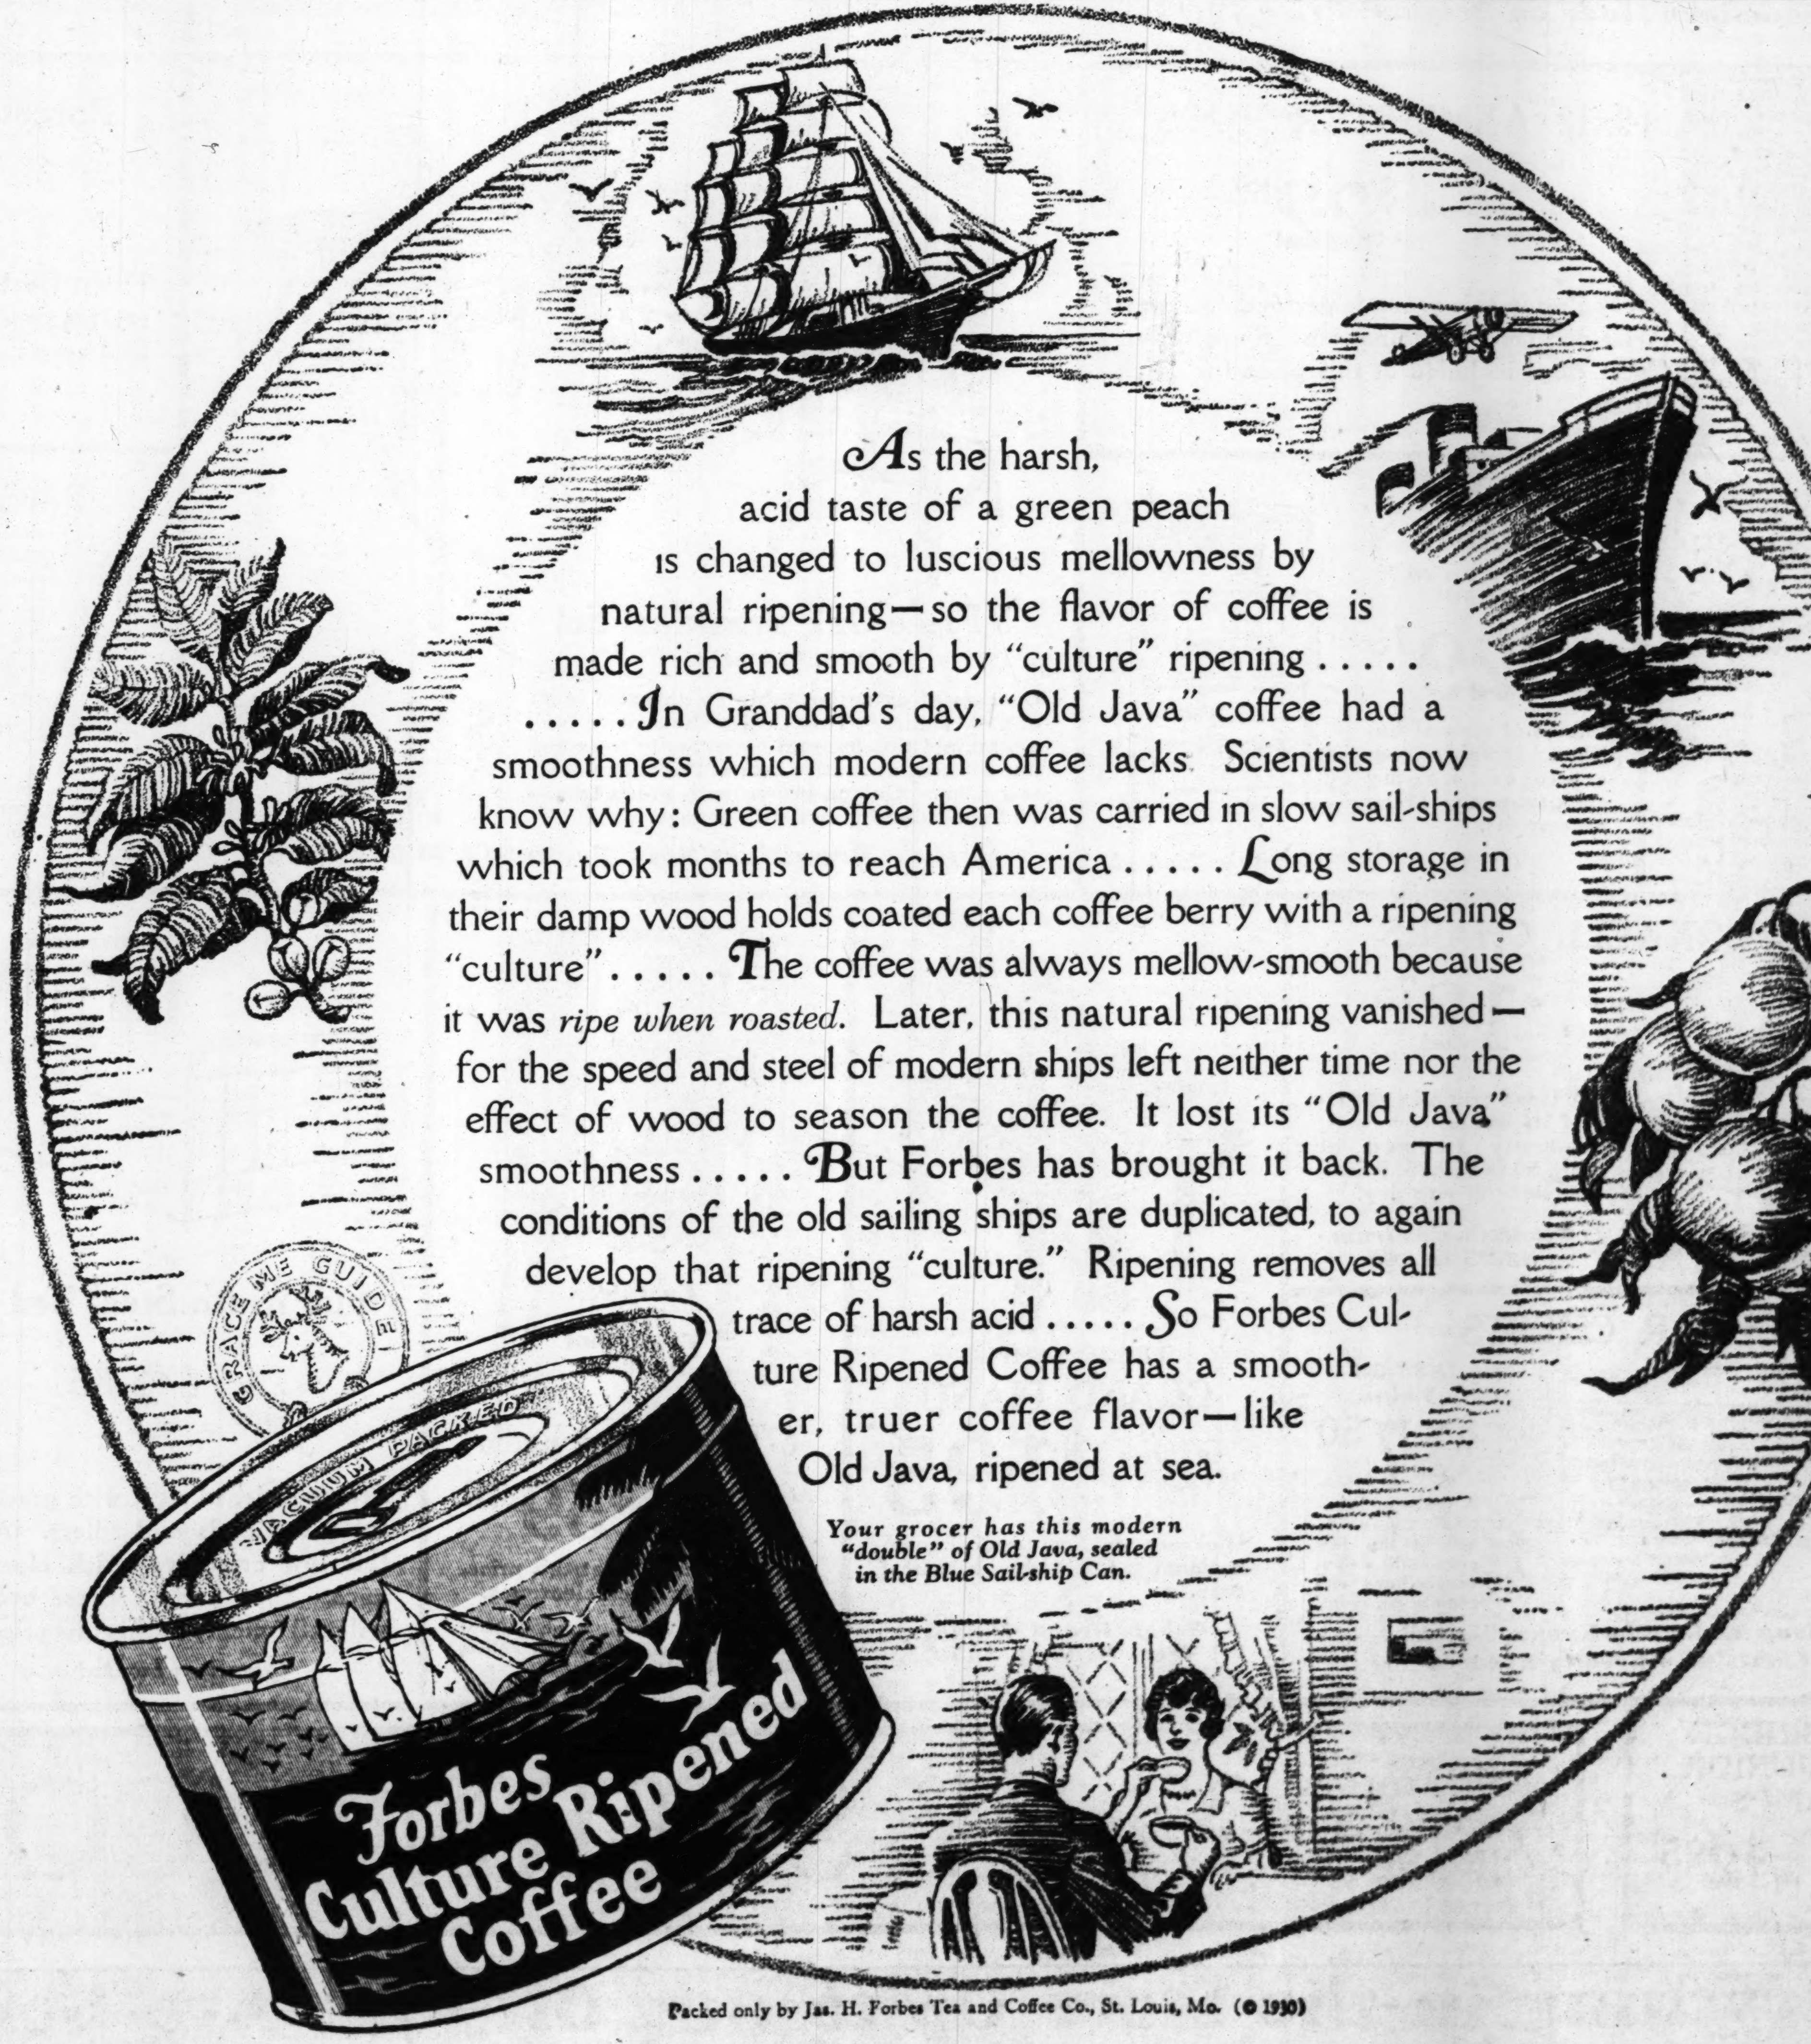
THE RICH, FRUITY LAXATIVE AND TONIC FOR CHILDREN



As the harsh, acid taste of a green peach is changed to luscious mellowness by natural ripening—so the flavor of coffee is made rich and smooth by "culture" ripening ..... In Granddad's day, "Old Java" coffee had a smoothness which modern coffee lacks. Scientists now know why: Green coffee then was carried in slow sail-ships which took months to reach America ..... Long storage in their damp wood holds coated each coffee berry with a ripening "culture" ..... The coffee was always mellow-smooth because it was ripe when roasted. Later, this natural ripening vanished—for the speed and steel of modern ships left neither time nor the effect of wood to season the coffee. It lost its "Old Java" smoothness ..... But Forbes has brought it back. The conditions of the old sailing ships are duplicated, to again develop that ripening "culture." Ripening removes all trace of harsh acid ..... So Forbes Culture Ripened Coffee has a smoother, truer coffee flavor—like Old Java, ripened at sea.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 15.—Out of the wreckage of a dismal season, Princeton's down-trodden football team fought its way to the threshold of glory this afternoon only to be turned back by the narrow margin of 10 to 7 in the fifty-fourth annual game with Yale.

While 60,000 enthusiastic spectators looked on in amazement and howled themselves hoarse, this Princeton team which has not won a major game in two seasons outgained and outplayed the Elis, Albie Booth and all, throughout most of the game.

Last Minute Effort Stopped.

Smashing down through the mist and rain of a dreary day, the inspired Tigers led by the sensational back, Trix Bennett, tore off 74 yards in a great march in the final moments of play. But the touchdown that would have produced perhaps the greatest upset in the history of Yale-Princeton football was averted when Bennett's plunge on fourth down was checked on the Eli 2-yard line, a few inches short of a first down.

Yale won by the narrow margin of a field goal, drop-kicked in the first period by Booth as he stood on the Tiger 20-yard line. Thereafter Princeton forged ahead through a touchdown by the brilliant Bennett in the second period which gave Princeton a 7-3 lead. Then, with Booth and most of the other regulars on the bench, Yale took the lead which won the game.

Dropping back to the Princeton 40-yard line, the left-handed Taylor threw a long pass that sped straight into the arms of Sullivan on the touchdown side of the goal line. It was with Booth and his first string cohorts back in the game that Princeton launched its great drive, an effort that was fated to fail despite the inspired play of a hard luck team.

Yale Outplayed.

Yale, instead of winning by several touchdowns, as had been generally expected, was outplayed in everything but the score in the light of the statistics.

Albie Booth, poison to most teams for the last two seasons, was smeared by Princeton's fighting forwards or backs each time he

Roosevelt Wins, 14-0, From Beaumont; Soldan Loses to Cleveland, 12-7

By Harold Tuthill

The two South Side high schools, Roosevelt and Cleveland were victorious in the semifinal City High School League football double-header played at the Public Schools Stadium yesterday afternoon. Roosevelt eliminated Beaumont from the championship race, 14 to 0, and Cleveland won a thrilling 12 to 7 decision from Soldan in a game that was finished in the dark. The attendance was 7000.

The Rough Riders of Roosevelt were played to a standstill by Beaumont during the first half of the game, but the Rough Riders opened up the second half with a crushing line attack that left Beaumont gasping at the end of the game. Two of the Beaumont players, Ray Margherio and Harris Bach, were knocked out and had to be carried off the field, so fierce was the attack of Roosevelt.

Tutinsky Scores First.

The first touchdown in the third quarter was made by Nathan Tutinsky, who made two runs for a total of 37 yards for the score. Norman Kloepper added the extra point by plunging. Kloepper, who has been kept under cover most of the year, startled the crowd in the third period with a 43-yard run that was stopped at the Beaumont 12-yard line. Beaumont was penalized five yards for too many time outs, and Koerner went through the center of the line for the touchdown. Tutinsky passed to Charles Barenovic for the extra point.

In the Cleveland-Soldan game, alternate hopes and disappointments were realized by followers of the two schools as the lead changed hands during the second period, the one in which all the scoring was done.

As far as Soldan was concerned, the air was filled with footballs, because Durant Edele used to the utmost George Werley's stout throwing arm.

Cleveland assumed a 6-point margin in the second quarter when it started an attack from the Soldan 31-yard line. Werley's pass to Jerry Weingart was good for 12 yards and then Werley heaved another to Roy Paglusch who stepped over the goal line for the touchdown. Neither attempt at the extra point, once by Werley and again by Paglusch was successful.

Lead Switches to Soldan.

Cleveland's failure to make the extra point caused its adherents' hearts to palpitate violently, since Lee Handley led Soldan to a touchdown and a 1-point margin, shortly after Cleveland's score. Starting from the 34-yard line the West Enders made four first downs to carry the ball to the Cleveland 12-yard line, from where Handley tossed to Charley Jeans for the touchdown. Handley added the extra point by place-kicking.

The kick-off following the touchdown gave Cleveland the ball and Werley tore off 20 yards. Passed to Paglusch, to Vogt and SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 15.—The "South Bend Cyclone" swirled on its devastating way today with a farewell gesture to its Notre Dame home by crushing the bristling but outclassed Bulldogs from Drake University by a convenient margin of 28 to 7, before a rain-spattered throng of 20,000.

It was a farewell to Notre Dame Stadium for nine stars from the ranks of the Rockne squad, including that great trio of ground-gainers, Frank Carideo, Joe Savoldi and Marty Brill—a trio already recognized as a match for Notre Dame's great "four horsemen" crew of six years ago. They have three more games to play for Notre Dame but will play them on foreign fields.

Savoldi Out of Game.

There was one disturbing note in the farewell, however, and that was the refusal of Notre Dame to permit Savoldi, star galloper of the backfield crew, to say good-bye with action. Because of his marriage and contemplated divorce, Savoldi was under discipline and was not allowed to compete.

Although Coach Knute Rockne left his team to scout Northwestern's undefeated eleven, which Notre Dame meets next week, the "Cyclone" had little difficulty in extracting the teeth of of the Bulldogs. After a scoreless first period, they got the jump with a touchdown with the aid of a patched-up team of regulars and subs, wilted momentarily as Drake tied the score and then opened up with an attack with all regulars that boomed until the Drake cause was hopeless. They excelled in every department of football except in passing. The Bulldogs made eight tosses good for 114 yards and their only touchdown.

A bad punt by Lynn King, which traveled but 20 yards and went out of bounds on his own 47-yard line, gave Notre Dame a break in the second period which they turned into a touchdown. Dan Hanley, playing his first game for Notre Mirbat galloped along for the first mile and one-half while improving his speed steadily, went to the leaders with bold speed and, assuming command after two miles, readily drew away at the end to win galloping. William T. steadied until ready, made a bold effort the last half mile, but could not stay with the winner. Yarn, reserved as long as possible, was best of the others. Grey Coat was full of run from the start, was hard held until a mile and one-half, took a slight lead after a mile and three-quarters, but flattened out in the final drive. Inception tired badly.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 15.—Unheralded by previous victories in this country, Mirbat, a recent addition to E. R. Bradley's stable, scored a sensational victory in winning the $10,000 added Pimlico Cup Handicap for the Kentucky sportsman at the closing of Pimlico today.

An even half dozen horses faced the starter for the gruelling two and a quarter mile test through mud but Mirbat, a 5-year-old, had an easy time winning, because he was coupled with A. C. Bostwick's Yarn in the betting. The winner paid only $6.70 in the mutuels.

Fifteen lengths back of the Bradleyite at the end of the muddy grind was W. E. Caskey's William T., while in third place, far in advance of Grey Coat, ran Yarn. Mirbat's time for the distance was 4:04 3-5.

Army Eleven Wins by 47 to 2

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 15.—Playing football in a drizzle of rain, Army took a one-sided contest from the Purple team from Kentucky Wesleyan here this afternoon, 47 to 2.

Army played loosely. Kentucky made three desperate stands to no avail, Army running over them rough shod with its third, fourth and fifth teams always on the offensive.

In the third quarter Army lost the ball on downs on the Kentucky-Wesleyan one-foot line but turned the visitors' blocked kick into a touchdown.

WASHINGTON STATE WINS TITLE ON 48-YARD KICK

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 15.—The biggest prize of Pacific Coast sport—the Pacific Coast conference football championship—was won today by the undefeated grid machine of Washington State College with a thrilling 3 to 0 victory over the University of Washington.

Not since the University of Washington in 1925 conquered everything in its path, has the championship been held by a Northwest school.

The Crimson Cougars climaxed a glorious season with a hard fought victory when Lyle Maskill, brilliant W. H. C. end, booted a perfect place kick through the Washington goal posts from the Huskies' 38-yard line on the fifth play of the battle.

By James M. Gould

Washington University's one-man attack, to-wit, viz. and i. e., Ted Saussele, yesterday afternoon defeated Creighton University's Blue Jays, at Francis Field, 13-0, in a Missouri Valley Conference game. The victory gave the Bears a .500 percentage in Valley competition. When an opposing eleven learns to stop Saussele, they will stop the Bears without much trouble. Creighton succeeded in doing this for a few mintues in the early part of the game. Then, Saussele was taken out in the second quarter, stayed out of the third period altogether and returned after about five minutes of the final period had elapsed.

Creighton's main regret is that Saussele returned at all. Until his return, the Blue Jays were doing right well. The score was 0-0, and it looked very much as though the end of the game would see it that way. But, the historian must record that Saussele did return and he made much more of a success of his comeback than did Napoleon when Nap said goodby to Elba and took another chance on the shores of France.

Saussele Scores Twice.

Within a minute after his return to action, Saussele got busy. He tried a pass and failed to complete it. Then he ran five yards, after which he flipped a pass to Tyrrell for a substantial gain. That was pretty fair but "Red Ted" proceeded to slash his way through the left side of Creighton's line for 32 yards and a touchdown.

A pretty fair afternoon's work. But, the Redhead was not yet finished. Worthing, the best-gaining and best-kicking Creighton back, was injured at this point and was forced out of battle. Toelle, his substitute, trying to punt from his 36-yard line, actually sent the ball down the field only five yards and the Bears had another scoring chance. But they passed it up temporarily. Soon, they got another break when the alert Higgins, Washington's newest center, intercepted a Creighton pass. Saussele began operations and though the Blue Jays held desperately for three plays, crashed over for a second touchdown, after which Scott Hornsby place-kicked a goal for the extra point.

Day and Night Game.

The game, incidentally, was a day-an-night affair. It started at 3 p. m. in daylight but was finished under the floodlights which were turned on to dispel the gloom just as the fourth period got under way.

Washington was outplayed consistently in the first two periods. In them, the Blue Jays made five first downs to Washington's two. By their late attack, the Bears evened things up in the this regard, however, and the final tally of first-downs was seven apiece.

Creighton took to the air early and maintained an overhead attack throughout the game—not at all successfully. The record shows that the Jays passed 22 times, and also that just one of these heaves was completed. The Bears were more saving of their passes. They did a lot of punting during the scoreless periods after being held for downs innumerable times by the fighting Creighton line. All told, the Bears tried seven and completed two of them. One of these came in the first quarter and Saussele threw the ball to Coover for a fine gain which put the ball on Creighton's 10-yard line. Here the Blue Jays held manfully. The other completed pass was the one which the same Saussele heaved to Tyrrell and which led to the first Washington touchdown.

The contest was "Homecoming Game" for Washington, but, despite the fact that the day was balmy, the attendance was poor. An estimate of 5000 would be not at all conservative.

As for the individual stars of the game, Saussele was the standout. Hornsby was useful on line-plays and in knocking down enemy passes, while Higgins, the new center, showed fine form and appears to have the "makings" of a real pivot-man. These men shone for Washington. For Creighton, the two stars were Worthing and Jelen. Worthing is a great ball-carrier and made most of the Creighton gains. None of these would he have made had it not been for the fine interfering and blocking of Jelen, the quarterback.

There was no danger of the play-

Dartmouth Gains Story-Book Victory Over Cornell, 19 to 13

By the Associated Press.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 15.—The undefeated Indians from Dartmouth and a stubborn, under-rated red wave of Cornell played another of their traditional football Donneybrooks today, and when the nerve-shattering battle was over, exhausted Dartmouth had pulled out the victory, 19 to 13.

Twice Cornell led, first 6 to 0, then 13 to 12, and three times the Green pulled up from behind, first to tie, then to lead, 12 to 6, and finally to yank the duel out of the firse with a desperate rally in the last two minutes of play.

The passing of Bill Morton and Shep Wolff, unleased in full force in the fourth quarter as Dartmouth trailed, 12 to 13, and the minutes ticked away, was fiction stuff almost too spectacular even for the story books. Needing a score of any kind, with the ball on his own 24-yard line, Morton faded back almost to his own goal, winged a pass to Wolff just short of mid-field, and the Dartmouth back was not dragged down until he hit Cornell's seven-yard line.

But that wasn't enough. The raging Cornell line, outplaying the Green all afternoon, threw Dartmouth back and Morton missed a short try for a field goal. It was Wolff's turn. He heaved the ball from his own 40-yard line to Bob McCall, who raced all the way to Cornell's 15-yard mark. Dartmouth plunged to the six-inch mark in three plays—and in two more smashes couldn't pick up another inch.

Wolff went back as Myles Stevens kicked short to his own 33-yard line and this time wafted a pass to McCall on Cornell's five-yard line. The line held again, but Morton sneaked a pass to McCall in the end zone and the duel was won.

All but one of the five touchdowns today was scored by passing.

Dartmouth Star Once Kicked Winning Goal in Civilian Clothes.

By the Associated Press.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 15.—"Air Mail" Bill Morton, hero of Dartmouth's victory today over Cornell, has been a "story book" player at other times in his football career.

Morton, whose kicking, passing, blocking and running the ball has been one of the main factors of the Big Green's success this year, sat on the bench in civilian clothes from injuries several years ago while his team, New Rochelle High School, battled Yonkers High.

A chance for a field goal popped up for New Rochelle, but there was no capable kicker in the line-up. Morton was sent in anyway, clothes and all.

Yonkers protested, but "Air Mail" was permitted to kick. He booted the goal for a 3—0 victory for New Rochelle.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 15.—Kansas revived from its lethargy four minutes before the end of the first half of its football game with Oklahoma today, dominated the play thereafter, won the game, 13 to 0, and went into a tie with Oklahoma for Big Six Conference lead.

Until that point near the intermission, when Jim Bausch and Carnie Smith were sent into the fray, the heavy Kansas gridsters were outplayed by Oklahoma's courageous but light team. After that it was the Kansas team which beat the Aggies, and Jayhawker supporters who witnessed the Nebraska debacle saw their favorites play a type of game expected of them when pre-season indications pointed to Kansas as a championship team.

Despite their first-half superiority, Oklahoma never approached within the Kansas 10-yard line in possession of the ball until the fourth period.

In that final drive Oklahoma met resistance Kansas did not display against Nebraska and was thrown back. Kansas was driving to another touchdown, with many reserves in the lineup, when the game ended.

The scrimmage gain, including passes and runs, gave Oklahoma an edge, 231 to 227 yards.

A long pass from Bausch to Cox which gained more than 30 yards, placed the ball on the Oklahoma 3-yard line as the second period neared the end. On the third attempt through tackle, Bausch scored but his kick for the extra point was low and Kansas held only a 6 to 0 half-time advantage.

Bausch, who still suffers from injuries, was removed after his touchdown and was not again sent into the game until Oklahoma threatened to score in the final period.

The second Kansas touchdown came after a steady drive through an Oklahoma line weakened by the pounding of the Kansas huskies. The ball was 24 yards from a touchdown as the third period ended and six plays after the final quarter began, Schaake plunged off tackle for a score and Stuck added the extra point.

AMES LOSES 13TH GAME IN A ROW

By the Associated Press.

AMES, Ia., Nov. 15.—Flashing a brilliant passing game that netted two touchdowns in the first quarter, the Kansas Aggies won a Big Six Conference victory, 13 to 0, today, from a dogged Iowa State eleven which has not won a contest in its last 13 starts. The Aggies scored on two passes, 51 and 23 yards, respectively, early in the game, but the Iowa State defense tightened and fought off several Kansas threats in the last half.

PENN TEAM CRUSHES GEORGIA TECH, 34 TO 7

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 15.—The University of Pennsylvania, rousing herself from her disastrous defeat by Notre Dame last week, fell upon the Georgia Tech eleven on Franklin Field this afternoon and defeated the Southerners, 34 to 7. Pennsylvania outplayed the Georgians in every period.

to Comfort the last resulting in the touchdown. Werley thus accounted for 68 yards, as the march started from the Cleveland 32-yard line.

Joe Mosar saved the day for Cleveland in the third quarter. Cleveland was in possession of the ball on the Soldan 21-yard line when Werley tried a short pass, which Kimble Moore intercepted and ran 39 yards before he was tackled from the rear by Mosar.

Soldan smothered Cleveland's deadly triple quarterback formation. However, the Carondelet backfield worked well from a box formation using, a few spinner plays.

Yesterday was the fourth consecutive Saturday that the weather has been ideal for the fans.

Runs of 34, 20 and 18 yards by Ralph Lansrud, Drake sophomore end, were responsible for Drake's only score, which came on a toss, Brewers to King. Gerald Siberling place kicked the extra point.

At that juncture, the full Notre Dame first team, with the exception of Savoldi, jumped into the fray and changed the even battle to a rout.

Although he failed to score, Carideo was the shining light of Notre Dame's horde. He ran regulars and subs superbly and placekicked perfectly for four extra points.

Today's victory was Notre Dame's sixteenth straight in two years of play. The Irish still have three more games to play—Northwestern, the Army, and Southern California—before their season ends.

"SECRET PRACTICE," SAYS ROCKNE, AFTER SCOUTING NORTHWESTERN IN FOG

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 15.—Mother Nature today attempted to aid Northwestern in its battle against Notre Dame next Saturday by obscuring play from the eyes of Scout-Coach Knute Rockne.

Rockne left his team in South Bend, Ind., to defeat Drake under the direction of Hunk Anderson and Jack Chevigny, his assistants, and came to scout Northwestern from the press box. He peered through a dense fog all afternoon, occasionally gathering a fleeting glance at Northwestern's backs going here and there, and said:

BURROUGHS WINS TWO GAMES FROM WESTERN

In two "ABC" League games Saturday on the fast Price road gridiron, the John Burroughs "B" team defeated Western, 7-0, while the Blue and Gold "C" outfit trampled the Cadets, 20-0. These games were very important, as they give John Burroughs a good chance for the "ABC" League title. The Western team suffered their first defeat of the season and the points scored on them were the only ones this year.

Country Day School defeated the Principia "C" team by the score of 20-0. In their last contest Codasco trampled the Cadets by a count of 7-0. This game puts the Price Roaders in a tie for first place with Burroughs in the "ABC" League. Thompson of Country Day was by far the outstanding player. Two of the Red and White touchdowns were scored on forward passes from Thompson to Taylor. The other was pushed over the chalkline by Stevens on a line plunge.

WEBSTER HELD SCORELESS BY MAPLEWOOD

Outplayed most of the game, a dogged Maplewood team refused to weaken when the ball was in its territory and held a strong and heavier Webster team to a scoreless tie at Maplewood yesterday. Both teams had one good opportunity to score but couldn't muster the necessary strength to put the ball over the goal line.

The first quarter was mainly a punting duel between Freschi of Webster and Rhyne of Maplewood, with Freschi having the better of the duel. As the quarter ended, Freschi made a well-placed punt that rolled out on Maplewood's four-yard line. Webster made a first down when Greene picked up a Webster fumble and ran 10 yards around end, but with the ball on Maplewood's 12-yard line, Webster could not pierce the powerful Maplewood line and the ball went to Maplewood on downs.

In the last quarter after an exchange of punts, Webster's center made a bad pass to Freschi, and a number of Maplewood linemen broke through and blocked the punt, the ball going to Maplewood on the 50-yard line. Rhyne then passed to Brockman for 25 yards and a first down. Rhyne's pass to Bittner on the next play was good for 12 yards and a first down. After vainly trying the Webster line twice Rhyne again passed. The ball was intended for Bittner, who was over the goal line, but barely grazed his finger tips, and as a result went to Webster on its 20-yard line.

TROUT WILL OPPOSE DURSO ON OVERLAND CARD TUESDAY NIGHT

George Wilsman, matchmaker for the Overland Athletic Club, last night closed two more matches for his boxing card Tuesday night at the Knights of Columbus hall in Overland, St. Louis County.

In a featherweight bout, Bill Trout, Olympian A. C. fighter, meets Dan Durso of the Croatian A. C. A flyweight scrap will be fought by Charley Gelardi of the Olympian A. C. and Jack Rymer, one of Barney McCarthy's ringmen.

In a middle-weight match, Russell Kinder, coach of the Police Department boxing class, opposes Merl Gilbert, one of the Olympian A. C. battlers.

Joe Herbst Jr., Mississippi Valley welterweight champion, is ready for his match with Norman Hoke of the Overland A. C. The heavyweight feature will bring together Harold Hamilton of Texas and Jerry O'Connor of Ireland.

OLYMPIC FINANCING PROBLEM SOLVED BY GERMAN OFFICIALS

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—The problem of financing Germany's participation in the 1932 Olympic games at Los Angeles is virtually solved, according to announcements by the German Olympic Committee, which met today.

There have been suggestions in newspapers recently that Germany's economic troubles would not permit her to incur financial liabilities for mere sports, but Theodor Lewald, president of the Federal Athletic Union, said that Germany, having accepted the invitation to compete, was bound to see the thing through.

A German delegation of 120, including 15 officials, has been decided on. The total expenditure is estimated at 450,000 marks.

One-third of this total is to be contributed by the Government, according to present plans. Another third will come from the Olympic Committee and the rest from various athletic organizations.

A special fund of 100,000 marks is expected to be raised among German-Americans.

TULSA HANDS ROLLA FIRST DEFEAT, 18-0

The games will be played on Cleveland field, with no admission charge.

Washington Scores Under Lights to Defeat Creighton

ers of either side mistaking a foe for a friend. The Bears were clad in flaming scarlet and the Creighton players in a bright hue of blue.

Credit Umpire Fred Dennie, former coach at Rolla, with an intercepted forward pass, which cannot go down in the books. It was a Washington try and bounced off an eligible's back straight into the arms of the official.

The Bears now are faced only with the St. Louis University game. They have played seven games, have won four, lost two and tied one. In the Valley play, they won from Grinnell and Creighton and lost to the Oklahoma Aggies and Drake.

Six and one-quarter of the Washington games have been played under lights. They fought it out yesterday for three periods in the daylight and then called on the arcs for assistance.

Butz, heretofore a center, started at Wheeler's place at left-tackle yesterday and gave a fine account of himself until relieved. As Higgins played a fine game at center, it is entirely likely that Butz will remain at tackle for the St. Louis U. scrap.

On the basis of play, it would have been more illuminating had the final score read, "Saussele 12, Creighton 0." For, the redhead was the Washington team on the offense.

Anastasoff, a chunky Russian, saw varsity service when he was sent in to replace Vandover at guard. He gave a good account of himself though he weighs no more than 150 pounds.

OKLAHOMA CITY CLUB RELEASES LEWIS AND SIGNS JOHN CALHOUN

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Nov. 15.—Jack Holland, owner of the Oklahoma City Western League club, tonight announced the release of J. P. (Peewee) Lewis, midget infielder. The Indian chieftain said he had concluded the little veteran was no longer a player of Western League caliber.

Holland also announced the signing of John Calhoun, shortstop, who played in McAlester semi-professional ranks last summer.

Salvation Army Gets Proceeds of Army-Navy Game

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.

THE Salvation Army, whose coffee and doughnuts helped win the war, will distribute the proceeds of the Army-Navy game on Dec. 13 at the Yankee Stadium, New York, to the unemployed.

West Point and Annapolis representatives, who met here today, also agreed that the cheapest seat would cost $5, but how high the price will go and other details were left to the Salvation Army. The Army and Navy men said there would probably be no objection if a squad of New York millionaires wish to take box seats at $1000 or more each. The proceeds are expected to total $500,000.

The money from the game will not go for the benefit of any particular section, but, as a Navy officer expressed it, "will buy soup from Maine to California."

OWNER OF PITTSBURG CLUB DECLARES FOR A LESS LIVELY BALL

By the Associated Press.

PITTSUBRG, Nov. 15.—A return to the less lively ball and elimination of "pop-fly" home runs will be urged at the meeting next month of the Major League Baseball officials by Barney Dreyfuss, president of the Pittsburg National League Club and a vice-president of the National League.

Dreyfuss said he will propose a zoning system at all parks whereby all fair flies that are knocked out of the playing field at a distance of less than 300 feet from the plate will be ruled two-base hits instead of home runs as at present.

Pointing out that the 1930 ball differed from that of 1929 in that the former's cover was glued on before the stitching process, Dreyfuss said he would suggest "that the leagues specify a type of ball that will be less lively, and that the manufacturers be required to adhere to those specifications."

Oregon Suffers First Conference Defeat

By the Associated Press.

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 15.—Oregon State's Beavers ploughed through a rain-soaked field today to crush the University of Oregon Webfoots, 15 to 0. It was Oregon's first defeat of the year; Oregon State's first conference victory, and the crowning touch to Oregon State's homecoming celebration.

Coach Paul J. Schissler's men scored a touchdown and a safety, both from blocked punts, in the first quarter.

California Noses Out Nevada in Rain

By the Associated Press.

MEMORIAL STADIUM, BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 15.—The University of California Bears scored a touchdown in the second period and a safety in the third today to defeat the University of Nevada, 8 to 0, on a muddy field.

The entire game was played in rain. Most of the fans sought shelter under the score boards at each end of the field or in the press boxes.

Stanford Runs Over California Tech

By the Associated Press.

STANFORD STADIUM, Cal., Nov. 15.—Stanford's football team crushed a courageous California Institute of Technology eleven here today, 57 to 7, but not until after the Engineers had held a 7 to 6 lead midway in the second quarter.

Sam Eastman, diminutive Engineer halfback, provided the day's biggest thrill when he took a pass from Bennett and dashed 55 yards through the entire Stanford team to a touchdown.

U. of Hawaii Loses to So. California

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 15.—The "Roaring Rainbows" of Hawaii University failed to roar today as a cloud of University of Southern California warriors rained eight touchdowns upon the invaders for a 52-to-0 victory.

It was the first defeat of the season for Coach Otto Klum's light but scrappy aggregation.

Capt. Hiram Kaakua, 170-pound left half, was removed from the contest in the first quarter, with a broken ankle.

DAVISCOURT TO MEET STEINBORN HERE NOV. 26

Milo Steinborn, German heavyweight, will match grips with Dick Daviscourt of Los Angeles, in the main event of a Coliseum wrestling card, Wednesday night, Nov. 26, according to Promoter Tom Packs. The bout will be a finish affair.

C. B. C. DEFEATS CRYSTAL CITY'S STRONG TEAM, 7-6

The Christian Brothers' College eleven won its seventh straight victory and second intercity title yesterday afternoon when it defeated the Crystal City outfit, 7 to 6, on the C. B. C. field. The Brothers, winners of the Prep League championship this season, had previously trimmed the C. B. C. team of Memphis, in its first intercity contest.

The losers started the game in great style. After an exchange of punts had given them the ball deep in their own territory, "Monk" Ayres, flashy halfback, broke off tackle, spun away from a member of C. B. C. men, fell but regained his feet and finally romped across the goal line after a 75-yard run.

Play during the greater part of the first and second quarters was in Crystal City territory, but the winners failed to exhibit the required punch and were held scoreless until late in the second period. Taking the ball on the losers' 30-yard strip, Russ Braudrick of C. B. C. ripped through guard for 20 yards and Flynn and McDonald carried the oval to the Crystal City one-yard line. The visitors held, however, and kicked out of danger. With 20 seconds to play, the Brothers had worked themselves to the 10-yard mark again, and this time Scotty McDonald went around right end for the score. Braudrick's kick for the extra point was good.

A crowd estimated at 2000 saw an interesting football game when the Crispus Attucks Negro High School team of Indianapolis, Ind., beat the Sumner High School Bulldogs here yesterday at the Stars' Park. The score was 21 to 0. In the opening quarter the Sumner eleven played a splendid offensive game and held the visiting team scoreless.

Bigsby, a fast half for the visitors, led the attack when he scored the first touchdown of the game on an off-tackle play in the second period, while Sumner, in the third quarter, allowed a safety. Stratton, the star of the contest, scored the second touchdown for the Attucks High, which was followed by a pass from Bigsby to Adams for the extra point. In the final period Meyers plunged through Sumner's line to tally the final score before the last whistle blew. Tony, James, Harris and Turner were the outstanding players for the local eleven, while the stars for the visitors were Stratton, Bigsby, Meyers and Adams.

Y. M. C. A. INDUSTRIAL BASKETBALL LEAGUE TO OPEN SEASON DEC. 5

Entries in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball League will close tomorrow and it is expected that there will be 10, and possibly 12, teams divided into two divisions.

Teams that have entered to date or probably will enter are: International Shoe, Wabash, Quick Meal Stove, Laclede-Christy, M.-K.-T., Western Electric, Rawlings, McQuay-Norris, Boyd-Richardson and Procter & Gamble.

The league will probably open its schedule on Friday, Dec. 5.

NORMANDY WINS SIXTH TIME IN SEVEN GAMES

Normandy defeated Central, 13 to 0, yesterday afternoon in an interleague high school football game on the Normandy field. It was the sixth victory in seven starts for the Vikings.

All the scoring was done in the third quarter. Rogers made a 15-yard run for the first touchdown and passed to Braddock, who skipped across the goal line for the second. Young added one point by place-kicking.

Normandy will close its season on Thanksgiving, when it meets Wellston. If Normandy wins the final game it will finish in a tie with University City for the county championship.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 15.—Flashing a determined defensive that was not to be denied, the University of Missouri and the University of Nebraska battled it out on even terms at Memorial Stadium today in a scoreless tie.

Traditional football foemen for 38 years, both the Huskers and the Tigers flashed brilliantly at times with scoring threats that went for naught when neither team could produce the necessary punch.

Although the contest was even up in so far as victory was concerned, Nebraska displayed its superiority in ground gaining with 13 earned first downs to three for the Tigers, and with a total of 194 yards for the Huskers from scrimmage to 65 for Gwinn Henry's pupils.

Missouri, by holding Nebraska to a scoreless tie, disrupted the Husker plans to make a bid for the 1930 Big Six title, which was opened to them by Kansas' 20—7 win over Oklahoma. Wet turf hindered the light Nebraska backfield men.

tried to carry the ball, and was outdone by Bennett in running back punts.

It was Bennett, a fast stepping senior from Pittsburg, who proved the hero of the day, but he had plenty co-operation from another dangerous Tiger back, the sophomore, Jack James, and a line that rose to unexpected heights. This same Bennett started the Princeton scoring drive with a 40-yard run back of a punt, James galloping 20 yards through the line, Bennett passed to James for eight more yards and then Bennett carried the ball on four successive plunges, finally going over. Purnell added the extra point from placement.

Yale apparently had been checked on the Princeton 30-yard line in the third period when Taylor dropped back to throw a long pass on fourth down. Princeton was badly fooled by an Eli decoy and Sullivan gathered in the perfect peg in the touchdown area, then added the extra point with a drop kick.

45,000 WATCH PURPLE CLINCH AT LEAST TIE FOR BIG TEN HONORS

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Nov. 15. — A hampionship football team—Northwestern—proved its right to Big Ten title honors today, coming back with a brilliant second half finish to defeat Wisconsin's sturdy eleven, in a pea-soup fog, 20 to 7.

Huddled in the stands, the greater share of about 45,000 spectators who came to Northwestern's homecoming were aghast when Wisconsin left the field at the close of the second period leading by 7 to 0, and looking capable of adding to the lead.

The jubilation of the Badger supporters was changed to apprehension shortly after the third period started, and from apprehension to dismay before the session had ended with the Wildcats on top, 14 to 7. The final touchdown merely added more glory.

Wisconsin Leads.

Wisconsin played enough football in the first half to merit its lead. The Badger line charged fast and for the first time of the season, Northwestern's forwards were outplayed. It was the alertness of the Badger line that gave Wisconsin its score.

"Hard Luck Hank" Bruder was partly the goat in the Wisconsin touchdown accomplishment. Backed up against his own goal line in the first period, he attempted a quick kick, and Greg. Kabat, Badger right guard, smashed through to block the try and fell on the ball behind the goal line. Bill Lusby added the extra point.

Victory brought to Northwestern a Big Ten string of five straight triumphs, with Ohio State, Illinois, Minnesota and Indiana, previous victims. The worst that can happen will be a tie with Michigan, which defeated Minnesota today for its fourth straight, and needs only to beat Chicago's forlorn Maroons at Ann Arbor next Saturday.

Michigan Wins From Minnesota by 7-0 Score

By the Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Nov. 15.—The 45-yard return of a punt by Jack Wheeler, Wolverine back, gave Michigan a 7 to 0 victory today over Minnesota in a desperately fought breath-taking football battle.

More than 60,000 persons watched Wheeler, who has staked a remarkable comeback in this year's varsity competition, take a punt from Munn in the first period, sidestep and sprint through the entire Gopher team and score the only touchdown of the day. Hozer dropkicked the extra point.

By virtue of the victory, Michigan kept possession for another year of the "Little Brown Jug," an impressive object of the thrilling battle.

Illinois Scores Over Chicago Eleven, 28-0

By the Associated Press.

STAGG FIELD, Chicago, Nov. 15.—Illinois, defeated four times in a row, registered its first "Big Ten" victory today by walloping Chicago, 28 to 0, while 30,000 spectators braved an intermittent drizzle, hoping that the hopelessly outclassed Maroons might come to life in their final home game of the season. The Maroons, however, beaten in their three conference games to date, never even threatened to score and failed, with one exception, to get past the 50-yard mark.

With a marvelous forward passing combination of Gilberry and Pete Yanuskus functioning like a machine, and with the Illinois line resisting every Maroon drive, Illinois overwhelmingly outclassed the Maroons, the Illini completed nine out of 12 passes for a gain of 94 yards, while the Maroons overhead game broke down completely, with the Maroons failing to complete a single pass. Illinois, with its superior backfield ripped off 179 yards from scrimmage, with the Maroons gaining only 53 yards. The Maroons made only three first downs to 18 for Illinois.

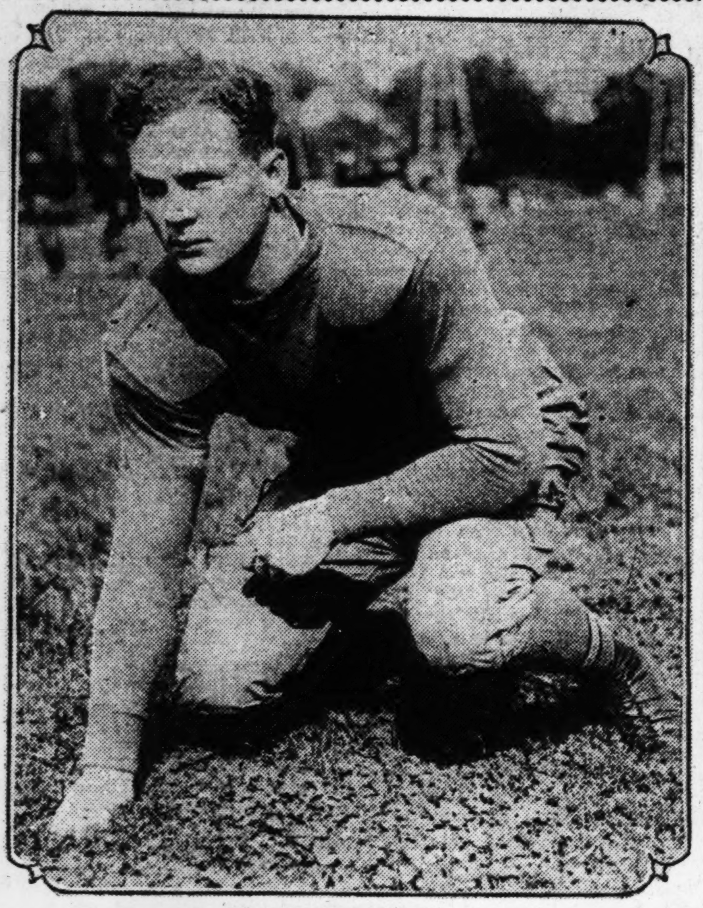
Obtains Release as Coach To Play Professional Football



CHRIS CAGLE.

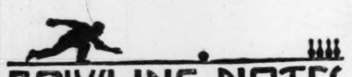
STARKVILLE, Miss., Nov. 15.—Christian Keener Cagle, former former West Point football star, was released today from his two-year contract as football coach at Mississippi A. and M. College.

President Hugh Critz of Mississippi A. & M., sent a telegram to Cagle, in Birmingham with his team for a game with Auburn, informing him of his release.

Cagle several days ago asked the college president to release him Nov. 15 in order that he might play professional football. Cagle plans to leave here Monday to join the New York Giants and play in a game against the Greenbay (Wis.) Packers.

Under terms of the contract made in the summer, Cagle was to coach three months each year, his services terminating after the Thanksgiving game with the University of Mississippi.

Cagle, with scant material to work with, has seen his team win only one game out of seven. In the first game against Southwestern of Memphis, Cagle for the first time witnessed a football game without being in it.



BOWLING NOTES

Arthur Sitter led with 1318 in the Heidel bowling classic after last night's play. The tournament will be concluded today. The six leading scorers were Roy Flesh, 1306; M. Weinstein, 1287; Otto Stein Jr., 1272; M. Gallagher, 1268; Jerry Amerling, 1238.

Wooster Lambert bowled 280 for high single game.

The first half of a six-game total pin match between the Allhoff Stars of Schaefer's alleys and the Schneiders of the Dohrmann alleys, is scheduled for this afternoon on the Dohrmann Brothers' drives. The second half will be shot at Schaefer's next Sunday.

The Sam's Service Five will bowl the Al Sandwich team in a three-game match at the Wellston Recreation alleys this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Both teams are members of the Fairmount Business Men's League. Sam's team has an average of 879, while the Al's have a mark of 840.

In last week's round of play in the K. of C. League on the Clayton alleys, the De Sotos made a clean sweep in their match with the Fourth Assembly team. The other matches resulted in two-game victories for the U. City team, Kirkwoods and Santa Cruz Five. Kreutzman of Santa Cruz accounted for high three with 608, while Fred Beckman shot 256 to land high single prize. The latter score is a new league record.

A new team record was established in the Mound City League on the Arway alleys last week when the Beckmans shot 2963, winning three games from the Silver Seals. Merb was high for the Beckmans with 633. The Beckmans' victory placed them in a tie with the Tydols for second place. The Tydols maintained second position by sweeping their match with the Gra-Hawks. In the other matches the Golden Eagles won three from the Dierls, the Connellys took two from the Hauptmanns, the Scheskes won two from the Tormentors and the Excellos won two from the Oak Hills.

The Schadys have a four-game lead over the Braders in the New Cinderella Handicap league on the Cinderella alleys and now have a record of 23 games won and 10 lost. The Braders are one game ahead of the Rosenthals and Kuennes who are tied for third each having won 18 games while losing 15. O. Brader is leading the individuals with an average of 191. Weber is second with 189, one point better than Gomer. Frenger has 187, E. Mocker 186 and A. Meyer 185.

The Newsoms won two games from the Dixons in the feature match of the Cherokee Business Men's League on the Cinderella alleys, rolling a three-game total of 2704 to 2714 for the Dixons. F. Stroble was high for the winners with 556. Ketzner's 551 was best for the Dixons. F. J. Lantere's 579 took weekly high three but his team, the Lanterers lost the odd game to the Cherokees. In the other matches the Zeltmans won two from the Krwaneks, the Cinderellas dropped two to the Abylas and the Duas won two from the Cherokee Shoes.

Pembroke Defeats Principia, 12-8

Pembroke Academy of Kansas City scored its first victory in three years over Principia Academy yesterday afternoon on Taylor Field, winning, 12 to 8, due to a drive in the last four minutes of the final quarter which resulted in a touchdown and enabled the visitors to overcome an 8 to 6 lead which Principia held at that time.

Principia was the first to score, counting a touchdown in the first quarter when Hunkins, Principia quarterback, who, incidentally, played a great defensive game, intercepted Wright's forward pass on his own 15 yard line. He ran five yards, slipped and fell, but when no Pembroke player pinned him down, he got up and ran 80 yards for the touchdown. The attempted place kick was wide, due largely to a strong wind.

Pembroke tied the score in the second period, aided by an unusual break. Towne went through Principia's right tackle and as he broke through the line, Nahlik started to tackle him but the referee got in the way and Towne ran 72 yards for the touchdown.

In the same period, Principia scored two points on a safety when Nichols, Pembroke center, threw the ball over Wright's head, from the 19-yard line, behind his goal line. Wright tried to run out with the ball but was tackled for a safety.

The score then was 8 to 6 in favor of Principia and it remained that way until Pembroke started its final drive from its own 24-yard line. In this spectacular finish, Wright made several large gains and once he passed to Towne for a 12-yard advance. Wright carried the ball around right end for the score from the 7-yard line. The attempted place kick was blocked.

SOUTH BROADWAY A. C. TO HOLD CARD NOV. 25

Boxers credited with victories in the feature attractions of last Thursday night's tourney will be offered special bouts on a boxing program at the South Broadway A. C. Tuesday night, Nov. 25, according to Matchmaker Willie Miller, who stated last night that he is seeking capable opponents for Les Schulte, National A. A. U. junior heavyweight title holder; Elmer Polkinghorne, Western A. A. U. welterweight champion, and Joey Parks, who wears the Western A. A. U. featherweight crown.

Preliminary events of the South Broadway meet will be open to registered amateur boxers of every division.

EAST ST. LOUIS WINS AND GAINS A TIE IN RACE

East St. Louis set the stage for a title battle in the Southwestern Illinois Conference next week when the Flyers passed their way to victory over Wood River yesterday afternoon, 13-0, and retained the tie wtih Granite City for first place. Collinsville clinched fourth place in the standing by crushing Madison, 40-0, as Alton was holding Edwardsville to a 13-13 tie.

The victory was the fifth straight for East Side and as Granite City also owns that many victories, the title will be at stake when the two teams meet next week.

A record crowd, estimated at 3500 people, witnessed the East Siders' triumph. The Flyers had trouble in stopping the Wood River lads and were unable to gain ground with straight tactics. Both teams featured their passing, but East Side was in Wood River territory throughout the game.

Collinsville won with ease over the Madison lads. It was the third straight win for the Kahoks and the sixth straight loss for Madison. Long runs featured the scoring, touchdowns being made by Borsch, Jack, Bosola, Beaver, Haisler and Gillespie.

The game at Edwardsville was a surprise, Alton holding the Tigers to a 13-13 tie. Edwardsville scored in the first period when Tenor went over and he kicked the point. Alton then tied the count in the next session with Schustler making the touchdown and White going through center for the point. Each scored in the last period when Wilson and Campbell went through for touchdowns.

Officials Ask No Inquiry of Southern Cal.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—Coaches and faculty alike of the University of California and Stanford University joined today in disclaiming responsibility for statements accusing the Southern California football team of professionalism.

Dean T. B. Putnam and Coach Nibs Price of California took notice of charges made by Fritz Cahn, first-string tackle, to the effect that the Southern California Trojans were the "best bunch of professionals in the United States." Both denied that such a statement reflected the attitude of California.

At Stanford, Prof. W. B. Owens, president of the Pacific Coast Conference, and Glenn S. "Pop" Warner, head football coach, both said they had no criticism to make of the amateur status of the Trojan players.

A speech by Track Coach R. L. "Dink" Templeton, in which he demanded an investigation of why Southern California received the best athletes was characterized as Templeton's personal opinion and in no way reflecting the attitude of Stanford officials.

Cahn, himself, also made an attempt to smooth the strained relations between Southern California and California, when he denied ever accusing the Trojans of being "professionals."

"I don't believe," Cahn said, "that I said it."

Kirkwood Beats St. Charles, 7-0

Before a homecomng crowd of approximately 700 fans at St. Charles, Kirkwood scored its first County League victory yesterday afternoon by defeating St. Charles, 20-0. The game closed the League's schedule for both schools. The winner's defensive against aerial plays was the most profitable factor in their victory.

Martin, Kirkwood fullback, scored 13 points. Howell scored the other touchdown.

Kirkwood, with a slight weight advantage, excelled on the offensive, making 11 first downs to six for their opponents.

The lineups:

Where, O Where Are Those Big Coveys of Quail? Asks the Hunter

By J. Roy Stockton.

QUAIL hunters are singing the blues.

Advance reports that birds were numerous and that the coveys were larger than they had been in years, caused sportsmen to expect an unusually good season of shooting, but in territory easily accessible to St. Louisans, hunters have had great difficulty in finding birds and very few have returned with the limit.

On the opening day of the season the writer and two companions hunted from sun-up until noon near Steeleville without seeing a single bird. Fertile valleys, with grain fields adjacent and plenty of brush and protection, looked like ideal layouts for quail, but there was no evidence of bird life at all. The natives said they hadn't seen a covey since the dry spell and explained that the drying up of the creeks and ponds probably had chased the birds away.

They Just Flew Away

PERSUADED by this time that another hunting ground would have to be found we journeyed to Salem and were informed there that the quail had flown away. Nobody had seen a covey. The drouth had chased them away, and there was a report that a disease, similar to the pip, had played havoc with the game. Likely looking fields were scoured in vain during an afternoon of hunting and the only covey we found was in the woods.

A group of St. Louisans hunted Monday and Tuesday in Calloway and Montgomery counties and failed to approximate the limit. One of the hunters said in previous years he had found dozens of coveys in the same territory, but that in the two-day hunt they had discovered only two. Their difficulties were added to by the fact that the ground was so dry that their dogs, experienced and usually excellent hunters, couldn't smell the birds at all.

Another St. Louisan spent more than a week near Abo, 20 miles from Lebanon, and while rabbits were numerous there, quail were hard to find and even the best shooters were finding it impossible to bag the daily limit.

Maybe a Closed Season?

THURSDAY two hunters arrived at Rosebud, 84 miles from St. Louis, near Highway 50, and spent the day scouring fertile valleys and skirting creek beds. There was plenty of feed for birds, water was easy to find, but only two small coveys were found, about half a dozen birds in each. Natives said birds were so scarce they considered it a waste of time to try to find them.

Usually the hunters frown on the idea of a closed season, but unless something is done, quail hunting will be a thing of the past in most of the prairie counties of the State, and most of the sportsmen who have been out this season probably would readily agree to a closed season for a year or two, in the hopes that the few remaining birds could be left to repopulate the fields.

St. Charles County, after a closed season lasting four years, reopened for the quail hunters yesterday, when the last two-year closed season, voted in the county expired.

But if there ARE spots where the quail are plentiful, informatives' letters will be treated confidentially.

Stillman to Box At Gayety, Nov. 24

Jack Tippett, matchmaker for the Walter J. Hatzfeld Post of the American Legion, announced last night that he had signed Al Stillman, local middleweight, for the 10-round main event of his show at the Gayety Theater, Nov. 24. Tippett stated that he is seeking Babe McCorgary of Oklahoma or Cowboy Dula of Texas as Stillman's opponent.

Sammy Offerman, lightweight who defeated Ray Alfano of East St. Louis last week also will appear on the card.

Others sought for bouts are Eddie "Kid" Wolf, Memphis, and Jeff Carroll, Biloxi, Miss., who recently arrived in St. Louis looking for fights.

CONCORDIA BASKET LEAGUE OPENS TODAY

The Concordia Lutheran Basketball Association will open its season with two league games this afternoon at Zion Hall, Twenty-first and Benton streets. At 1:45 p. m. Grace (Wellston) will oppose Immanuel, and at 3:45 p. m. St. Andrews will meet the Zion Greens In a non-league game, the Zion Blues will play the St. Matthew's team, at 2:45 p. m., on the same floor.

HOLY CROSS WINS OVER HARVARD BY PASSES, 27-0

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 15.—The forward passes of Little Phil O'Connell, quarterback, clicked perfectly here today and Holy Cross defeated Harvard, one week away from its objective game, with Yale, by the impressive score of 27 to 0.

The light and shifty Holy Cross eleven executed its Warner wing back plays without a hitch and besides that it outguessed, outrushed and outplayed the bungling Harvard eleven in every department of the game. Harvard had but one scoring chance, getting up to Holy Cross' 5-yard line, but it lacked the touchdown punch. O'Connell's forward passes, thrown during the sparkling open contest that thrilled about 40,000 spectators, made three of Holy Cross' touchdowns possible. The other was scored when Jimmy Cavalieri, fleet end, who harassed Harvard's lateral passes all afternoon, broke through and ran 25 yards to the Crimson goal after intercepting a pass.

Every score was made in spectacular fashion but the most thrilling one of the contest was made when O'Connell stood on Harvard's 30-yard line and completed a pass to the gigantic Henry Baker as he stood on the Crimson goal line, surrounded by four tacklers. As the ball neared this pack, Baker jumped, stretched his long arms high for the catch and then nose-dived under the heap and over the line.

Don Leon, well suited by the going and having most speed, cut out a fast pace for the going, maintained his speed under heavy impost and had something left. Knights Call was under vigorous urging, keeping up close from the start, disposed of others after a half-mile and closed resolutely, but could not get to the winner. In Haste saved much ground, moved up strongly after reaching the stretch and but for swerving badly in the final 70 yards might have been closer up. True Blue Pal began slowly, slipped through on the inside and was best of the others. Black Comet tired after showing speed for five furlongs.

$2 mutuels paid: Don Leon, win $7.04, place $3.82, show $4.36. Knights Call, place $3.34, show $2.96. In Haste, show $5.60.

By the Associated Press.

COVINGTON, Ky., Nov. 15.—Don Leon, a speedy two-year-old from R. W. Collins' stable, accounted for his ninth victory as a juvenile and sent his earnings soaring to $43,693 with a smashing triumph in the Queen City Handicap, which features the closing program at Latonia today.

The track was muddy and the going tough, but Don Leon picked up his 119 pounds like a veteran and romped over the mile in 1:41 4-5.

A length and a half back at the finish was Knight's Call, a consistent performer from the Audley Farm, while in third place trailed In Haste, from the Keeneland stud.

For Don Leon's victorious gallop over the mile course, his owner received $13,950, while backers of the Collins horse were returned $7.04 for each $2 invested in the mutuels.

The 1930 Kentucky racing season closes Monday with the one-day meeting at E. R. Bradley's Idle Hour Farm, the proceeds of which will go to charity.

Shields Rated Best Eastern Tennis Player

NEW YORK, Nov. 15. — The younger generation of Eastern tennis scored a clean sweep over its elders in the 1930 rankings of the Eastern Lawn Tennis Association, announced today.

Francis X. Shields, the tall New York youngster who was runner-up to Johnny Doeg in the national championships, was given the top ranking, followed by Sidney B. Wood Jr. Shields was placed fourth last year and Wood was not included in the rankings.

Gregory Mangin of Newark, N. J., again is placed third, but John Van Ryn of East Orange, N. J., a member of the American Davis Cup team, has been dropped from second to fourth. Francis T. Hunter of New Rochelle, the leader of the old guard who was first ranking player in the East in 1929, follows in fifth place.

In the women's rankings, more new names are seen at the top of the list as Mrs. Molla Mallory and Miss Eleanor Goss, who ranked first and second last year, are not included for 1930. The top place goes to Miss Norma Taubele with Mrs. Caroline S. Hirsch second. The next three, Alice Francis, Dorothy Andrus and Mrs. Agnes A. Lamme, all were among the first 10 last year.

Culver-Stockton Wins Close Game From Shurtleff

Although they made 14 first downs to seven for their opponents, the Shurtleff Pioneers went down to defeat before Culver Stockton College of Canton, Mo., 14 to 7, at Alton yesterday.

The principal factors in Culver Stockton's victory were the bullet-like passes of Berger, the Missourians fullback, which twice resulted in touchdowns.

The Pioneers, had their hands on the ball only once in the first period when Riehl's poor kick to his own 31-yard line gave Berger a chance to shoot his first pass to Lane on the Shurtleff 15-yard line. Lane ran across for the touchdown and place booted the extra point.

Shurtleff tied the score in the second period after Davis broke away around end for a 52-yard run to Culver Stockton 33-yard line. Basan made the touchdown from the two-yard line.

Near the end of the same period Lane placed Culver Stockton in scoring position with a 20-yard run, and then caught Berger's pass and 10 yards for a touchdown.

CONCORDIA PARK—JUNIORS.
McBride High vs. Benjamin Petty, St. Matthew's H. N. S. vs. C. B. C. High. Referee, L. Robbins.

A few weeks ago soccer fans were wondering whether any team in the St. Louis Soccer League could score a goal on John Marre's Tablers. Today, the same Tablers are in danger of getting their second defeat of the season and falling three points behind the league-leading Hellrungs. Phil Kavanagh has his Coca-Cola team well trained and full of confidence and it is entirely possible that these boys may beat the Tablers this afternoon. The game will be the first of a double-header at Sportsman's Park. Last time they met, the score was a tie, 1—1.

Today's program in the Municipal League does not offer so many promising games as usual. In most cases, the division leaders are drawn against weaker teams.

Perhaps the best of the lot is the Carondelet Park match in which the German Club meets the Schenbergs. At Sherman Park the Cook A. C. opposes the St. Edwards in what should be an interesting game, and at Forest Park the Universals have a worthy foe in the Pyramids. Three weeks ago, the St. Matthews surprised by tying the Bly-Moss outfit at Fairground and these clubs meet again today.

THE ART OF SOCCER FOOTBALL No. 4

By Andy Wilson,
Of Scotland and Chelsea.
One of the Greatest of Modern Football Players.

TO my mind the most important section of a football team is at halfback. Unless there is real football skill in the middle line there can be no success in the other sections. This fact has been proved by many English clubs which have spent fortunes buying forwards. Forwards cannot play well unless the support they get from behind is of the very best.

To deal with the halfback line, I must split my remarks into two sections; discussing first of all the wing halves and then the center half position.

The wing halfback position is now the most important one on a football team, for here the player must be able to defend and attack. In the old days, before the change in the offside law, the wing half was not so important as the center half, but now the center half has to watch defense more and leave most of the attacking to the wing half.

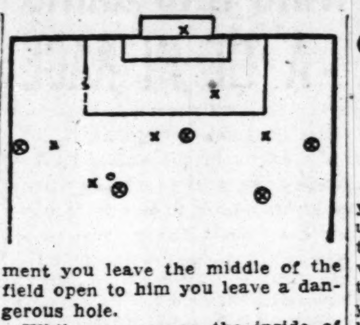
Modern football demands the wing half watch the outside forwards more than the opposing inside forward. Actual tackling of the opposing inside forward must be left to your inside man. He must come back and worry the other inside man. He may not be able to get the ball, but he can compel his opponent to part with it. That is where you take a hand. You must see that the ball does not reach the winger. It is very necessary. If once you are drawn to the inside forward you leave the wing open and then your back behind you can be drawn out of position.

Inside Forwards Must Help.

I AM illustrating my article with a diagram instead of a picture. I want to emphasize this need of inside forwards coming back to tackle. It may seem strange to discuss this matter when writing about wing halves, but it so greatly affects the latter position that I am justified. I am prepared to go so far as to say that unless an inside forward does help the wing half, no success can come.

Except when the ball is on the other side of the field, the wing half is not responsible for covering work. He must be covered, but his main job is interception. It is necessary for a wing half to study where the ball is and where it may go.

When a wing half is forced to tackle, he must do so with definite idea. He must make up his mind either to get the ball or make the opponent part with it, and he must, if possible, make him part with it in such a fashion that it will be useless to the opposing side. It is easily said, I know, and very difficult to carry out. But what I said about full backs applies here. Leave your man but one way to go. Whatever you do, keep on the inside of your opponent. The moment you leave the middle of the field open to him you leave a dangerous hole.



While you are on the inside of the opponent your full back can watch for the pass down the wing, but if once you lose that position there are alternatives open to the opponent. He can still pass to the wing, he can pass down the middle or he can use that devastating cross field pass to the other wing—a pass that opens your defense and leaves it vulnerable. Provided your inside forward comes back and tackles the opposing inside, you will see from my drawing how much easier your work becomes.

Something About Attack.

NOW we turn to attack. Here we come to something definite and very important.

I am going to presume that you have got the ball. You have intercepted and brought it away from the opposing inside forward. Do not be hasty. If there is one player who should hold the ball and draw an opponent before passing it is the wing half. Your own inside forward should not be far away, but he will be covered. You have heard of the triangular plan, that between the wing half, inside forward and wing forward. This is the root form of attack in continental football and it is good, provided the ball is held long enough. It becomes useless unless an opponent is drawn away from the man to whom you intend to pass the ball.

If you intend to pass to the inside man then you must do it quickly before he can be covered. If you intend to pass to the wing then you must draw the opposing wing half, to give your wing man all the space he needs.

Prefers Pass to Inside.

I MUCH prefer the pass from wing half, say righthalf, to inside left. That is much shorter and does not need a big kick. I say use the inside of the foot because if you do that it means you are pushing the ball and you must keep the ball low. A push will bring accuracy.

It is important to keep the ball on the ground. A pass in the air means twice as much hard work for a forward, and it makes it twice as easy for an opponent to get the ball. It loses time and it allows the other side to get up to the ball. Remember that the opposing defense can kick or head the ball where they please so long as they remove the danger, but your forward must control the ball and all the time aim towards getting a goal. If he has to get the ball under control before he can do anything with it you are playing badly.

Throwing-in needs few words. Speed is the essential thing about this phase of a wing halfback's play. The longer you take in throwing in the ball the more time you allow the other side to cover up. I would advise cultivating long throwing. It is very easy, provided you hold the ball lightly on the top of your hands. Start with your hands well at the back of your head and keep them going after the ball has left them. You should not stop your hands until they are level with your face. Follow through and you will get distance.

On Attack, Player Must Have Definite Object in Passing and Must Keep Sphere on Ground.

I fear I have not yet finished with this position, but shall have to leave the remainder until my next article.

In the diagram, the ball is shown by a circle. The circles with crosses inside are the opponents while your men are indicated by crosses. Now the opponent nearest the ball is the opposing inside forward and your inside man is also near the ball. You can see how difficult it is for the opponent to pass the ball without it being intercepted. Take away your inside forward, suppose he does not tackle or worry the opponent. Somebody has got to go to the ball and it must be you. The opposing wing will have all the field in which to play. It would bring disaster to your team.

"Drunkenness Is a Disease and I Can Cure It"
—Leslie E. Keeley, M. D., LL. D.

THE EDITOR of a powerful Chicago Newspaper before his death, challenged this statement of Dr. Keeley that "Drunkenness is a disease and I can cure it." He defied Dr. Keeley to cure the men whom he would send to the Institute. The results were so convincing that, through his great newspaper, he was personally responsible for thousands of men and women taking The Keeley Treatment for Liquor.

ROBERT JORDAN FUNERAL TO BE HELD TOMORROW

The funeral of Robert G. Jordan, secretary of the Forest Park Golf Club, who died suddenly Friday evening, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Wagoner chapel, 3621 Olive street, to Bellefontaine Cemetery.

Mr. Jordan's final illness was of short duration, but when he accepted the secretaryship of the golf club about eight years ago he was influenced in doing so because he was in poor health and had been ordered to do some kind of work which would not be too strenuous and would enable him to spend considerable time out of doors.

He was largely responsible for the growth of the club and in addition was much interested in the United States Golf Association. He was a member of the Public Links Committee of the U. S. G. A. and was instrumental in bringing the National Public Links tournament to St. Louis last year. Also it was his efforts which made the tournament the success it was.

Before the Municipal course was a fee course it was Mr. Jordan who saw that the course was properly attended to. He directed the care of the greens and supervised maintenance generally.

It was his habit during the summer months to be on hand at Forest Park at daylight Sunday and stay until dark.

He helped in the development of many of the better young golfers in this district and also aided some of them to attend the National Municipal tournaments. In order to familiarize himself with the way a national tournament was run he attended several before the one held here and during the past summer he accompanied the St. Louis team to Jacksonville, Fla., for the 1930 event.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Hotchkiss Jordan, a brother, Frank, a sister, Mrs. Ruth Jordan Mitchell, and two daughters, Marjorie and Martha Jordan.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 15.—The wild passing Mustangs of Southern Methodist University scored their first Intersectional victory at the Municipal Stadium today, by defeating the Navy, 20 to 7.

The Texans' aerial attack was too much for the Sailors, despite the superior power plays of the latter, which carried them to one touchdown and almost to another as the game ended.

JAVA WRAPPED TO PRODUCE A RHAPSODY OF CIGAR PLEASURE

YOU have to smoke a La Palina to really appreciate the marvelous blend of this fine cigar. The rich Java leaf used for the wrapper—the equally choice and expensive tobaccos used for the filler—all combine to produce a rhapsody of cigar pleasure which makes La Palina deservedly America's largest selling high-grade cigar.

ST. MARY'S ENDS FORDHAM 2-YEAR WINNING STREAK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Sustaining the far West's prestige in intersectional football, the galloping Gaels of St. Mary's, California, signalized their first Eastern invasion today by whipping Fordham's previously unbeaten Rams with a slashing last-half comeback.

The score was 20 to 12, and the mud-smeared boys from St. Mary's scored all their points in the final two periods, due largely to a spectacular aerial attack after Fordham had smashed its way to a two-touchdown lead in the second period.

The Gaels, apparently hopelessly beaten, ran wild in the last half as they handed Fordham the first setback the Maroon has suffered in football since the closing game of the 1928 season. The defeat removed one of the few remaining Eastern contenders for national gridiron honors and added a sensational victory to the intersectional score of the Far West.

A crowd of 35,000 spectators was repaid for its fortitude by a thrilling game, started in a heavy rain that lasted most of the first half and finished in a gloomy fog under the powerful arc lights used for night football. It looked like a tug-of-war between two powerful offensive machines at the outset of the mud battle, but both teams furnished plenty of offensive fireworks throughout the last three periods.

St. Mary's won by capitalizing the "breaks," by making the most of the punting superiority and passing skill of Halfback Fred Stennett and by a display of furious driving power that knocked down the hitherto almost impregnable defense of Fordham. Previously this season only nine points had been scored against Fordham, a figure that St. Mary's more than doubled with its triumphant drive today.

Fordham outrushed St. Mary's, registering 14 first downs to 9 for the Gaels. The Maroons also made [illegible] yards while St. Mary's completed an equal number for gains of 61 yards. The Gaels, however, intercepted five rival aerials while Fordham intercepted three.

St. Louis U. High And Western M. A. Play 6-6 Tie

A touchdown two minutes before the game ended gave Western a 6 to 6 tie with St. Louis University High at Alton yesterday. The cadets pushed over the touchdown after St. Louis had held for downs on three occasions with the ball inside the five-yard line, once with the oval a yard from the goal. Cornell crashed through the line for the cadet score, while Curran, Billiken captain, scored the Blue and White touchdown on an end run in the second period.

St. Louis completely outplayed the cadets in the first half, scoring long gains on spinner plays and an end run after a lateral pass, with Curran, Brenson and Fellhauer shining. In the second half, three St. Louis fumbles that were recovered by Western gave the cadets scoring opportunities that St. Louis halted almost on the goal line, while the fourth chance came when Rossborough recovered a mate's fumble on lateral pass and ran for 30 yards, to put the oval in position for the final cadet drive that brought the count. Rossborough and Corneli featured the Western attack, while White's kicking aided the cadets. Coastes' defensive play stood out.

Kid Wolfe and Eddie Anderson To Meet Here

Joseph Broderick, who has made several unsuccessful attempts to break into the boxing game here, announced last night that he had made arrangements with the Fred W. Stockham Post of the American Legion to act as its matchmaker and promoter, the position formerly held by Mique Malloy of Chicago, and that he would present a card at the Coliseum Friday night featuring Eddie Anderson of Wyoming and Eddie "Kid" Wolfe of Memphis in the main event.

Seneca Taylor, State Boxing Commissioner for the St. Louis district, stated that the match met with his approval but that Broderick would have to clean up all bills remaining unpaid since the promotion of the Maxie Rosenbloom-Jim Slattery bout which was to have been held at The Arena in October, fell through. Taylor said that Broderick had promised to do so and to take care of all future financial obligations promptly.

In addition to the main go, which is scheduled for ten rounds, Broderick plans three other ten rounders, one of them with Davey Abad as a principal and another with Gary Leach, Indianapolis middleweight, opposing either Babe McCorgary of Oklahoma or Johnny Roberts of Huntington, W. Va.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

SIX BOARDS OF REVIEW FOR SCOUT CANDIDATES

To Give Tests for First and Second Class Ratings and Certain Merit Badges.

Six boards of review, to examine Boy Scout candidates for the ranks of first and second class scout, or for all merit badges subject to review, will be held in the five districts of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council this week, according to William J. Puffer, educational director of the council. Each district will conduct a board of its own, while the sixth review, to be known as the Inter-Racial Board of Review, will be for all Negro scouts of the city.

Following the plan of rotating the nights on which different districts meet, the suburban board will be the first to convene. This review will take place at the Webster Groves High School tomorrow evening. The North District review will be held at the Farragut School Tuesday evening; the South District, Fanning School, Wednesday evening; Central District, Gallaudet Schol, also Wednesday evening; West District, Church of the Ascension, Thursday evening; Inter-Racial, Banneker School, Thursday evening.

While it is expected that scouts will attend the review of their own district, a boy may be permitted to be reviewed by another district's board if he cannot attend his own. He must, however, notify local scout headquarters, 505 Chemical building, in time to permit the transfer of his application to the files of the reviewing board.

No new merit badges will be added to the "subjct to review" list for these boards. The only merit badge candidates to be examined will be those who already have applications marked "subject to review" on file.

Troop Notes

WEST DISTRICT.

The regular meeting of Troop 30 of the Y. M. H. A. was held Tuesday instead of Thursday last week, because of the Merit Badge Show opening. The troop demonstrated the camping merit badge at the show under sponsorship of the Y. M. H. A. Beaver Patrol is still leading in the troop interpatrol contest, although the Eagles, who got off to a poor start, are making the greatest gains.

First and second class tests were passed by the Scouts of Troop 2 of Pilgrim Congregational Church during a hike to the old tourist camp at Forest Park a week ago yesterday. Several games were played. Ten Scouts were admitted into the troop at an investiture ceremony a week ago Friday evening.

Beaver and Buffalo patrols are fighting for first place in an interpatrol contest in Troop 26 of Delmar Baptist Church. The troop demonstrated the basketry merit badge at the Merit Badge Show.

Troop 152 of B'Nai Amoona Temple has completed its reorganization at its new headquarters on Clara avenue and Delmar boulevard. Norman Gutfreund is Scoutmaster. The troop is conducting a campaign for new members.

A Junior Officers' Club for older Scouts as well as junior troop officers will be organized by Troop 246 soon. The purpose of the club will be to study scouting in general and scout leadership in particular. Meetings will be held independently of troop meetings, and club hikes will occupy an important place on the program. Scoutmaster Fischlowitz and Assistant Scoutmaster Becker will be club advisers.

South District.

An interpatrol contest will be conducted between the patrols of Troop 200 of Fanning School next month, according to Scoutmaster Hasenjager. The troop is organizing a new patrol to take care of recent increases in membership. Three scouts joined the troop in one week.

The Submarine patrol is leading in an interpatrol contest being conducted by Troop 174 of Zion M. E. Church. The Tigers and Eagles are running a close second and third.

Rattlesnake patrol won an interpatrol contest concluded last week by Troop 63 of Oak Hill Presbyterian Church. Moose, Tiger and Beaver patrols followed in order.

North District.

Troop 3 of Grace Holy Cross Church is now meeting on Friday evenings instead of Mondays.

A trip to Springfield, Ill., was awarded to Eagle patrol by Troop 148 of Hyde Park Church last Sunday for winning a troop camparall held at the troop cabin Oct. 26. The Coo Coo patrol was second, followed by the Beaver and the Sioux patrols.

Central District.

Six Tenderfoot scouts were received into the troop, and two merit badges, three first-class badges and three second class badges were presented to other scouts at a Court of Honor held by Troop 74 of Sherman School a week ago Friday evening.

A large gathering of parents and friends witnessed the presentations and a program planned and given by the scouts and Scoutmaster Gene Kelly. The program consisted of a police court scene, an operating room in shadowgraph and a "dizzy" contest. Judge Claude O. Pearcy, chairman of Central District Court of Honor, was introduced by Commissioner Gustav A. Stamm of the district. The judge talked on ideals and practical benefits of scouting. C. H. Mills, activities director of the council, and Field Executive L. J. Case also talked.

Merit badges were awarded to George Snodgrass and Eugene Kelly; first-class badges were presented to Harry Hilliker, Louis Lister and Grant Knoblauch, and second class badges went to Richard Toons, Herman Waldman and Harry Zimmerman. The new scouts are John Vasquez, A. Colobrese, Paul Regna, Alvin Baum, R. McDougall and Roy Nieman. Troop 74 is the present guardian of the Central District flag.

Troop 132 of Central Institute for the Deaf has resumed regular meetings under Scoutmaster Magoon. Plans for activities have been made.

Troop 242 of St. Francis de Sales Church dedicated its camp, Lonedell, a week ago Sunday. Members of the troop Fathers' and Mothers' Club were guests at the dedication. Troop 242 was the first troop in Central District to conduct a troop court of honor.

CATHOLIC BOY SCOUTS RALLY

Archbishop Glennon to Be Principal Speaker.

The third annual rally of all Catholic Boy Scouts of the city and county will be held at the St. Louis Cathedral, Lindell boulevard and Newstead avenue, at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Archbishop Glennon will be the chief speaker.

The rally will be preceded by a parade of the scouts from their gathering place at Lindell and Kingshighway. The parade will be headed by the band of Kirkwood 3. More than 1000 scouts are expected to take part in the rally.

C. W. Lonsdale Left $500,000.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 15.—The will of Charles W. Lonsdale, prominent grain man and a vice president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who died Tuesday, leaves an estate valued at more than $500,000 to his widow. Attorneys said the valuation was conservative. Mrs. Georgia B. Lonsdale, the widow, was named executrix. The will was drawn Feb. 20, 1915.

FIRST PARENT AND CUB BANQUET HELD

Gathering at the United Hebrew Congregation Meeting House Tuesday Evening.

The first Parent and Cub banquet to be conducted in St. Louis was held by Cub Pack No. 1, of the Temple Shaare Emeth, at the United Hebrew Congregation Meeting House last Tuesday evening. More than 150 Cubs, who are junior scouts younger than the Boy Scout age minimum of 12 years, and their parents attended the banquet and witnessed a program presented by the boys.

The program consisted of Cub stunts, talks, and an Investiture Ceremony, during which 12 new members were admitted formally to the pack. The pack charter also was presented. Talks were given by C. H. Mills, activities director of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council, and by S. C. Reaves, chief executive of the Cubs in St. Louis. Mills based his talk on a personal Armistice Day, while Reaves stressed the part played by Den Mothers and Denners in the Cub program. Harry Siemer concluded the program with several humerous songs

Pack No. 1, organized last summer, was the first Cub pack to be formed in St. Louis, and one of the first to be organized in the United States. It is headed by Cubmaster Morton (Morty) Pareira, assisted by Denners N. Kohn Jr. Al Fleischer Jr., Jim Delano, Fred Ruoff and Fred Schoen. These "Denners" are Boy Scouts who have volunteered to help in the younger boy program. The pack committee consists of L. Kalsih, chairman, N. Kohn, H. Wolfheim, F. Sachs, C. D. Pareira and Al Fleischer Sr.

The Cub organization is unusual in that it has a Den Mother supervising each Den, or group corresponding somewhat to the patrols of a Boy Scout troop. This is the only commissioned office open to mothers in the Scout or Cub program. A Den Mother must be the mother of a Cub, and must have ability to handle boys. The Den Mothers of Pack No. 1 are Mrs. Joe Browar, Mrs. Harry Greditzer, Mrs. Frank Sachs, Mrs. Fritz Marx, Mrs. Clarence Pareira, and Mrs. Ferd Munz.

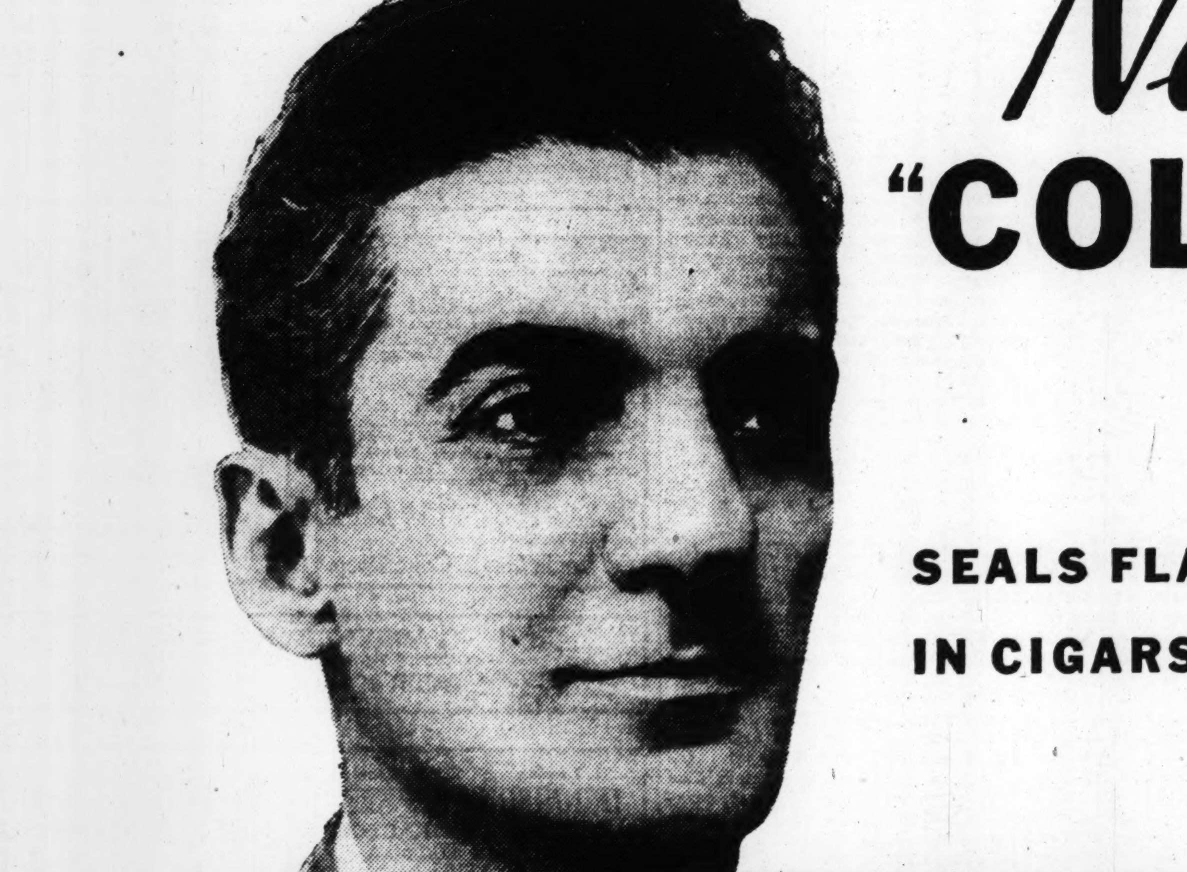
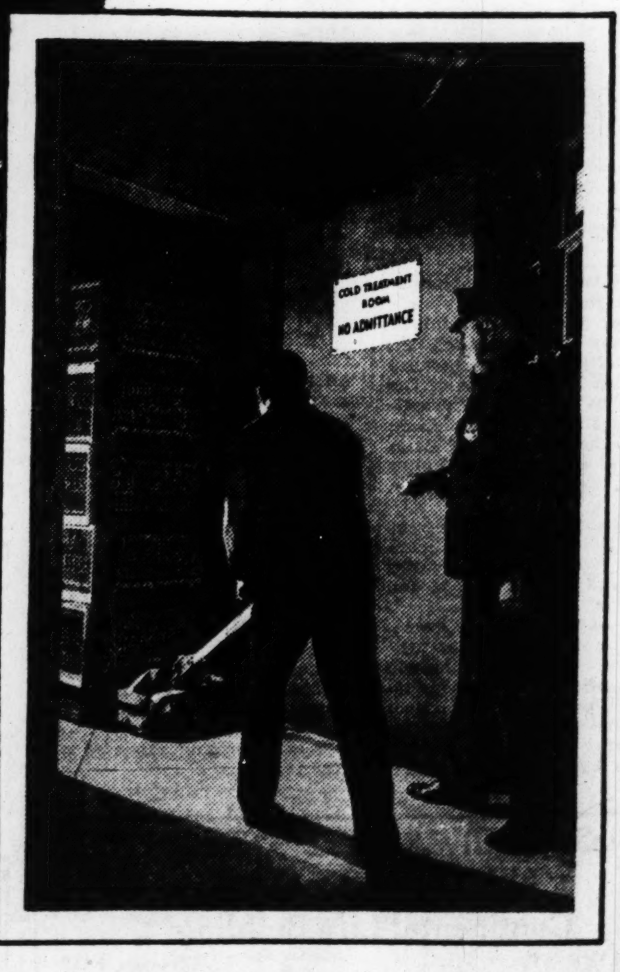
New "COLD-TREATMENT" process

SEALS FLAVOR AND FRESHNESS IN CIGARS!



DR. ADOLFO G. de BUSTAMONTE

tobacco expert, Bacteriologist, Dept. of Immigration of Cuba, says—"The makers of Dutch Masters Cigars are to be congratulated on their new 'Cold-Treatment' process. It's the greatest development in the cigar industry for many a year, and successfully solves the problem of preserving 'peak' freshness and flavor in a cigar until it reaches the smoker."



Behind this massive door is the "Cold-Treatment" room, where Dutch Masters Cigars are having their new-made freshness and flavor sealed in by this revolutionary new process.

EVERY man who has ever smoked an absolutely fresh, new-made cigar will agree that there's no smoke-thrill to compare with it. The pleasure of it lingers in the memory as the taste of fresh peaches to a man who had always eaten dried ones.

For years cigar manufacturers have tried to develop some process that would bring a cigar to the smoker with all the flavor-freshness it had when new-made. And now Dutch Masters has finally succeeded! The revolutionary, new "Cold-Treatment" process does it!

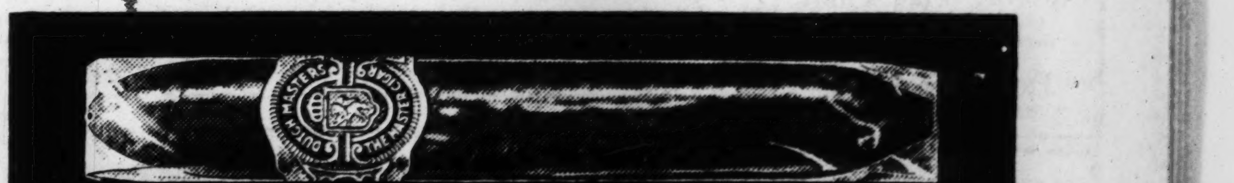
This unique process takes each Dutch Masters cigar just as it comes from the machine—just when the fine tobaccos are at their freshest, blandest "Peak of Perfection"...

And then, by this exclusive and secret process of "Cold-Treatment" seals all the fresh-made flavor and aroma right in the cigar itself! And there it stays—'til the moment your match releases that "Peak of Perfection" flavor for you!

Prove this yourself! Try a Dutch Masters "Cold-Treated" cigar to-day. And enjoy that greatest of smoke thrills—a cigar that is as fresh the minute you light it, as it is at the minute it's made.

All popular sizes and shapes, 10c and up. Dutch Masters are manufactured by the Consolidated Cigar Corporation, New York, N. Y., and distributed by—

Distributor: STICKNEY-HOELSCHER CIGAR CO.
409 OLIVE STREET



Tune in on the jolly Dutch Masters' Minstrels, every Saturday night at 9:30, Eastern Standard Time—over WJZ, and National Broadcasting Company stations.

A Dutch Masters is always an agreeable companion. For it is a mild cigar—you can enjoy the "Peak of Perfection" flavor as often as you wish each day.

Nearby Coal Fields Give St. Louis Big Advantages

Cheap Fuel, Large Payrolls and Other Heavy Expenditures Make the Coal Industry Important to St. Louis

Approximately $28,000,000 changes hands annually in the St. Louis district as a result of activity in the coal industry, according to a statement made by C. V. Beck, who is identified with the production and sale of that fuel in Greater St. Louis.

"Very few persons in St. Louis," said Mr. Beck, "realize the importance of the coal industry to St. Louis from a financial angle." The mine labor wages, according to his figures, amounts to more than $10,000,000 annually; the money expended each year for supplies reaches $4,000,000; the railroads collect $10,000,000 annually for hauling coal from the district, the dealers in St. Louis expend another $4,000,000. Nearly all of these $28,000,000, he said, were respent in St. Louis and the 40-mile area.

The figures quoted, he said, include only the coal that is mined in towns adjacent to St. Louis. If the computations included coal fields within 100 miles of St. Louis, the total payrolls, he estimated, would be between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000 annually, with other disbursements equally enlarged.

St. Louis is closer to most all of the Illinois coal fields than any other large city and as a result this city gets tremendous commercial benefits because of its proximity to the areas producing coal in quantity.

"The commercial supremacy of St. Louis," he said, "is built largely on low cost power due to cheap coal. The coal used comes to St. Louis with a minimum haulage cost. St. Louis is almost sitting on top of the world's largest coal bed. The veins adjacent to St. Louis are so thick that the mining costs are unusually low compared to other coal fields."

MARKET SURVEY IN DEMAND

Industrial Bureau Study Contains Latest Census Figures.

It is said that since October 29, when advance notices of the availability of "An Outline for Market Surveys," a book written by George C. Smith, director of the Industrial Bureau, and published by the Industrial Club of St. Louis, more than 150 requests for copies have been received. Thus far, according to the Industrial Bureau, it has mailed more than 900 copies of the volume.

The book explains how the manufacturer, distributer, and community may utilize figures contained in the Government's census distribution, which, it is said, are now being made available for the first time. The bureau says this is the first time such an exhaustive explanatory work on problems of distribution has been made available.

A limited number were published for free distribution to leading manufacturers, trade associations, libraries and other institutions whose work might be furthered through use of the volume.

To Discuss Waterway Problems.

Problems referring to the development of this country's inland waterways system, in which St. Louis is vitally interested because of its position in the center of the system, will be discussed by prominent speakers at a joint luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the Mississippi Valley Association, to be held Tuesday, Nov. 25.

The luncheon will be one of the features of the twelfth annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Association, to be held Nov. 24 and 25.

Officials of the Valley Association have announced that the major theme of the convention will be the discussion by nationally-known authorities of the river program, one of the greatest internal development schemes ever undertaken by any government.

ST. LOUIS RANKS HIGH IN RAG INDUSTRY

Supplies for a Group of Large Industries Assembled and Baled in St. Louis.

St. Louis ranks first in the United States as a quality rag grading center and second in volume, according to a prominent St. Louis dealer. Chicago, which ranks first in voluume, according to this authority, has no relatively large individual graders or packers. Production there is principally through many small dealers. Two large packers in St. Louis, he said, specialize in a large way in quality products, and at the same time handle a volume ample to qualify them as quantity producers.

The rag industry in St. Louis, according to figures quoted, affords steady employment to more than 1000 persons.

St. Louis assembles, grades and bales annually about 60,000 tons of old rags, 15,000 tons of new rag clippings and about 3000 tons of washed and sterilized wiping rags. Under normal sales conditions, the business in St. Louis represents approximately $6,000,000 annually.

A number of nationally known institutions depend altogether, or almost entirely, on St. Louis for rags used in the manufacture of materials such as roofing paper, manila paper, writing paper, woolens and other textiles, automobile batts and allied industries.

St. Louis rags are shipped to continental Europe and the Orient, and this city is the natural outlet for Central United States as well as all of the territory south to the Gulf of Mexico and west to the Pacific Coast.

ST. LOUIS' ART MUSEUM

Ranks High Among the Four Best in the United States.

The St. Louis Art Museum ranks as one of the four best art galleries in the United States. It contains rich exhibits of paintings, casts, sculpture, marbles, drawings, architecture and applied art. Many rare canvases exemplify the famous work of the old masters. The collection of Chinese bronzes, ceramics and paintings is said to be one of the finest of its kind.

Some new loan collection is added to the museum's permanent collection nearly every month. During the summer season St. Louis' art connoisseurs lend their own private treasures for temporary exhibiton to the public in this museum. Many special exhibits and showings are also held there throughout the year. Lectures on appropriate subjects are frequently given.

St. Louis is one of the few cities in the United States which fosters the development of artistic and cultural facilities for the public by a direct tax for the maintenance and development of its Art Museum.

An exhibition of painting, sculpture and applied art by contemporary Hungarian artists is now being held at the Art Museum. The exhibit will remain until the end of November.

Water Works Profit.

The City Water Department made an operating profit of $424,351.46 during the past fiscal year, it is shown by the annual report of the department. The receipts from the water revenue during the year were $4,031,533.76, which with $122,006.98 collected from other sources, brought the total income of the department to $4,153,540. The total operating expenses were $3,729,189.

Triangle Club Of Princeton to Give Play Here

Series of Parties to Be Given Both Before and After Performance of "The Tiger Smiles" at the Odeon.

THE Princeton Triangle Club, theatrical organization of Princeton University, will make its annual visit to St. Louis the evening of Dec. 29 at the Odeon in a new play called "The Tiger Smiles." The Triangle is one of the oldest clubs of its kind in existence, and the mid-winter tour this season will mark its forty-second consecutive year. Its appearance in St. Louis is always the occasion of much entertaining, both before and after the performance, and is an important social event on the holiday social calendar.

As a musical show unique in setting and plot, "The Tiger Smiles" has drawn over 600 undergraduates of the University into competition for positions in the club.

The plot revolves around the leading character, Wilbur, a Nassau student of the easy-going, gay nineties, to be played by Joshua L. Logan of the class of 1931, Shreveport, La., president of the Triangle Club. At the conclusion of the first act he is stunned by a fall, and on waking, imagines himself the same undergraduate a century later. The effect of increasing concentration on studies and activities, in contrast to the haphazard customs depicted in the first act, lead to many amusing situations into which are woven a number of figures, institutions, customs and traditions of the university campus, and familiar to all Princetonians.

There will be several St. Louis men in the cast, including Dodge Crockett, Foy Waldron, Charles Claggett, Jack Curby and Albert G. Blanke Jr.

The book for the 1930-31 production has been written by Logan; Samuel H. Iams, '32 of Princeton, and Henry M. Kennedy, '32, of Trenton, N. J. The costume designs, recently completed under the direction of Charles N. Houghton, '31, of Indianapolis, chief technician, are the result of a survey of the modes of the mauve decade, following consultations with alumni who were in college at that time. The costumes for the second act are the creation of imagination and ingenuity of the designers plus a study of the changing trends in dress of the last century.

The officers of the Princeton Club of St. Louis are Dr. Selden P. Spencer, president; Dudley French, vice president; P. Taylor Bryan Jr., treasurer, and Austin P. Leland, secretary.

'Farmers' Festival' At G. T. Priest Farm

A MILD November day added to the success of a cleverly planned party yesterday when a "field day and farmers' festival" was held at the country place of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Priest, The Twin Oaks, near Jefferson Barracks. Mrs. Priest and Mrs. Clarkson Carpenter, 4934 Pershing avenue, were hostesses, and the party was in honor of Mrs. Priest's daughter, Miss Julia Rogers, and Miss Mary Francis Day, Miss Jane Perry Francis and Miss Louise Goddard, all this season's debutantes.

The debutantes in their smart out-of-door costumes with bright woolen jackets and gay berets contributed splashes of color for a scene laid against brown autumn fields, as they participated in a series of sports events. The guests of honor wore blue overalls with white blouses and white berets. Clarkson Carpenter with a beard and a wide-brimmed hat, with an immense white rock in his tie, announced the events. Garneau Weld managed the contests and Joseph Dickson, Mr. Priest and Carl J. Koehler were the judges. Flags marked the start and finish lines. Among the spectators on the sidelines were Mr. and Mrs. Ford Thompson, Miss Emily Isaacs, Mrs. Joseph Dickson, Mrs. Garneau Weld, Mrs. Carl J. Koehler, Mrs. Jane Parsons and others who were invited with the debutantes, second-year girls and their escorts. About 85 guests were present.

A buffet supper was served at the conclusion of the afternoon. The serving table was covered with a Thanksgiving cloth ornamented by turkeys and a large pumpkin pierced with candy rings on sticks formed the centerpiece.

The afternoon's events included a varied program starting with a bottle race and ending with "a lover's leap, with living models for prizes." For the first race rows of bottles filled with water were placed in a line and at an interval of 10 feet down the line was an empty bottle. The debutante who emptied and filled the bottles, spilling the least quantity of water, was the winner. Miss Margaret Vieths

'Farmers' Festival' At G. T. Priest Farm

A MILD November day added to the success of a cleverly planned party yesterday when a "field day and farmers' festival" was held at the country place of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Mrs. Priest and Mrs. Clarkson Carpanter, 4934 Pershing avenue, were hostesses, and the party was in honor of Mrs. Priest's daughter, Miss Julia Rogers, and Miss Mary Francis Day, Miss Jane Perry Francis and Miss Louise Goddard, all this season's debutantes.

The debutantes in their smart out-of-door costumes with bright woolen jackets and gay berets contributed splashes of color for a scene laid against brown autumn fields, as they participated in a series of sports events. The debutante who emptied and filled the bottles, spilling the least quantity of water, was the winner. Miss Margaret Vieths won first place, Miss Betty Rathmann second and Miss Louise Goddard third. Other events equally as interesting included potato races, three-legged races, sack races, 100-yard dash and egg races.

Between the events the guests listened to radio returns of the football games and after the buffet supper there were more games and dancing.

Social Calendar; Many Parties For Debutantes

Miss Louise Goddard and Miss Alice Hallett Among Those Who Will Be Introduced to Society This Week.

ENTERTAINMENT for the debutantes and prospective parties for the school set fill the social calendar with interesting events for the remainder of autumn and the early winter months. This week in addition to luncheons and small parties for the debutantes Miss Louise Augustine Goddard, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Goddard of Brentmoor, and special maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball will be presented to society at a ball her parents will give at their home Friday evening. The ball will be preceded by several dinners, among them one to be given by Miss Adeline Ely Smith at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Ely Smith, 5321 Waterman avenue, and another by Miss Betty Rathmann at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Rathmann, 6424 Cecil avenue.

Miss Alice Hallett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis B. Hallett, 59 Kingsbury place, will make her debut at a buffet supper this evening which her parents will give at their home. The serving table will be decorated in chrysanthemums in autumn shades and supper will be served at a number of smaller tables. About 50 guests will attend, among them a group of the debutantes and their escorts.

Tomorrow evening Miss Helen Schlafly, 4442 Lindell boulevard, will entertain at dinner at her home for her debutante niece, Miss Jane Allen Connett, the dinner to be followed by a theater party.

Tuesday two luncheons are scheduled. Miss Rathmann will be complimented at a luncheon for which Miss Frances Boogher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Boogher, 6241 Waterman avenue, will be hostess. Mrs. Lawrence B. Pierce, 16 Hortense place, will entertain at a bridge luncheon at her home Tuesday.

Wednesday Miss Connett will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be given by Mrs. Paul Schlafly of Grandview drive, East St. Louis. Mrs. F. A. Banister, 4915 Argyle place, will give a tea at her home the same afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. Friday evening the Fourth Friday Dancing Club will give its first dance of the season in the Tower Room of the Congress Hotel. Mrs. George B. Gannett is president, Palmer B. Baumes is secretary, and Edward H. Barstow is treasurer.

Saturday, Mrs. Frank W. Taylor Jr., 4399 McPherson avenue, will give a tea at her home from 4 to 6 o'clock for her daughter, Miss Mary Virginia Taylor. Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Durham Jr., 265 North Union boulevard, will give a small dinner at the Saturday evening dinner dance at the St. Louis Country Club for their niece, Miss Dorothy Hiden of Mobile, Ala., who is their guest.

Miss Jane Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burns, 30 Lenox place, will give a buffet supper Sunday evening, Nov. 30 in honor of Miss Amelia Overall, a debutante of the winter and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Overall. Sharing honors of the evening will be Miss Mary Robinson and Miss Peggy Millikin, both of Pittsburg, Pa., who will come to St. Louis to receive with their hostess at her debut ball at the St. Louis Country Club Thanksgiving eve. The young women were schoolmates of Miss Overall and Miss Burns at Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn.

Miss Mary Jane Baumes and Miss Mary Dana, debutantes, will share honors at a dinner dance at the St. Louis Country Club Saturday, Dec. 27, with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holmes of the St. Louis Country Club grounds as host and hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Elzey G. Burkham, 2 Westmoreland place, will give a dinner dance for their daughter, Miss Lois Burkham, Friday, Jan. 2. Miss Burkham is attending the Fermata School at Aiken, S. C.

Miss Nan Taussig Engaged To George Dumas Stout

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made of the engagement of Miss Nan Taussig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Primm Taussig of the Forest Park Hotel, to George Dumas Stout, son of Mrs. Joab P. Stout of Springfield, Ill. The announcement was made at a dinner given Wednesday evening by Miss Taussig's sister, Mrs. Benjamin S. Lang, at her home, 5965 Cabanne avenue, for a group of the prospective bride's close friends.

Miss Taussig was graduated from Mary Institute and Vassar College. Mr. Stout is a member of the English department of Washington University and has degrees from the University of Chicago, Harvard University and Oxford University, England. The wedding probably will take place this winter.

Miss Eleanor Whiting To Wed C. M. Skinner

AN engagement of much interest in St. Louis and Minneapolis, is that of Miss Eleanor Whiting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Whiting, 4201 Dupont avenue, South, Minneapolis, and Charles Mather Skinner II, Schenectady, N. Y., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse S. Skinner, 420 Oakwood avenue, Webster Park. The news was told last week in Minneapolis by Mr. and Mrs. Whiting.

The wedding, for which plans will be announced later, will take place Dec. 20 at St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Minneapolis.

Mr. Skinner will take his bride to Schenectady to reside temporarily.

Miss Beatrice Hawkins To Wed Ralph Kraus

THE marriage of Miss Beatrice Hawkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Hawkins, 631 East Monroe avenue, Kirkwood to Ralph Kraus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kraus, 3237 Longfellow boulevard, will take place tomorrow evening at Grace Episcopal Church at 8:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Francis J. Bloy, officiating.

The bride will wear a gown of ivory satin made on princesse lines with long close fitting sleeves. The skirt of the gown will form a train three yards in length. The veil of tulle will hang from an Elizabethan headdress formed of rose point lace an heirloom in the family, fastened with a madonna band of tulle. The bride will carry an arm bouquet of calla lilies.

The maid of honor will be her sister, Miss Marjorie Hawkins who will wear a frock of powder blue velvet made on the princesse lines with a short train just sweeping the floor. She will carry an arm bouquet of Joanna Hill roses. The bridesmaids will wear velvet frocks made like that of the maid of honor, Miss Erie Harsh in cameo blush velvet; Miss Anne Robinson in lavender and Miss Primrose Saylor of Baltimore in turquoise blue, and Miss Mary Barbara Worrall in canary yellow. All of them will carry arm bouquets of mixed flowers including African daisies and varicolored button chrysanthemums.

Mr. Kraus will have as his best man, George Tulley of St. Louis. The groomsmen will be Robert Coe, Albert Rudd, St. Louis; George Lockett Edwards, Jr., of Kansas City, Franklin and Saylor Lehman of Cincinnati.

A reception at the home of the bride's parents will follow the ceremony. The bride presented beaded evening bags to her attendants. Mr. Kraus gave his best man and the groomsmen military brushes.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kraus entertained Saturday evening at a dinner for the members of the bridal party. Miss Annie Robinson, daughter of Mrs. George Robinson, Argonne drive and Woodlawn avenupe, is entertaining this evening at a buffet supper following the rehearsal.

The bride attended a private school in Cincinnati, where she and her parents made their home until a few years ago. She is a graduate of Hosmer Hall, and attended Washington University from which Mr. Kraus was graduated.

E. S. Weil to Wed Miss Marion Appel

THE wedding of Miss Marion Appel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Appel, Cincinnati, and Eugene S. Weil, nephew of Mrs. Elias Michael, 4383 Westminster place, will take place at the Gibson Hotel in Cincinnati tomorrow evening. The bride will be attended by Mrs. Stewart Altschool, matron of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Louise Appel, a sister, Miss Irma Bottigheimer, Miss Bertha Louise Freiberg. Henry A. Weil of Baltimore will be best man and the groomsmen will be Lawrence H. Stern of St. Louis; Charles J. Greenebaum, Richard M. Gudeman, and Phillip A. Lieber of Chicago. Miss Appel is a graduate of Wellesley College and Mr. Weil a graduate of Washington University. The Weils will spend their honeymoon in Mexico and will reside in St. Louis.

Mrs. Michael departed Saturday for Cincinnati to attend the ceremony.

Whitens Skin Quickly and Safely Reduces Coarse Pores . . . Draws Out Blemishes, Discolorations, Gives a Marvelous "Lifting" and Youthifying Effect

HERE is an utterly new type of beauty treatment—recently introduced in Paris by Andrelys, one of the most famous skin specialists in France. Nothing like it has ever been known before—nor has anything ever been discovered which multiplies complexion beauty so amazingly and quickly.

Lemon-Magnesia Pack (as this new discovery is called) comes to you in the form of a white, delicate creme. Patted onto the face, it quickly transforms itself into a soft, pliable mass which freshens and tones the skin to unbelievable smoothness.

Immediately you feel a gentle lifting effect as sagging contours are corrected—crows' feet and surface wrinkles blended out. At the same time, dark, sallow skin is lightened two or three shades a new, safe way. While blemishes and blackheads are banished and coaxed away.

Secret French Process

The formula of this astonishing new pack is secret. But it is known that it contains lemon and magnesia, combined in such a way that their effectiveness is doubled and tripled. While a third rare ingredient stimulates natural skin metabolism to a surprising degree.

Thus Lemon-Magnesia Pack is not only a marvelous whitener and corrective, but a supercleanser as well. Through its use, pore impurities are dissolved—old dead cuticle is washed away—and the skin is enlivened and left glowing with youthfulness and delicate, natural color.

Try It Today!

Your first Lemon-Magnesia Pack treatment will give you a new beauty thrill. Try it today. See for yourself how amazingly it clears and refines the skin—how astonishingly it reduces conspicuous pores—how firm and smooth it leaves the contour of chin and throat.

Ask for Boncilla Lemon-Magnesia Pack at any good drug or department store. You will find it in generous jars at a dollar—jars which hold seven to nine treatments each. And if you are not amazed and delighted with results, your money will be refunded. Ask for it today.

No trouble, now, to have soft, easy-to-manage, lustrous hair!...

MODERN hair dressers add beauty to your hair by graceful lines and contours. It is just as important to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant, rich in color.

Millions of girls and women are doing this at home with the easy help of Danderine. It is so simple to use. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair. Instantly Danderine brings out the natural color of dingy, lifeless hair; makes it more sparkling and lustrous than brilliantine; makes it easy-to-manage. And it holds the hair in place for hours.

The consistent use of Danderine helps dissolve dandruff; helps stop falling hair; tends to make the hair grow long, silky and abundant. Five million bottles used a year is proof of its merit.

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

THE Education and the Science Sections of the Wednesday Club will hold one session each on Wednesday. The Education Section, Mrs. Anthony F. Ittner, chairman, at 10:30 a. m., and the Science Section, Mrs. A. Hite Bowman, chairman, at 1:30 p. m.

The subject for the year of the first section, Present-day Tendencies in American Education, includes training for aesthetic appreciation.

Miss Mary Powell, supervisor of education for the City Art Museum, will explain the educational program carried on by the Art Museum for all ages, children and adults. Miss Margery Doud, chief of department, readers advisory service of the St. Louis Public Library, will tell of the work of the library for all classes. Mrs. Charles M. Rice, honorary vice president, Women's Committee of the St. Louis Symphony Society, will present the program for trainnig in musical appreciation offered by the Symphony Society. The program is in charge of Mrs. Rhodes E. Cave as leader.

Following the club luncheon, Dr. Willard Bartlett will address the club on "Prehistoric Man." Dr. Bartlett's visits, beginning in 1907, to the Megalithic remains of South Brittany, the American Mounds, the Cliff and Cave dwellings of our own Southwest and the Maya Ruins in Central America, stimulated an inherent interest in the story of the human race from its beginning 1,000,000 years ago.

The Current Science Review will be given by Miss Margaret Shapleigh, "The Aristocrat of the Dinner Table"—and Mrs. Philemon C. Frayser "A Synthetic Future?" Mrs. George N. Seidlitz is leader of the day.

Three prizes have been offered by the State Fine Arts Department of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. Frederick B. Hall is chairman. The first, an oil painting by a Missouri artist, is offered to the club presenting the best art program in the community. The second, $10, is offered the literature chairman sending in the best list of 100 books of interest to club women. The third, $25, for the Missouri club woman sending in the best short play suitable for presentation by clubs. The lists and plays should be sent Mrs. Ruth Kelso Renfrow before March 15.

The regular meeting of the executive board of the Eighth District of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, will be held at 10:30 a. m. Wednesday at the Town Club. Mrs. F. H. Littlefield, the president, will conduct the meeting.

The Education committee, Mrs. Arthur E. Krueger, chairman will meet at 10:30 a. m. Thursday at the commercial division of the Hadley Vocational school, Lake and Waterman avenues, where a talk will be given by Prof. T. E. Spencer, principal of the school. Luncheon may be had at the school and in the afternoon the committee will visit the Industrial Art division at 3325 Bell avenue, where a tour of the school will be conducted by Miss Anita Moore.

The Board of Managers of the St. Louis College Club will hold its meeting Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock at the clubhouse.

The Child Study group will meet Tuesday at 1:30 o'clock when Mrs. Leland Jones will discuss "Neurotic and Moody Types of Personality." Members of the group will present case histories for classification.

Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock members of the club will hear Dr. Alice Gipson, dean at Lindenwood College, who will base her talk upon her recent magazine publication, "Silence." The program is sponsored by the Literature Committee. Mrs. Henry A. Fett and Miss Florence Runge will be hostesses, assisted by Mrs. James Edgar Baker, Miss Lyda Long, Mrs. Carl F. Vohs and Miss Paula Wilhelmi.

The Vocational Opportunities Committee will serve tea to the high school students Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Rowena Cullin will address the group on Interior Decorating.

The French Study group will hold its next meeting on Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. The works of Henry Bordeaux will be discussed, in particular "Valombre," his latest novel. Miss Mary Trail will discuss the works of Bordeaux, Miss Julia Randall his life, and Mrs. Phillips W. Moss the story of "Valombre."

The Dramatic Art Section of Scottish Rite Woman's Club will meet Tuesday at 1 p. m., in the lounge of Scottish Rite Cathedral, with the chairman, Mrs. John A. Hillman, presiding. Mrs. Arthur J. Burr, leader of the day, will present "The First Thanksgiving Dinner," a short play by Marjorie Benton Cooke. The following members will assist in reading the play: Mrs. John Guhl, Mrs. E. R. Brown, Mrs. Phin Kimball, Miss Elsa Breckenridge, Mrs. Fuqua Turner, Mrs. Orfe Leon Herlinger, Mrs. John O. Goldsmith, Mrs. Harry Wiese, Mrs. William Jack, Mrs. Arthur L. McGuire and Mrs. William L. Hulburd. Mrs. Elizabeth Fitzroy, guest artist, will sing a group of Thanksgiving songs. Preceding the meeting, an informal box luncheon will take place at noon, with the following hostesses in charge: Miss Dorothy Rapp, Mrs. R. C. Fagley, Mrs. H. E. Manker, Mrs. Frank Walker and Mrs. Arthur L. McGuire.

The Music Section will meet Friday at 10 a. m. Prof. Wade O. Fallert will continue the series of lectures, followed by choral rehearsal. Mrs. August Henke, chairman, will preside at the business session.

The League of American Pen Women, St. Louis branch, will hold its monthly meeting at Hotel Statler, in the Daniel Boone room, Friday, at 2 p. m.

Flora Mae Howard will review her story, "The Creation of a Croesus," which recently received second honorable mention in the Mary Cornelius White short story contest. There will also be a review of "What Was the Matter?" by Alice Curtice Moyer-Wing, which received first honorable mention, and a reading of the poem, "The Woman in Red," by Clara Tull Martin, which received first honorable mention in the poetry contest.

A business meeting, for members, will be held at 1 p. m., preceding the meeting, to vote on a change of by-laws of the local chapter to conform to the by-laws of the national organization in Washington, D. C. Mrs. J. Leyden White, president of the local branch, will preside at the meetings.

Actress Tells Secret

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken grey, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN'S CLUBS

The Froebel School Mothers' Circle will meet at the school Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

The St. Louis Study Club met at the home of Mrs. William Ehlers, 5874 Clemens avenue, Monday. Mrs. C. H. Magruder gave the current topics and Mrs. C. A. Moreno reviewed "South Wind" by Norman Douglas. Mrs. J. F. Kidd read a paper on "Emily Dickerson."

Miss Maria Regnier, director of the St. Louis Business and Professional Women's Club, will speak before the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Club at the International Relations dinner meeting Tuesday, Nov. 18, which will be given at the Y. M. C. A. in Granite City. Miss Regnier will speak on the "Tribulations and Trials of the Foreign Woman Entering American Business Life." She, a native of Hungary, has been in the United States nine years.

The University High School Mothers' Club will meet for a cafeteria luncheon at 1 p. m. tomorrow at the Senior High School. Mrs. C. P. Barnes, chairman of the Hospitality Committee, has planned a social hour preceding the business meeting.

The Better Films Committee of St. Louis has invited Dr. Clinton Wunder, executive manager of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, Hollywood, Cal., to speak on this subject, and the Rev. George M. Gibson of Webster Groves, to talk on better motion pictures for St. Louis.

All women interested in better films for St. Louis may hear these lectures Tuesday morning at 10:30 o'clock at Vandervoort's Auditorium.

The Book Club met last Monday at the home of Mrs. J. N. Brannock, 6157 Pershing avenue. The president, Mrs. Robert Rutlege, presided. The program, "Some Romantic Chapters in Our Country's History," concerned the Franciscan missions on the Pacific slope, beginning with the founding of the first mission in San Diego in 1769.

Bailey Circle No. 170 of the National Circle Daughters of Isabella will hold its next meeting tomorrow night at 3917 Lindell boulevard.

"Olden Golden Days" will be given by the Bailey Dramatic Club Tuesday at the Knights of Columbus ballroom, 3917 Lindell boulevard. The proceeds of this entertainment will be used for charitable purposes.

Woman's Auxiliary No. 29, to Typographical Union No. 8, will have its monthly business meeting Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 p. m., at headquarters, 3745 West Pine boulevard. Following the meeting there will be cards.

The regular November meeting of Alhambra Grotto's Auxiliary will be held at Alhambra Grotto tomorrow at 8 p. m., Mrs. Julia Faulstich presiding.

The Roe Mothers' Circle will hold its monthly meeting Thursday, Nov. 21, at 2:30 p. m. The speakers will be Mrs. Charles Lambur, president of the St. Louis Council of the Parents and Teachers, Mrs. J. O. Johnson, and Mrs. F. W. Geisler, all of whom attended the convention. Roe was one of the two St. Louis Schools to be awarded the State and National Standard of Excellence at the convention.

Agnes Ruth Hoffinger, president of St. Louis Tercentenary Society, will deliver a public lecture on "The Two Gentlemen of Verona," at the regular weekly meeting tomorrow at 2 p. m. in Vandervoort's Music Hall. Madame Clara E. Thoms, music chairman, will present Ruth Miller, soprano, and Jack Colemen, tenor, in a cycle of Shakspeare songs. Mrs. William Watt Spear, chairman; Mrs. A. G. Barre and Mrs. E. A. Steininger of the audience committee will receive members and visitors.

The Right Rev. P. P. Crane will discuss "The King of Infinite Space" at the Nov. 24 public program.

Another open house meeting of the International Institute will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at 3833 Delmar boulevard.

The Confederate Dames Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy met at the home of Mrs. Lon Sanders, Nov. 10, and elected the following officers: Mrs. C. B. Faris, president; Mrs. J. T. Dyer, first vice president; Mrs. R. M. Tipton, second vice president; Mrs. E. C. Fisher, third vice president; Mrs. I. P. Morton, treasurer; Mrs. W. W. Henderson, recording secretary; Mrs. Minor Hall, corresponding secretary; Mrs. George Trawick, registrar; Mrs. D. E. Woods, historian; Mrs. C. A. Moreno, chairman of hospitality; Mrs. Egbert Smith, chairman of veterans', Mrs. Paul Brown, chairman of education, and Mrs. Ivan Lee Holt, chairman of publicity committee.

The regular monthly meeting of the St. Louis Story Tellers' League will be held at the Cabanne Library Thursday at 8 p. m.. Carrying out the world friendship theme Miss Betty McGuire will tell stories representative of England, Ireland, France, Norway and India.

Armand R. Miller of the Harris Teachers College will speak at the Young Women's Christian Association, 1411 Locust street, on Friday, at 8 p. m. The subject of his talk will be "Our Debt to Chemistry."

"What to Look for in Sculpture" will be the subject of Miss Mary Powell's last Art Appreciation talk at the Young Women's Christian Association, 1411 Locust, on Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Miss Marguerite B. Johnston, psychologist for the Board of Edu-

Lieut. August E. Schanze and Lieut Welborn B. Griffith Jr. flew to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., where they spent the week-end. Lieut. Schanze was the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Schanze, of Leavenworth, Kan., while Lieut. Griffith visited his wife and her parents, Maj. and Mrs. Daniel H. Torrey of that post.

Mrs. Sherman P. Walker was hostess at luncheon and bridge at her quarters on Wednesday afternoon. Seated at the table were Mrs. Pegram Whitworth, Miss Elizabeth Underwood, Mrs. Joseph L. Connolly, Mrs. Richard M. Sandusky, Mrs. Nathaniel Jones, Mrs. John D. Eason and Mrs. Walker's sister, Mrs. Alexander, of St. Louis.

Lieut. Brendan M. Greeley departed this week for Fort Riley, Kan., where on Nov. 19 he will marry Miss Marion Morgan, daughter of Col. and Mrs. John M. Morgan of that post.

On Friday evening the entire command of officers and ladies attended the post hop at the Officers' Club. The ballroom was attractively decorated with autumn foliage.

Mrs. Raymond W. Odor was hostess at a birthday party last week complimenting her young daughter, Helen Agnes. Those invited were Rose Marie Sunstone, Nancy and Jean Sutherland, Niva and Elinor Trett, John Judd, Aubrey Bassett, Patricia Louise and Peggy Grace Higgins, Arthur and Andrew Underwood, Peggy Tipton, Anita and Billy McGrange, Mary Janet Hall and John Krietz.

Mrs. Welborn B. Griffith Jr. returned to Jefferson Barracks Thursday after a short visit at the home of her parents, Maj. and Mrs. Daniel H. L. Torrey of Fort Leavenworth, Kan. [illegible]

EX-ST. LOUIS SCULPTOR WINS LOGAN PRIZE

Heinz Warnecke Takes Principal Award in American Exhibition at Chicago.

The principal award in the forty-third annual American exhibition at the Chicago Institute of Fine Arts, it was announced yesterday, was won by Heinz Warnecke, former St. Louisan, whose sculpture is internationally known.

Warnecke's award was the Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan gold medal and $2500, an outstanding distinction in American art. The award had never been won before by a sculptor.

The sculptor's studio on Delmar boulevard a few years ago was a meeting place of St. Louisans of liberal tastes. Warnecke and his works, from the rude strength of his "Resting Workman" down to his quaint, diminutive bronze caricature of his pet dachshund, are familiar to hundreds here. He removed to New York in 1927.

His prize-winning work in the Chicago exhibition is described by connoisseurs there as "ranking with the best of American sculpture." It is a fountain figure, about five feet tall, in a stone like Tennessee marble, of a kneeling woman about to rise with a water jar.

"Warnecke," said a member of the institute staff, "has managed to gain a beautiful effect of smooth, round forms and melting contours without sacrificing stability of design. The piece reflects slightly the influence of contemporary French sculptors, Maillol, perhaps, but is more frankly decorative."

The figure has been placed at the entrance to the exhibition galleries. Critics have elaborated on its "gracious spirit and simplicity of effect," and commented that, "as always, the workmanship is remarkable."

St. Louis acquaintances regard that technical skill as the natural consequence of Warnecke's arduous but voluntary factory apprenticeship in Germany. He was born in Bremen in 1895, and studied at the Berlin Academy of Fine Arts.

He arrived in St. Louis in 1923 and immediately attracted notice with his carvings in brass and wood, mostly of animals, decorative but significant and lucid. In the following year he won the sculpture prize at the Artists' Guild and in 1925 he took the prize for the best work of art in the guild-show.

SALE OF CHRISTMAS HEALTH SEALS WILL BEGIN ON DEC. 1

St. Louis Organization Defers Appeal for Support Until After Community Fund Campaign.

The twenty-fourth annual sale of Christmas Health Seals will be conducted here from Dec. 1 until Christmas eve, John C. Tobin, president of the Tuberculosis and Health Society, has announced.

In former years the sale opened at an earlier date, but at a recent meeting of the board of directors it was decided ot delay the sale unitl after the Community Fund campaign closed. The society is not a member of the Community Fund and receives no revenue from it.

More than $80,000 was raised by the sale fo Christmas Health Seals in St. Louis last year, Tobin said, this money being the chief revenue for the society and financing the all-year disease prevention and health promotion program in St. Louis and St. Louis County.

This year, because illness tends to increase in relation to business depression and unemployment, the income must be increased to care for a greater burden, according to Tobin. The calls upon all departments of the health organization have increased. In the open air schools alone, where meals for malnourished children are provided, an increase of 49 per cent has been noted this year over 1929, he pointed out.

The principal method of selling Christmas Seals will be by mail, although some personal solicitations are to be made.

PUBLIC LIBRARY TO MARK BOOK WEEK FOR CHILDREN

Special Activities to Increase Interest in Reading Planned at All Branches.

The twelfth annual Book Week of the Children's Department of the Public Library will be celebrated this week with a number of varied activities at each of the branch libraries, intended to increase interest in books.

There will be puppet shows at the Carpenter, Stix and Crunden branches, special story hours and book-talks at the Benton, Divoll, Cabanne and Buder branches, a "Bookland Village" at the Carondelet branch, balloting for favorite titles at a number of other branches, and a number of specially-devised games and contests at each of the libraries.

A Christmas list of the best books for children has been prepared and may be obtained at any of the branches with copies of the books for examination.

To Lecture on Oriental Tour.

Samuel Rosenkranz, teacher of English at Roosevelt High School, will speak on his travels in the Orient Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 o'clock at City Art Museum in Forest Park. Lantern slides made from photographs taken by himself will illustrate the lecture.

Speaker From Berlin.

A Douglas Cook, Assistant Trade Commissioner at Berlin, Germany, will address the Chamber of Commerce Foreign Trade Bureau at Hotel Mayfair at 12:15 p. m. Friday.

TWO CONVICTIONS, 21 PLEAD GUILTY IN WEEK

White Man and Negro, Tried Under Henry Law, Get 3 and 10-Year Terms.

Three jury trials were held in the criminal divisions of Circuit Court last week, resulting in two convictions and an acquittal.

The convicted men were Joe Bluiett, Negro, of 2212 Morgan street and Gorman Craig, 416 Sidney street. Both were charged under the Henry law, which provides severe punishment for persons committing or attempting robbery with a deadly weapon. Bluiett was given a 10-year sentence, which was minimum punishment for robbery.

Craig, who had attempted a robbery at the point of a gun, was given a 3-year sentence after one of the longest robbery trials that has been held in St. Louis in years. The defense prepared an elaborate alibi in an attempt to free him but Armistice day intervend and afforded the State time to check on the accuracy of the alibi witnesses.

Assistant Circuit Attorney William B. Flynn did not believe the testimony of John B. Sullivan, a freight handler, and several of his women friends, and additional witnesses who had attended a party on June 28, were located. Their stories did not coincide with the testimony of Sullivan and his friends. After assessing three years prison servitude against Craig, Prosecutor Flynn ordered Sullivan's arrest. He confessed to having framed Craig's alibi. A warrant was issued, charging perjury.

Rather than take chances before juries many entered pleas of guilty and took penitentiary punishment. These were: Charles Kick, robbery, five years; Joseph Ford, burglary, second degree, and larceny, three concurrent terms of six years; Dan Williams, robbery, five years; Earl Sampson, forgery of an endorsement, 2 years, paroled to report in court for three years; William O'Leary, larceny of a motor vehicle, two years; Robert Clark, burglary, second degree, two years; Edward Smith, burglary, second degree, concurrent terms of two years; Dallas Cooper, manslaughter, five years, and William A. Davis, larceny of motor vehicle, two years.

Those charged with major crimes who were permitted to plead to crimes of lesser degree and take less penitentiary punishment were: Henry Young, driving automobile while intoxicated, $50 and costs; Leroy Foster, petit larceny, one year workhouse; James Walker, assault to ravish, one year workhouse; Jacob Martin, malicious trespass, one year workhouse; Lulu Supenbeck, keeping bawdy house, $300 and costs; Ben Woodfort, and James Cook, carrying concealed weapons, $100 and costs; William Ryland, larceny of a motor vehicle, six months workhouse; Thomas Tillotson and Ralph Frillman, larceny of motor vehicle, 60 days workhouse; Leroy Freeman, petit larceny, 90 days workhouse, and Bernard Oliver, petit larceny, 60 days workhouse.

Cases against James Dunivan and Joseph Hale, charged with larceny of automobiles, and against Floyd Atchison, charged with embezzlement by bailee, were dismissed because of insufficient evidence.

TAX AGENT SAYS CAPONE AID FORGOT $134,500 IN CHECKS

Testifies for U. S. at Jack Guzik's Trial for Evading Income Payments.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Jack Guzik, reputed business manager of Al Capone's gang, failed to recall 30 checks for a total of $134,500, a Government witness said today in Guzik's trial for evading U. S. income taxes.

W. C. Hodgins, special agent of the Internal Revenue Bureau, told of showing Guzik the checks last February and of Guzik's failing to remember them. They must have been in connection with gambling, Hodgins said the gangster told him.

Neither could Guzik remember receiving a check for $5000 from the Chicago Business Men's Racing Association, which he indorsed in August, 1927.

The witness said he asked Guzik for further information concerning his income. The gangster promised to "take under advisement" Hodgins' request, but never furnished the information. Guzik's method of figuring his income for the Government return, Hodgins said, was to deduct from $5000 to $7000 for his annual living expenses and whatever remained at the end of the year he counted his income.

The defense is expected to begin introduction of its case Monday.

E. D. Kelting Arrested on County Warrant After Police Find Car at 2651 Lafayette Avenue.

Edwin D. Kelting, proprietor of a garage at 2651 Lafayette avenue, was held by St. Louis County authorities yesterday on a warrant charging possession of a stolen automobile, after St. Louis police had discovered at his garage an automobile which they say was stolen from C. Murt Smith, 335 North Meramec avenue, Clayton, a month ago.

Kelting, who lives at 3360 South Jefferson avenue, and who was at one time a Deputy Constable of Central Township, St. Louis County, under former Constable George Roth, was fined $300 in March, 1929, at Clayton for mistreatment of an alleged speeder whom he arrested. He declined to make a statement concerning the presence of Smith's automobile in his garage.

"We like it!"
said FRANCES, PHILIP and ANN
● triplets, age 2 years, 3 months

GROWN-UPS! Try this pleasant way to fight off colds and other winter ills.

● more proof that children take cod-liver oil willingly—this emulsified way

AMAZING!—yet it's true. Here is proof—real living proof that there is a way to make children take cod-liver oil—without a struggle.

Recently a Scott's Emulsion reporter called on Mrs. A. Gentily, 11 Wheeler St., Montclair, N. J., mother of the lovely triplets pictured here.

"Yes," she told us brightly, "I certainly do know how hard it is to make children take cod-liver oil. And I'll be glad to have my triplets try Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil" . . . Each youngster took a spoonful. "It's good," said Philip. "I like it," said Frances. "Nice," said Ann.

Pleasanter to take—but that isn't all!

Pale, thin, run-down children—they need cod-liver oil. Give it to them the pleasantest way—give them Scott's Emulsion.

Scott's Emulsion hasn't that strong "fishy" taste. It doesn't upset even delicate stomachs. It brings you purest, Norwegian cod-liver oil in its pleasantest form—a perfect emulsion. A form that makes it easier to take—easier to digest. Almost immediately, the body absorbs the health-giving vitamins—and the assimilation is complete. You get more good out of Scott's Emulsion and you feel the benefits quicker.

Scott's Emulsion is rich in vitamin A, the disease-resisting vitamin. It is rich in vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin that prevents rickets. It also contains vital mineral elements that aid in forming sound bones and teeth. This gives Scott's Emulsion a special advantage for growing children, infants, nursing and expectant mothers. Get Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil to-day, at your druggist's. Watch cheeks grow rosy. See youngsters g[illegible] new weight and pep.

LIVESTOCK TRADING ON THE BASIS OF "MARKING TICKET"

DRAFTS HELD UP, CREDIT TO PACKERS

Manager of Branch of Farm Board Co-operative Testifies to Borrowing $100,000 of Federal Funds.

The Department of Agriculture inquiry into charges that two co-operatives sponsored by the Federal Farm Board have been boycotted by East Side livestock dealers and the Farmers' Livestock Commission Co., another co-operative, will enter its tenth day when the hearing is resumed tomorrow in Ainad Temple, East St. Louis.

Sessions are to be transferred from the Federal Building because of the opening of Federal court.

The hearing has been prolonged, and is expected to last for more than another week because the defendants, for most part, will not deny refusing to trade with the co-operatives. They will base their defense on the contention that the Farm Board organization of co-operatives is illegal and on the allegation that the two members of the organization which operate in the St. Louis market, the Producers' Livestock Commission Co., and the National Order Buying Co., have indulged in illegal marketing practices. This has made necessary extensive inquiry into the nature of the organization and its methods of operation.

One practice admitted by Government witnesses, under cross-examination, was that the two companies traded in livestock on the basis of "marking the ticket", a procedure condemned by the Department of Agriculture in an order directed against Buffalo commission men in 1927. In such deals the price is not fixed at the time the sale is made, being marked in later after the market value has been established.

Discrimination Alleged.

Wallace Potts, manager of the National Order Buying Co. branch in St. Louis, testified yesterday that this method "left the way open," for the man who marked the ticket to discriminate unfairly against other agencies on the market. In deals with his company, he said, the Producers' agent marked the ticket. Recalling that the National company had lost $7000 during August, the first month it operated on this market, W. M. Borders Jr. of defense counsel, inquired whether the Producers' agent had "treated it right" in marking the tickets.

"I was not satisfied," Potts replied. "It may be that they were treating me right and I didn't know it." The Producers' company is a stockholder in the National company, and both are members of the Farm Board's National Livestock Marketing Association. In addition, there is an agreement that the Producers' company will receive any profits made by the National company on the St. Louis market, and in return will assume any loss up to $20,000.

Potts testified that $2900 of the loss during August was occasioned by the fact that the National company was unable to buy enough light hogs on the St. Louis market during that month, and obtained them on other markets. All of the livestock sold that month by the National company brought $3100 less than the company paid for it, he testified.

Says Drafts Were Held Up.

Potts testified that on some occasions the National company had withheld drafts on shipments to Eastern packers for several days, the effect being to extend credit to the packers for the period the drafts were held up. They are honored as cash when deposited in banks. "That is one way of holding the favor of the packers?" Borders asked. "It is," the witness replied.

"And to the extent that you do that you are allowing packers to do business on your money?" Borders continued. Potts answered that it was, "in a way."

"And your money is money borrowed from the Farm Board at 1½ per cent?" Borders asked. The witness did not know, he said.

F. G. Ketner, manager of the National Order Buying Co., had testified previously that his company, which has capital and surplus of $70,000, had borrowed $100,000 from the Farm Board through the National Livestock Marketing Association. Counsel for the Government objected when he was asked for the rate of interest specified and the question went unanswered.

Flamin' Mae Here

Brings Her Own Play, "Sex," to the Shubert Tonight — Shuberts Make Mary Hart an Offer to Run More Stock Companies — Banky and La Rocque and "Topaze" Come Next Week.

THE American Theater takes a turn at being dark this week, resting on its honors resulting from the presentation of "The Apple Cart" and preparing for the advent next Sunday night of Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque, the movie stars gone legit, in "Cherries Are Ripe." Unlike the recent opus offered by Little Colleen Moore, this play is said to be a good one, and Miss Banky and La Rocque are really scheduled to take it into New York. Miss Moore's show, incidentally, will give up the ghost next Saturday night in Louisville, and the star is to return to Hollywood and make another picture.

Tonight the Shubert is to have the tempestuous Mae West in a drama of her own writing called "Sex." According to all reports, it is the sort of piece which will appeal to Sunday night audiences.

The Orpheum continues with its production of "The Command to Love," with Rollo Peters, Beverly Bayne and Shirley Booth leading Mary Hart's resident company. Next week, with a fresh batch of visiting stars, the theater will start a two weeks' run of "June Moon," a most pleasing comedy, which was seen here last season.

MISS HART'S fame and the fame of the venture at the Orpheum, where, in one of the theater's worst seasons, business has been enormous, have spread to New York. Last week she received from the Shubert offices an offer to take over Shubert theaters in Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit to be run as the Orpheum is run here—with a resident company and visiting artists for each production.

The Shuberts went further, and announced that if Miss Hart would accept the management of the houses they would turn over to her the rights of some very successful plays, naming, among others, "Topaze," "Up Pops the Devil," "Bird in Hand," "Young Sinners" and "Death Takes a Holiday."

Miss Hart has the matter under advisement, but her success with the Orpheum is so pronounced that she will probably be content with what she has in hand.

Without doubt, with road costs what they are, the Shuberts would be glad to establish a chain of stock companies around the country where New York plays could be sent, with one or two members of the original cast, the scenery to be supplied by the local houses.

"Topaze," "Death Takes a Holiday" and "Young Sinners," which were offered Miss Hart for other cities, are to come here, with their original casts to the Shubert, "Topaze" being booked to follow Mae West's drama next week.

SOMETHING of a sensation in New York, where it attracted the attention of the police, among others, Mae West's "Sex," coming to the Shubert tonight, moved to Chicago, where it is said to have scored for 17 sellout weeks. No other show in Chicago in a year has touched that mark, and having achieved that, the Flamin' Mae laid out a tour which will confine her to "Sex" for the rest of the season. She was to open in a new piece, "Her Man," on Broadway next month, but "Sex," with its continued drawing power, earns first call.

Barry O'Neill, who played with Mae West through the Broadway run of "Sex," continues as leading man. O'Neill last toured with Francine Larrimore in "Let Us Be Gay," and before that was the handsome hero opposite the late Jeanne Eagels in "Cardboard Lover." Miss West is also the author as well as the star of the present piece. The story of "Sex" revolves around one Margie, who has been termed, 'a bad little girl who was good to the navy."

THE two widely-known screen stars, Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque, who are making their first joint appearance in person on the legitimate stage under the banner of Arch Selwyn, in a new comedy by John Emerson and Anita Loos, entitled "Cherries Are Ripe," will be seen at the American Theater beginning next Sunday night.

And a week from tomorrow night at the Shubert Theater Lee Shubert will present his newest star, Frank Morgan in "Topaze," a deliciously brilliant contribution from the French by Marcel Pagnol and adapted for the English-speaking stage by Benn W. Levy. This unique play has the distinction of being at present presented in 32 cities in Europe and the Orient and of making in this country one of the most distinctive comedy hits of this decade.

Flamin' Mae Here

Brings Her Own Play, "Sex," to the Shubert Tonight — Shuberts Make Mary Hart an Offer to Run More Stock Companies — Banky and La Rocque and "Topaze" Come Next Week.

THE American Theater takes a turn at being dark this week, resting on its honors resulting from the presentation of "The Apple Cart" and preparing for the advent next Sunday night of Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque, the movie stars gone legit, in "Cherries Are Ripe." Unlike the recent opus offered by Little Colleen Moore, this play is said to be a good one, and Miss Banky and La Rocque are really scheduled to take it into New York. Miss Moore's show, incidentally, will give up the ghost next Saturday night in Louisville, and the star is to return to Hollywood and make another picture.

Tonight the Shubert is to have the tempestuous Mae West in a drama of her own writing called "Sex." According to all reports, it is the sort of piece which will appeal to Sunday night audiences.

The Orpheum continues with its production of "The Command to Love," with Rollo Peters, Beverly Bayne and Shirley Booth leading Mary Hart's resident company. Next week, with a fresh batch of visiting stars, the theater will start a two weeks' run of "June Moon," a most pleasing comedy, which was seen here last season.

MISS HART'S fame and the fame of the venture at the Orpheum, where, in one of the theater's worst seasons, business has been enormous, have spread to New York. Last week she received from the Shubert offices an offer to take over Shubert theaters in Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit to be run as the Orpheum is run here—with a resident company and visiting artists for each production.

The Shuberts went further, and announced that if Miss Hart would accept the management of the houses they would turn over to her the rights of some very successful plays, naming, among others, "Topaze," "Up Pops the Devil," "Bird in Hand," "Young Sinners" and "Death Takes a Holiday."

Miss Hart has the matter under advisement, but her success with the Orpheum is so pronounced that she will probably be content with what she has in hand.

Without doubt, with road costs what they are, the Shuberts would be glad to establish a chain of stock companies around the country where New York plays could be sent, with one or two members of the original cast, the scenery to be supplied by the local houses.

"Topaze," "Death Takes a Holiday" and "Young Sinners," which were offered Miss Hart for other cities, are to come here, with their original casts to the Shubert, "Topaze" being booked to follow Mae West's drama next week.

SOMETHING of a sensation in New York, where it attracted the attention of the police, among others, Mae West's "Sex," coming to the Shubert tonight, moved to Chicago, where it is said to have scored for 17 sellout weeks. No other show in Chicago in a year has touched that mark, and having achieved that, the Flamin' Mae laid out a tour which will confine her to "Sex" for the rest of the season. She was to open in a new piece, "Her Man," on Broadway next month, but "Sex," with its continued drawing power, earns first call.

Barry O'Neill, who played with Mae West through the Broadway run of "Sex," continues as leading man. O'Neill last toured with Francine Larrimore in "Let Us Be Gay," and before that was the handsome hero opposite the late Jeanne Eagels in "Cardboard Lover." Miss West is also the author as well as the star of the present piece. The story of "Sex" revolves around one Margie, who has been termed, 'a bad little girl who was good to the navy."

THE two widely-known screen stars, Vilma Banky and Rod La Rocque, who are making their first joint appearance in person on the legitimate stage under the banner of Arch Selwyn, in a new comedy by John Emerson and Anita Loos, entitled "Cherries Are Ripe," will be seen at the American Theater beginning next Sunday night.

And a week from tomorrow night at the Shubert Theater Lee Shubert will present his newest star, Frank Morgan in "Topaze," a deliciously brilliant contribution from the French by Marcel Pagnol and adapted for the English-speaking stage by Benn W. Levy. This unique play has the distinction of being at present presented in 22 cities in Europe and the Orient and of making in this country one of the most distinctive comedy hits of this decade.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.

VAGRANT thought: All the unhappiness of my life has come from not facing trouble squarely as it arises.

The best of the Pancho Villa books to my notion is: "Here Comes Pancho Villa," by Louis Stevens, published by Stokes. It is a fascinating story of the last of the desperadoes.

I wonder if others also stall around before getting the first shock of a cold shower. I do anything from washing toilet water bottles to fixing window curtains to delay the first twist of the faucet.

Some day I wish a press agent would send me an absolutely true story of the understudy rushing into the star's part and making a mess of it. I'll print every line.

Kenyon Nicholson's laughable play, "Eva the Fifth," had a short run. It dealt with the old time of traveling Tom Show. The younger generation did not get it at all. The Tom Show was unknown to them.

Short shavings: Raoul Walsh lost an eye in a motor accident and decided he was through as a director....Winnie Sheehan persuaded him to carry on and his most notable achievements followed....Byron Chandler, famous Broadway playboy, is doing that street again....Gilda Gray learned to read after 20 from children's story books....George Earnshaw, Philadelphia's star pitcher, is in the Philadelphia social register....Duke Ellington, the colored orchestra leader, has the most elegantly furnished home in Harlem....Julius Tannen's name is Tannenbaum....Ramon Novarro once studied for priesthood....Marie Cahill returns to Broadway in a revue....Gloria Swanson has innumerable bathing suits but cannot swim....Imagine the poor souls who have tried to get justice in a New York court!....The Little Theater is the only playhouse in town with a between acts tea room ....A new play title is: "The Hot Air-ess"....George M. Cohan only waved a flag in one play....But has never been able to live it down....The hotel where "Legs" Diamond faced machine bullets is advertised as "A place for those seeking quiet"....H. N. Swanson is America's youngest magazine editor....He edits College Humor

The German Company In a Musical Comedy

"The Matter Which One Calls Love," by Horst Wegner, is the title of a musical comedy which will be given tonight by the German Theater Stock Company in the German House Auditorium, 2345 Lafayette avenue. This comedy was first given in Berlin and was so successful that it ran one entire season.

Pleasing orchestra music, many songs and much dancing by the chorus are some of the reasons why this comedy became so popular in Germany. The entire membership of the German Theater Stock Company will have parts.

Catholic Guild Play "Bab," for This Week

The St. Louis Catholic Theater Guild tomorrow night will present "Bab" as the second of a series of seven plays to be presented at the St. Louis University auditorium during the season. The play will continue until next Friday night.

"Bab," taken from the novel of Mary Roberts Rinehart, is a farcical comedy in four acts. The cast is made up of amateurs representing the entire city Catholic parishes.

Loew Circuit Books "Hell's Angels" Film

Loew's theaters throughout the country will present the much-discussed "Hell's Angels" picture at popular prices instead of at the $2 road-show scale as was the original plan. "Hell's Angels" will be shown at the local Loew theater starting Friday, Nov. 28. It is still being shown at two theaters simultaneously in New York City.

At various times "Hell's Angels" was announced as a coming attraction for either the Shubert or the American theater here but the producers evidently found that this was no season for a picture at a $2 admission charge.

Webster Players in "The Barker."

"The Barker," Kenyon Nicholson's three-act play of carnival life, will be presented next Saturday, Nov. 22, by the Webster Groves Theater Guild, at the high school auditorium. Frank Buckner and Mrs. A. L. Bickmore will play the leading roles created several seasons ago in New York by Walter Huston, now of the talkies, and Eleanor Williams. They will be supported by Dr. A. M. Alden, Betty Broder, David Cobb, Alice Spaulding, George Perkins, Dean Ellinger, Gene Finkenauer, Ed Cobb, Charles Rumson Bates and Betty Alden.

Heroes and Heroines on View in the Cinema Houses

Norma Talmadge in "Du Barry," at Loew's.

So You're a Leading Man

By DAVID MANNERS

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 15.

YES, I'm a leading man. To which you may say, "Well, what of it? That isn't so tough. . . . being a leading man in pictures, kissing pretty girls, knocking out the villain, and drawing a comfortable salary for it, too."

To which I might answer: "Fair enough!"

But, as a matter of fact, the fashion in leading men has undergone a most welcome change in recent years. In those heroic days when the celluloid infant was in its purest form of infancy a leading man was a titan of masculinity. He flaunted an astounding head of hair, he rolled heavily mascaraed eyes at the heroine, his virgin white shirt was open at the throat showing an amazing expanse of manly chest—and he could do no wrong!

Now in the wicked 1930's, the celluloid hero has thrown aside all of his early inhibitions which were a veritable combination of the characteristics of Peter Pan and Hercules under the influence of a merger. The leading man has emerged from the barber shop with shorn locks. Sometimes when you see him on the screen he needs a shave. Sometimes his face is dirty. And, horror of horrors, sometimes he makes his entrance on the screen intoxicated! He has been known to threaten the heroine with what is described as "worse than death," but he makes amends as the reels unwind and folds her to his breast at the final fadeout with object: Matrimony.

SOME credit Richard Barthelmess with the emancipation of the movie leading man. His tough gob in "Shore Leave" was a characterization of the rough and ready fellow who showed little respect for the pretty heroine, played by Dorothy Mackaill, until he realized the error of his ways. Others thank Jack Gilbert, who was more or less of a heroine mauler in "The Merry Widow" and "The Big Parade." Then William Haines helped the good work along, and so did Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen. Chester Morris has done his bit and so has Douglas Fairbanks Jr.

So, coming to the present picture age, one is often puzzled as to whether the hero is really the hero or the villain.

This lengthy exposition has been written in an endeavor to point out that we leading men have something to cheer about. I'm a leading man, and really, I'm glad of it. I'm particularly happy that I've come into the game at the time when leading men are men and not collar advertisements. My first assignment was in the screen version of "Journey's End," in which I played young Raleigh. Not a heroic role, but a role which presented an opportunity for real characterization.

David Manners was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, where he attended the Windsor Grammar School, later graduating from the University of Toronto. He was on the New York stage in Theater Guild productions. His first picture was the film version of "Journey's End." His next was "Sweet Mamma." He recently completed an important role in "Kismet," with Otis Skinner.

PERHAPS you would like to know where leading men come from. Unlike Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Topsy," they don't "just grow"—they happen!

To be a leading man like—shall I say David Manners?—you must first be born in Nova Scotia. Your name will be Rauff Acklom, but when the time comes you are apt to change it to David Manners. That's easier to pronounce. Then you go to school, preferably the Collegiate Grammar School, Windsor.

At this time there is probably an histrionic feeling bothering you, so you construct a miniature theater where you can re-enact plays with puppets. You will probably give a performance of your own version of the last play you have seen in your miniature theater. And as you will be your own audience, the play will undoubtedly be a huge success.

Your parents decide you would be more of a success if they groomed you to become a civil engineer. They send you to the University of Toronto. Something happens and you graduate with the degree of bachelor of science in forestry. Perhaps what happens is your growing interest in the theater while in college. You are undoubtedly one of the shining lights in college dramatics and become a mover in "the little theater movement."

And so you stop thinking about forestry and go to New York determined to take a flyer at uplifting the drama. You have high ideals and you find yourself playing unimportant roles with the Theater Guild. Then you get an opportunity for a better role in a play which has the horrible title, "Dancing Mothers," which is scheduled to open at the Maxine Elliot Theater. The role gives you a splendid chance. Over your shoulder go your high ideals and on the morning after the New York opening you find that the critics have discovered you to be a "leading man of exceptional talent with a happy flair for comedy and a keen understanding of the more poignant moments of the drama."

So there you are!

BUT your parents are still intent upon a business career. They rescue you from this profession of footlights and grease-paint and tell you you've got to find a substantial job. Well, you'll try anything to appease the Pater and the Mater. You'll undoubtedly wind up with a firm which deals in fine arts and antiques. If this firm has an office in London you will surely be sent there where you will contract a severe case of pneumonia. When you come back you are packed off to Arizona to convalesce where you are sure to get bored with it all. So you become a cowboy guide.

While in Arizona an offer comes from Honolulu to enter the sugar business. On the way you drop off in Hollywood to see what all of the tourists from Ohio are looking at. You meet some one you knew on the New York stage. He introduced you to a manager. Then the first thing you know you're playing an important role in "Journey's End."

You think Hollywood is delightful. Because this manager rings your bell and tells you that you can play in another picture if you want to. Yes, you can be the leading man. Well, why not? The picture is "Sweet Mamma," starring Alice White. The role is that of a good boy who is out of a job and gets involved with some most irresponsible gangsters. Witness again the emancipation of the leading man in this role. The picture is finished.

"Now you can go to Honolulu for that honeymoon," says The Girl.

BUT you decide you like Hollywood. Besides, you have just been given a long term contract with First National Pictures. You go out and have a fine dinner and celebrate. Your first part is to be that of the Imp in a version of H. V. Esmond's good old play, "When We Were Twenty-One," but they've retitled the picture and it's going to be "The Truth About Youth."

And that's my story of where leading men come from, how they get that way, and how they carry on.

The emancipation of my particular brand of leading man is quite complete in "The Truth About Youth." The Imp—stop me if you know the story—is a likeable young ne'er do well who doesn't love Loretta Young, the heroine, and who cuts loose with a wild but charming cabaret dancer. The dancer throws him over and he loses the heroine, too. Pretty daring, all right, for a leading man to wind up at the end of a picture without a single soul to lead to the altar.

But a leading man does get into the old form now and then. The role of Abdallah, the Caliph, in that grand old play, "Kismet," which stars Otis Skinner, brings back all of the romance which would have warmed the cockles of the combined hearts of leading men of the past. This time Loretta Young does not escape him but becomes Mrs. Abdallah, alias Caliph, when the last fade-out comes.

I like to ponder on the fact that Otis Skinner is of my fraternity—the Brotherhood of Leading Men. For five years he played with Mme. Helene Modeská, creating role after role of heroic romanticism. His memories are glorious ones. For that I envy him. He told me that he has bought a lovely old farm house in Vermont, where he will go and lie in the grass and look at the sky. If that is the happy prospect for the leading man—it's great with me!

Gieseking to Play 'Emperor' Concerto With the Symphony

Pianist Will Be Soloist at Pair of Concerts Friday and Saturday at the Odeon.

WALTER GIESEKING, one of the foremost of moderns among the pianists, appears with the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra as soloist of its concerts at the Odeon Friday afternoon and Saturday evening of this week, and plays the Beethoven "Emperor" Concerto as one of three offerings from as many classic masters—Bach, Beethoven and Brahms—which make up the program Mr. Arbos is offering.

Gieseking, born in France of German parentage, received his musical education in Germany and emerged in the post-war period as one of the most significant interpreters of his generation. St. Louis first heard him with the orchestra five years ago when he played the Brahms Concerto in B-flat major. Two years later he was brought back to play the Schumann A minor and De Falla's "Nights in the Gardens of Spain."

From his early childhood in France Gieseking manifested a deep musical genius. His opportunities for study were excellent and besides those opportunities he enjoyed another unique advantage. Towering in frame as well as in musical genius, his great hands span no mere octave but 13 keys as he hits at the piano.

Mr. Arbos has chosen to open his program with three numbers from the Bach dance suite in B minor for flute and strings, which present in their course, as incidental soloist, John F. Kiburz, solo flutist of the orchestra. These are the lyrical Overture, the processional of the Polonaise, and the joyous and gaily impertinent Badinerie. Brahms' Symphony in D major No. 2, a work of soaring melodic beauty, is the program's symphony.

In detail the program will be:

From the Suite in B Minor for flute and strings ....Bach
(a) Overture
(b) Polonaise
(c) Badinerie
Symphony in D Major No. 2, Opus. 73—Brahms
I. Allegro non troppo.
II. Adagio non troppo.
III. Allegretto grazioso quasi andantino.
IV. Allegro con spirito.
Concerto No. 5 in E-flat major for pianoforte, "The Emperor" . . Beethoven
I. Allegro.
II. Adagio un poco moto.
III. Rondo: Allegro ma non troppo.
Mr. Gieseking.

Vladimir Golschmann, the young Parisian conductor who will be guest conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in January and February is conducting the Philharmonic this month at Brussels. Last month he conducted the Paris Symphony in the Salle Playel concerts at Paris, and in September conducted at the International Music Festival at Liege in Belgium. In December he will appear as guest conductor with Mr. Arbos' Royal Symphony Orchestra of Madrid, and also with the Philharmonic in Lisbon.

Facing the Music

The Liederkranz Club will give its sixtieth anniversary concert Wednesday night at 8:15. A program consisting of several choral and solo numbers will be directed by Hugo Anschuetz. The soloists are Mrs. Helen Traubel Carpenter, O. Tyson Covington, Bernard L. Ferguson and Henry L. Boecler. Accompaniments will be played by Mrs. Frank A. Habig.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon, at Graham Memorial Chapel, Washington University, Charles Galloway, assisted by Oscar Heather, tenor, will give the second of his current series of organ recitals, which are part of the extension course of Washington University, and are free to the public.

Theta Chapter, Mu Phi Epsilon sorority, will entertain this afternoon with the second of a series of musical teas at the home of Miss Genevieve Landry, 1214 Amherst place, with Miss Nellie Tholen and Miss Ernestine Holtman assisting.

The Tipica Orchestra of Mexico, under the direction of Juan N. Torreblanco, will be the Civic Music League's third attraction, playing at the Odeon Tuesday evening, Nov. 25.

German Opera Repertory.

Arrangements for the engagement of the German Grand Opera Company at the Odeon, Jan. 15-16-17, are taking definite shape and the repertory for St. Louis will include Wagner's "Flying Dutchman," "Don Juan," "Tiefland," and "Tristan and Isolde." Dr. Max von Schillings will conduct the Wagner evenings and Hans Blechschmidt will conduct the Mozart and Tiefland performances.

The Maid of Orleans.

On Friday evening, Nov. 21, and Tuesday evening, Nov. 25, the students of St. Elizabeth Academy will present the historical drama, "The Maid of Orleans," in the gymnasium auditorium on Arsenal street and Louisiana avenue. The play is under the direction of the able dramatic art teacher of the academy, Miss Marguerite Brewer.

The Silent Movies

Paramount Holds Out a Half-Promise That the Old Time Cinema Is to Return to Its Own—Future Appears to Hang on the Success of Charley Chaplin's Coming "City Lights."

By NIE

THE future of the movies, to a large extent, hangs upon a single picture—Charley Chaplin's coming "City Lights," an old-style film without conversation. If the effort is a box office success, and there is every reason to believe that it will be a smashing one, then the other film makers of Hollywood will rush back to the silents and the talkies will grow fewer and fewer. The eyes of the magnates are on the Chaplin picture and, although few of them will admit it, Sidney Kent, an executive of the Paramount organization, told a convention of motion picture men in Philadelphia last week that in production today his firm is using as little talk as possible. "The big factor of pictures of the future," he said, "is the story and the personality of the actors. You are going to see personalities come back to their own. Those who survived sound are going to come back stronger than ever. Others, to whom sound was a detriment, will be out of the picture."

Without question the talkies have not been as successful as the old silent films. According to official figures given out by the Hays office, the industry spent the staggering sum of a half billion of dollars in changing over to sound and it will take some of the companies from 10 to 20 years to write off their share of that amount.

AS a result of the advent of the talkies the Hollywood picture magnates suddenly found themselves in a new business—a business—a business about which they knew as little as they did of their original game, the silents, when they first began making films. The original silent pictures grew up and the makers grew with them without any undue hurry. But there wasn't time to learn the new business. The movies were no longer a novelty which would do business no matter how bad they were. The customers demanded perfection—or at least their idea of perfection and the half billion dollars was spent in an effort to meet, overnight, those demands.

Suddenly the film makers discovered that even $1,000,000,000 worth of new machinery would not fill the bill for they found that the supply of talking dramas was pretty limited. They wanted—had to have, in fact—some 500 plays every year. They began to collect and cage dramatists and ordered them to turn 'em out. But plays cannot be written that way, not even poor ones. Inspiration does not come on order and the percentage of good offerings has been small. Now, if Mr. Kent is to be taken seriously—and he spoke as the representative of the largest and probably the most consistently best of the big producers—they are going back partly, at least, to the silents.

It is just as well. The silent motion pictures were unique, an art in themselves. They did not encroach upon the spoken stage and they furnished popular form of entertainment with unlimited scenic scope. With a few exceptions the talkies have limited, of necessity, the action to four walls and those walls have become tremendously alike.

KENT sounded another note when he spoke of the return to the system of personalities—a return to the star system. The silent pictures had built up a huge audience which went to the theater, largely, to see its favorites perform. When the talkies came the screen had to get actors from the legitimate stage and those actors meant nothing to the fans who put their money on the line at the box office. The people who might have been interested in art for art's sake had left the cinema flat, had been driven away by the poor quality of the pictures but the audience which had taken their places wanted their stars above everything else. The stars did not need the ability demanded by the spoken drama. They had to have good looks and be able to wear good clothes and present varying amounts of sex appeal. That was all. The fans supplied the rest themselves even picturing voices of their favorites. When they heard some of the voices coming out of the film machine they were disappointed.

Theme songs there will always be, and sound effects, too, but conversation will be limited to incidental talk except in the case of some stage successes which will stand translation to the screen. Last week at the Ambassador Theater Harold Lloyd made a great hit in his talking comedy, "Feet First"—but he depended for his fun, and his success, upon his clowning antics into which no talk was permitted to creep.

Packard Exhibits Its Own Custom Cars In Automobile Salons

No American motor car manufacturer, until this year, has been an exhibitor in four of the important automobile shows held in this country — the custom car salons held in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco. Exhibitors are limited under the rules of the salons to custom body builders. Each year the custom body builders of the United States display bodies of their design and manufacture on several makes of chassis.

This year, for the first time, one of the motor car manufacturers will exhibit in all four salons. The Packard Motor Car Co. will show individual custom cars produced in its own custom body shops.

At the Chicago salon, Packard displayed four types of individual custom cars, including an all-weather town car, all-weather town car landaulet, cabriolet sedan limousine and all-weather sport cabriolet. In addition there was a convertible victoria and convertible sedan by LeBaron; sport sedan by Derham and a special four-passenger close coupled sedan, all on Packard chassis.

U. S. 'TRYING TO SPEED WORK' ON FEDERAL BUILDING HERE

Treasury Emphasizes, However, That Title Has Not Been Formally Acquired.

Assurances have been received by the Chamber of Commerce from the Treasury Department that the department is doing everything possible to speed up plans for construction of the new Federal building and that every consideration will be given to employing St. Louis architects.

The chamber recently communicated with the Treasury, urging that, if possible, the Government employ architects identified with and familiar with this area so the new building will be in harmony with the Civic Plaza.

The chamber pointed out that such efforts would be appreciated locally, particularly as a means of accelerating building and increasing employment.

In communicating its desire to speed the work, the Treasury pointed out that title to the site had not yet been vested in the United States Government and until it is no steps can be taken toward the preparation of plans for the building.

Closing Time on Foreign Mails.

The next closing time for parcel post for Germany and Great Britain and for full European mails will be at 9 o'clock tomorrow night at the Main Postoffice, Eighteenth and Walnut streets.

B'nai B'rith 75th Anniversary.

The seventy-fifth anniversary of Missouri Lodge No. 22, B'nai B'rith will be celebrated at a public meeting at Temple Israel tonight. Alfred M. Cohen of Cincinnati, president of the order, will make the principal address.

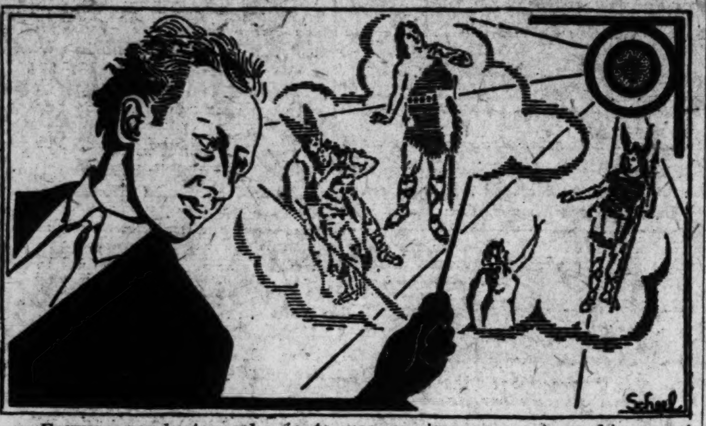
Stokowski Concert on KSD at 4 O'Clock



Famous conductor who is to use an improvement on his secret broadcasting device in the concert that the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra will play over KSD from 4 to 5 o'clock this afternoon. This is Scheel's impression of Stokowski conducting the program that he has made up from four of the great Nibelungen Ring music dramas of Wagner.

Four Broadcast Symphony Concerts This Afternoon

Stokowski, Toscannini and Arbos to Conduct for Radio Audience—Josef Hoffman to Play Over KSD at 8:15 Tonight.

Five consecutive hours of symphonic music—in four concerts, two of them by organizations of world-wide reputation—are scheduled on the air today, as well as Josef Hoffman, the pianist, in concert over KSD at 8:15 tonight.

The Roxy Symphony Orchestra will play from 1 to 1:30 over WLW (the final half hour also on KWK); the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, with Arturo Toscannini conducting, from 2 to 4 o'clock over the CBS net, including KMOX; Leopold Stokowski and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra from 4 to 5 o'clock on KSD, and the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, led by Fernandez Arbos, the Spanish conductor, from 5 to 6 o'clock over KMOX.

Excerpts from four operas of Wagner will be played by the Roxy Orchestra, including the overture to "The Flying Dutchman;" the prelude to the first and third acts of "Lohengrin;" the Prize Song from "Die Meistersinger" the prelude and Love Death from "Tristan and Isolde," and overture to "Die Meistersinger."

Toscannini's program is announced to include two Chorales of Bach, in the Respighi arrangement; Beethoven's First Symphony, and the First Symphony of Brahms'

Stokowski is to lead his orchestra in music from the operas of Wagner's Nibelungen Ring cycle—the Entrance of the Gods into Valhalla, from "Das Rheingold"; "Wotan's Farewell," and the Magic Fire music, from "Die Walkuere"; the Sounds of the Forest Music, from "Siegfried," and Siegfried's Rhine Journey, from "Die Goetterdaemmerung."

The St. Louis Symphony is to play Beethoven's "Egmont" overture; Saint-Saens' "The Spinning Wheel of Omphale," excerpts from Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker" suite, and the "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks" of Strauss.

Hoffman is to play a movement from the Rubenstein Concerto in D-minor and Chopin's Nocturne in F-minor and Scherzo in B-flat minor.

Mme. Schumann-Heink will sing as usual between 7 and 7:15 this evening over KWK. Toscha Seidel, the violinist, will play two movements from the Bach Concerto in A minor and also the Kreisler arrangement of Poldini's "Dancing Doll." between 9 and 9:30 tonight over KMOX.

New Chevrolet Sixes Improved; Prices Reduced

Five-Window Coupe Added to Line, Which Now Includes Nine Models.

The new 1931 Chevrolet six models, priced substantially below current levels, are on display throughout the country. They have a two-inch increase in wheelbase, larger and roomier bodies by Fisher with mohair or broadcloth as optional trimming, and numerous refinements in appearance and performace. The new prices bring the level for the 1931 car to lower figures than any Chevrolet, four or six, has ever sold.

Dealers put the new models on exhibition yesterday, nearly two months in advance of the customary date for the showing of the annual new car. This move in advancing the announcement date, it was felt by Chevrolet officials, would render a distinct contribution to the cause of general business revival by insuring extraordinary activity during two normally dull business months for the 200,000 people throughout the United States who depend directly upon Chevrolet for their livelihood.

The 19 domestic production plants of the Chevrolet organization are now in full swing on the new model, according to W. S. Knudsen, president, and shipments are going to dealers to assure immediate delivery of all models.

Among the improvements are a fully insulated front compartment, easier steering, more durable clutch, smoother and quieter transmission and liberal use of rustless chromium plate on exposed bright parts. Four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, and fully enclosed, weatherproof four-wheel brakes, continue as standard equipment.

In the line of nine body types are three open models—the roadster, phaeton and sport roadster, and six closed models—the coach, sedan, special sedan, the three-window coupe, the five-window coupe and the sport coupe.

All sport models have the new chrome-plated radiator grille. All models have smart new wire wheels, with 4.75 by 19 tires, as standard equipment. Hubs are very large, of the concealed bolt type, with hub caps of gleaming chromium plate set off by a black ring circling the Chevrolet emblem in the center. Wheel finishes harmonize with the wide variety of body combinations.

Some of the improvements enumerated by Chevrolet engineers, are as follows:

Safety factors include a frame increased 50 per cent in torsional strength, continuance of the gasoline tank in the rear away from the heat of the engine, and inclusion of a flame arrester in the air cleaner.

The radiator has a larger cooling capacity this year, and is improved in efficiency. A new treatment of the shell makes it appear higher and the sides appear to have more curvature.

A chrome-plate tie-bar arches from fender to fender across the front of the radiator, and holds in position the head lamps, as well as a vibrator horn, which is mounted this year just beneath the left head lamp.

The new Fisher bodies have a raised belt line to emphasize the low appearance of the car achieved by the deeper side body panels, with their slight outward bulge. Roof lines are streamlined.

A feature of the new bodies is the better vision made possible from the driver's seat by slightly lowering the seat and raising the header bar which runs across the top of the windshield.

Body moldings are pressed integral with the body panels, thus eliminating all separately applied molding. The drip molding also is pressed integral with the roof panels. This construction eliminates rust streaks which result when the molding is separately applied because the paint chips off at the connecting line.

The steering wheel is three-spoke instead of four, and the steering mechanism is of the worm and sector type, with a reduction ratio of 12.1 instead of 9.5:1 as formerly. During the 1930 season a ring gear of high carbon steel for the first time was securely welded to the flywheel. This construction is continued in the new car, and prevents broken flywheel teeth.

Other improvements include a redesigned clutch housing with the closure at the bottom effected through three removable pieces instead of one for easier access of adjustment; a new rubber boot over the carburetor accelerator pump to exclude water from the pump cylinder and prevent freezing; a new leak-proof valve rocker cover for the top of the engine; greater pressure of piston rings against the cylinder walls to assure sealing against leaks; redesigned valve push rods with the spherical socket made integral with the rod to eliminate the extra joint; valve springs of variable pitch; a copper mesh air cleaner and flame arrester instead of a centrifugal cleaner; and a new type crankcase ventilator, combined with the oil filler and provided with an oil separator, which drains off fumes through the underpan instead of through the carburetor as formerly.

Molded clutch facings replace the woven type; the clutch pilot bearing is now ball bearing instead of bronze bushing, and a spherical pivot replaces the yoke bracket and pin at the clutch for mounting.

The transmission case has been changed to secure greater rigidity and to permit access without removal of the clutch housing. The use of nickle-molybdenum alloy steel in the second speed countershaft and sliding gears, carbonized to produce a very hard surface assures longer life.

With the lengthenig of the wheelbase to 109 inches, more than two inches longer than last year, the frame has been redesigned, with increased metal applied at advantageous points for great safety and rigidity.

Prices of the new Chevrolet line, as announced by President W. S. Knudsen, range from $475 to $650, as against $495 to $685 for the 1930 car. Reductions range from $20 to $40, as follows:

Roadster, from $495 to $475; sport roadster, from $515 to $495; standard coupe, from $565 to $535; five-window coupe (new model), $545; sport coupe, from $6.15 to $575; coach, from $565 to $545; standard sedan, from $675 to $635; special sedan, from $685 to $650.

Price of the commercial chassis has been reduced $10 to $355, and of the sedan delivery, $20 to a new price of $575.

Proposed Laws On Operation of Trucks Approved

Distributers Indorse Measures to Be Submitted to Missouri Legislature.

Fourteen representatives of that number of distributers of motor trucks attended a meeting Monday at the Coronado Hotel to hear of legislation affecting truck operation that is likely to be introduced in the Missouri Legislature which meets next January. Harry E. Engel and William Grund, of the Association of Team and Truck Owners of St. Louis, and Robert Matthews, of the Missouri Truck Owners' Association, were guests at the meeting. M. F. McCarty, of the International Harvester Co., presided.

A report in detail of proposed legislation was made by Maj. Robert E. Lee, of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, who was secretary of a conference held last week at Jefferson City to consider this legislation. It was reported that Maj. Roy F. Britton of the Automobile Club of Missouri, in co-operation with the St. Louis Safety Council, the Kansas City Safety Council, the two organizations of truck owners and the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, had agreed to the submission to the Legislature of the Hoover Highway Conference recommendation practically in full. Minor changes in these recommendations were made to fit Missouri conditions.

The legislation covering truck operation in Missouri would limit the length of any one commercial vehicle to 35 feet and the length of any two joined together to 60 feet. The height of any vehicle would be limited to 12 feet and the width of any commercial vehicle to eight feet, except where a special permit for single day operation would be issued. In municipalities of more than 100,000 population these lengths and widths would be increased.

It is probable that the load limit on a pneumatic tired commercial vehicle will be fixed at 8000 pounds on any one wheel, or 16,000 pounds on any one axle, and that no ve-

House on Car Still Running After 26,000 Miles All Over U. S.

A house on wheels that Morris Ahearn of the Ahearn Chevrolet Co., East St. Louis, built five years ago on a Chevrolet chassis for the Howell Family, Bohemian glassblowers who tour the country, giving exhibitions, is still running as well as ever, after 26,000 miles, with little service and no major difficulties.

R. M. Howell of the Howell Family, writing to Ahearn recently, said that the house car had been in every state in the country except Montana. He said also that two of the original 30x5 Goodrich Silvertown cord tires were still on the car and had been in service all the time. "In fact," he wrote, "the weight of the car has never been off them."

The car has attracted much attention everywhere it has gone, and it has traveled all the main highways from Maine to California and from Florida to British Columbia.

It has three windows on a side, two windows and a door in the rear, as well as a roomy canopied observation platform.

Joins Sales Force

A. C. Wilson, formerly a dealer on Locust boulevard; Elmer Downing, J. D. Smith and J. H. Teutenberg have been added to the new car sales force of the Lambert-Tigges Motor Co., 4035 Lindell boulevard. A. Z. Noss, E. A. Thomure, Lynn N. Wilson and William Sellers have joined the sales force at its used car department, 5870 Easton avenue.

hicle will be permitted to have a concentrated load on any one wheel to exceed 600 pounds per inch of width of tire used. The gross weight of any single vehicle is to be limited to 24,000 pounds for four-wheel vehicles and to 32,000 pounds for a vehicle with six or more wheels. No combination of tractor-truck and semi-trailer with pneumatic tires will be permitted to carry a gross weight in excess of 38,000 pounds. The limitation on commercial vehicles with solid tires will be 80 per cent or less of the limit on pneumatic tired vehicles.

The speed of vehicles with solid tires will be limited to 12 miles per hour.

The new law will also regulate lights, brakes and driving practices on commercial vehicles.

These measures were approved at the meeting Monday by the St. Louis truck distributers.

A. E. SPIELBERG, president, and W. M. VENNER, secretary-treasurer, of the newly formed Lindell Chevrolet Co.

Spielberg and Venner Form Firm to Retail Chevrolet on Lindell

The Lindell Chevrolet Co. has been organized, with A. E. Spielberg as president and W. M. Venner as secretary-treasurer, to conduct an authorized Chevrolet dealership in the elaborately appointed automotive sales and service quarters that front 300 feet on Lindell boulevard just west of Vandeventer avenue.

The company will occupy the entire building, which has more than 40,000 square feet of space all on the one floor and one of the finest automobile show rooms in all the Middle West. The full line of nine new Chevrolet six models was placed on display yesterday.

The newest Chevrolet factory maintenance equipment is being installed to give full authorized Chevrolet service.

Spielberg has been in the automobile business in St. Louis for 15 years, and is widely known. For a long time he was located on Locust boulevard before he and his associates built the elaborate automotive building on Lindell boulevard. Venner has been associated with Spielberg for a number of years.

Chevrolet's New Sport Roadster

Pines Winterfront Shutters Close When An Auto Is Stopped

The new style winterfront, such as that recently announced by the makers of Pines automatic winterfronts, has the streamline effect which is the predominating style of 1931 motor cars. With vertical shutters, this new winterfront is the same as those built into finer cars as factory equipment by 25 leading automobile manufacturers.

With the new Pines model is an improvement just incorporated in the winterfront. This is a device for closing the shutter when the car is stopped. Thus all the heat is retained under the hood. When the car is again in operation, the shutters open automatically, as needed.

Although the new Pines models include many improvements, there has been a further reduction in price. Pines automatic winterfronts, installed, now cost $15 for small cars and $20 for large cars.

The Pines winterfront distributers in St. Louis are the Fred Campbell Auto Supply Co., while the service distributers are the H. C. Merry, Inc., and the Automotive Electric Service.

New Franklin Cars Introduced At Lower Prices

Luxurious Models, in Two Series, Have 100 H. P. Air-Cooled Engines.

Two new lines of Franklin air-cooled cars, priced lower than any Franklin in years, are announced by the Central States Motor Co., distributer. Prices range from $2295 upward for the "Transcontinent" series models and from $2695 upward for the de luxe types. The new bodies are by Dietrich, the custom car designer.

A considerable increase in power has been obtained without increasing engine size, the new models now being rated at 100 h. p. As the ratio of weight to power is low, the new Franklins are even speedier and more agile on the road than the line which they supersede, and Franklin retains its reputation for producing the most powerful auto engine for its size.

The de luxe series includes 10 body types. The wheelbase is 132 inches and the tread has been increased to 60 inches. The design theme of the front grille arch is carried back through every cross section of the body to suggest speed, strength, balance and power. Constructional features, as well as the engine, follow aviation practice, including airplane streamlining and windshield, air-foil fenders, airplane instrument board, airplane type brakes, shock absorbers and chassis flexibility. Contours are shaped to reduce wind resistance.

The new windshield "kills" headlight glare and safeguards against "blind spots," as the pillars are of a width equal to the distance between the pupils of both eyes of the average driver. Crash-proof glass is used throughout.

Hood design is new, the shutters being satin chrome plated. The port-type louvres, arranged on a raised panel, are staggered, one to the front and two to the rear.

Four-speed transmission is standard in the de luxe models. Running in intermediate is almost as quiet as in high.

The spacious seating accommodations give the suggestion of the restful library chair, not alone because of ampleness and correctness of contour, but because the style of upholstery corresponds to exclusive furniture design. The softly padded arm rests and the cushions with deeper springs, the smooth unplaited, untufted covering with piped seams and welts provide both the feeling and appearance of luxury. The overstuffed roll on the upper edge of each cushion has the effect of the one-piece, pillow-type upholstery.

A new design of front seat has resulted in a more relaxed position for the occupants. The same betterment in design applies to the rear seat.

Two inside visors are effective sun shades. Both are fastened to the roof construction. Hinges permit the visors to be folded forward against the roof.

So responsive is the steering apparatus that the car can be guided with but one finger on the wheel. Each foot or hand control is within easy reach. The gear shift lever and the hand brake are well forward in the center so that the floor board has no obstructions.

The hand brake is so much stronger than before that it is possible to stall the engine in low gear when it is applied. The wheel brakes continue on the hydraulic principle.

An air deflector gives assurance of a cool front compartment even on the hottest days. This deflector carries the cooling draft from the motor directly under the car so that heated air cannot stay in the motor compartment nor flow back against the toe-boards. For winter driving the cover may be left off to provide a warmer motor and greater comfort for front-seat occupants.

In addition to the full elliptic springs, an exclusive Franklin feature, an improvement in the shock absorber equipment makes for a softer, steadier ride, while the chassis spring design has been improved.

There are 10 body types in the Transcontinent line, which are on a 125-inch wheelbase, except the seven-passenger models, which have a 132-inch wheelbase, and also have four-speed transmission. These models have the same engine as the de luxe. Top speed of 60, 70 and 80 miles an hour are said to be possible all day long.

Like most advanced airplane engines, the Franklin motor has aluminum cylinder heads, valve seats of bronze and connecting rods of the light duralumin. Cylinders

Like most advanced airplane engines, the Franklin motor has aluminum cylinder heads, valve seats of bronze and connecting rods of the light duralumin. Cylinders are of nickel iron. Front axles are of nickel steel and rear axles molybdenum steel.

The power increase is attained by slight changes in the intake and the air-cooling system, and at the same time consumption of gasoline has been reduced. A new fan, with blades curved slightly backward, delivers six per cent more cooling air at a saving of 43 per cent in the power required to operate it. Gear ratios have been somewhat changed.

The new engine has been given thousands of miles of test runs.

Goodrich Airplane Coming Here on First Air Cotton Buying Trip

The Goodrich Rubber Co.'s speed airplane, "Miss Silvertown," is to arrive in St. Louis from Memphis tomorrow morning, carrying Charles Thompson of the Martha Mills, Thomaston, Ga., and M. N. Twyman, manager of the cotton and textiles division of the Goodrich Co., on the first aerial cotton buying trip to the South and Southwest.

The plane is piloted by Lee Schoenhair, who holds seven world's speed records.

From St. Louis the party will fly to San Antonio, Tex.; then to Houston, Fort Worth and Dallas, Tex.; Little Rock, Ark., New Orleans, Montgomery, Ala., and Atlanta, Macon, Thomaston and Athens, Ga.

The plane will be met on arrival here by E. E. Gordon, branch manager for the Goodrich Rubber Co. in St. Louis.

Rolls-Royce Engineer Joins Cadillac Staff

Maurice Olley, a British engineer, who for 11 years was chief engineer of the chassis division of the Rolls Royce Co. of America, has joined the engineering staff of the Cadillac Motor Car Co.

Born and trained in England, he was for years drafting designer for Sir Henry Royce. At the outbreak of the war he played an important part in designing the first Rolls Royce Eagle, a V-12 water-cooled aircraft engine which, with refinements, is still used extensively by the British air forces.

Ellsworth Mantel Set Introduced—Stromberg-Carlson Reports 22 Per Cent Sales Increase for Year—Trade Notes.

Stromberg-Carlson Sales Grow.

A country-wide dealers' jubilee is to be held this week to celebrate a 22 per cent increase of sales of Stromberg-Carlson receivers during the year ending Sept. 1, as compared with the same period a year ago. Stromberg-Carlson has had a sales increase every year since 1924.

To Handle Mantel Type Set.

M. J. Griffin and Edgar McDermott, 216 Holland building, have been appointed factory representatives for the Ellsworth midget A. C. screen grid receiver. This set is manufactured by the Ellsworth Manufacturing Co., Chicago. It has a full screen grid circuit, tone control and electro dynamic speaker, and is housed in an attractive walnut cabinet. It uses six tubes, including three screen grid, and has a three-gang condenser. The set was built a year ago and since then has been under tests in all parts of this country.

Philco Reports Large Sales.

In spite of the large sales of the Philco Baby Grand receiver, the Philco organization reports that sales of its larger cabinet models are better than ever before.

Console for Crosley Buddy.

A low-priced console has been introduced to house the Crosley Buddy receiver whenever one desires to change this mantel type set into a cabinet model. The Buddy can be installed in it without in any way dismantling it.

Hard to Re-Educate the Ear.

The Brunswick Radio Corporation reports that recent tests disclose that it requires anywhere from a week to a full year to begin the re-education of the musical ear of the owner of one of the old receivers. To them, complete tonal reproduction seems to possess echoes, whereas what they suppose are echoes are only the bass instruments being heard for the first time.

Howard Preston, baritone, who sings frequently on Brownbilt Footlighters' programs at 6:45 Friday evenings over an NBC chain, was successful as a business man before he turned to muic. For some time he was a member of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

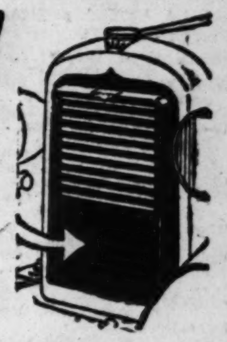
STUCK AGAIN!
Why don't you buy a Moto-Gard?

It Always Works!

Moto-Gard

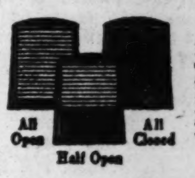
The Triple Service Shutter



Your shutter should operate like your engine—smoothly! Moto-Gard's mechanism is scientific in design and build. No delicate parts to get out of order. It always works—no jamming or rattling of shutter leaves—they can't fly open or stick.

Extra Protection

Moto-Gard's scientific construction provides the extra protection needed at the bottom of your radiator where water cools first and freezing starts.



Triple Service

In average winter weather open the top leaves and close the lower. Mild?—open all leaves. Bitter cold?—close them all—and do the same when parking.

Visible Control

You operate Moto-Gard by a light turn of the thumb screw on its attractive dash control. The indicator records the exact degree of opening of the leaves.

NASH dealers are doing a great thing for motor car buyers. We are initiating a national movement calculated to save them millions. We are destroying price camouflage; we are advertising delivered prices. The above prices are for cars delivered fully equipped with nothing more to buy. Not the price at the factory—but the price delivered to you.

Recently the Nash factory astounded the world with an announcement of Nash quality at sensationally low factory list prices. Nash dealers now take the next great step in value-giving, by making the delivered price the lowest it is possible to charge.

Demand the delivered price when you inspect a car. Then compare that car and its delivered price with the similar model Nash car at the Nash delivered price—and you'll buy the Nash.

The smart new Nash models are the fastest, the most powerful, the finest performing, and the most luxurious cars that have ever borne the Nash emblem.

Concert by the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra from 5 to 6 p. m. on KMOX. The romantic story of art in St. Louis will be briefly told in an intermission in the concert. That story goes back more than 100 years to the time when Chester Harding, then a most popular American artist, came to St. Louis to make his home and paint a portrait of Daniel Boone. He inspired other artists here who attempted to create an art that would express the spirit of the times—"The Spirit of St. Louis"—while the artists of the East were imitating in subject and method the European painters.

The program offers as its concluding number Richard Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks", perhaps the most notable of contemporary pieces of musical humor. In detail, it is:

Egmont Overture .... Beethoven
Symphonic Poem, "The Wheel of Omphale" .... Saint-Saens
Selections from The Nutcracker Suite .... Tschaikowsky
Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks.. Strauss

Church, Owner of WMAY, Would Erect New Station in City

Proposing to divorce itself from WIL, whose transmitter it has been licensed to use one-third of the time under the call letters, WMAY, the Kingshighway Presbyterian Church of St. Louis has formally asked the Federal Radio Commission to grant it authority to erect a new full-time station in St. Louis to operate on 1500 kilocycles, with 100 watts at night and 250 watts daytime.

E. R. Bruce, president, and Clifford Cornell, director of the newly incorporated WMAY, testifying before Assistant Examiner Elmer Pratt, asserted that there was need in the St. Louis area of another local station.

Cornell asserted that the proposed new transmitter could be built at a cost of $15,000, and that, while its sponsors intend it should be self-sustaining, its purpose would be to provide well rounded programs not only of religious services on Sunday, but educational and instructive programs during the rest of the week. Entertainment, he said, would consume 50 per cent of its time, religion 6 per cent, commercial programs 25 per cent, education 14 per cent and agriculture 10 per cent.

According to the testimony, the capital stock will consist of 1000 shares of no-par value, 20 shares each having been subscribed for by Bruce, Cornell, W. H. Whitton, J. V. Dunbar and C. L. Orth, all directors of the church, who will be the corporation's board of directors. The church would control the station.

Objection to the advent of another commercial station into the St. Louis area was voiced by Herbert Ward, counsel for WIL, and KGIZ, Grant City.

R. M. A. Officer Here To Investigate City As Site for Trade Show

Bond Geddes, executive vice president of the Radio Manufacturers' Association, spent Monday in St. Louis to investigate the possibilities of this city as a site for the 1931 national radio trade show. This show, which in past years has attracted more than 30,000 distributors and dealers to Chicago, and last year as many to Atlantic City, is the big yearly event for the radio industry.

Geddes is to report on St. Louis, Chicago and other cities as possible sites for the show, at a meeting of the R. M. A. board of directors Tuesday in Cleveland.

That he will make a report giving this city at least very favorable consideration was indicated by his comments and his evident interest in hotel facilities and the possibilities of The Arena. William P. Mackle, executive secretary of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association, and Julian Sampson, a member of the R. M. A. and prominent in national radio trades organization work, will go to Cleveland Tuesday.

Geddes was met here by Fred Wiebe, president of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association; Mackle and other radio men and members of the Convention Bureau.

In conversation, Geddes commented on the fact that in this country 13,478,600 persons are listed as owning radio receivers. Analysis of the major broadcast entertainment schedules, he said, shows that every year the owner of a radio set can get over the air, sitting in his own living room, entertainment worth fully $10,000 on the basis of theater seat prices.

That the Federal Radio Commission is giving consideration to the application of the East St. Louis Daily Journal for a permit to erect a new 1000-watt broadcasting station is indicated by the fact that it has ordered the matter set for a hearing. The newspaper seeks to operate the station on 900 kilocycles, a regional channel used by WKY, Oklahoma City, and others.

A hearing was also ordered on the application of Charles E. McKay to erect a 15-watt station at Hannibal, Mo., and operate four and a half hours a day on 1210 kilocycles.

Record Sale of $100,000 in $500 and $1000 Denominations on Delmar Limits Building Made.

ISSUE IN FEW DAYS IS OVERSUBSCRIBED

Offer Made for 17-Story Apartment Building Is Cited as Further Evidence of Money on Hand.

By Berry Moore

A wholesome feature of the real estate situation is the demand displayed for gilt-edged first mortgage paper, not only as a permanent form of investment, but also for capital reserved for business expansion, held in abeyance pending more favorable conditions.

This was exemplified in the record sale of $100,000 of first mortgage notes in $500 and $1000 denominations, for a loan made on the Delmar Limit Building at the southeast corner of Delmar boulevard and Limit avenue, in University City, by the Hemmelman-Spackler Real Estate Co. The entire issue, according to Richard Spackler, president of the company, was oversubscribed within a few days. While the notes were allotted to invidiual investors, it is understood the entire issue could have been sold to one concern for a temporary investment, to be converted later for business purposes.

The Delmar Limit Building is a three-story modern concrete fireproof structure having a frontage of 100 feet on Delmar, with a depth of 110 feet on Limit. It comprises eight stores and 12 apartments, and is equipped with electric refrigeration and a central ehating plant.

Another $100,000 Issue Sold.

It was announced also that an issue of $100,000 in first mortgage notes for a loan recently made on the six-story fireproof Chesterfield apartment building at the northeast corner of Union boulevard and Waterman avenue, recently made by the Hemmelman-Spackler company, had been entirely sold.

Record sales of first mortgage notes of this type also were reported by the Mercantile Commerce Co., the investment division of the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co. These were for loans for business buildings and for churches and hospitals for both Catholic and Protestant denominations.

Thomas Rielley, vice president of the Mercantile-Commerce Co., and head of the real estate loan department, said this branch of the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co. had approved loans for projects in St. Louis as well as in other cities, aggregating several millions of dollars. These will be available in serial form shortly, it was announced.

Offer for Tall Apartment.

Further evidence of the money on hand for real estate was an offer made during the week for the 17-story apartment building at the northwest corner of Skinker boulevard and Northwood avenue, known as 625 Skinker, owned by the Skinker-Northwood Investment Co. This offer, which was submitted by one of the large trust companies, is mentioned as showing the augmented demand for investments of this type.

Rumors of negotiations for business purposes contemplating both purchases and long leases were current during the week. These involved choice locations in both the city and the county. A 100-foot site on Olive street west of Jefferson was wanted, it is said, as a site for a building for a large specialty concern. Offers were said to have been made for other well situated locations in the central district east of Grand boulevard for concerns with plans for new buildings. While not confirmed, it is understood a nationally known chain store concern is negotiating for a large corner in Wellston, involving a record consideration.

Barney's Army Store recently acquired a 20-year lease at a new peak rental on the two-story building at 6202-04-06 Easton avenue in Wellston. Negotiations for this property were handled by the George J. Endereley Real Estate Co. in connection with the real estate department of the Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co.

Mail Order Houses Sought.

Efforts have been under way to get Montgomery-Ward and Sears-Roebuck to establish stores in Wellston. Montgomery-Ward now has no store in the St. Louis district. Sears-Roebuck has a large store on Kingshighway south of Easton avenue, and another on Grand boulevard and Winnebago street, a few steps south of Gravois. Both stores, which are housed in pretentious fireproof structures, corresponding with Sears-Roebuck

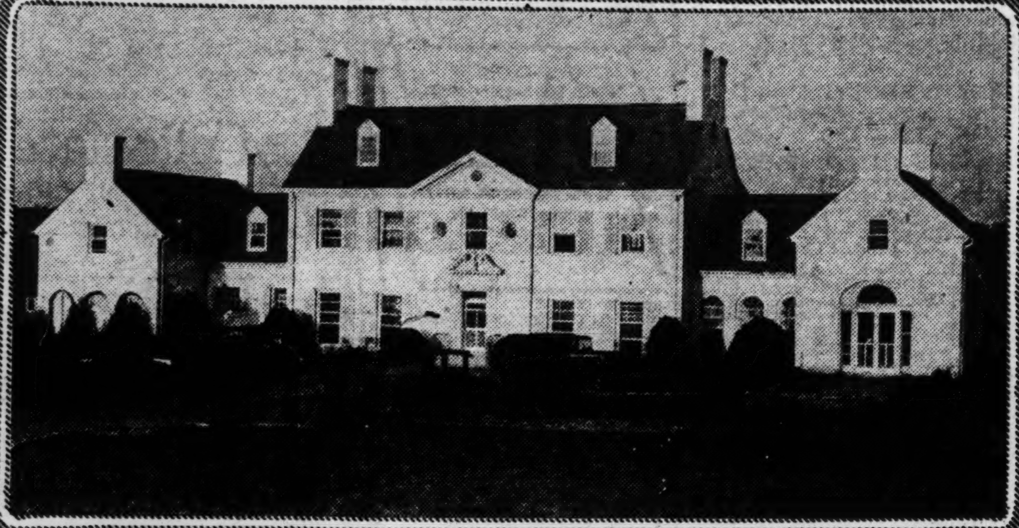
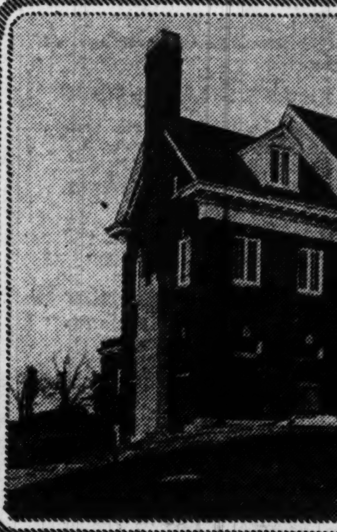
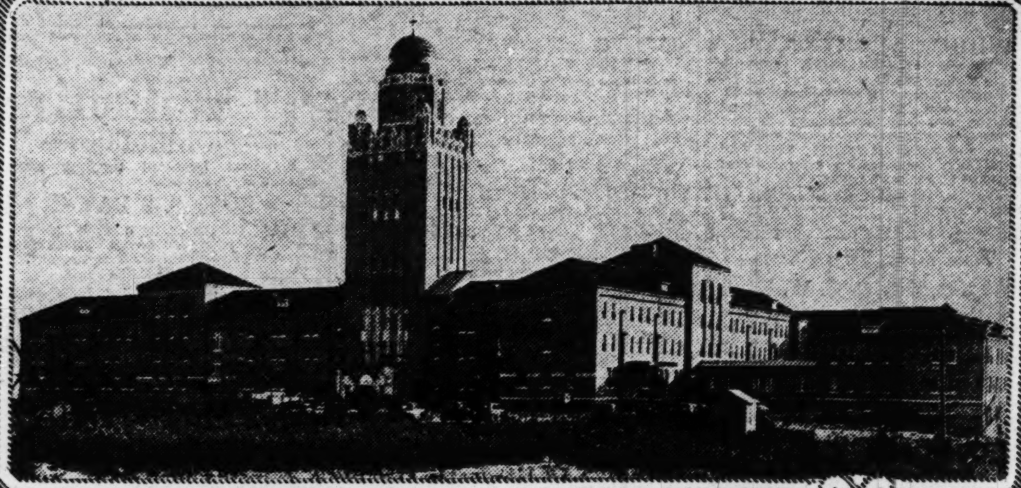
New Residences and Seminary Building in the County



New residence of Beverly Jones in Huntleigh Village in the Bakewell development on the Denny Road. Study & Farrar, architects.



Residence erected for Fred Adams in Huntleigh Village in the Bakewell development on the Denny Road. Albert B. Groves, Inc., architects.



Junior Seminary just completed on grounds of Kenrick Seminary in Webster Groves.

DENNY ROAD BRIDGE ON NO. 77 COMPLETED

Another Big Arch Structure at Two-Mile Creek to Be Opened in 10 Days.

The bridge carrying Denny road over a branch of the River des Peres at Conway road, part of the new State highway No. 77, has been completed and opened to traffic. Another big arch structure on this highway, crossing Two-Mile Creek, midway between Manchester and Clayton roads, will be open in 10 days or two weeks.

Laying of concrete on a stretch of No. 77 between Dorsett and St. Charles roads has been finished and this section will be opened in about 10 days. The last remaining unit of current work on the highway is the laying of concrete on a short stretch in the vicinity of Big Bend road. This should be done in about two weeks. Traffic already is using one side of the broad pavement, except for a break at a culvert.

With the completion of the foregoing work, No. 77 will be done for about 15 miles from Lemay Ferry road at Mehlville to St. Charles road at Pattonville, by way of Kirkwood, except for a grade separation at the junction of the new United States highway No. 66 near Watson road, a contract for which will be awarded soon.

Concrete has been laid on a five-mile unit of No. 66 between Vandover road, south of Valley Park, and Times Beach, except for a 2100-foot section on "Thunder and Lightning Hill," to be placed during the next few days. The whole road should be open to traffic in about three weeks. Another contractor soon will start erecting a new bridge over the Meramec River for No. 66 between Osage Hills and Fenton. The road east from this point is being graded.

The 40-foot pavement of Manchester road by the State has been completed and opened between Big Bend boulevard and Hanley road, Maplewood, and between Rock Hill and Denny roads, but the route is closed between Hanley and Rock Hill in Brentwood because bridges at either end are not ready. The bridge over Deer Creek at Hanley may be completed in two weeks and that over River des Peres near Rock Hill in about a month.

The State has finished the widening of St. Charles road from 18 to 40 feet for several miles between Ferguson avenue and No. 77 and of Gravois road from 18 to 56 feet for a mile west of the city limits.

WALTER E. TIEMANN BUYS HOME AT GEYER AND FAIRWAY

Walter E. Tiemann of the Tiemann Stove and Hardware Co., purchased the residence of William Hehmann on the southeast corner of Geyer road and Fairway drive directly opposite the Sunset Hill Country Club grounds.

Property has a frontage of 138 feet by 135 and is finished in buff brick. Both the residence and garage have red tile roof.

All parties were represented by the Jos. F. Dickmann Real Estate Co.

B. F. DICKMANN TO ADDRESS SECTION OF REALTY EXCHANGE

The monthly meeting of the brokers' division of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange will be held at the American Annex Hotel, Tuesday, at 6:30 p. m.

Bernard F. Dickmann, president and treasurer of the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., and president-elect of the exchange, will address the meeting on the "Trend and Outlook of the Real Estate Business."

SAYS BUILDING AND LOAN BUSINESS NEEDS BORROWERS

John C. Hall, State President, Tells Convention New Problem Is to Induce People to Keep Homes They Own.

The building and loan business has suffered less from the present depression than other lines of business, John C. Hall, State president, told the Missouri League of Building and Loan associations at its convention at Hotel Jefferson, which ended yesterday.

"What the building and loan associations need is borrowers," he said. "Your chief problem in the past has been one of persuading people to buy homes and pay for them monthly. Your problem during the next few years will be to induce people to keep the homes they now own."

Hall said the building and loan associations should be prepared to meet any threatening move in the Missouri Legislature. He spoke of the guaranteed stock law, now in use in some states, as a progressive measure, protecting stockholders of such organizations. Hall was re-elected president of the State organizations, and R. J. Richardson was re-elected secretary.

Task of Loan Associations.

R. Holtby Myers of Los Angeles, president of the United States Building and Loan League, speaking to the Missouri organization, said it was the task of building and loan men to put at least a half-million families into owned homes during the next year.

He estimated that 18,000,000 families in the United States live in rented quarters. Of these, he said, there are perhaps 8,000,000 families whose occupations and circumstances make home owning an impossibility. This would leave 10,000,000 families for President Hoover's committee on home ownership to work on. Myers is a member of the committee.

The national organization, Myers said, will apportion a budget of home-owning among the various states, with allotted quotas. It will work for the modernization of 100,000 old homes and the improvement of kitchens and bathrooms in many more homes. "We must hunt up the tenant in his rented quarters and sell him the home idea," he said.

Large Sums Seek Investment.

Charles J. Daly, secretary of the Midland Building and Loan Association and retiring president of the Real Estate Exchange, speaking at the State meeting, called attention to a decline in the production of housing units, shown by the falling off in building permits. He pointed out that large sums of money were seeking investment and that surveys show no large amount of unoccupied property. He drew the conclusion that a building revival is to be looked for.

"Building and Loan Annals of 1930," a 600-page book, is to be issued tomorrow by the United States Building and Loan League, with headquarters in Chicago. It represents the work of 50 persons, authorities in the building and loan, real estate, construction and advertising fields.

THREE PROPOSALS FOR CITY-COUNTY MERGER

Proponents of Measure Beaten in Last Election Seek Union in Some Form.

Continued public interest in the plan of merging St. Louis and St. Louis County as Greater St. Louis under certain stated conditions, which was defeated in the recent election, was urged by the City and County Metropolitan Development Committee and the Citizens' Metropolitan Committee in a statement yesterday, in which three alternatives for a new movement for a metropolitan government were described.

The plan of the two committees was killed for the time being at least, by the defeat of the enabling constitutional amendment, proposition No. 5, on the general election ballot. Had this amendment been adopted, a metropolitan charter would have been submitted to local vote early next year.

The statement called on Mayor Miller, Comptroller Nolte and President Neun of the Board of Aldermen, who compose the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in the city, and the County Judges, or administrative officials, and the Circuit Judges of the county to give the people their views as to what constructive steps can be taken to obtain desirable governmental co-operation between city and county. All of these officials were opposed to Proposition No. 5. The Board of Estimate and the Circuit Judges of the county attacked it in formal declarations.

One alternative for reviving their Greater St. Louis plan, the committee announced, was to ask the 1931 State Legislature to resubmit the proposition to the people under the initiative. The second is the appointment of a new board of freeholders, made up equally of city and county representatives, to draft a new plan of union. The existing 1924 amendment will make establishment of such a board possible next year, as five years will then have elapsed since the first board submitted an annexation proposal that was defeated by the county.

The committees promised to give a new Board of Freeholders every assistance, but said: "It is doubtful whether such a board can ever achieve the miracle of pleasing the political forces in the city and county simultaneously." The statement goes on:

"The third alternative is the initiation at the election in 1932 of the substance of proposition No. 5, somewhat modified to obviate so far as possible the misunderstandings of its purport most commonly encountered in the recent campaign. It is too early to say whether or not this will be done. We are of the opinion, however, that the prospects of merger are brighter in this direction than in any other. We believe that such an amendment and a satisfactory charter under it can and ought to be adopted."

EXCHANGE TO HOLD ELECTION TUESDAY

President and Six Directors to Be Chosen at Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting and election of a president and six directors of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange will be held in the Exchange headquarters, room 100, Wainwright Building, Tuesday.

Bernard F. Dickmann, president and treasurer of the Joseph F. Dickmann Real Estate Co., is the only candidate for the presidency of the Exchange, and there are but six candidates for the six vacancies on the Board of Directors. The candidates for the board are Chester A. Dougherty, president of the Dougherty Real Estate Co.; William A. Federer of the Federer Realty Co.; Charles Rippin, vice president of the Hammelmann-Spackler Real Estate Co.; Eugene D. Ruth Jr. of the Francis-Perry-Ruth Realty Co.; Carl G. Stifel, president, John H. Gundlach & Co., and Philip H. Zepp, real estate officer of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co.

The hold-over directors are William E. Caulfield of the William E. Caulfield Real Estate Co.; Alex M. Cornwell of the F. J. Cornwell Real Estate Co.; Edward L. Kuhs of the Kuhs Realty Co.; Monroe H. Rodemyer, president of M. H. Rodemyer & Co.; Alfred D. Ruth, president of Julius Haller Realty Co., and Clarence M. Turley.

The president is the only officer elected by the members at large, the other officers being elected by the Board of Directors from its number.

THEODORE COPELAND BUYS JAMES M'KELVEY RESIDENCE

The James McKelvey residence on the west side of Denny road, approximately 100 feet north of the Clayton road, together with five and a half acres, has been purchased by Theodore Copeland, who recently came to St. Louis from Dallas, Tex. The transaction was handled by W. P. Shelp & Co., in connection with H. O. Byrd.

Copeland is with the International Shoe Co.

WESTMINSTER PLACE HOME SOLD BY A. T. TERRY & CO.

Albert T. Terry & Co. reports having closed the sale of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Davis, 5149 Westminster place, to Dr. Robert J. Terry, who will occupy it shortly. The house has 10 rooms, three baths and hot-water heat. The lot is 50x150.

RESIDENCE AT 6235 WYDOWN SOLD TO GEORGE E. NIEDT

R. A. & G. B. Bullock report the sale of the 12-room colonial residence at 6235 Wydown boulevard to George E. Niedt. The house overlooks Forest Park.

STOCK TURN REVERSED ON PRICE CRASH ANNIVERSARY

After Retreating to Lowest Level Since July, 1927, the List Marches Forward Virtually Without Interruption for Five Days, Regaining 24 Per Cent of Ground Lost Since Sept. 10.

ACTIVE SATURDAY SESSION TRADING

Realizing Sales Keep the Advances to Normal Size in Number of Active Issues but a Few Close 4 Points Higher—Advances of 1 to 2 Points Numerous — Sales 1,710,340 Shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The anniversary week of the turning point of the grand smash in the stock market a year ago saw another turning point this week, bringing the widest uninterrupted recovery since the violent rebound from the 1929 bottom.

After retreating to the lowest level since July, 1927, on Monday, a downward movement lasting exactly two months was reversed, and the list marched forward virtually without interruption for five days, regaining 24 per cent of the ground lost since Sept. 10.

The list had not closed higher on five consecutive days since May, and at no time since November of last year had such extensive an advance been achieved without a setback. The day-to-day advances were not spectacular, but the total gain for the five-day period, as measured by the price index of 90 stocks, was 11.9 points. As recently as Oct. 1 this index gained 6.6 points in a single day, but that upturns was lost during the next few days.

Recovery Comparatively Quiet.

The decline of the past two months was, of course, a tame affair compared to the frenzy of public liquidation a year ago, and the recovery was also comparably quiet. The so-called general public has been practically out of the market for several months. Some observers have likened the recent decline to the "silent panic" or "rich man's panic" of 1903.

On Monday the price index of 90 shares touched 123.4, or 16.8 points below the bottom level of 1929, reached on Nov. 13, but the index at the end of the week was within 4.9 points of the 1929 low.

As to whether the absolute low point of the bear market which began with the crash last year had been reached, commission house opinion varied widely. Some felt that recent levels would require further testing, while the more optimistic ranged from hazarding a guess that the low point had been reached, to expressions of firm conviction that it had.

One of the larger commission houses felt that the readjustment had gone far enough to justify reduction of its margin requirements. The historically minded, furthermore, pointed out that the absolute lows of previous bear markets have frequently been recorded about a year after the first precipitant decline.

Waves of Short Covering.

The recovery was accelerated by successive waves of short covering, and most commission houses reported little inclination to buy stocks on advances.

The brokerage loan figures for the trading week ended Tuesday showed the large decline of $219,000,000, reducing the loan total to $2,235,000,000, or about one-third of the high level reached in September, 1929. The decline in the past two months was close to $1,000,000,000. With such an enormous volume of deflation completed, Wall Street felt that most of the weakened holdings which had been believed to be hanging over the market must have been liquidated.

Particularly unsettling during recent weeks has been the decline in the bond market to new low levels, as measured by the averages, for 1930. The demand for bonds picked up decidedly late this week, and while the recovery was moderate, this was regarded as dis-

STOCK TURN REVERSED ON PRICE CRASH ANNIVERSARY

After Retreating to Lowest Level Since July, 1927, the List Marches Forward Virtually Without Interruption for Five Days, Regaining 24 Per Cent of Ground Lost Since Sept. 10.

ACTIVE SATURDAY SESSION TRADING

Realizing Sales Keep the Advances to Normal Size in Number of Active Issues but a Few Close 4 Points Higher—Advances of 1 to 2 Points Numerous — Sales 1,710,340 Shares.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The anniversary week of the turning point of the grand smash in the stock market a year ago saw another turning point this week, bringing the widest uninterrupted recovery since the violent rebound from the 1929 bottom.

After retreating to the lowest level since July, 1927, on Monday, a downward movement lasting exactly two months was reversed, and the list marched forward virtually without interruption for five days, regaining 24 per cent of the ground lost since Sept. 10.

The list had not closed higher on five consecutive days since May, and at no time since November of last year had such extensive an advance been achieved without a setback. The day-to-day advances were not spectacular, but the total gain for the five-day period, as measured by the price index of 90 stocks, was 11.9 points. As recently as Oct. 1 this index gained 6.6 points in a single day, but that upturn was lost during the next few days.

Recovery Comparatively Quiet.

The decline of the past two months was, of course, a tame affair compared to the frenzy of public liquidation a year ago, and the recovery was also comparably quiet. The so-called general public has been practically out of the market for several months. Some observers have likened the recent decline to the "silent panic" or "rich man's panic" of 1903.

On Monday the price index of 90 shares touched 123.4, or 16.8 points below the bottom level of 1929, reached on Nov. 13, but the index at the end of the week was within 49 points of the 1929 low.

As to whether the absolute low point of the bear market which began with the crash last year had been reached, commission house opinion varied widely. Some felt that recent levels would require further testing, while the more optimistic ranged from hazarding a guess that the low point had been reached, to expressions of firm conviction that it had.

One of the larger commission houses felt that the readjustment had gone far enough to justify reduction of its margin requirements. The historically minded, furthermore, pointed out that the absolute lows of previous bear markets have frequently been recorded about a year after the first precipitant decline.

Waves of Short Covering.

The recovery was accelerated by successive waves of short covering, and most commission houses reported little inclination to buy stocks on advances.

The brokerage loan figures for the trading week ended Tuesday showed the large decline of $219,000,000, reducing the loan total to $2,235,000,000, or about one-third of the high level reached in September, 1929. The decline in the past two months was close to $1,000,000,000. With such an enormous volume of deflation completed, Wall Street felt that most of the weakened holdings which had been believed to be hanging over the market must have been liquidated.

Particularly unsettling during recent weeks has been the decline in the bond market to new low levels as measured by the averages for 1930. The demand for bonds picked up decidedly late this week, and while the recovery was moderate, this was regarded as dis-

LARGE TURNOVER IN SHOE STOCK FEATURES WEEK

Most Sales Made at One Session—General Market Down With 14 Stocks Touching New 1929-30 Lows.

Business was of larger volume on the St. Louis Stock Exchange last week, but the greater trade was at the expense of prices. More than one-third of the aggregate trade, however, represented transactions in one issue. There were about 14 new lows for the 1929-30 period. Included in the latter were Brown Shoe, Bruce preferred, Corno Mills, Curtis Manufacturing, International Shoe, Mercantile-Commerce, Securities Investment and Wagner Electric. Wagner Electric, Brown Shoe and Securities Investment, however, showed net gains at close of week.

International Shoe was the individual feature as far as turnover, sales amounting to 4573 shares. The major part of the business in the issue took place at one session, when one house sold about 3500 shares, considerable of it at 50.

National Candy lost a fraction on turnover of more than 1600 shares. Curtis Mfg. declined a point. St. Louis Public Service common sold from 3½ to 2. Ely-Walker was unchanged.

Coca-Cola Bottling ranged down more than 7 points, recovering some. A ten per cent stock dividend has been voted. Missouri Portland lost 2 points and Corno Mills 1½ points. Scullin Steel was down 1⅛ points.

In the banking group Mercantile-Commerce sold at 220 to 200 on transactions involving 67 shares. The low price represented loss of 20 points. First National declined 2 on sales of 50 shares.

ST. LOUIS MARKET

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Nov. 15.—Total transactions of stocks on the local board this week amounted to 14,973 shares, compared with 10,683 shares a week ago. Total bond sales were $42,000, compared with $38,000 a week ago.

Following is a complete list of transactions on the exchange during last week, with dividend rates, sales, highest, lowest, closing prices and net changes:

Active Saturday Session.

The market nimbly hurdled profit-taking today and closed this week of improvement with further gains.

Realizing sales kept the advances to nominal size in a number of active issues, but a few closed 4 points higher and advances of 1 to 2 were numerous. Sales of 1,710,340 shares represented an active Saturday.

In view of the sustained advance beginning Tuesday a technical reaction in the week-end session would not have been surprising; hence the showing today was regarded as encouraging.

News was largely constructive—and the market's hunger for good news has been convincingly demonstrated in the last few days. Report of expanding operations in the automobile industry, the largest foreign sales of copper in more than a year and an estimate that steel plants in the Youngstown district would run at larger ratios to capacity next week gave further support to sentiment.

In addition, Wall Street placed a favorable interpretation on Thomas W. Lamont's remarks regarding business at last night's meeting of the Academy of political Science. This was the first such statement by a J. P. Morgan & Co. partner in some time and his belief that "not only shall we win through, but we are winning through" caused comment.

The market opened irregular and drifted lower during the first half hour when losses of about a point developed in representative industrials and utilities. The selling quickly dried up, however, coincident with an upward move in Warner Brothers Pictures, which led to buying throughout the amusement group. Shorts in those shares experienced some discomfort, and Fox, Loew's, Warner Bros., Paramount and General Theater Equipment all closed 2 points higher.

Coppers React.

Coppers, which had led the march out of the slump, offered less resistance and reacted, largely upon realizing. National Lead was the leader of the metals, rising nearly 10 points. Steels improved, reflecting the move to make a stand on prices. Independents joined U. S. Steel and Bethlehem in a 1 to 2 point rally. Rails added liberally to their recent gains and the utilities, with International Telephone a leader, also made further progress.

There were reports that Copper Producers would seek to stabilize the price at 12½ cents and would be content to have the metal hold at that level in view of the large volume of unsold stocks.

Although General Electric, American Telephone, American Can and North American showed only fractional gains at the close, there was net improvement of a point or more in Westinghouse, U. S. Steel, General Foods, Radio, National Biscuit, American Tobacco "B", Erie first preferred, New Haven, International Telephone, Bethlehem Steel and Eastman Kodak. Newton Steel, du Pont, Union Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Columbian Carbon, and Northern Pacific advanced 2 to 3 while Case and Allied Chemical were up 4 and Norfolk & Western nearly 5.

Chrysler paid little attention to the poor earnings statement and dividend cut, closing half a point higher. Anaconda, American Smelting, Kennecott, Phelps Dodge and Grangby lost from a fraction to 1½, but Cerro de Pasco gained one.

Wheat Is Heavy.

Wheat was heavy and futures finished as much as 2 cents lower in sympathy with a break in Winnipeg. Large offerings in corn put that grain 2 to 3 cents down. Active cotton months, with the exception of October, which was a point up, closed slightly off.

The general strike in Madrid unsettled the Spanish peseta to the extent of half a dozen points. Other European exchanges eased slightly.

EXPORT COPPER PRICE ADVANCED TO 12.30 CENTS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Copper Exporters, Inc., today advanced the export price of copper 1⅛ cents to 12.30 cents a pound, c. i. f. Euripean base ports.

The advance brought the foreign price in line with the domestic price of 12 cents a pound, delivered, established yesterday. The domestic price advance represented an increase of 2½ cents in three days from the 9½-cent level which had held for several weeks.

Foreign sales of copper this morning amounted to approximately 18,000,000 pounds, described in the trade as the largest for more than a year. Export sales yesterday totaled 11,500,000 pounds, and total sales on foreign account so far this month aggregate 135,000,000 pounds.

Domestic sales were said to be small, although some metal was reported to have changed hands at 12 cents a pound, delivered.

WEEKLY COPPER REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—There was rapid advance in copper on a more urgent demand which sent the price up to 12 cents for electrolytic delivered in the Connecticut Valley, or 2½ cents above the price quoted at the end of the previous week. Reports that producers representing 90 per cent of the industry had agreed to curtail output by 20,000 tons monthly stimulated buying, especially from abroad, as foreign consumers had not purchased as far ahead as domestic fabricators. The latter are now said to be well supplied with metal. Mine curtailment is expected to bring production about in line with consuming demand.

The tin market developed considerable activity and strength toward the close of the week. The bullish developments in copper were said to have brought about this condition.

A firm undertone was apparent in lead. There was considerable activity from consuming quarters thought to represent buying for November and December requirements.

Zinc, while barely steady, was not active. Sellers were unwilling to press the market in view of the strength in other metals.

Antimony was firm and unchanged.

TURPENTINE, FLAX AND LINSEED

Linseed oil in 1 to 4 barrel lots was quoted at 10c per pound for raw and 10.4c for boiled.

Dry Goods Market.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Cotton gray goods were in fair demand today and print cloths and broadcloths were of interest for nearby delivery on contracts running into next year. Fine goods were quiet. Burlaps were reported quiet, with little change. Some scarcity was reported in 100 Denier acetate rayon yarns, though the market was generally dull in trend. Raw silks advanced in Japan, and held here in price due to market uncertainty. Broadsilk hosiery inventories were heavy and moving slowly.

ADVANCES OF 1 TO 7 POINTS ON THE CURB

Market Ends Week With One of the Most Vigorous Upturns of Recovery.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The Curb Market ended the week with one of the most vigorous upturns of the five-day recovery today. Sales for the half-day session totaled 413,200 shares, and a long list of prominent issues closed 1 to 7 points higher.

In the utilities, American Gas mounted 5; Public Service of Northern Illinois and Utilities Power & Light 4; Electric Bond & Share 2; American Superpower, Central States Electric and Middle West Utilities 1 point. Oils were also firm to strong. Gulf gained 2 points; Vacuum, Humble and Kentucky 1 point. Cities Service and Columbia A closed ¾ higher.

Some profit-taking came into the copper shares, but Noranda rose a point more. Consolidated Copper slipped back 1 and Newmont 2.

In the industrials and specialties, a rebound in some of the amusements was conspicuous. This was in sympathy with the rally of the motion pictures on the big board. Technicolor shot up more than 4 to 14⅛. General Theaters Equipment gained 2. Columbia Pictures, however, again declined to a new low.

Mead Johnson rose 7 points, and Deere, Dresser A, Driver Harris, U. S. Radiator, Niles-Bement-Pond, U. S. Finishing, U. S. Foil B and Crocker Wheeler Electric gained 1 to 5 in light trading. American Cyanamid B gained ¾. Masey Harris, however, dropped 4 to a new low. Aviation Corporation of the Americas lost yesterday's two-point gain and Anglo-Chilean declined 1⅝.

Holding and investment company issues moved narrowly. United Founders rallied ½ to 10½.

COTTON TRADE COMPARATIVELY QUIET, CHANGES SMALL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Trading in cotton was comparatively quiet today, with early declines influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables, followed by rallies on trade buying and covering. Advances met some Southern selling and realizing, however, and after selling up from 11.38c to 11.50c, March closed at 11.43c, compared with 11.45c at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady net 5 points lower to 1 point higher, all the more active months being lower except October, which was 1 point higher. Spot quiet; middling, 11.10c.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 7 points, with the market showing net losses of 4 to 8 points during the first few minutes under some Southern and local selling, which was attributed partly to realizing or liquidation. The offerings were not heavy, however, and appeared to be quite readily absorbed by the trade or shorts around 10.92c for new December and 11.64c for May.

This early decline was followed by rallies during the middle of the morning on trade buying, particularly in the spring months and covering by recent sellers for over the week-end. New December advanced to 11.03c and May to 11.75c, but appeared to meet a little more cotton at these figures, while there was a renewal of Southern selling late in the morning although it was in comparatively small volume. Closing quotations showed reactions of 4 to 8 points from the best prices of the morning.

Further switching from December to later months was reported and trading otherwise was attributed largely to the usual week-end adjustments of the technical position. Except for the relatively easy showing of Liverpool, no particular news factor was mentioned in connection with the fluctuations and some thought the small volume of business reflected a disposition to await developments following the rather nervous and erratic fluctuations noted earlier in the week.

Liverpool cable said that hedging and liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling on the decline in that market and reported a fair cloth turnover for the British home trade and Argentine but smaller sales at Shanghai auctions.

Week-end reviews of the domestic goods market suggested that there had been something of a lull in business as compared with the previous week. The amount of cotton on shipboard at United States ports awaiting clearance was estimated at 195,000, against 197,000 last year.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Total sales amounted to $4,504,000 compared with $11,445,000 yesterday, $5,803,000 a week ago and holiday a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were $2,439,827,000, compared with $2,703,604,000 a year ago and $2,651,433,000 two years ago.

Quotations on all Liberty bonds are in dollars and thirty-seconds of a dollar. That is, for instance, a sale printed 99—24 means $99 and 24 thirty-seconds of a dollar, and not $99.24.

Following is a complete list of bonds traded in on the New York Stock Exchange today, giving sales, highest, lowest and closing prices. In sales, 000 omitted.

New York Coffee.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Trading in coffee futures was very quiet today with prices slightly easier under small offerings. No. 7 contracts opened 2 higher to 4 lower and closed net unchanged to 4 lower. Sales 2000. Santos contracts opened nominally unchanged and closed quiet 1 to 5 lower. Sales 2000. Closing quotations: No. 7 contracts, Dec. 6.60c; March 5.90c; May 5.70c; July 5.60c; Sept. 5.49c. Santos: Dec. 10.30c; March 9.53c; May 9.20c; July 9.03c; Sept. 8.88c.

Spot coffee dull. Rio 7s, 7⅜c. Santos 4s 11½@12.00c; no fresh cost and freight offers were reported from Brazil.

Owing to the holiday in Brazil no advices were received from the primary markets. Brazilian port receipts yesterday were 54,000. Jundiahy receipts 19,000.

STEEL MARKET.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Steel unchanged.

DOMESTIC BONDS IN DEMAND AT WEEK-END

Gains Mostly Fractional but Extend Through a Large Field of Issues.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—The demand for domestic corporation bonds was the feature of the short market session today.

Net gains were mostly fractional, but extended through a large field of issues, and the average of 30 bonds showed an advance of two-tenths of a point. Compared with a loss of nine-tenths of a point in the first three days of the week, averages stood at 98.4 for a net loss of only two-tenths for the week.

While domestics forged ahead, United States Governments rested at the highs established this week. The only inquiry was for Liberty fourth 4¼c, which were steady at the year's peak price.

Except for activity in a handful of issues, trading in foreigns was very quiet, but the upward movement reflected some improvement in sentiment as the predonderance of changes during the week has been on the downside. Austrian bonds were a strong feature, rising from 1 to 2 points. Latin American bonds that had been reactionary most of the week were a little better, although price movement was mixed.

Stock privilege issues attracted further attention from buyers. The rally in amusement shares was reflected in bonds of several companies. General Theaters 6s closed 3 points higher, and Pathe 7s rallied 4½. Warner Brothers 6s advanced 1¼. Nearly the entire group of railroad convertibles improved on brisk bidding.

A marked change developed in industrials and some of them were in the forefront of the forward movement. Armour & Co. 5½s were strong, gaining 1⅛. Certainteed 5½s, Chile Copper 5s, Indiana Limestone 6s, International Cement 5s, International Match 5s, McKesson & Robbins 5½s, Phillips Petroleum 5¼s, B. F. Goodrich 6s and Remington Arms 6s were much improved.

Demand for railroad obligations was a continuation of the buying movement started Thursday. Large gains were registered by Great Northern 5s, Illinois Central 4¾s, International Great Northern first 6s, Union Pacific 4½s, Seaboard All Florida 6s, and Pennsylvania 4½s. Soo 5½s, recently at a new year's low, was 3¾ points higher.

A few utilities were adjusted to the higher level. International Telephone 5s rose 1¼ and International Hydro Electric 6s were up 3½. Postal Telegraph 5s, however, reacted more than a point, and Chicago Union Elevated 5s declined nearly 5.

New York Sugar.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—Raw sugar was firm again early today and although no business was reported it developed that late yesterday a refiner bought 25,000 bags of Cuban for December shipment at 3.48 delivered, an advance of 1 point over the last previous sale. There were further buyers at this price, but holders were asking 3.50.

Raw futures opened unchanged to 3 points lower under liquidation and selling by houses with European connections, influenced in part by the easier London market. The offerings were soon absorbed, however, and in the late forenoon prices rallied on covering and buying by houses with trade and Cuban connections. The early loss was all recovered with the market closing net unchanged on all positions, except January which was 1 point lower. The Cuban Senate passed the sugar bill yesterday and it was reported that President Machado would sign it today, but as it was generally expected it was apparently discounted and had no effect on the market. Approximate sales, 17,300 tons. Dec. closed 1.40c, Jan. 1.45c, March 1.53c, May 1.60c, July 1.67c, Sept. 1.73c. There were no sales in the No. 2 contract.

Refined prices were advanced to 4.75c at the close today, but the volume of business at the 4.65c level was only of moderate proportions. Second hands were still available at around 4.55c.

Sugar futures closed steady; approximated sales, 17,300 tons. Dec., $1.40; Jan., $1.45; March, $1.53; May, $1.60; July, $1.67; Sept., $1.73.

SALESMEN

We have a place in our organization for one or two high-grade men with real sales ability. We prefer men with investment training but this is not essential if you are a hustler. To the man who believes in himself and is willing to work we have an unusual proposition to offer.

Our compensation plan is very attractive.

DECEMBER WHEAT UNCHANGED AS MARKET DECLINES

Winnipeg Price Has Sharp Setback — Stocks of Wheat in Canada Reported as 27,000,000 Bushels Above Year Ago.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Nov. 15.—December wheat featured the closing session of the week, ruling unchanged at close as May wheat and the two corn deliveries went downward. Weakness at Winnipeg, where prices fell sharply, exerted bearish influence on more distant deliveries. The basis for the buying of December wheat was left to conjecture. A report that stocks of wheat in Canada were 27,000,000 bushels larger than a year ago and that the day's receipts at Winnipeg were double those of year ago, were called factors. Pressure of supplies in Canada and at Liverpool was reported. A Canadian dispatch told of reported effort in behalf of prices.

Opening fractionally lower, wheat for May delivery declined more than cent early. Liverpool closed 1⅛ to 1⅝d lower. Winnipeg was off nearly 2c early.

December wheat opened at 72½, May wheat 74c, December corn 72¼c and May corn 76½c.

Local wheat receipts which were 67,200 bushels, compared with 49,000 last week and 47,600 last year included 26 cars local and 22 through. Corn receipts which were 46,200 bushels compared with 51,800 last week and 32,200 last year included 29 cars local and four through. Oats receipts which were 48,400 bushels compared with 44,000 last week and 19,800 last year included five cars local and seven through. Hay receipts were 12 cars local and 21 through.

RANGE OF PRICES.

WHEAT—No. 1 red winter, 85c; No. 1 hard winter, 74@75c.

Flour and Meal.

Flour market was dull. The only sales reported were 1000 brls high soft patent (by Southern Illinois mill to the South) $6.05 in 98-cotton and 1200 and 500 brls hard and 210 brls soft domestic by local mills on private terms.

FLOUR—Nominal values in new jute: Soft patents $4.30 to $4.75 (special brands in cotton from $5.25 to $5.45 up to $5.65 to $6.05; straights, $3.50 to $3.75; 95 per cent, $3.75 to $4; low grades, $2.80 to $3; hard 95 per cent, $3.50 to $3.95; straights, $3.40 to $3.60; light patent, $5 in cotton; first clears, $3.25 to $3.50; low grades, $2.80 to $3; spring patent, $4.40 to $4.75; No. 2 Seminola f. o. b. Chicago, 2⅝c per lb. bulk for No. 2, 2⅜c for special and 2⅛c for No. 3.

RYE FLOUR—In car lots in jute: White patent, $3.20, medium $3.10 and medium dark $3.

CORN MEAL—Cream meal was $2.06 and standard meal $1.90 per 100 lbs.

St. Louis Hay Market.

Hay sales reported were as follows: Timothy, 1 car No. 2 $21, 1 car No. 1, $22; clover-mixed, 1 car No. 2 light-mixed $19, 1 car do do $20; prairie, 1 car No. 1 $18.

Timothy, No. 1, $22 to $23; No. 2, $18 to $21. Clover-mixed, No. 1, $21 to $22; No. 2, $17 to $20. Clover, No. 1, $20 to $22; No. 2 $17 to $19. Prairie, No. 1, $18 to $19; No. 2, $14 to $17. Alfalfa, No. 1 to choice, $28 to $30; standard, $23 to $25; No. 2, $18 to $22.

St. Louis Bran Market.

Cash wheat feed was easier and dull. A mill here quoted pure bran $19 and gray shorts $21.50 and quotations otherwise (immediate) were: Standard bran $19, pure bran $19.25, gray shorts $21.50 to $22, standard middlings $19.50. Oat-feed was offered at $8.30. White hominy feed was nominally $25. Sales reported were as follows: Car pure bran (immediate shipment) $19 and car standard millings $19.50. To go out, 1 split car soft bran $19 and middlings $22.50, 1 split car pure bran $19.50 and gray shorts $22 and 100 tons gray shorts (December) $22.

DECEMBER WHEAT STRENGTH FEATURES LOWER MARKET

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Despite an exciting collapse of prices at Winnipeg, tremendous buying kept the Chicago market for December delivery of wheat as steady as Gibraltar. Support of the Winnipeg market appeared at least temporarily to consist of notice of proposed new measures for price stabilization. Meanwhile, deliveries of wheat in Chicago, other than December, were without any adequate prop, and responding to word of augmented pressure of supplies both in Canada and Europe, Chicago May and July wheat contracts registered new low-price records.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were irregular, varying from but ⅛c decline to a drop of 3c, as compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed 2@2⅜c down, oats ¼@1¼c off, and provisions showing 12@27c setback.

All sorts of rumors were afloat as to the significance of the huge volume of purchasing of Chicago December wheat contracts recently. The big buying of December wheat here which started as soon as the market opened, remained in full swing right up to the closing gong. As a result, the entire extent of December wheat price fluctuation in Chicago was held within ¼c a bushel, although meanwhile December wheat at Winnipeg showed at times a fall of nearly 5c.

On the other hand, talk was current that Duluth was shipping 750,000 bushels of wheat to Chicago, a procedure that under normal conditions would be like the proverbial sending of coals to Newcastle. Acting as an all-day weight on wheat values was a report also that stocks of wheat in Canada were now 27,000,000 bushels larger than a year ago, not including wheat still left on farms, and that receipts of wheat at Winnipeg today were nearly double those of a year ago. In contrast, it was contended by trade authorities here that actual stocks of leading grains in the United States were less than the average of normal disappearance. It was also contended that farm use of domestic wheat as feed this season was even heavier than any forecasts to date have suggested.

Latest advices regarding wheat crops in Argentina were that threshing of new 1930 wheat already had started in the north with good yields and weight and that trans-Atlantic buyers were taking Argentine wheat at 73c a bushel, delivered in Europe costs freight and insurance included. This is exactly the same price as December delivery of wheat in Chicago was held at today, under circumstances regarded on all sides as little short of sensational.

Forced down by stop-loss selling that resulted largely from weakness of deferred deliveries of wheat, the corn market and oats as well, suffered sharp breaks in price. All deliveries of rye, too, went lower and reached a new bottom record for the season.

CANADIAN WHEAT PRICE PLAN TO GO TO PREMIER

By the Canadian Press.

OTTAWA, Nov. 15.—Until details of a proposal by Prairie Premiers to fix wheat prices are laid before Premier Bennett, now abroad, members of the Government will make no comment.

Intention of the Premiers of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta to seek assistance of the Dominion Government in stabilizing wheat prices recalls that toward the end of the war, when prices of foodstuffs were fluctuating widely and there was much speculation, an organization known as the Board of Grain Supervisors was set up by the Government to supervise the marketing of grain.

Cash advances were made to farmers on their grain and participating receipts given them to be cashed on a pro rata basis when the grain was sold by the board. The Board of Grain Supervisors handled the crops of 1917-18 and 1918-19.

In 1919 the Canada Wheat Board was constituted with similar powers. It functioned until late in 1921. The board fixed prices and handled the sale of the entire crop.

These bodies had for their primary purpose prevention of inflated prices. The present proposal seeks to prevent prices dropping too low.

SLUMP IN WINNIPEG WHEAT.

By the Associated Press.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 15.—On a bear toboggan, wheat prices again glided downward to all-time record low levels on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, and at the close prices were 6¼ to 8 cents lower than at yesterday morning's opening.

Today's losses ranged from 3¼ to 4⅜ cents and were ascribed here to weakness of Liverpool cables and limited overnight exports. No comment was forthcoming about the effect of a report that western provinces would seek governmental fixing of wheat prices to keep them from going lower.

November wheat closed at 60, down 4 cents; December at 58⅜ to 58⅝, a decline of 4⅜ cents; May at 64⅞ to 64⅝, which was 3⅝ lower, and July at 65⅜, down 3¼.

IN MEMORIAM

ALBERS—In loving memory of our dear parents, Catherine Albers and August Albers, who departed this life June 26, 1928, and Nov. 15, 1928.
In our homes they are fondly remembered,
Sweet memories cling to their names.
God took them home, it was His will,
But in our hearts they liveth still.
Sadly missed by their children, grandchildren, sister and brothers.

BERGHOEFER — In loving memory of Marie Berghoefer, who departed Nov. 17, 1929.
Not dead to us who loved her,
Not lost but gone before;
She lives with us in memory,
And will forever more.
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN, HUSBAND, SISTERS AND GRANDDAUGHTER. (c)

BIRCHER—In memory of Cornelia Bircher who passed away Nov. 13, 1927:
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million—that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgement, always right;
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by yours friends and all whom you knew.
Our wonderful mother—that mother was you.
HUSBAND, SON AND DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

BOLIN—Mrs. Viola; in memory of our dear mother who departed this life one year ago, Nov. 13, 1929.
From this world of sorrow
To the land of peace and rest,
God has taken you, dear mother,
Where you have found eternal rest.
Sadly missed by CHILDREN.

BONNEVILLE—In memory of my beloved daughter, Laura Bonneville (Schowe), who passed on Nov. 13, 1929:
Sadly missed by
HER MOTHER, SISTERS and all who loved her.

BUERGER—In loving memory of our darling daughter and sister, Mildred Annie Buerger, who departed this life seven years ago, Nov. 14, 1923:
Dearest daughter and sister you are not forgotten,
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER, BROTHERS AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

CASPER—In loving memory of our dear mother, Bertha Casper (nee Appel), who departed this life Nov. 14, 1929:
Dear mother you are not forgotten
Though on earth you are no more;
Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before.
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN. (c)

DUGGE—In loving memory of our dear mother, Emma Dugge, who departed this life, one year ago, Nov. 18, 1929.
When a mother breathes her last farewell,
The stroke means more than tongue can tell.
The world seems quite another place,
Without the smile of mother's face.
Sadly missed by daughters, son-in-laws and grandchildren.

In loving memory of Vera Crain who passed away Nov. 13, 1929.
One year has passed since that sad day,
The one we loved was called away;
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still.
Sadly missed by family.

FIEBIG—In memory of our dear father and husband, Walter Fiebig, who died one year ago, Nov. 13, 1929:
We grieved when he departed,
Time was too short to say farewell
To those he knew and loved so well.
We miss his coming footsteps,
We miss him everywhere,
Home is not what it used to be
Since our father is not there.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

FINNEGAN—In loving memory of our dear mother, Johanna Halley Finnegan, who departed this life two years ago, Nov. 13.
Sadly missed by HER CHILDREN. (c)

FISCHL, RUTH—In loving memory who passed away three years ago:
Her memory is as dear today
As in the hours she passed away.
Sadly missed by
ALL WHO LOVED HER.

GORHAM—In loving memory of Charles Gorham; passed away Nov. 15, 1928.
Sadly missed by
THOSE WHO LOVE HIM. (c)

A postal will bring one of the men or women seeking employment under situations wanted in today's Want pages.

IN MEMORIAM

LANGE—In loving memory of Theo. A. Lange, who departed this life Nov. 15, 1922:
We do not forget you, nor do we intend.
We think of you often, and will to the end.
Gone and forgotten by some you may be
But dear to our memory you ever will be.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, BROTHERS AND SISTERS.

MALLOY, MARGARET—Died Nov. 16 1928:
Dearest daughter, how we miss you
Since from earth you passed away.
Sad our hearts, but sweet the memory
As we think of you today.
FAMILY. (c)

MATTHIAS—In loving memory of my dear husband, M. H. Matthias, who died Nov 19, 1929:
My heart seems withered in sorrow,
The time is lonesome and blue,
I dread the expected tomorrow
You don't know how I miss you.
Sadly missed by wife, LILLIE.

NELSON—In loving memory of my dear husband, James W. Nelson, who passed away three years ago, Nov. 20, 1927.
Sadly missed by his wife,
MRS. MARGARET NELSON.

NESTOR—In loving memory of George R. Nester, passed away Nov. 18, 1926.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

SENN—In loving memory of our darling baby, Raymond Senn, who passed away Nov. 15, 1929.
Remembrance is a golden chain,
Death tries to break but all in vain.
To have, to love and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, SISTER, BROTHER.

STEINKAMP—In loving memory of B. F. W. Steinkamp, who departed this life on Nov. 18, 1929:
One year has passed, oh, how we miss him;
Friends may think the wound is healed.
Little do they know the sorrow
That lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by

SALESMEN WANTED

SPECIALTY SALESMEN

If you are bucking a stone wall, these days, trying to sell, if you get the "No money—can't buy" argument from every other prospect, get in touch with us—your troubles are over.

Here's a proposition on which green men, with no experience, clear $200 to $400 a week. For the first time, you don't have to worry about competition. Here's a line that saves you the non-profit calls that have sent one day after another into the red-ink side of the ledger. Below are a few of the high-spots—write for full information:

First—Four $15 sales daily pay you $280 weekly. Each $7.50 sale pays you $5 or more. Second—The world's largest firms—National Brake Service, McCaskey Register Co., La Salle Extension University, National Radio Co. and scores of others nationally known are among our customers. It is a life-saver for the smallest business and professional man.

Customer guaranteed cash return 10 times the price he pays. Protected by organization bonded by surety companies with assets running into the millions. A signed certificate of guarantee goes with every sale.

An enormous repeat business. You get profit on all mail order business from your territory. Tremendous profits for your sub-agents.

You get a portfolio of dazzling letters from the world's most famous concerns. Show the specialty, show the letters, take the order. More sales per day than nine out of 10 lines. Foyer cleared $4920 in 3 months; Walker netted $165 first day; $1500 a month profit for M. L. Tardy; $802.50 clear for E. D. Ferrell from Sept. 6 to 20, and that was just his start. We've got more men like this—one better than the other. Write for full details and see for yourself.

Just a limited number of openings now. Tell all about yourself in the first letter. If you're the right man, we'll make it interesting enough for you. Write

F. E. ARMSTRONG, Pres.
DEPT. R-22. Mobile, Ala.

The following is quoted from a letter received by us from a prominent St. Louis official:

- "Since installation of your Motor Mosture, have increased gasoline mileage—3 5-10 miles per gallon."

The facsimile letter from this gentleman is a part of our sales kit. During the last few days we have made many installations for prominent St. Louis firms. Dozens of other letters in our sales kit showing equal or greater savings.

We are acting as our own distributors in St. Louis. Outside of St. Louis we will give exclusive territory to distributors who will produce a reasonable volume of business in proportion to the territory in which they operate.

For further details, call, write or wire.

SALESWOMEN WANTED

SALESWOMAN

Position carrying guaranteed income at start offered by a large national organization. Let others talk "Depression," our record-breaking sales echo "Prosperity," because the exclusive patented adjustable features, found in no other garment, has created such a tremendous demand for Charis that it stands today the largest selling single designed garment in America and present styles demand it for young, old, slender and stout women.

No matter how good you are if you haven't an article that's easy to sell your income suffers. Charis is backed by the strongest advertising ever placed behind a foundation garment.

Thousands of Charis wearers in St. Louis and vicinity are constantly re-ordering. A few established territories with hundreds of customers will soon be open to women who possess the following qualifications: Age 28-45, refined, neat appearance, pleasant personality, ability to furnish character references and work only 5 days a week, 9 to 4. Applicants who qualify will receive a complete Charis Merchandising Course in our training school at no expense and will be assigned an exclusive territory, inheriting hundreds established customers and entire income on repeat orders. No deliveries or fittings to make. Apply for interview Monday, 9:30 to 12:30, third floor, Columbia Bldg., 318 N. 8th st.; room 300. (c)

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

LE MARS, Iowa.

THE other day one of the most distinguished townsmen of Le Mars, a man of attainment in the law, a man of brilliant mind, educated far beyond the average, died and in his will disclosed an unnatural hatred that he had concealed all his life. It is like a ghastly joke. But Le Mars knows it is not a joke, since an estate of $40,000 to $80,000 is involved. Townsend Murphy Zink was somewhat eccentric perhaps during his life, but no more so than could be attributed to the fact that with his keen mind he saw the follies and foibles of mankind a little more clearly than did others, and with a sharp cynicism. He had a successful career, was married twice to good women, had a pleasant home, and an attractive daughter. Yet his will provided that his entire estate should go to a monument to perpetuate his loathing for women, a loathing, he confessed from beyond the grave, that he had felt for years.

Why should Zink, the brilliant lawyer, Zink, the excellent husband and father, provide that his small fortune go for the "Zink Womanless Library," an institution to be entirely free from the profane touch of women? Le Mars would like to know the answer to this question, and to other questions. So would Zink's widow, Mrs. Ida Bennison Zink. By the terms of the strange will she is permitted to remain in the house they shared together if she pays $40 a month rent.

"We were ideally happy," she says, weeping afresh at thought of her late husband's pronouncement on women.

Since his death she has gone through a process of rationalization and thinks that possibly he didn't really mean what he said about the opposite sex. She will not contest the will.

"If that is the way he wanted it, it's all right," she says. "I have not engaged an attorney for any legal protest.

"Mr. Zink had one of the finest libraries in the country and he read all the time. He often remarked that he wanted to make it possible for law students to have use of his library. I guess he wanted young men to have the benefit of his books for higher education. He wanted them to study seriously and thoughtfully."

The daughter by a previous marriage, Mrs. Margaretta T. Becker of Los Angeles, California, does not take such a kindly view. She has petitioned through attorneys here that the will be denied probate. She is mentioned in the document as follows:

"To my daughter, Margaretta T. Becker, the sum of five dollars, provided she shall survive me. If she shall not survive me then this provision shall be void."

In answer to her petition she terms the final testament of her father "an insult to the womanhood of America, a libel and a slander against public morals." It was her belief, she added, that Zink's hatred of women had grown into a partial insanity.

BUT friends and neighbors insist that he was sane to the very end of his life. That was why the will shocked them. They had virtually no warning of the perverse hatred that Zink harbored. There were one or two things, however, that are now being recalled.

For a time after the death of his first wife he went to parties in the town with a young Le Mars woman and then quite suddenly, ceased seeing her. She threatened him with a breach of promise suit. A friend, chancing to drop in his office at this time, found him in a towering rage. While the friend looked on, Zink drew out a blacksnake whip from his desk and plied it on the blanket covering a couch. When the blanket was whipped to shreds, he turned to his friend and said:

"That is what I'll do to that woman."

Once an associate, John Keenan, an attorney here, recalls that once Zink's prejudice cropped out and was the cause of his losing a lawsuit. It was a complicated case that finally went to the Minnesota Supreme Court. Throughout his brief to the high court Zink constantly referred to the woman on the opposite side of the case as a "hell cat." The Supreme Court denied his appeal for this reason, according to Keenan.

Then, too, in the column he wrote for a local newspaper during the last two years of his life, his antipathy was occasionally disclosed. It was an amusing satirical column that could take rank with those of metropolitan newspapers. He conducted it first under the heading, "Platitudes by Rev. Chib," and later with the pseudonym: "Rev. Yalpa at the Tabernacle." It contained aphorisms such as the following:

"Woman is the triumph of matter over mind, but that does not matter."

"Women are always pretending to worship men and are always asking men to do something for them."

"Nature created woman to nag man so he cannot forget her."

"Love a woman and she instantly becomes your tyrant."

"Trouble prevents a man from thinking; woman is trouble."

But these remarks were taken in a spirit of raillery. The second Mrs. Zink hadn't the slightest intimation of how her husband actually felt towards the members of her sex. The widow had known Mr. Zink for 30 years before their marriage. They had always been on friendly terms. His daughter and hers were very close chums.

Five years ago he asked her to marry him. It seemed a solution to the loneliness, the separateness of their lives. Zink had been a widower for 16 years. She had been widowed seven and a half years. He built an attractive bungalow. They were married and their life together went along smoothly and pleasantly. Her husband would never go to church with her, but Mrs. Zink was indulgent about this, for he gave money to several churches and in support of church work.

The town said he was an atheist. It is a common phenomenon still in Iowa towns, the village atheist. And often it is the most brilliant citizen, a substantial citizen, who stands out against the beliefs of his fellow townsmen. Zink's friends remember that he often spoke of founding a church of his own in Sioux City, not far away. He said he would select his own pastor and direct the principles of religion to be taught in his church. There were numerous volumes in his library on religions — Catholicism, Protestantism, Mohammedanism, Buddhism, Theosophy—and the philosophies of the atheists. One friend suggested that his hatred of women might have come from his long study of Schopenhauer, exponent of pessimism.

But despite his unusual views, Zink remained friendly to all creeds. This is best attested by the fact that at his funeral there were five Le Mars pastors, one of whom acted as a pallbearer.

In business Zink had a reputation for sterling honesty. One Le Mars attorney recalls a legal action in which Zink might have netted $40,000. Despite the fact that there was no written agreement binding Zink to relinquish the $40,000, the matter was settled without controversy.

One eccentricity of the attorney was the way in which he signed his checks. When signing a check for service or merchandise which he considered unjustified or exorbitant in price, he often wrote in the corner, "Fifteen dollars more for experience." Another time he noted, "In full payment of an honest debt by a damn fool."

And yet his friends insist that there was no question of insanity. And so does his widow. She admired the flashing brilliance of his mind. She sees no reason to alter her opinion.

"I KNEW he didn't like women in business," she says, "but he was always so gracious to them socially. I've heard him say he didn't like to do legal work for women: They were so difficult, or they were jealous by nature or something of the sort. He was always so wonderful to me. I don't know, of course."

The will was like a bombshell to her. Zink died after a short illness. There was a funeral, an impressive one, with the town paying tribute to its brilliant citizen. Then a few days later came the reading of the strange document that disclosed a side of her husband's nature she had never dreamed of. It was uncompromising in its wording. That first paragraph of explanation:

"My intense hatred of women is not of recent origin or development, or based upon any personal differences I ever had with them, but it is the result of my experiences with women, observation of them, and study of all literature and philosophical works, within my limited knowledge, relating thereto."

The machinery under which the trust fund and library are to be created is carefully framed in the will. The funds are to be invested in first farm mortgages or United States bonds and pyramided for 75 years.

The entire trust estate must remain tax exempt. There are numerous provisions for exemption from taxes and assessments. If Le Mars does not meet these, then any city of between 3000 and 10,000 in the State of Iowa may claim the womanless library. If no Iowa city can qualify it will go to Vermilion, South Dakota. If Vermilion fails to live up to the requirements, then any city of the population limits mentioned above may obtain the grant.

One thing, however, is certain about the library, and that is no woman shall have a part in it even remotely. This is made certain by the following extracts from the will:

"No women shall at any time, under any pretense, or for any purpose be allowed inside the library or upon the premises, or have anything to say about anything concerned therewith, nor appoint any person or persons to perform any act concerned therewith. No book, work of art, chart, magazine, picture, unless some production by a man, shall be allowed inside or outside the building. There shall be over each entrance to the building and premises a sign in these words: 'No Women Admitted.' It is my intention forever to exclude all women from the premises and having anything to say or do with the trust estate and library."

HE PROVIDED that before magazines could be placed in the reading room of the library, all articles by women would have to be cut out.

But 75 years is a long time and these problems may never arise. It is estimated that at the end of that period the trust fund should be close to $3,000,000.

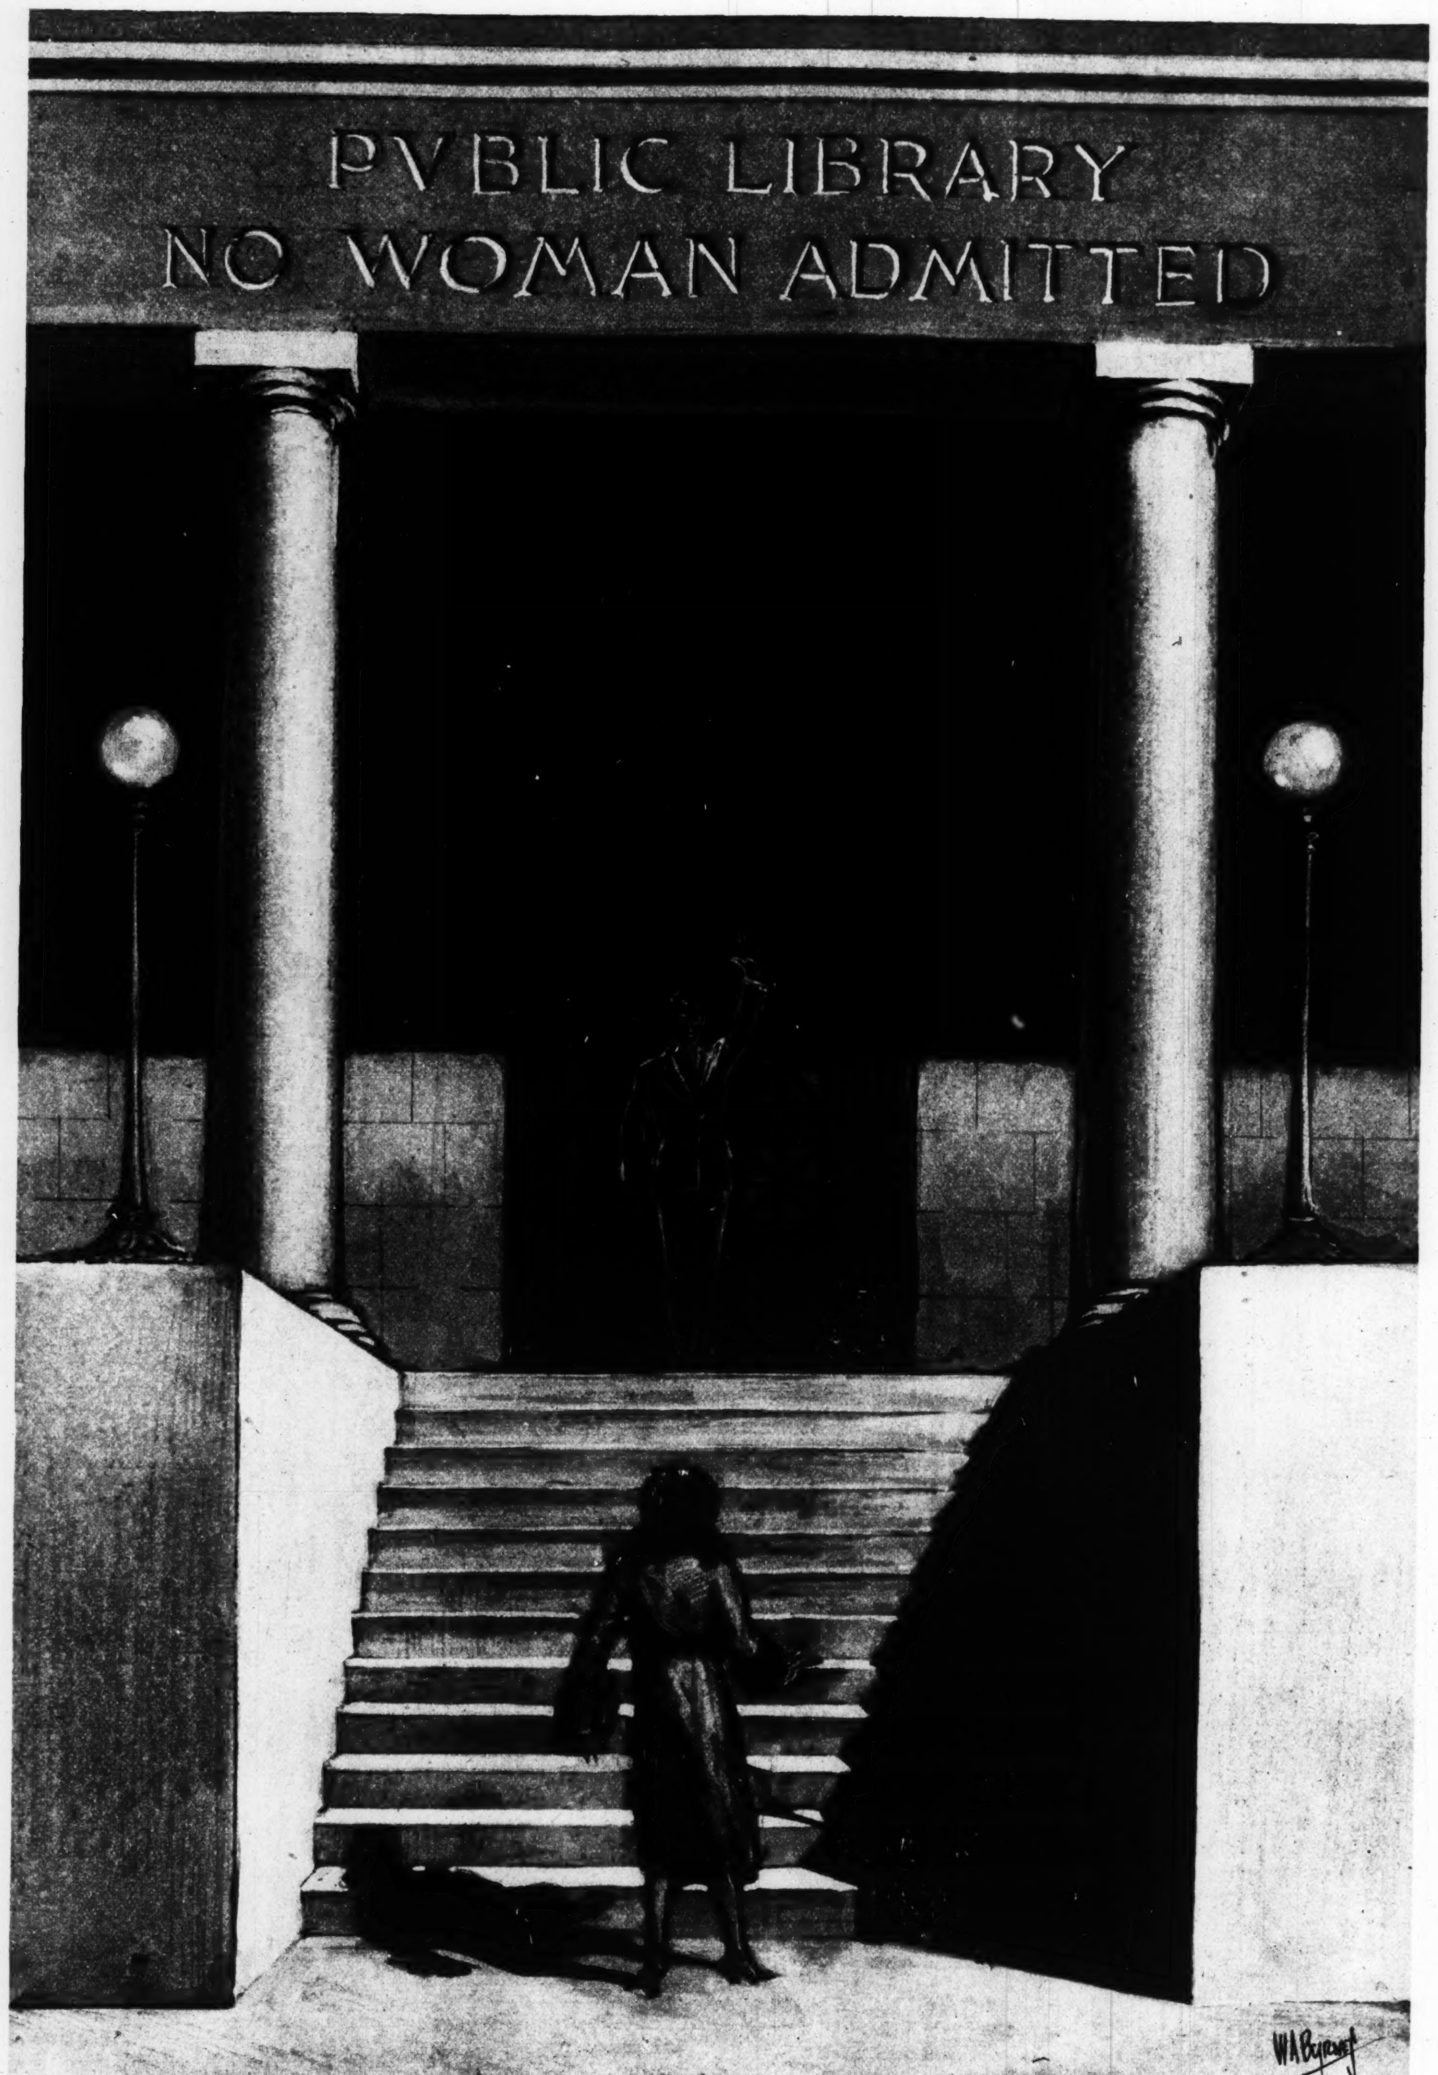
The daughter, Mrs. Becker, is determined that Le Mars will never be burdened with this strange institution. She has recruited legal aid and is prepared to carry her fight on the will to the highest courts.

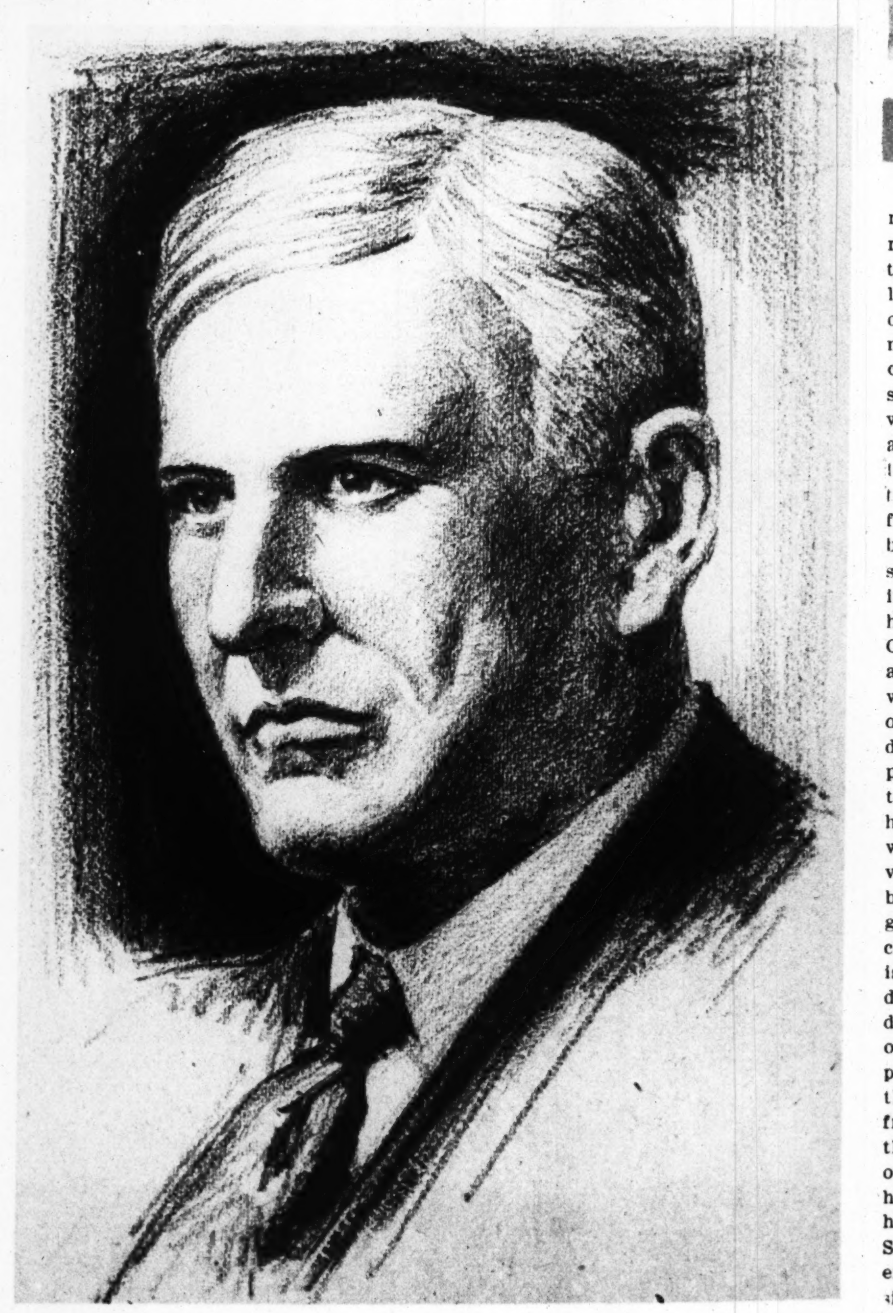
Ever since the will was filed Iowa attorneys have been busy speculating on whether or not it can be broken. They are certain the widow cannot break the will because Zink drew up a prenuptial contract with her that specified that neither husband nor wife was to share in the other's estate.

The daughter has a chance, they concede. One thing in her favor is an Iowa law which forbids willing more than one-fourth of an estate to charity if there are heirs. But would the womanless library be a charity?

Some attorneys are of the opinion that Mrs. Becker will win on her incompetency plea—that her father was partially insane at the time that he drew up his will. There may be some support for the insanity claim in the attorney's numerous eccentricities. But witnesses could be found who would testify to Zink's brilliance of mind.

Possibly Zink hoped to take advantage of a seldom-used Iowa law when he drew up his last will and testament. This provides that anyone may leave any part or all of his holding to a municipality. It is difficult to believe that a student of the law for half a century would draw up a will that could be broken in court. It will be an interesting fight and one that Le Mars awaits with interest. And if Mrs. Becker wins it will be an ironic epitaph to inscribe on the grave of a woman hater who concealed his hatred during life beneath a mask of gallantry.





Townsend M. Zink.

NEW YORK.

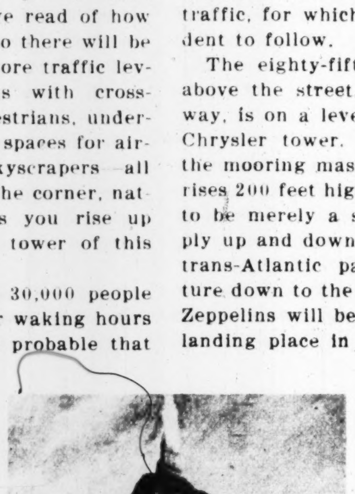
WHEN you enter the vast shell at Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue that is the Empire State Building, you simply leave this old century behind you. As you shoot up and up, floor after floor after floor, you are boosted straight into the future. This building is more than a mere indication of what New York will be a hundred years hence. It is the future, solid, tangible, there for you to stand on and touch. We have read of how in a hundred years or so there will be streets with three or more traffic levels, elevated sidewalks with cross-street viaducts for pedestrians, underground streets, landing spaces for airplanes on the tops of skyscrapers—all these seem just round the corner, natural and inevitable, as you rise up and up through the tower of this building.

A city population of 30,000 people will spend most of their waking hours within its walls. It is probable that they could all spend their whole lives there and never need to descend to the street. There will be stores in the building where you may buy clothes, places to buy food. There will be doctors and nurses and barbers, insurance men and bankers. There will be book stores, swimming pools and clubs. At least one athletic club has taken space already and the building furnishes gratis many rest rooms for women workers.

The underground street that now runs from the Pennsylvania Station to Gimbels' will be extended across town to the Empire State. It is estimated that about 20 per cent of the people who throng the streets in the congested, Thirty-fourth street area come from the Pennsylvania Station to points in the vicinity of Thirty-fourth street and Fifth avenue. The new underground thoroughfare will take a large proportion of them off the street and facilitate the movement of the thousands who will stream in and out of the new building. That, too, is a glimpse into the future. A commuter leaving his Long Island home could arrive at his office in the Empire State, do his day's work, do his own and his wife's shopping, and never need to set foot on the street.

Sixty-seven elevators will carry the 30,000 inhabitants to and from their places of business. These elevators will hoist them into the air at the rate of 1000 feet per minute. The building laws were amended specially to permit this, previously the speed limit had been 700 feet per minute. To work out methods of handling this heavy internal traffic was one of the most important problems faced by the builders. New devices were developed to meet the demands of this traffic, for which there was no precedent to follow.

The eighty-fifth floor is 1050 feet above the street. This floor, by the way, is on a level with the tip of the Chrysler tower. Then above this is the mooring mast for Zeppelins which rises 200 feet higher. This mast is not to be merely a spire. Elevators will ply up and down inside it to take the trans-Atlantic passengers of the future down to the street. Just how the Zeppelins will be moored to this lofty landing place in the clouds, and how the passengers will be taken off and into the tower has not as yet been determined, but the building is ready for them. The great steel mast will sustain a horizontal pull of 50 tons, and some practical dreamer will find a way to make the airships fast and a way to transfer the passengers. Here, indeed, is another glimpse ahead into the next century—a suggestion of the marvels that will be commonplaces in New York City then.



Architect's drawing of the completed structure

The speed with which the mammoth pile has been erected is the marvel of architects and builders throughout the world. Visitors from abroad have said that it would take six or seven years to build such a structure in London or Berlin, even if they had the equipment necessary, which they haven't. Two or three years would not be unusual in this country. But the Empire State Building will be completed in the amazing time of 15 months. That includes the time required to raze the solid old Waldorf-Astoria, the time spent in making the designs and working plans, the time spent in fabricating and rolling the tons of steel—everything.

The schedule set by the builders specified that a story would be finished every day. They have maintained that speed. And that does not mean merely that the steel frame work has been put up at that record-breaking pace. The work is all synchronized. It's all done in unison. While workmen on the eighty-third floor are riveting the mighty girders in place, others on the sixth or seventh floor are putting the marble in place, finishing the plastering, the windows, the floors and the decorations. One has the feeling that the building is coming into being complete throughout, as if by magic.

From 6000 to 7000 men, representing some 25 or 30 trades, are at work in the building every day. There are as many as 30 or 40 trucks all unloading at once, and by an elaborately worked out system which keeps the material soaring up without a break. Any slip-up in any one of the operations would be felt all along the line, so precisely is every step interlocked with all the others. There are narrow-gauge railroads leading everywhere. Giant hoists shoot up and down, their cars each time carrying as much cement, or plaster, or whatnot as eight men could handle by the old wheelbarrow method. Restaurants for the workmen are located on four floors, so it is not necessary for them to leave their work and make the long trip down to the street level.

ALL these tons of materials moving constantly from the street level up, always up, are handled inside the building. Nothing is taken up on the outside. The giant engines are never still. Incessantly the hoists shoot up straight from the street level to the skeleton floors far above. The roar of the machinery is constant. High up in the air is always to be heard the rat-tat-tat of the riveting machines like a distant barrage. The ring of sledges on metal never stops. And on the upper levels the flare of red-hot rivets look like fireflies flitting restlessly through the gloom. On the swaying scaffolds hundreds of feet above the street men crawl about, looking like insects as they set the stones on the steel girders. Far below them, through the haze, are the tops of other buildings that once were regarded as lofty, but look like toys as you glance down—with a sick feeling in your stomach.

One of the most amazing things to the layman is that although the building rears itself 1248 feet into the air, it goes down only two floors, about 33 feet, below the street level. One can't help feeling that a good brisk windstorm might blow it all over. But the dead weight down is so great in such a structure that any horizontal push is negligible. It is only necessary to go deep enough to find bed rock of sufficient strength to support the weight, and New York is fortunate in having solid rock very close to the surface. In some sections it would be possible to set the building on the street with no excavation at all.

It was a bold and appropriate thing on the part of Mr. William B. Lamb, who was responsible for the design, to keep this, the largest building ever constructed, so almost austerely simple. At the sixth floor level is a setback of 60 feet, and above that straight up to the eighty-fifth floor the walls rise almost sheer. The effect of mass and solidity is enhanced by the new way of constructing the windows. The glass is flush with the outside wall. Looked at from below there are no indentations to mar the smooth and beautiful symmetry. A new chrome-nickel steel will be used around the windows, and this will further emphasize the effect of chaste simplicity.

Inside the offices no pipes or radiators or other heating apparatus will be visible. The heating apparatus will all be built into the walls. Fresh air will enter the radiators through a vent near the floor and come out heated through another vent level with the window sills. This will provide extra space and clearer light. Handling the heating facilities in this way is still another new departure. It is proba-

Gloria Swanson Chooses—for the Third Time—Between Husband and Career

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

HOLLYWOOD.

FOR the third time in ten years Gloria Swanson has had to choose between a husband and her career. And for the third time the career has won in a walk. That is the interpretation that Hollywood puts on Miss Swanson's action in filing suit the other day to divorce her handsome husband, the Marquis Henri de la Falaise de la Coudraye, of Paris and Hollywood.

It was, of course, never really a choice with this astute, determined woman with the steely gray-blue eyes. She has climbed a very dizzy ladder, always reaching out for the rung just higher up. And when the husband—the first one was Wallace Beery, the second, Herbert Somborn, wealthy Los Angeles business man—crabbed this concentrated climbing act, protested he wanted a little more domesticity, a little less career, then it was just too bad. He had to go. For Gloria from the first has aimed at the very top, the white, shining kind of fame that is a little terrifying. And, once there, she has fought to stay.

Successfully, too. Her career has run a far longer course than that of the average movie star. Thirty for most of the angel-eyed, cherub-faced darlings is the absolute deadline. But Gloria passed that deadline some time ago and she has not ceased to gather laurels, the latest being her marked success in the talkies, aided by a pleasant singing voice. Marriage has been incidental.

The present and latest break is a friendly one with no bitter feeling on either side. The divorce is being amicably arranged. Hank—that is the name Hollywood gave the Marquis when he proved to be just one of the boys—is a little bit wistful about it. But apparently he understands Gloria well enough now to realize that it was inevitable from the first.

"We will always be good friends," says Gloria. "I like Henri and I appreciate his difficulties in being married to me. I am devoted to my career and my first interests are naturally in my screen work."

"I wish her every happiness in the world," says the Marquis, "and if it is a divorce she wants, she may have it if the court will give her one."

Gloria Swanson, able calmly to divorce a title in the interests of her work, has come a long way. It doesn't take a very remarkable memory to recall the youngster from Chicago who hurled pies for Mack Sennett back in the days of the nickel odeons. Her mother was Adelaide Klanowski, her father Joseph Swanson, originally Swenson, a lean, rest-

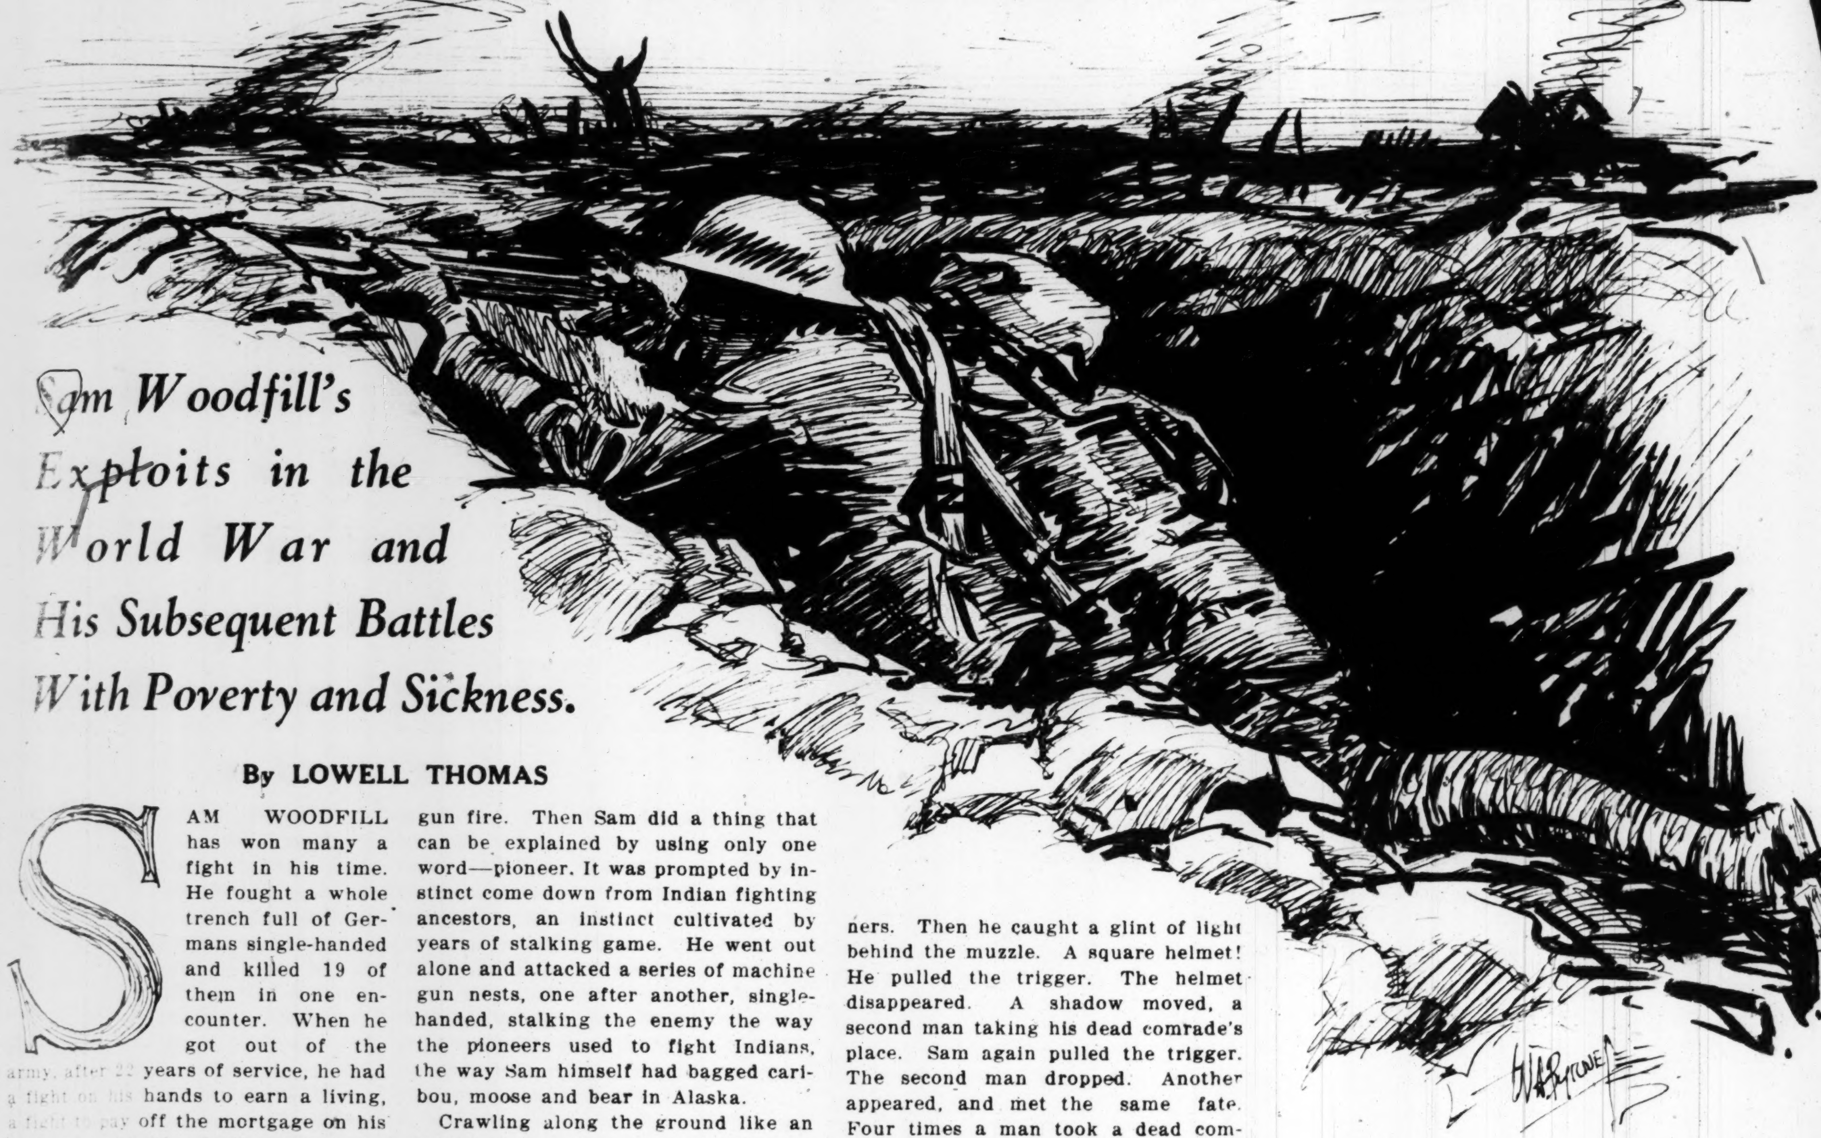
AMERICA'S "GREATEST SOLDIER" WINS ANOTHER FIGHT FOR LIFE



Sam Woodfill's Exploits in the World War and His Subsequent Battles With Poverty and Sickness.

By LOWELL THOMAS

Sam Woodfill.

SAM WOODFILL has won many a fight in his time. He fought a whole trench full of Germans single-handed and killed 19 of them in one encounter. When he got out of the army, after 22 years of service, he had a fight on his hands to earn a living, a fight to pay off the mortgage on his little farm on the Indiana-Kentucky line. And now he's just won another battle, having been discharged the other day from the Hines Hospital for veterans near Chicago after a long siege of illness that resulted from the subtle ravages of poison gas.

He was a good patient—tranquil, stolid, never complaining. Perhaps he looked back a little on the times of his glory—but only a little, no flaming dreams, for he is not an imaginative man.

Pershing called him America's greatest soldier. And that's the keynote when you're talking about Sam Woodfill—soldier, the very type and figure of the old-time American infantryman. He performed a colossal exploit in battle, and got the Congressional Medal of Honor for it. He ranks as one of America's war heroes. But it is the character of Woodfill that strikes one the most forcefully, no blood-curdling war adventure, set before a background of his personification, for better or for worse, of the professional fighting man of the line.

Let's look at a contrast. Woodfill's exploit was one simple and desperate manslaughter. It might go well with the killer type, but that's not Woodfill. He is a great, rustic kind of chap, but mild, kindly, and of a heavy, almost tender humanity. No hatred of the Germans lay hard and cold on him. The real soldier didn't hate. He liked the Germans. Why not? Sam Woodfill is part German anyhow. He is not proud of the men he slew nor yet has he any sentimental regret—as you will find sometimes in the moodier, more swaggering, more pugnacious type of warrior. His own heroic good fortune, the other man's perhaps heroic misfortune—these are accepted with an unquestioning, leathery stolidity, the leathery stolidity of the American pioneer.

AND that's what Sam Woodfill is—an old-time pioneer, by some miracle brought back and thrown into the middle of the bloody, fire-swept ground of the Argonne.

He is tall and stalwart, with a long face, and weatherbeaten. Physically he is the very picture of the two characters I have given him: the old-time American soldier and the old-time American pioneer. He was an old-timer in the army, a sergeant. And he is of pioneer stock. His forbears were Indian fighters. Sam, too, lived a pioneer life. For years he was in the army up in Alaska, pioneering along the Arctic Circle.

This is his story: An American pioneer in the World War, a sort of Daniel Boone left over in this modern age, a Daninel Boone with a rifle thrown into a modern war of machine guns, giant cannons, airplanes, tanks and poison gas. For Sam is essentially a rifleman. As an Indiana farm boy he was brought up on squirrel shooting, and then for years he stalked big game and became a famous hunter in Alaska.

He had the temporary rank of Captain when he was leading a company in the Argonne. The Germans were fighting savagely. Men were dropping all around. Sam's company had run into a concentration of machine gun fire. Then Sam did a thing that can be explained by using only one word—pioneer. It was prompted by instinct come down from Indian fighting ancestors, an instinct cultivated by years of stalking game. He went out alone and attacked a series of machine gun nests, one after another, single-handed, stalking the enemy the way the pioneers used to fight Indians, the way Sam himself had bagged caribou, moose and bear in Alaska.

Crawling along the ground like an Indian, Sam slid into a shell hole. Bullets grazed the dirt in front of him. There were three machine gun nests nearby. One in a church tower. He couldn't see the gunners, just the little window from which they were firing. He drew a bead on the window and pulled the trigger. Then he fired again—a third and a fourth time. The typewriter rattle of a machine gun ceased.

There was another gun in a stable. A board had been removed. From a hole enemy machine gun bullets rattled out in a staccato stream. Sam silenced that one, too—by shooting through the hole.

Enemy fire was now coming from a machine gun straight in front. He couldn't quite locate it. Still flat on his stomach, he worked round a knoll. Forty feet in front was a clump of bushes. Out of it stuck a vibrating muzzle. Sam slid his rifle over a heap of gravel. He couldn't see the gunners. Then he caught a glint of light behind the muzzle. A square helmet! He pulled the trigger. The helmet disappeared. A shadow moved, a second man taking his dead comrade's place. Sam again pulled the trigger. The second man dropped. Another appeared, and met the same fate. Four times a man took a dead comrade's place to work that gun. Those Germans were game. There was no doubt about that. Every man of the gun crew lay on the ground except one. He tried to escape. Sam picked him off as he ran.

WOODFILL knew his own men were coming up behind him now. But he pushed on ahead. Suddenly he stumbled over a green-gray figure. Another dead man. Huh! Not quite. It jumped up and drew a Luger. Sam shot first.

Ahead was another machine gun nest. Sam crept upon it and picked off the gunners just as he had done before. Then he ran over. As he did so he stumbled into three ammunition carriers. They threw up their hands. He took their arms and sent them back.

There was still one more position from which the Germans were cutting down Americans with rapid fire. Sam silenced it the same as before. Five in all was the number of machine gun nests that this reincarnation of Daniel Boone attacked and put out of commission that day. After the last one he pushed on into the enemy lines and jumped into a trench where he found two Germans.

And now occurred a swift climatic fight. Woodfill shot down the first German. The second was leveling his rifle. Sam's pistol missed fire. He closed with the man, and as he did so grabbed a trench tool, a short mattock, which was lying on the side of the trench. He struck a savage blow with it. The German fell. And at that moment Sam saw the man he had shot rising to a crouching position. In his death agony the German soldier was bring up his Luger to kill his killer. Woodfill leaped upon him and cracked him down with the trench tool.

No wonder Sam got the Congressional Medal! No wonder Pershing called him America's greatest soldier! Then at the end of the war he was mustered out. His captain's commission was temporary—one of those jawbone commissions. The army was his only life. He re-enlisted as a private and became a sergeant once again. After he had been a captain, that was a comedown. Of course, the army couldn't keep all those wartime officers, but one suspects they might have made an exception in the case of "America's greatest soldier." But Woodfill did not complain. He was too much of a soldier. He always accepted things.

Woodfill remained practically unknown, even in army circles, until 1921, when the great ceremony of the Unknown Soldier was held. Among the pallbearers was to be a group of the outstanding soldiers of the A. E. F., and General Pershing was to select them. A committee reviewed 3000 citations, the records of 3000 men who had been honored during the war. From these they selected 100.

General Pershing went over the final list and picked out the pallbearers. Sergeant York was one of these. Another was Colonel Whittlesey of the lost battalion. When General Pershing came upon Samuel Woodfill's name he said:

"Why, I have already selected that man as the outstanding soldier of the A. E. F."

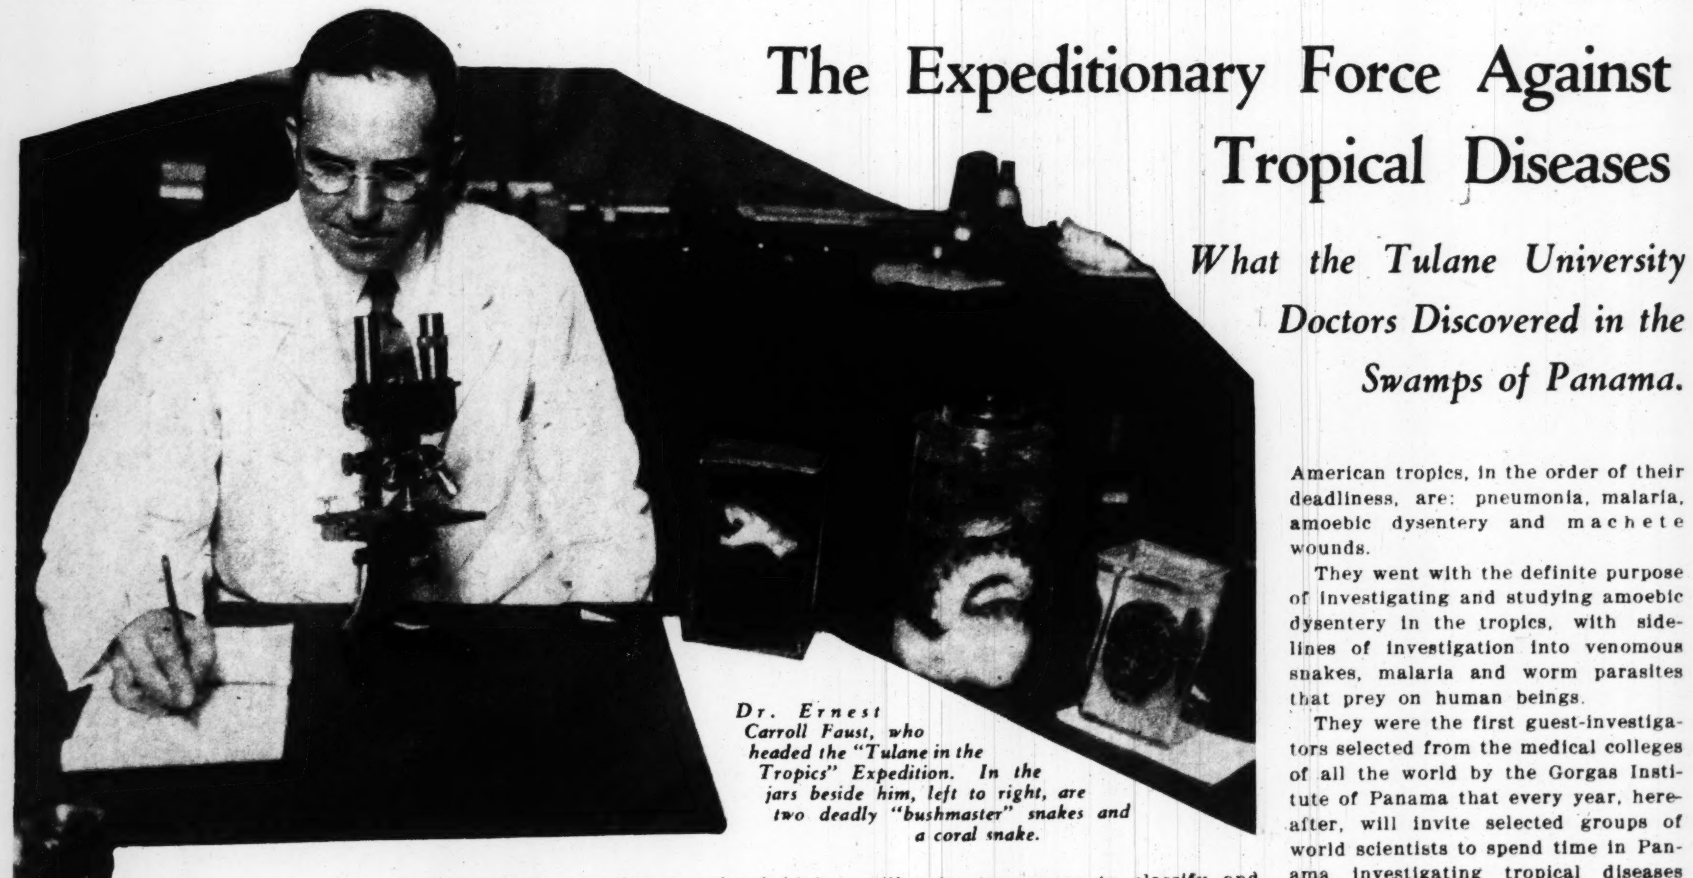
SO WOODFILL went to Washington. He was welcomed by the President, and Congress adjourned in his honor. He was banqueted by the members of the House and Senate and in New York he was presented to Marshal Foch. Foch said he was happy to meet the first soldier of America, and Woodfill replied that he was happy to meet the first soldier of the world. A brief step into the limelight and Woodfill returned to his army post, a mere sergeant among sergeants once more.

Several years ago, having served his full stretch of over thirty years, which entitled him to his pension, he was retired. Although he had been a captain they retired him only as a sergeant. He has a little home at Fort Thomas, Kentucky, and he and his wife have a small farm in Indiana, just over the line, not farm from Cincinnati. He farmed out there, like any other farmer, and worked in a steel mill to make up the deficit on the farm, till old effects of war brought him down and to the hospital.

I like to think of Woodfill as a Daniel Boone come down as an atavism into a modern world. He makes a curious study.

The Expeditionary Force Against Tropical Diseases

What the Tulane University Doctors Discovered in the Swamps of Panama.



Dr. Ernest Carroll Faust, who headed the "Tulane in the Tropics" Expedition. In the jars beside him, left to right, are two deadly "bushmaster" snakes and a coral snake.

By MEIGS O. FROST

NEW ORLEANS.

THE doctors are the highway trail blazers now.

In the old days when the great highways of the world were pushed across the borders of nations, it was the soldiers, the surveyors and the axe-gangs that blazed the trail. The doctors are in the vanguard today.

One has heard of the great International Highway of the Western Hemisphere that is to stretch from Brownsville, Texas, where it taps all the great net-work of United States and Canadian highways, down through Mexico, on down through Central America, down through the Isthmus of Panama, and onward to the southermost tip of the Argentine. You may even have heard that within some ten years America's family flivvers will be rolling over that completed highway.

But few outside the world of medicine have even thought of what that highway means. It means that all the diseases of the American tropics will have a broad easy road to travel north over the Mexican border into the United States. And that's where the doctors step in.

Working ten years at least in advance of the International Highway's completion, three New Orleans men spent this summer of 1930 in a fight for added knowledge of tropical diseases. Down in the swamps and jungles of the Province of Darien, Republic of Panama, where the white man never goes; where only wandering Indians penetrate at times; they have written a new chapter in that book the medical libraries of the world have learned to call "Tulane in the Tropics."

They came back safely with data after three months of work that it will take two years to classify and compile. They came back after examining more than 2000 patients in Panama. They came back after a month spent in the wildest Panamanian jungles, amid malaria-bearing mosquitoes and deadly venomous snakes. They came back with definite proof of new theories; with definite disproof of old. They came back with material on which to work out conclusions for which the world of tropical medicine is waiting.

DR. ERNEST CARROLL FAUST, Professor of Parisitology, in charge of the Department of Tropical Medicine, School of Medicine, Tulane University, at New Orleans, was director of the expedition. With him went Dr. William H. Martinez, of New Orleans, and Alberto Prieto, a Tulane medical student in his junior year.

They went with the knowledge that the four great deadly scourges of the American tropics, in the order of their deadliness, are: pneumonia, malaria, amoebic dysentery and machete wounds.

They went with the definite purpose of investigating and studying amoebic dysentery in the tropics, with side-lines of investigation into venomous snakes, malaria and worm parasites that prey on human beings.

They were the first guest-investigators selected from the medical colleges of all the world by the Gorgas Institute of Panama that every year, hereafter, will invite selected groups of world scientists to spend time in Panama investigating tropical diseases that in times past have burst out of their tropical boundaries to scourge the world.

Two months they spent working in the Gorgas Memorial Laboratory in Panama City; one month in the wilds of the swamp and jungle in the provinces of Darien.

They have proved the direct relation between sanitation and amoebic dysentery—proved that it is a "filth disease."

They have proved that in remote native villages in Panama, utterly without modern sanitation, the natives can be one hundred per cent afflicted with amoebic dysentery, without showing any of the symptoms by which doctors normally expect to recognize the disease.

They have proved that monkeys in Panama, bitten by the same mosquito that gives tropical malaria to human

Transporting Switzerland to the Allegheniesg

CLARKSBURG, West Virginia.

HIDDEN away in the Alleghenies not far from here is a Swiss province. It is, to be sure, a legally incorporated American community, all the residents being citizens of the land. But, regardless of this, it is probably the only authentic bit of Switzerland this side of the Alps. All the years that they have lived in the Alleghenies the inhabitants have gone right on making cheese, very good Swiss cheese, and yodeling.

This community is called Helvetia, which is the ancient name for Switzerland. At a mountain road-end, a rocky road that is passable only in dry months of the summer, is this extraordinarily picturesque village. Helvetia has little use for the outside world—it is merely a place to which cheeses can be taken for market. The whole pattern of life, down to even the smallest details, is very much like that in the hardy little country across the sea that was the first home of the Helvetians.

A visitor dropped down in the midst of Helvetia's annual fair would certainly never guess that he was in West Virginia. Then the natives appear in Swiss dress. They dance the old folk dances, sing the old songs. All this against a background of tall hemlocks and dark clumps of cedars, with occasionally the bright flash of rhododendron or foxglove. It is one of the most curious survivals in America.

Seventy years ago a number of Swiss came to America from the German-speaking cantonments. Many of them enlisted in the Civil War, some in the ranks of the Confederates, others in the Union Army. At the close of the war the survivors, both from the army of the North and the army of the South, gathered in Brooklyn, New York. They were faced with a problem—where to live. The life of a large city had no appeal for them at all. It was absolutely opposed to everything they had ever known. They formed, including a few Germans in their ranks, a society which they called the Grutli Verein, Grutli meaning meadow, the name of a town in Uri Canton, where Swiss independence was planned in 1307.

THIS group was later to form the nucleus of the Helvetia community. They pledged themselves with solemn earnestness to stand by each other and, when the first opportunity came, to emigrate to some other part of the United States where they might labor and live as their forefathers had since time immemorial.

One member of the verein, a man named Isler, had been employed as a surveyor by a Washington firm. He had helped survey 40,000 acres of land in the central part of West Virginia and he told the society of the endless tracts of forest, abundant game and clear streams to be found there. The men of the verein were greatly impressed. From his account they gathered that West Virginia had all the characteristics of their native Switzerland. After discussing the matter from every angle for many days, one man, John Zwingly, suggested that a committee go to Randolph County and investigate. Six men were named; the Grutli Verein held a last solemn meeting, each member pledging financial aid to the limit of his or her resources. One of the treasured possessions of Helvetia is a Swiss flag which these six men took with them on their expedition in search of a second Switzerland.

When the committee reached Clarksburg on October 15, 1869, the ardor of the members was somewhat dampened by the realization they would have to journey 60 miles on foot or horseback to reach the land they wished to inspect. They tramped through virgin timberland for four days before reaching the site of their future homeland. The owners of the land offered to sell at $3 an acre, provided the verein would encourage emigration. The members of the committee voted to stay in Randolph County. They pitched their tents and began work on a rude log cabin that would do for a time as a home for their families. After a month or so they returned to Brooklyn to get the others.

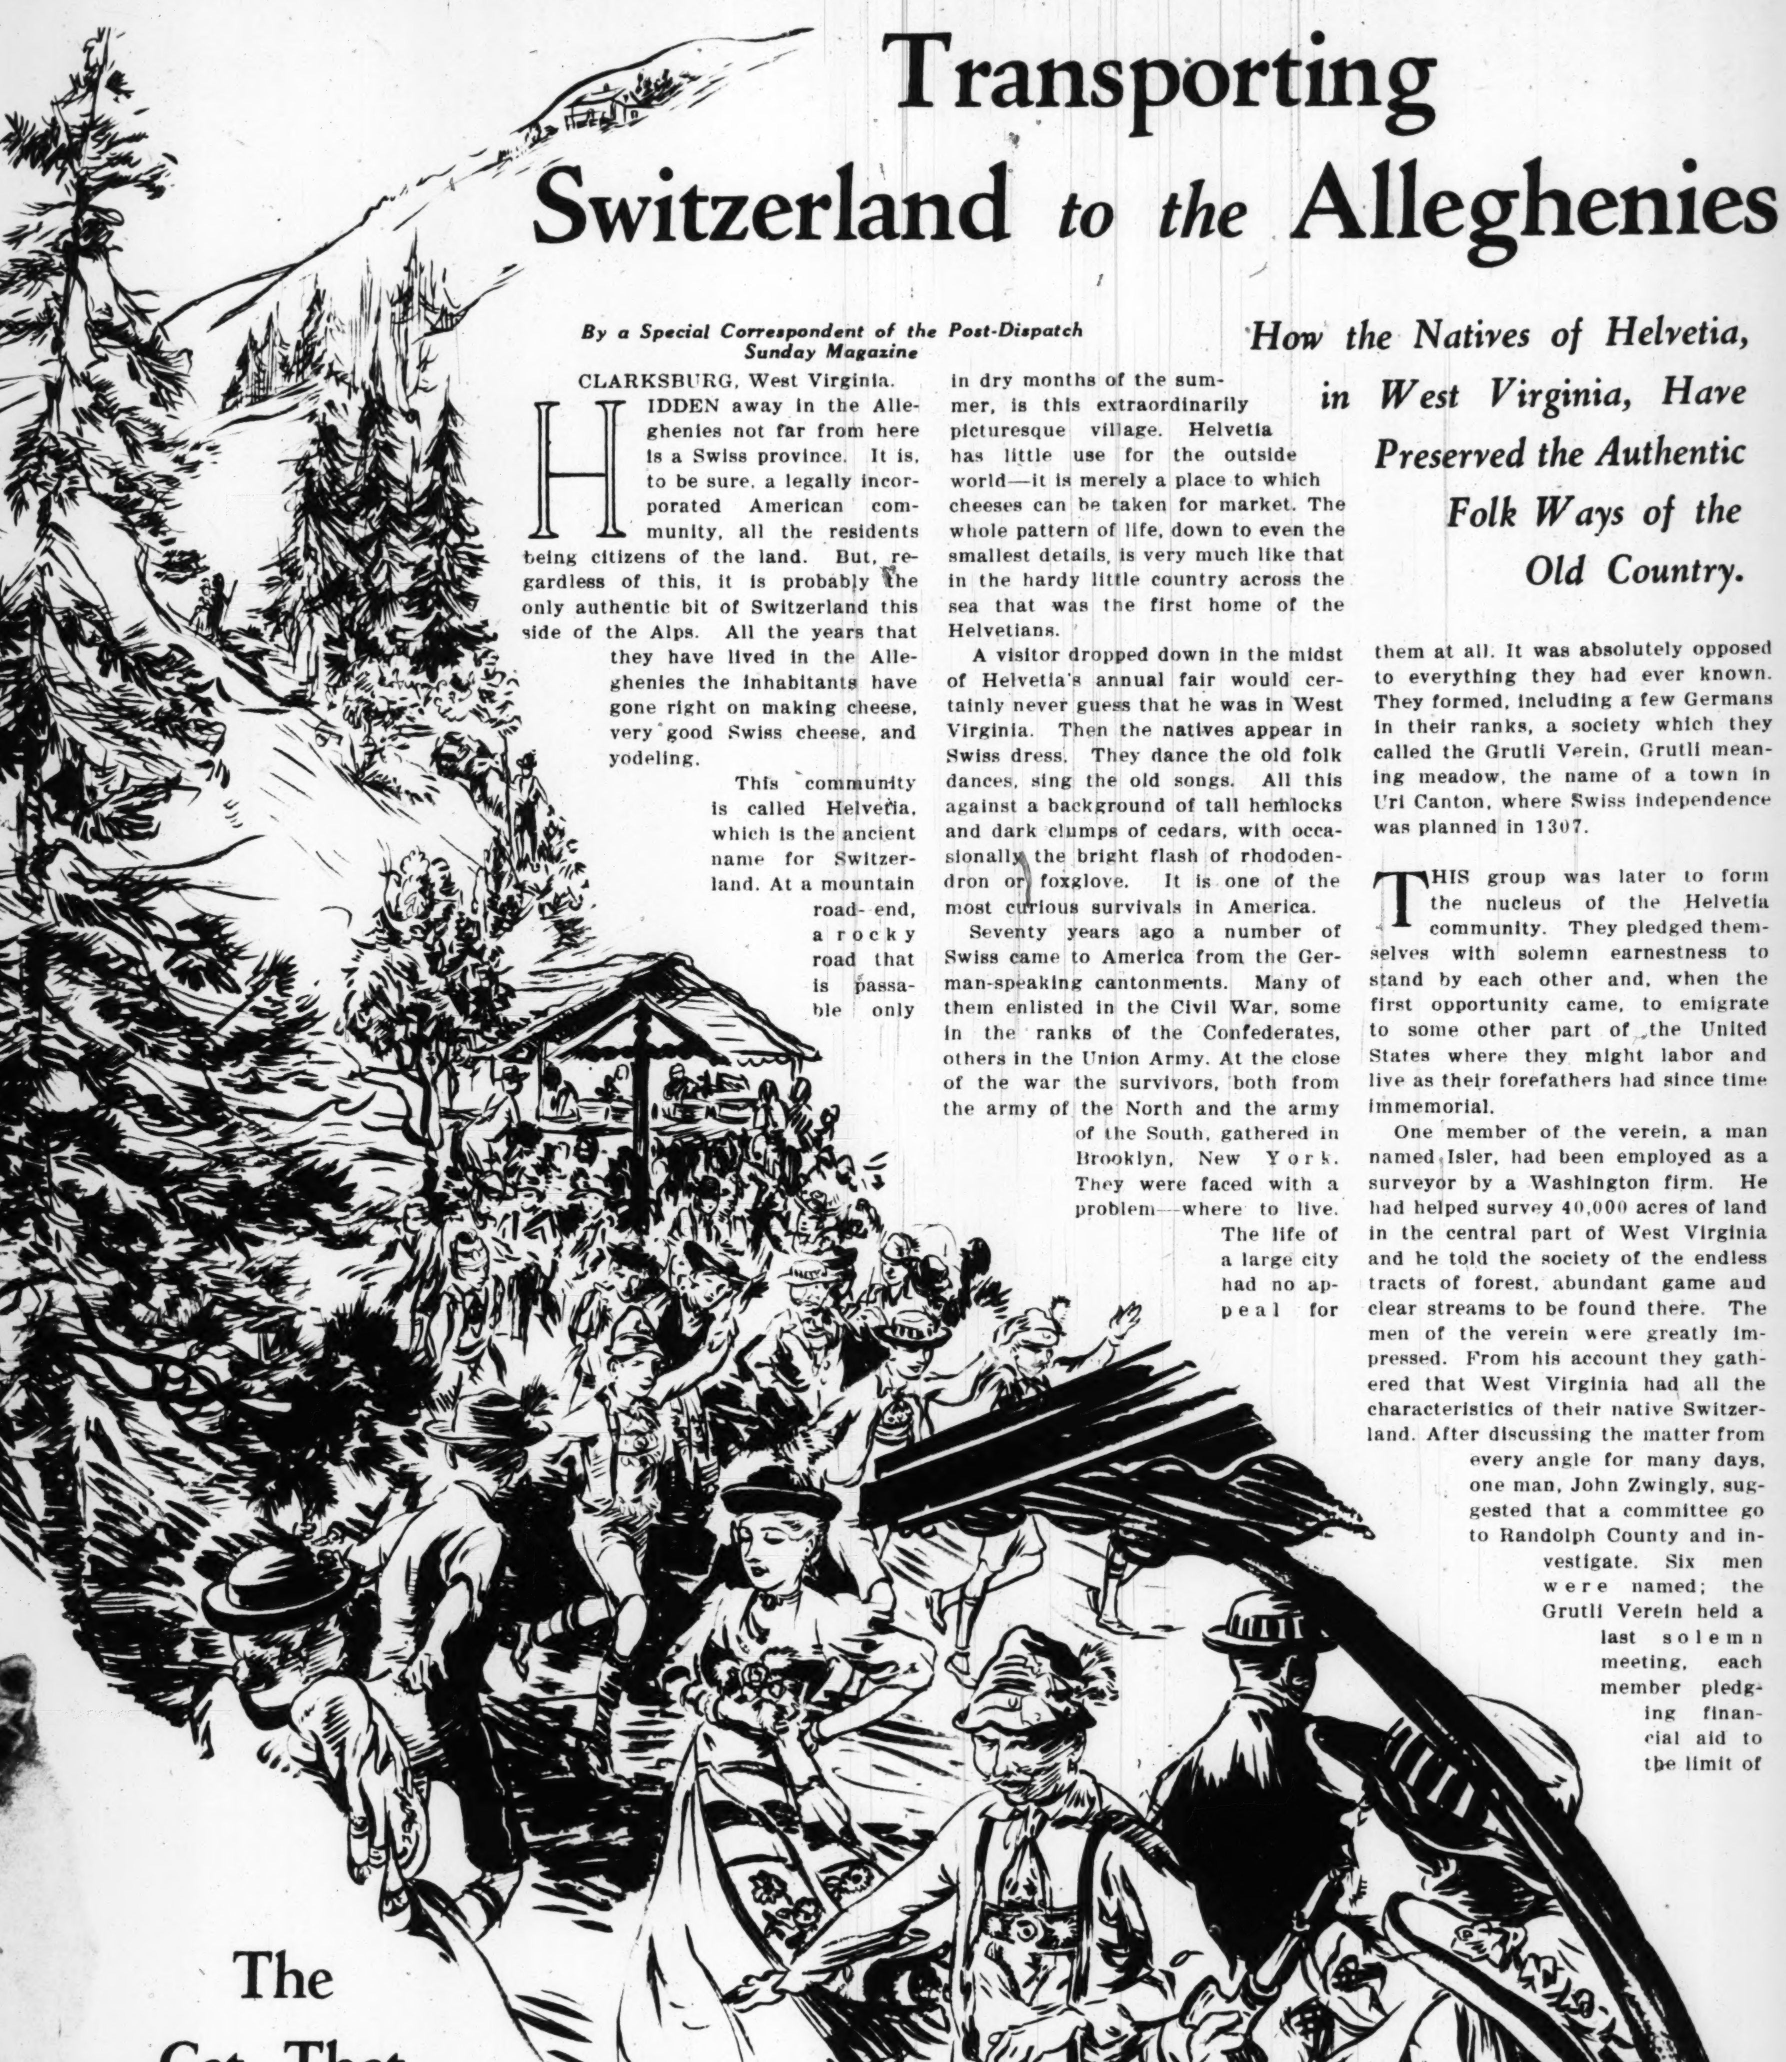
Seven days before Christmas a cold, weary group arrived in the valley. Only one member of the party, Mrs. Henry Asper, rode horseback. She carried her first-born child in her arms. And she confesses now that tears of weariness and homesickness flowed frequently during that long ride. It was wild, unbroken country, lacking all the scrubbed intimacy of the homeland. It was not Switzerland.

"WE were cold and tired," Mrs. Asper, who is now 88 years old, recalls. "From Clarksburg I came on horseback, while the others walked. It took us four days and we stopped each night at farmhouses. Ach, what a trip. I had lived in New York four years after coming from my home, and what a change it was." Mrs. Asper lives with her son, Henry, in a house built in 1875.

"Nothing but woods," she goes on, "and how I hated it. There were always wild animals prowling about the house. We often ate bear meat and our cow ran all day with the deer. I've lived here 60 years, but it's been different these last years.

"On New Year's we celebrated just as we had been used to doing in our homeland, with German and Swiss songs and dances. But it was seldom we enjoyed these celebrations because we worked from early morning until after dark most every night. I can remember chopping down trees by moonlight. All of us bought land, and in the center of the community 100 acres was set aside for the village. This the men laid out in lots and sold to men skilled in some trade, such as weaving, blacksmithing, shoemaking and so on, so we would have skilled workmen in the community."

Movies are unknown in Helvetia, radios are few. The pleasures are mainly those which the good Swiss provide for themselves. The annual Helvetian fair is a festivity that lives in the memory of these simple folk throughout the year, a gay coming together. All the native products are displayed, the work of craftsmen who have preserved their skill intact in the new land—fine laces, embroidery, quilting, weaving, cloth-making, cheese. At the end of the fair a big dance is held in the village hall. All the villagers dress in the costumes of Switzerland and they dance the old dances. It is probable that this curious bit of Switzerland will survive for many years—at any rate so long as civilization stops short of the rough mountain road into the valley of the Helvetians.



A visitor dropped down into the midst of Helvetia's annual fair would certainly never guess he was in West Virginia.

The Cat That Inherited a Home and an Income

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

LOS ANGELES, California.

FOR 18 years Mitzi, a purebred Persian cat, has been a favored pet in the palatial home of Mrs. Maude F. Ide, wealthy San Gabriel, California, woman.

The feline has had the run of the house. Not only that, she has had her own room, her own dining table on which her meals were served, her private stairs leading from the flower garden to her quarters on the second floor.

So perhaps it was not strange that Mrs. Ide, also known as Dr. Maude F. Cain, a practicing physician, should have made provision for the cat's care in her will. That instrument, just filed for probate following Mrs. Ide's death a short time ago, reveals the unusual bequest of $15,000 to be used in maintaining Mitzi for the rest of her nine lives in the luxury to which she has always been accustomed.

Besides setting aside this amount for the cat's care, Mrs. Ide directed that her home should be maintained as heretofore as a domicile for her pet as long as she lives.

Mrs. Ide specified that her housekeeper, Mrs. Pauline Agnes Goetze, should live in the home and care for Mitzi as long as she cares to do so. Mrs. Goetze is to have $25 a month to supply the cat's wants in addition to the income from a trust fund of $20,000 and $2500 outright for herself.

And when Mitzi dies she will have an heir just the same as a wealthy human being who cannot take his earthly possessions to the next world.

The will provides that Mrs. Otelia Kuschke of Los Angeles, executrix of the will and residuary legatee, upon the death of the cat, shall fall heir to Mitzi's $15,000 trust fund.

In view of the cat's age it is not expected that she will have long to enjoy the luxury that has been bestowed upon her. Animal experts say that 18 years is much longer than the average cat lives.

"Mrs. Ide raised Mitzi from the time she was a tiny kitten, a gift from a friend in Los Angeles," Mrs. Goetze explains.

"She always has had every care. She has her meals of chopped liver on a separate dining table.

"As to her living for several years more, she seems to be in better health now than she was last summer. She had to have four teeth pulled.

"She has a weak heart and has 'spells' now and then, but outside of getting tired easily and being a little stiff in her legs, she seems as fit as ever.

"It is evident that she misses Mrs. Ide. She was with her mistress most of the time during those 18 years. Now whenever a stranger approaches, Mitzi turns to ascertain whether it is her mistress returning."

Mrs. Ide, well known for her charities, left a fortune estimated at $500,000. After Mitzi's needs are cared for, one-third of the estate will go to support human charities. Of this, $25,000 was left to Mercy Hospital of Springfield, Massachusetts, to endow five beds for workingmen. The rest of this third goes to the Sisters of Providence Corporation, Holyoke, Massachusetts, to endow a fund for needy working girls.

Two gardeners who were in Mrs. Ide's employ get the income from a trust fund of $22,500. A similar provision benefits Henry J. Wallace, of Vermont, a cousin. Mrs. Bertha May Hall, of New Hampshire, another cousin, gets $25,000, and a number of other relatives receive $500 to $5000 each.

"TO HELL with what people think of you. Be yourself." That was the advice that Robert Winthrop Chanler once gave to a young painter seeking guidance. And it was because Chanler himself so completely lived up to that formula that his death last month marked the passing of one of the most original and exciting personalities New York society ever produced.

Although blue blood of a very fancy quality flowed through his veins, that was the least of Chanler's distinctions; in fact, he used to boast, when in jocular mood, that he had managed to accomplish something in spite of that handicap. The boast was not without foundation. He went into politics, was elected Sheriff of Dutchess County, New York, became the most popular Democrat ever to hold office in a Republican stronghold, was ringmaster in one of the dizziest political circuses ever staged and had a swell time at the job. Then he retired from politics. With his nomination for Congress practically assured, he gave up politics to go back to his painting. In art he achieved the same success that had marked his brief adventure in politics. In art, too, he struck a highly original note, specializing in decorative panels and screens. Gorgeously colored and highly individual, with figures of animals and birds and submarine life predominating, they were at first regarded merely as bizarre. Then they were recognized as the work of genius. The Metropolitan Museum obtained one. In 1922 the Luxembourg Museum of Paris bought another, "Giraffes." This was the second time in history that the Luxembourg had bought a picture by an American artist. Whistler's painting of his mother was the other painting so honored, and when one recalls that the Luxembourg buys pictures of living artists for future transfer into the Louvre, the magnitude of Chanler's achievement becomes apparent.

BUT even this great distinction no more dampened his wild gusto for living than had his membership in one of America's foremost families. His vast studio and residence on Gramercy Square, called the House of Fantasy because of the colorful profusion of murals and paintings with which Chanler had decorated it, still remained an open house for the leading figures of New York's Bohemia. Critics, poets, playwrights, actors and actresses were always to be found there in profusion.

While Chanler painted he kept up a rapid fire of conversation or argument with his guests, regaling them with Rabelaisian remarks, swearing heartily when aroused to indignation or roaring like a volcano in laughter, for he was a giant of a man physically, more than 200 pounds in weight and 6 feet 4 inches in height. When he laughed he shook the house. Everybody referred to him as "Sheriff Bob." And when he died of heart disease at his summer home at Woodstock, N. "TO HELL with what people think of you. Be yourself." That was the advice that Robert Winthrop Chanler once gave to a young painter seeking guidance. And it was because Chanler himself so completely lived up to that formula that his death last month marked the passing of one of the most original and exciting personalities New York society ever produced.

Although blue blood of a very fancy quality flowed through his veins, that was the least of Chanler's distinctions; in fact, he used to boast, when in jocular mood, that he had managed to accomplish something in spite of that handicap. The boast was not without foundation. He went into politics, was elected Sheriff of Dutchess County, New York, became the most popular Democrat ever to hold office in a Republican stronghold, was ringmaster in one of the dizziest political circuses ever staged and had a swell time at the job. Then he retired from politics. With his nomination for Congress practically assured, he gave up politics to go back to his painting. BUT even this great distinction no more dampened his wild gusto for living than had his membership in one of America's foremost families. His vast studio and residence on Gramercy Square, called the House of Fantasy because of the colorful profusion of murals and paintings with which Chanler had decorated it, still remained an open house for the leading figures of New York's Bohemia. Critics, poets, playwrights, actors and actresses were always to be found there in profusion.

While Chanler painted he kept up a rapid fire of conversation or argument with his guests, regaling them with Rabelaisian remarks, swearing heartily when aroused to indignation or roaring like a volcano in laughter, for he was a giant of a man physically, more than 200 pounds in weight and 6 feet 4 inches in height. When he laughed he shook the house. Everybody referred to him as "Sheriff Bob," and when he died of heart disease at his summer home at Woodstock, N. Y., at the age of 58, his mourners represented an almost complete cross-section of life, including those who had known him in politics, in the world of art, in Bohemia and in the uppermost ranks of society and wealth.

Chanler was born in New York City in 1872. He was a great-grandson of John Jacob Astor and shared in the vast Astor estate. He was also a descendant of Peter Stuyvesant, last of the Dutch Governors of New York, and of Governor John Winthrop. The list of other ancestors reads like an exclusive page in New York's blue book, including such names as the Beekmans, the Livingstons, the Chanlers and the Schuylers.

His early life was spent in comparative seclusion at the family's ancestral estate, Rockeby, in Dutchess County, near Poughkeepsie. As a very young man he went abroad and spent about 15 years studying and painting. He originally intended to be a sculptor and studied under famous masters in Rome. He soon gave up clay for crayon and color, returned to Paris and spent about four years studying painting in the leading academies there. Copying and imitating the masters didn't suit him, so he gave up the schools, became absorbed in the purely decorative aspects of painting and launched forth in his own way to paint murals and panels and screens.

IN 1893 he married Miss Julia Chamberlain, a New York girl of distinguished ancestry, and for the next 10 years they divided their time between Europe and America. They had two daughters. In 1907 Mrs. Chanler quietly obtained a divorce in Paris. The divorce did not become public until a year after it had taken place, and the reason for it was briefly stated as incompatibility. The mother obtained the custody of the two daughters, although when they grew older they spent much of their time with their father, with whom they have always been on the most intimate and affectionate terms.

Chanler's socially prominent relatives didn't approve of his selection of painting as a career. Few socially prominent families do approve of that sort of thing. But oddly enough they did want him to go into politics. There was, however, some precedent for this in the family, without considering the fact some of the most distinguished Chanler ancestors were Governors. Chanler's older brother, William Astor Chanler, had been a member of Congress. Another brother, Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, was Lieutenant-Governor of New York. So Bob went into politics, too. But while the other brothers had been very, very serious about the business, Bob Chanler didn't see why politics should necessarily be dull. And he promptly proceeded to enliven it. He ran for Assemblyman from the Second District of Dutchess County, whereupon the citizens of Dutchess County began to have the time of their lives. Bob's campaign was one long picnic. He organized and equipped a brass band for the county. He organized and equipped a baseball team that won the county championship. He gave clambakes, boat excursions and barbecues and handed out thousands of good cigars and beer checks. He purchased a prize bull and $5000 stallion and turned them over free of charge to the farmers of the county. Here was a candidate everyone could vote for. Instead of promising improvements he accomplished them single-handed. Bob Chanler was elected to the State Assembly by a big majority.

Bob served his term at Albany. While attending meetings there he occupied an entire floor at a leading Albany hotel, where he kept open house. Everybody liked the genial giant and he actually became a power in the Tammany councils of war. When his term in the Assembly was over he didn't run for re-election, but took a vacation abroad. He did some painting in Paris. In fact, it was at this time, between filling political offices, that he knocked off the picture that was later to be hung in the Luxembourg. He returned to America and announced himself as candidate for Sheriff of Dutchess County.

Since the baseball team and the band were still functioning successfully, Bob turned to another field of philanthropy. Soon almost every church in the county was boasting a new coat of paint, and a few of them were completely redecorated, all at Bob's expense. If the brass bands and beer checks had prevailed over his Republican rival on a former occasion, imagine how powerful they proved at the polls when allied with the good folk who attended the churches. So Chanler became Sheriff Bob. He filled the office to the immense satisfaction of everyone concerned. Harry Thaw was his prisoner for a time at the Poughkeepsie Jail. Chanler spent his own money lavishly, but in handling the public funds he was scrupulously careful. One of his subordinates one day reported that the cost of feeding prisoners in the county jail had been reduced to 60 cents a week per man.

"That's fine," said Chanler. "But are you sure they're getting enough food?"

The deputy reassured him, but still Bob wasn't entirely satisfied. Whereupon he bought a set of weighing scales, and had the prisoners weighed at regular intervals to be sure that they were getting sufficient nourishment. Chanler appointed his friend, Richard Harding Davis, a deputy and, according to one story, the two of them used to dress up in Wild West fashion and at night would ride about on horseback over the highways looking for bad men.

Lina Cavalieri, once Chanler's wife.

DURING his term of office Chanler was not only extremely popular, but established a fine record for maintaining law and order. A movement was started to send him to Congress, but Chanler himself stopped that. He had had enough of politics. He wanted to paint. He moved down to New York City, opened a studio and got busy. His lavish hospitality, warm personality and exuberant Bohemianism soon made his studio a rendezvous for gay and artistic spirits. His paintings began to attract some attention, although the most adequate description that most people could find for his art was the word "bizarre." The force and individuality of his work finally began to catch hold. His family urged him to give up art for politics, but there were many socially prominent persons, including relatives, who soon showed their appreciation of the fact that Sheriff Bob had returned to art. Society leaders began to buy his screens and canvases, and in time panels or murals executed by Chanler were to be found in the homes of such wealthy persons as Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, W. R. Coe, James Deering, Mrs. Walter Lewisohn and others.

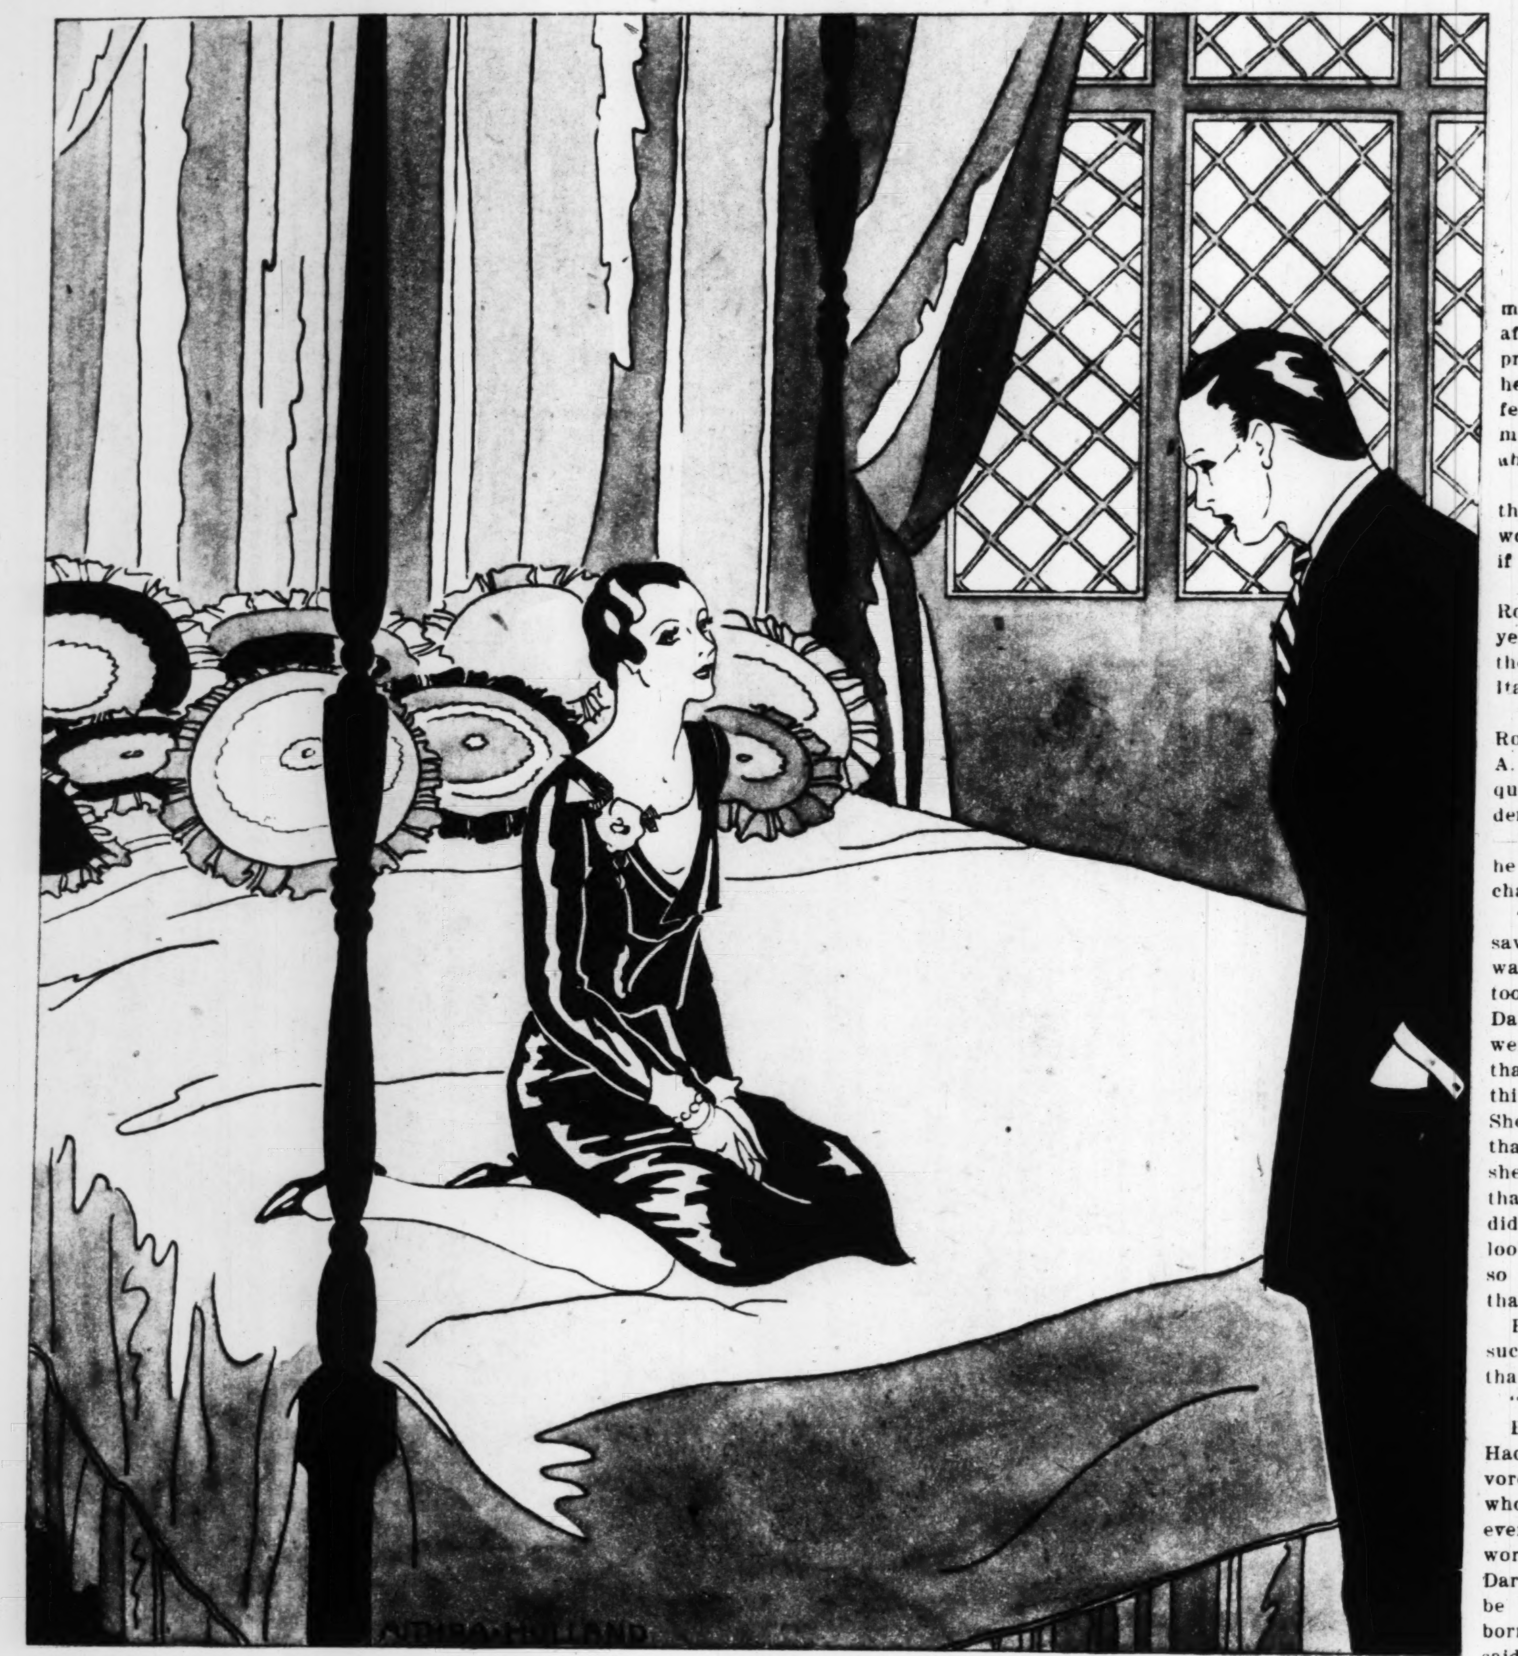
But just before he began to achieve wide recognition he found himself involved in a matrimonial venture that became famous. In 1910 Chanler met Lina Cavalieri, then prima donna of the Manhattan Opera House.

HE FELL madly in love with the Italian beauty. In the spring she went to Paris and after an exchange of cables, in which he he proposed marriage and she accepted, Chanler took a boat and went to join her. They were married in Paris, but not, it later developed, until Chanler had signed a pre-nuptial agreement whereby he assigned to her the income of some 30 or 40 houses and flats in New York which was his share of the Astor estate.

No sooner were Chanler and Cavalieri married than she made it appear that one of her chief interests in him had been financial. A few weeks after the wedding she was stricken with appendicitis, and it was noticed that while she was always too ill to see her newly acquired husband she was always well enough to have visits by Prince Dolgorouki, a Russian with whom she had long been friendly. She went to a watering place to recuperate, and when Chanler joined her there he discovered that the Prince had been there all the while. There was a scene between the diva and the painter and Chanler departed. Lina promptly brought suit for divorce and when an officer of the French court, according to the legal formalities, asked Chanler if he would admit his wife into his home, Chanler vigorously replied: "Never! I've had enough! If in spite of me she should enter the

SHE WAS A WOMAN

By Cosmo Hamilton



"She looked like one who had climbed to the top of the highest possible hill and was triumphant, though a little tired and a little breathless."

IT WAS in the Continental edition of the New York Herald which he had bought at Calais. It was looked upon as an item of interest by the paper, presumably because he had been a member of an English polo team and had made many friends in America. It was in the middle of the front page, with so large a heading that it caught his eyes at once.

Major Bill Moreland, late Twenty-first Lancers, the well-known British sportsman, had been divorced by his wife, Rosita, daughter of the Brigadier-General Sir Ronald and Lady Jean Kerr-Graham. The wedding, one of the social events of 1926, took place at the Chapel Royal, Westminster, the best man being Churchill M. Spenser III of New York and Newport, Rhode Island. There are no children of the marriage.

When our London representative called for a statement at Major Moreland's house he was told that the Major "was out of town." The same answer was given at Mrs. Moreland's apartment in Grosvenor House, Park Lane. There is strong rumor in London to the effect that Mrs. Moreland will be married shortly to Captain Ashley Raikes, who fought his way this year into the finals for the Davis Cup. It was stated in the Naval and Military Club that Captain Raikes "had not been seen for some days."

On the tiresome journey on the Blue Train from Paris to Beaulieu that dull November day, Bill Moreland read these words so often and so intently that he would have been able to recognize each one if it had been shuffled deliberately among a million words. They epitomized into a short paragraph the one great tragic failure of his successful life.

He had allowed himself to be divorced because he loved his wife. He had undertaken to go through the humiliation and fake of that inhuman and hypocritical proceeding so that Rosita should be free to marry someone else. In her most friendly and tender way, after a series of incompatible months, she had asked him to do her this favor. Her head was on his shoulder and she had held his hand.

Without tears, but with those occasional heart-rending sobs which had stultified that simple fellow during and since the honeymoon, she had said: "I want to be made happy. I simply want to be made happy. You don't make me happy. I must be made happy. I was born to be made happy; unless I'm happy I'm as good as dead. Don't you understand?"

To which he had replied, lying: "Yes, of course, I understand," as though he were talking to a child who had come screaming out of a nightmare and was now babbling incomprehensibly of what she had been through.

He had never been able to make head or tail of her. Her moods, her tangents, her queer moments of mysticism, her sudden, irresistible desire for something which, when achieved, was dropped; her constant cry for an intangible happiness during moments when she had everything in the world to make her happy, had been beyond the reach of his mind.

There had been whole weeks during which she had made him feel that he had married a spirit wandering through unknown paths of another dimension; that he had imprisoned an ecstasy, a grief, a paroxysm, a shadow, an immaterial thing which, all the same, ate and drank and smoked, laughed, talked, used lipstick, went frequently to the dressmaker, spent money like water, stood in need of immediate flattery and amusement, and was very beautiful.

AS a pukka soldier Bill knew war. As a junior officer in the Twenty-first Lancers he had gone into the trenches in 1914 at the age of 21. Besides that grim business he knew polo ponies, birds, fish, tobacco, wine; but he had never known Rosita, who was an uncut book to him. All that he had ever been able to say to himself was—puzzled, amazed and unhappy—by way of excuse: "She is a woman, and I don't know women," and give her a divorce. But he had loved her and still loved her better than all his other loves—the regiment, polo and ponies, birds, fish, tobacco, wine and himself.

But he slept very well on the train. He could sleep very well on anything at any time under any circumstances. It was a gift. When he arrived at Beaulieu at midday, where he intended to play hermit for two or three months in order to get over the nasty business which is called divorce, he said:

"I see. Going to be married to Raikes, is she? I don't know the fellow. Plays good tennis, I'm told. Well, I wish her better luck."

The villa, in which the man and his wife who looked after it for him lived all the year round in the basement, was a stone's throw from the sea. It had been built in 1880 by his father for the winter, and as land was cheap in those days, even in that playground, he had bought more than was actually necessary to protect himself from other people's domesticities and from being overlooked.

THE garden was filled with trees. The villa was simple, solid, roomy, gray with a red roof. You could fish, if you wished, from the terrace on the rocks or, if you happened to be there in the summer, being appalled by the English climate, you could swim in a transparent sea.

The honest and loyal Dupont was waiting for the taxi, eager to carry in the luggage of his considerate patron whom he had known when he was a boy. He still clung to the old derby hat which Bill had hesitated to give him several years ago and wisely wore a thick sweater made by his good but cheeseparing wife, although the sun was warm. His bushy mustache was white.

There were affectionate greetings and handshakes, the removal of luggage, the shattering disappearance of the taxi and the totally unexpected and unwelcome sight of a static Bugatti with two of its dusty tires in one of the flower beds.

And as Bill turned to enter the villa, saying to himself, "What in the name of all that's"—a man came out of the door.

He was one of those men who are born with the quick, correcting eye of an A. P. M., a dictatorial voice, and a way of saying without speaking, "Who are you?" He had dark, strong hair, definite eyebrows, a fat mustache, two dark lines on highish cheek bones and a cleft in an aggressive chin. Thin and muscular and tall, he wore a pair of brown shorts, thick brown stockings, lighter, a brown sweater of still another shade, and suede shoes with crepe soles and lapping tongues.

He challenged Bill abruptly. "Trespassers will be prosecuted with the utmost vigor of the law, beware of the dog," was stamped all over him. He might have owned the place.

"Yes?" he said, holding the fort.

"Yes what?" asked Bill. Darn the fellow. What the deuce was he doing here, with his confounded tires in the flower bed?

"Yes what? . . . I don't get you. Let me point out that this is a private villa and I don't remember including you in the house party."

Funny wasn't the word for all this. "Here I am," said Bill to himself, "after a filthy journey, to hide away like a hurt dog and lick my wounds in a place that ought to be private and which is wholly mine . . ." He simply had to laugh.

A huge, lumbering, lazy-looking creature, with a big nose, rather wide-set boyish eyes, long legs, guffawing with his head thrown back, on someone else's drive . . .

The A. P. M. was amazed. He had been asked to make up a party of congenial people by the girl to whom he was engaged to be married, in a villa that was hers—rather a decent little place that would suit him well during England's more disagreeable months—and up marches a total stranger whose bags are taken in and who goes into a roar of laughter when challenged.

"Look here," he said.

Bill stopped laughing and put his foot on a step. "Wait a second, will you? What's all this about a house party? Whose house party?"

There was something in the voice which reminded the A. P. M. that there are men of higher command. "Mrs. Moreland's," he said.

"OH!" Bill swallowed a gasp. "So you've arranged it, have you, being Ashley Raikes, I suppose." Well, he was a bit of a martinet. Heaven only knew whether that might not be conducive to Rosita's happiness.

"Yes," said Raikes, "I am."

"This happens to be my villa, do you see, and I'm here for a couple of months—which, I'm afraid, is going to make things a little awkward for you."

"Awkward for me? Why?"

"A past husband and a future husband under the same roof as the lady in questsion. . . . I see that you agree."

In fact, "My God!" said Raikes.

Bill nodded and went slowly up the steps. His wound was very severe and it would take him years to get over it. But the sense of humor with which he had been gifted, as well as the power to sleep, were considerable assets to convalescence. They always are.

"How is Rosita now? I haven't seen her since this legal thing began."

"She seems frightfully fit—to me." Raikes added the last words after a hesitation which went to prove that even he, cocksure as he was as a rule, was not yet perfectly certain that he didn't know more about tennis than he did about Rosita.

"When did you get here? By the way, not the best thing in the world for flower beds, those tires, if I may say so."

"No. I'm sorry. Your—I mean Rosita came with the Cunliffes yesterday by train. I drove over the border half an hour ago from Italy. Amazing roads."

"I see. Where is my—I mean Rosita at the moment?" All the A. P. M. fell from Raikes at the question. Under what was evidently unusually strong emotion—bewilderment, stultification—he became a human person for a change.

"She was a bit upset when she saw me. At least I thought she was. Overtired, I suppose. Then, too, there was a paragraph in the Daily Mail—oh, I dunno. There were no tears or anything like that, but a burst of sobs or something and a sudden disappearance. She said she wasn't happy and that nobody made her happy. That she had to be made happy and that I didn't understand. Well, I didn't, I'm bound to confess. And look here, I'm darned sorry I was so short with you just now, and that sort of thing."

Bill looked at his impending successor gravely and wondered if that's what he was.

But he didn't feel very friendly. Had he allowed himself to be divorced for a confounded fellow who was going to let Rosita down even before they were married? A worse ass than himself, in fact? Darn it, of course Rosita was to be made happy. She had been born to be made happy. She had said so every day. Wasn't there a man on earth who understood?

Bill went into the villa that obviously wasn't his. There in the sitting room, in his particular chair for instance, lolled a smart and therefore overpainted young woman giving an amazing display of leg. It was attractive leg, as it happened, young. And there, with his back to the fire, in an owner's attitude, stood a man with a tonged mustache and gooseberry eyes, plastered hair and a very new pair of golf shoes with bobbles of India rubber.

STILL in mental fog, Raikes said: "Oh, look here, Enid, this is Major Moreland. Mrs. Eustace Cunliffe."

"Not, by the grace of God, Bill?" Here was a certain amount of amusement in a dull place!

"Yes," said Bill, "I'm glad to be able to provide you with something of a kick in this hermitage!"

"Great Scott!" said Eustace Cunliffe. "Here's a jolly mess." He put two tender fingers to the tortured hair on his lip. He felt, more quickly than usual—he wasn't a fast-thinking man—that the blundering presence of Moreland in this oasis might put himself and Enid to enormous inconvenience. It was quite on the cards that Rosita might stick on her hat, make a bolt for the station, drag them straight back to London and ruin a pleasant holiday on this devilishly pretty coast. Plain bad form for a divorced man to force himself in like that.

"Do sit down," said Enid. "It shatters me rather when tall men loom above me and cast shadows on my chair." But she rolled her eyes at Bill and showed her teeth. He looked to her to be the sort of man with whom one broke monotony. Eustace created monotony.

"There won't be any sort of a jolly mess," he said. "I'm going to remove myself. I'll get Dupont to bring my things down, telephone to the station for the taxi and drive over to Monte Carlo for the night. Then I'll nip across the border to some Italian place. Rosita doesn't know I've been here, and there's no need to tell her so."

"I'd drive you in my Bugatti," said Raikes, "if it would take your luggage. But it won't. I think your decision is wise."

"Thanks very much," said Bill.

But as he went to the door of the comfortable sitting room in which he had intended to nurse his wounds as a hermit or a lonely dog, singing came from the stairs. Rosita, who never merely came into a room, burst upon the scene. She had mastered her sobs and renewed her makeup, changed her frock and squirted herself with scent. It was the jasmine which had always made Bill tremble at the knees.

With a little choking cry she passed Raikes and the two Cunliffes, flung herself in Bill's arms and kissed his face repeatedly, which she covered with her tears. There were, it must be confessed, one or two of his. He might not have understood her, and he didn't understand her now—less than ever before—but he knew that, at that shocking and ecstatic moment he hadn't lived in vain. If he never went through another such moment life was worth the fag. He lifted her up, held her tight and gave her kiss for kiss.

On it went and on, until even Enid was disconcerted and Raikes found words.

"Hang it all," he said, sticking out his chin, "this is not the sort of behavior that one expects from the woman to whom one happens to be engaged!" He floundered in pedanticism and nearly slipped on an aitch.

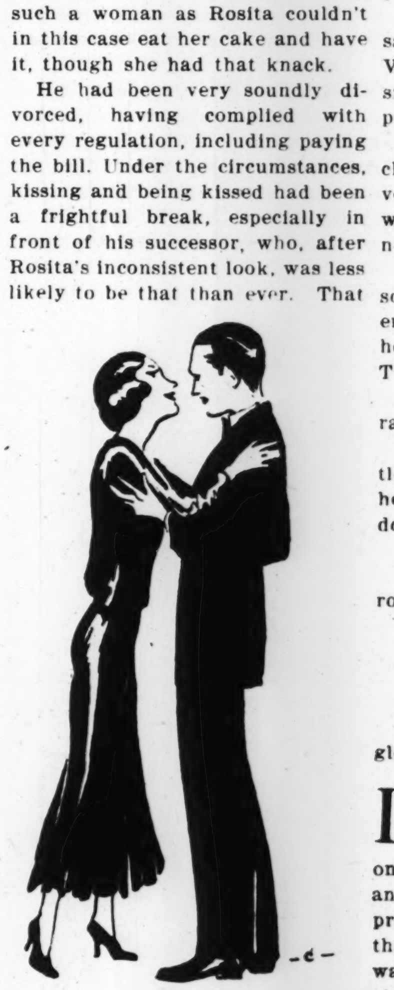
Bill dropped Rosita as if she had been a hot brick. Good Lord! He had lost those rights. This was a young and lovely woman who was on the verge of becoming the wife of an A. P. M.

AND Rosita, startled at being dropped, looked at Raikes without the slightest recognition, seemed to be caught in a sirocco, and was blown clean out of the room.

Upon which it seemed to Bill that he had better inspect the garden. This he did at once, followed by a scoff from Cunliffe, an hysterical giggle from Enid and the sort of glare from Ashley Raikes which he had employed upon a territorial subaltern whom he had caught smoking a pipe in Piccadilly during the war. . . .

Did this mean anything or nothing? If it meant anything it was worse than nothing because the law had taken its course. Even such a woman as Rosita couldn't in this case eat her cake and have it, though she had that knack.

He had been very soundly divorced, having complied with every regulation, including paying the bill. Under the circumstances, kissing and being kissed had been a frightful break, especially in front of his successor, who, after Rosita's inconsistent look, was less likely to be that than ever. That is, if he possessed an ounce of pride and a modicum of wisdom. But was there a living man who could retain such things within a mile of his—he meant Rosita?



An hour later the tremble was still in his knees. But he still persisted in following the winding paths of the charming garden with its pines and palms and eucalyptus trees and the grass which had grown up again. It had been dug up in the summer, having been burned to the roots by the sun. But he couldn't find any way out of the maze of his brain. Whenever he thought that he had got a way out, up sprang a notice board. On every one was painted precisely similar words: "I want to be made happy. I must be made happy. I was born to be made happy. Don't you understand?"

Yes, he understood. He hadn't made her happy. He didn't know how to make her happy, except by letting her go, and it came to him with a shock then for the first time that she might be one of the numerous women who never lived but hope to live, who hunt happiness so eagerly that they pass it on the road. Did she know what happiness was? Did any woman know?

DUPONT came out with squeaking boots. They had squeaked in the same way when he had come into the garden after Bill during the Christmas holidays when his father had had the place. A long time ago. He removed the old derby hat and begged to state that madame desired to see him in her room. The weather was good, but oh, the summer. That heat! The lack of rain! Still, there was always a good breeze at Beaulieu. God had to be thanked for that. Yes. A thousand thanks. His wife was well.

All that saw Bill to the steps . . . In her room? But why her room? Hadn't she gone to the trouble to memorize the fact that she had divorced him? He had no right in her room. He wouldn't go to her room. At any rate, he had to take no orders from her now. And so instead of going upstairs he mooched into the sitting room. It was his idea to prove to Rosita that she had eaten her cake. He would have given a thousand pounds not to have had the idea. There were Enid and her legs, monotony and cigarette smoke round her head. She was undoubtedly very smart. She said: "Hello! I thought you were going. I thought you were well in Monte by this time." It wasn't true. She hadn't thought for years. You can't be smart and think. You must do one thing or the other. Eustace wasn't present.

"I forgot about going," Bill said. "The garden is coming on. Very useful rains. A red hot summer, I'm told. I'll ask Dupont to call the taxi now."

Enid demonstrated the fact very clearly that she owned a pair of very pretty legs. The French playwright and the modern woman can never forget those things.

"Although I ought not to say so," she said, saying it, "the sooner you clear out the less likelihood of rather unpleasant talk. This coast has many spies."

"Yes," said Bill, "I know." He rang the bell for Dupont.

"It appears that our strange little Rosita wants you to go up to her room. Of course, you won't do that."

"Of course I shan't," he said.

Rosita's voice, like a petal of rose, floated into the room.

"Bill!"

"Yes, dar—I mean, yes?"

"Aren't you coming up?"

"Yes, of course. At once."

Once more Enid's hysterical giggle followed him into the hall.

IN THE villa's largest and most convenient bedroom there was Rosita, gnomelike, sitting on the bed. Was there a new and even more bewildering expression on her face, or was it the effect of the light? Or, again, was it something which Bill had always hoped to see and now, by a trick of imagination, merely thought he saw?

She was sitting on her legs with her hands clasped. She looked like one who had climbed to the top of the highest possible hill and was triumphant, though a little tired and a little breathless, filled with wonder and peace. Never before had she conveyed the impression of being contented to sit. Her eyes were large and shining, her lips were slightly parted, like those of a vividly imaginative fairy-like child, awed and entranced at the sight of beauty that she had only seen in a dream.

"Bill," she said in a whisper, "I've found it—the search is over at last."

"Oh?" He was as puzzled as usual, but he lowered his voice as people do in church, sympathetic

People who knew her then describe her as a chunky child who got by in a bathing suit, but didn't know how to dress or fix her hair. "Sullen," "shy," "unresponsive," are some of the adjectives they apply to the Gloria of those days. In 1918, after three years among the custard pies, she was advanced to dramatic leads with Triangle.

The following year Cecil B. De Mille got her. And what a change came about. The stocky girl in the bathing suit who had been principally a target for pies was suddenly clothed in yards and yards of cloth of gold, hung with baubles like a Christmas tree and made to stalk through gaudy drawing rooms in the role of a very grand lady. At this period she was, in the opinion of one of her most acute and yet sympathetic critics, God-awful, beyond the ordinary descriptive powers of the English language. She never wore less than two pounds of paste jewelry and she posed like a peacock against De Mille's fantastic sets.

But her public liked it. They gasped in rapture when Gloria came on looking like something done in fireworks, and called for more. "Male and Female," fashioned out of "The Admirable Crichton"—although James M. Barrie, the author, probably never admitted it—was one of the most sumptuous of the spectacles that featured Gloria. It did an enormous business.

The filming of "Male and Female" demonstrated one thing that Gloria has never lacked—indomitable nerve. The scenario required that she walk along a thickly overgrown jungle path to a water-hole where a sleeping lion lay. Gloria told the story this way:

"The beast was doped a bit and the walk down to the lion went through without a hitch, although if you want a lesson in nerve control try walking toward a sleeping lion, with help yards away, out of the camera's range.

ble, that, as the years go on and the ever-changing skyline of New York rears itself higher and higher into the clouds, other structures even more inconceivable to twentieth century minds will rise. But it also is probable that the Empire State will remain the tallest structure of any kind in the world for a long time to come. It is possible to build with safety higher than 1200 feet, but the loss in rentable area above the sixtieth floor in New York is so slight that to go much above 1000 feet becomes rather an expensive and foolish gesture.

THE observatory of the Eiffel Tower was 905 feet, the observatory of the Manhattan Tower 836 feet, that on the Chrysler Building 783 feet. Builders believe that few structures will be built that will top the Empire State.

It represents an investment of $55,000,000. The steel alone weighs in excess of 46,000 tons.

We've all speculated on what four hundred years or so will of New York. We've all more or less fantastic pro as to what the swiftly ging city will be like. And realize with some regret that will not be alive to see it. But king one of the elevators in the Empire State is the next best thing. It is as close as we can come to pulling aside the veil and stepping into the world our grandchildren and great-grandchildren will know.

"Male and Female," fashioned out of "The Admirable Crichton"—although James M. Barrie, the author, probably never admitted it—was one of the most sumptuous of the spectacles that featured Gloria. It did an enormous business.

The filming of "Male and Female" demonstrated one thing that Gloria has never lacked—indomitable nerve. The scenario required that she walk along a thickly overgrown jungle path to a water-hole where a sleeping lion lay. Gloria told the story this way:

"The beast was doped a bit and the walk down to the lion went through without a hitch, although if you want a lesson in nerve control try walking toward a sleeping lion, with help yards away, out of the camera's range. The trainer, for some reason or other, was not on the job. The lion stirred, lifted his head, saw me and roared. I stood paralyzed. He lifted his huge carcass. His paws dropped on my neck. I felt his hot breath along my spine and heard, faintly, the click of cameras. Then I saw his trainer level his rifle—and the voice of De Mille: 'Don't shoot.'

"Even at that moment I was grateful. It would have been just my luck for the trainer to miss the lion and hit me.

"Perhaps it was my stiff unresponsiveness — through sheer fright; but the lion took his huge weight off me and quietly slunk away. Then came a harder test—to walk away, conscious of the beast behind me, without betraying panic. I started for the cameras slowly. It was as much as I could do to move my legs. When I made it there was wild applause from everybody—cameramen and actors. They said I'd mesmerized the lion. Why, I'd been too scared to look it in its face."

But eventually Gloria graduated from the De Mille school. In two pictures in particular, "The Humming Bird" and "Manhandled," she proved that she knew how to act, that she was considerably more than a clothes-horse. She came to New York where she was put under more sophisticated directors. Her hair was no longer tortured into loops and knobs and swathings but was soft and smooth. Ambitious and unresting, she soaked up improvement wherever she could find it. Long before, of course, she had parted from Wallace Beery and likewise from Somborn, the father of her daughter, little Gloria, now nine years old.

SHE went abroad in 1925 to film "Madame Sans-Gene" in the French setting. The story of Bonaparte's ex-laundress who rose to extraordinary fame had a strong fascination for her. Things did not go well in Paris. The French government, strangely enough, had scruples against using historic buildings as movie sets. Weeks went by, salaries and overhead piled up, frantic cables began to come from America.

Then Gloria met her Marquis. He was 27, handsome gracious, one of the most noted amateur fencers in France, his father in his turn having been a noted swordsman. The Marquis had important connections which he soon exploited for Gloria. They were charmed by each other. The Marquis took her around from one minister's office to another and doors magically opened to his name and obdurate gentlemen who had refused to let so much as a single stone of the Tuilleries be photographed gave in.

And so they were married, quietly, at the city hall in Passy, a suburb of Paris, and there was a gay luncheon party afterward at the Hotel Plaza Athenee. Gloria's return to America was in the nature of a triumph. She was inordinately proud of her handsome Marquis with his indubitably authentic title. She went very high hat at this time. It was like all the De Mille movies rolled into one come true—the little girl from the dreary wastes of Chicago's South Side now rich and married to a young nobleman.

SHE took to having her secretary telephone her dinner invitations in this manner: "Madame la Marquise de la Falaise de la Coudraye would like you to dine with her on the evening of such and such a date at half after eight." Several times this attitude got her in bad. Once, arriving in New York with her Marquis, she argued with a newspaper photographer over the way in which her picture was to be taken, which is absolutely lese majeste in the United States. It happened this way. The photographer said, "Now, Miss Swanson, if you'll just pick up your bags, you and your husband, as though you were coming off the train, why I'd like to take a couple of shots that way." And Miss Swanson said, "Oh, but we never carry our own bags. I couldn't think of doing that."

It so happened that this particular photographer had known Gloria in the custard pie era and he got very annoyed at the haughty Marquise who never carried her own bags. He went back and reported the whole incident to his paper. A news story followed and then an editorial that poked rather pointed fun at the Hollywood Marquise.

But there were other and far more tangible difficulties. In 1926 Gloria had had the astonishing nerve to turn down a salary of slightly over a million dollars a year offered by Zukor and Lasky if she would consent to remain under the Paramount banner. But Gloria had definite ambitions. She was determined to make her own pictures under her own name. She was tired of being assigned to roles by a boss, roles that she often felt were unsuited to her. She became associated with United Artists, sharing with Chaplin, Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and two or three others the honor of heading one's own productions. It soon developed that a great deal of grief went along with this honor. Her first picture under the Gloria Swanson name was "The Loves of Sunya." It was a dismal flop. A great deal of Gloria's money had gone into it. Paramount jeered maliciously.

It was a very bad time, although Gloria has always been wildly improvident, a millionaire one day, on the verge of bankruptcy the next. They tell a story about her trip to New York to borrow money. She got the money all right but spent most of it for a private car and other little knick-knacks on the return journey. The Marquis found time hanging pretty heavily on his hands. His wife was terribly busy, absorbed with problems on which the whole of her future depended. Hank, as he was already known, got a job as an automobile salesman, later he went with Pathe. He had to go back to Paris quite a bit, in connection with his job and to get his passports brought up to date. Gossip started as it invariably does here.

The picture Gloria made from the play, "Rain," was the saving straw. It was a mere stroke of luck that she got to produce it at all, for Papa Will Hayes had ruled it was too immoral for movie audiences. Gloria got around him by a brilliant bit of strategy. She arranged that she should sit next to him at a farewell luncheon in his honor on the day he was sailing for Europe. Just casually she happened to mention that she wanted to get permission to make a film from a short story called "Miss Sadie Thompson." In fact, she said, she had intended to call that day at the Hayes office. The censor was in a very benign mood. He assured her it wasn't necessary, that he would phone his office and tell them it was perfectly all right for her to go ahead with the filming of "Miss Sadie Thompson." Which he did and which immediately made "Rain" available for the screen, as the play is taken directly from the story, "Miss Sadie Thompson." The picture saved the Swanson fortune and the Swanson name. It grossed well over a million dollars.

SHE engaged the brilliant but endlessly slow Eric Von Stroheim to direct her next picture, "Queen Kelly," which was intended to be silent. Long before it was completed the talkies dominated and cans and cans of film went up on the shelf to gather dust. An effort was made to convert "Queen Kelly" into a talkie but Gloria realized that this was futile and finally abandoned it. Again perilously close to troubled financial waters, she went ahead with "The Trespasser" in which she exercised her pleasant singing voice. It registered as a hit from the first showing and once more the wolf had been driven from the Swanson door.

Poor Hank had drifted nearly out of the picture. It was Gloria's door, her house, her career that mattered. She had time to waste affection only on her two children, Gloria and the little boy, Joseph, more familiarly Buddy, whom she had adopted. She is devoted to them and even in one of her most bored and languid states she will revive conversationally at the merest mention of child psychology. She is rearing them very simply and never have they been photographed for publicity purposes. Nor are they allowed, except very infrequently, to come to the studios.

Hank, of course partly blames Hollywood for the break. He says that no sooner are two people married than the whole movie colony promptly begins to speculate on how soon they will be divorced. The rumor-factory is always busy, first a rumor of separation, then rumor of a divorce. It's in the air, Hank says, and it finally gets you. They always make a triangle story out of it. The other woman in this case is said to have been Constance Bennett. Hank helped to get her back into pictures as part of his job with Pathe, he saw a good bit of her in Paris, he's fond of her, but all this doesn't mean that he is necessarily going to marry her. Although no one will be surprised if he does.

GLORIA is now in her last and most perfect phase. She is suavely, smoothly enameled. Entirely vanished is the girl from Chicago, vanished is the gaudy De Mille beauty. This Gloria Swanson has a handsome veneer that would pass anywhere. She has been described by a writer who knows her rather well as follows:

"At the smaller Hollywood parties you will see—after she has been pointed out to you—a quiet woman wearing, perhaps, a black lace dinner dress, and talking with someone in a corner. Socially she doesn't demand the center of the stage; she doesn't have to. The present Gloria is sure of herself, with the real sureness which relaxes. She talks easily and frankly about her own deficiencies, regretting that she is 'a person of no education.'"

Nor has she any illusions that she can stay at the top all her life. Once when she sailed on the Berengaria in a suite the Prince of Wales had occupied on the previous crossing, with the drawing room filled with flowers, hundreds of congratulatory telegrams on the opening of her latest movie at which she had made a personal appearance, hordes of admirers on hand to see her off, she made a very sage remark. "All this is very nice," she said, gesturing at the evidences of her regal departure "but it's all over at 35. And that isn't a hundred years away."

The World's Tallest Structure

ple that, as the years go on and the ever-changing skyline of New York rears itself higher and higher into the clouds, other structures even more inconceivable to twentieth century minds will rise. But it also is probable that the Empire State will remain the tallest structure of any kind in the world for a long time to come. It is possible to build with safety higher than 1200 feet, but the rentable area above the sixtieth floor in New York is so slight as to go much above 1000 feet becomes rather an expensive and useless gesture.

THE observatory of the Eiffel Tower was 905 feet, the observatory of the Manhattan [illegible] 836 feet, that on the Chrysler Building 783 feet. Builders say that few structures will be built that will top the Empire State.

It represents an investment of some [illegible]5,000,000. The steel frame weighs in excess of 46,000 tons.

We've all speculated on what a hundred years or so will bring to New York. We've all read more or less fantastic prophecies as to what the swiftly growing city will be like. And we realize with some regret that we will not be alive to see it. But a ride in one of the elevators in the Empire State is the next best thing. It is as close as we can get to pulling aside the veil and peeking into the world our grandchildren and great-grandchildren will know.

The Fight Against Tropical Diseases

They have proved that a monkey in Panama harbors a relapsing fever parasite that gives it a relapsing fever similar to human relapsing fever—and very definite results of which they are not at liberty to speak yet, are expected from experiments with such a monkey they brought back with them; a marmoset that may yet be a mile-stone in medicine.

They captured specimens of the deadly, venomous "bushmaster," a snake with curving fangs an inch long, that rakes the legs of those who walk the jungle paths, and causes death. They are working now on anti-venin from its poison—a remedy to be injected into victims of the bushmaster's bite. One man alone in the world, Dr. Amaral of Rio de Janeiro, has made such a bushmaster anti-venin. He is so distant that it is not available in the American tropics.

And lastly they captured live specimens of the "poncho"—a giant guinea pig. One of them weighed 62 pounds, was 28 inches long and 17 inches high. The average guinea pig weighs a pound or less, may be eight inches long and four inches high.

They brought back to the Gorgas Laboratory in Panama a half grown poncho weighing 28 pounds. It is the only living one science has with which to experiment. Prior to the Tulane expedition, science only knew the animal by three pelts brought in from the jungle.

Why was the poncho important?

In the American tropics is a deadly disease of mules and horses called "murrina." It is vital to the United States Army in the Canal Zone, because tractors for artillery and truck trains are useless there in the mud of tropical rains, horses and mules have to be used, and they die in herds and droves of murrina.

Hitherto the doctors had thought the poncho was the "reservoir" of the parasite causing murrina. Tulane in the tropics proved that the poncho was guiltless of this. Now, that possibility removed, science can follow other trails to run the cause of murrina down.

YOU sit beside Dr. Faust as he tells you of this, in his office and laboratory at the Tulane Medical Building on Canal Street. It is cold, bald, impersonal scientific stuff—yet it thrills like a romance.

There in glass and alcohol beside him is the severed head of a bushmaster, mouth opened wide, inch-long ivory curved fangs exposed, from which he took enough venom to kill eight men. There in another glass container is a great bushmaster, complete, deadly even in death. There is a bright coral snake he captured. And bushmaster and coral snake, side by side with the fer-de-lance of the American tropics, share certain deadliness.

He tells you how from Panama on the west coast they steamed out in a little native Diesel-driven craft, clear down the coast to El Real, after their two months laboratory work under Dr. Herbert C. Clark, director of the Gorgas Memorial Laboratory. How from El Real they took motor boat up to Boca de Cupe, the last native village on the Tuira River in Darien Province of Panama. And how from Boca de Cupe they took canoes into the primeval jungle.

"In our study of animal parasites, we had to get animals in a wild state, utterly uncontaminated by contact with human beings," Dr. Faust explains.

Oh, no, there was nothing adventurous about it. Nothing, really.

Yes, there was one slight mishap. You discover that all it was was the upset of a canoe that plunged Dr. Faust into the depths of the Tuira River. But he simply swam ashore. Just like that. The only reason it irritated him was the loss of a fine collection of just-snapped photographs of which he hadn't had time to develop the films.

NO, THEY didn't take guides. Just a cook and a camp boy. The Indians wandering in now and then were very interesting. All spoke Spanish. They certainly could drive a bargain—keen business men!

No, they took no chances. Under the mosquito nets by 7 o'clock every night. No malaria for them if they could help it. No, no snake came near biting them. They were careful.

"Just sorry they couldn't bring back some live bushmasters. But the stupid snake won't live in captivity. Commits suicide, so to speak. Thrashes around and breaks its brittle spine. But they got some splendid ones. Got enough venom out of one, actually, to kill eight men. Invaluable for making anti-venin.

Did a little book-worm investigation, too. Found it not uncommon but not heavy. And very happy to find that sanitation in the American tropics was the answer to amoebic dysentery.

"Why, among the whites living in the Canal Zone under modern sanitation, there is only about one-fifth of the amoebic dysentery you'll find right here in New Orleans in proportion to the whole population."

They clinched the "filth disease" theory of amoebic dysentery when they found that there were no parasites of the disease in monkeys like marmosets that are eaters of clean food; and the monkeys that eat filth are filled with them.

Then, word by word, you draw out the fact that these matters never before have been covered by investigation in the jungles of Panama; never before so thoroughly anywhere in the world, save possibly in one or two World War spots.

"It was a splendid cross-section," Dr. Faust puts it.

It was taken in the last "un-Rockefellered" spot in Panama. The Rockefeller Foundation men have pretty well charted the rest of the tropics around there.

She Was a Woman

"Happiness," she said. She held out a little hand with pink nails and blue veins.

This he took with his usual gratitude, but he didn't know what to do with it. He never did. He knew war, polo and ponies, birds, fish, tobacco and wine, but he had never known Rosita. He didn't know women, and she was a woman to him. . . . Well, he took it that Raikes was a good egg. He played a jolly good game of tennis. "Good luck," he said.

But Rosita, who had an uncanny way of reading people's thoughts, said: "No, Ashley doesn't exist. I found it when I kissed you. I could feel it in your heart. I found it in making you happy, and I made you frightfully happy. I felt it on my cheeks. At last, at last, I know—it's a revelation—that all who would win joy must give it and share it—that happiness is a twin." She gave him her other hand.

And he took it, profoundly moved, and put them both to his lips. Then he dropped them as though they were hot bricks because they weren't his. He had no legal or conventional rights. He had given her a divorce. He said as well as he could: "I—I don't know what to say."

She didn't seem in the least hurt at his having fallen back. And her hands were still held out. "Say exactly what's in your mind," she said, "word for word."

He thought that he heard the Bugatti roaring along the drive. "Rosita . . . Rosita," he said, very humbly, but with a most blinding flash of understanding, "I have the honor to ask you to be my wife."

"Thank you, Bill," said Rosita, with equal humbleness. "I have the honor, the joy and the happiness . . ."

She got no further than that.

house by the door, I would jump out of the window!"

The singer got her divorce on the ground of desertion and promptly threatened legal action to collect according to the prenuptial agreement. Chanler settled for a sum in the neighborhood of $80,000.

This in turn gave rise to a famous joke at Chanler's expense. In 1897 one of Chanler's brothers, George Armstrong Chanler, had been committed by the family to Bloomingdale Asylum for the insane in New York. Three years later he escaped and went to live in Virginia, where the court regarded him as sane. He never forgave the family and he changed his name to "Chaloner" as a sign of hatred. Chaloner was living in Virginia when the papers published the news of Sheriff Bob's divorce and payment of $80,000. Whereupon Brother George sent Bob the following telegram: "Who's looney now?" Bob appreciated the joke immensely and showed the wire to all his friends. The phrase became widely popular almost overnight and a series of cartoons under the caption, "Who's Looney Now?" gained wide circulation.

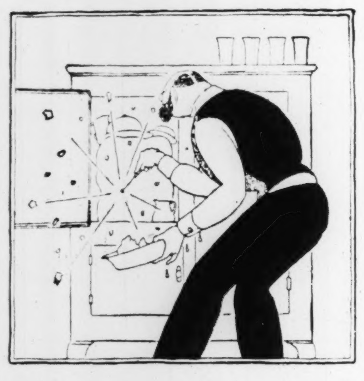
FABLES IN SLANG

Containing the Diversified Opinions of the Four Studious Observers.

ONCE upon a Time four studious Observers of our present complex Civilization began to check up on various Changes that had come about since the Mauve Decade, alias the Gay Nineties, alias the Zenith Era of 100 per cent Yappishness. They admitted that the Radio was a Whip-Zizzer and the Zeppelin was a Wow and the 1930 models were Darbs, but here were Birds who looked below the Surface of Current Events.

"The greatest Blessing of our turgid Age," said Number One, "is the large and symmetrical Ice Cube. In the Dark Ages the genial Host had to be a Combination of Sculptor, Athlete, Stonemason and Expert Mathematician in order to extract from the Refrigerator a huge and irregular mass of congealed River Water dappled with Sawdust, Submarine Vegetation and Minnows, and subdivide it with a treacherous Pick so as to get a good-looking line of Set-Ups.



"The Customers never knew whether he was going to draw a light Snowfall or a gigantic Unmanageable Iceberg.

"The Cubes have changed all that. Anybody can pick up Cubes and drop them into a Container at any Hour of the Day or Night without missing the Mark or mussing up the Pantry.

"By using the right size Glass and putting in two Cubes, so much of the available Space will be preempted that even the Boy who never touched it until after Prohibition came in will find it impossible to snitch more than a small Hooker."

"You are speaking by the Book," said Number Two, "but how about the Secret Compartment in the Door of your Room at the Hotel, which permits you to pass out Garments to be pressed and Shoes to be rubbed up, and receive Newspapers, etc., without coming into Contact with that devastating Imp commonly known as a Bell-Hop.

"You can remember when a Dime was accepted as Coin of the Realm. Now I often wonder why the Mint keeps on making them, excepting possibly a few for the elder Rockefeller.

"Every Juvenile Menial of a Thousand-room Hotel remembers at least one Glorious Day when some Lumberman, Oil Baron or Movie Magnate, who was properly Oiled, slipped him a Two-dollar Bonus for bringing up a Sporting Extra. Since that High Spot in his career he believes that the only authentic Nature's Nobleman is a Fish-eyed party with a Spicy Breath who cannot think in Terms of less than Two Bucks. All other Mortals are Nits."

"To my notion," said Number Three, "the greatest Development in this Age of Wonders has been the Cafeteria. It reveals to you the supreme Bliss of being able to sit down in a quiet Place, once in a while, and having your Vitties brought to you, without any preliminary Mental Struggle in the Attempt to Choose between Veal Loaf and Macaroni au Gratin."

"Without looking for an Argument," said Number Four, "I venture to opine that the biggest Thing happening since Free Silver has been the Advent of the Slip-on. If the Hook-and-Eye Industry has gone on the Blink, here is one Married Gazook who is cold and unsympathetic."

MORAL: The Magazines never find out about our real Progress.

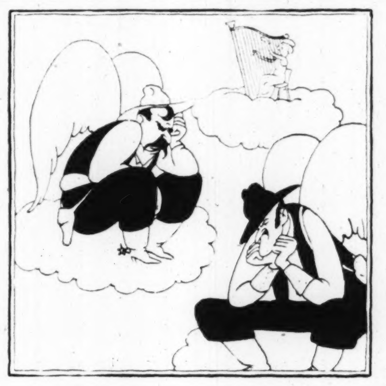
The Fable of the Softy Who Never Learned How.

Once upon a Time, and not so long ago, several Hard Citizens, once esteemed and held in awe out in the boundless West, looked down from the Parapets of the Beyond and Hereafter at the Scenes of their former Operations.

They had been soaked with Sin while on Earth. They had been Tough Eggs, breaking all the known Commandments and then some. Now they were being punished Plenty. They had to sit on Clouds all day listening to Harp Music.



Furthermore, these miscreants who were being punished for their Black Crimes, had to wear Wings, which were always getting in the Way of Molting.

In the meantime the virtuous Minority who had gone to their final rewards were comfortably housed in the Lower Regions, where the Apartments were thoroughly heated and Janitor Service was perfect. They had no Modern Music, not even by Radio. No Wings to wear, no listening to Talkies that sounded like someone with a Bad Cold speaking from the Bottom of a Well.

Among those who looked down at a transformed World, regenerated and purified by a Thousand Pages of Restrictive Legislation, were the Dalton Boys, Jesse and Frank James, and Black Bart, the Mystery Bandit of California.

"Just to think!" exclaimed Bill Dalton. "We had to fire a thousand Shots and make a Get-away under a Fusillade to take about Eight Hundred Dollars away from a Country Bank. Now our Successors drive a few Trucks from one Spot to another, under guaranteed Protection, and collect more Dough than there was between the Missoury River and the Pacific Coast in our primitive Day and Age."

"I thought I was a Bad Man," Jesse James remarked with a Sigh, "but I was the Bobby Jones of the Frontier—just a clean and well-behaved Amateur, pure as the Driven Snow."

"What rasps me," put in Black Bart, "is that I had to hide out most of the Time, living on Nuts and Berries, but now the Rum Runners and the Men Higher Up and the Alky Kings, after they Turn a Trick, get into their Wrist Watches and Silk Underwear, put a lot of Perfumery on themselves and attend Grand Opera."

The Boys were mighty Blue. They realized that they had busted into the Game too soon. They never had enjoyed such Luxuries as Machine Guns, Rolls-Royces, Dinner Coats, Platinum Jewelry and Heroin. They had been simple-minded Country Boys, playing Tag over the Wide Open Spaces.

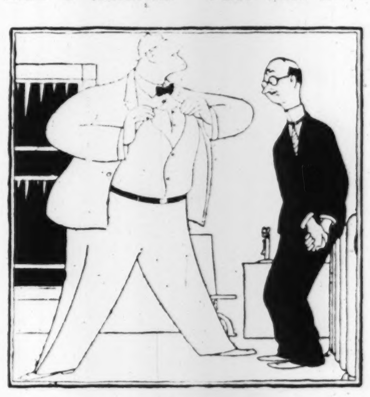
The Fable of the Unsung and Unclothed Hero.

Once upon a Time, just after a Cold Wave had arrived direct from Medicine Hat, a Copper found an undersized Citizen horizontal on the Concrete, frozen stiffer than a Ramrod. The poor victim was poked into an Ambulance and rushed to a Hospital, where some vigorous Internes got him in a Warm Room and proceeded to uncongeal him.



At last he sat up, comparatively thawed out, and asked anxiously: "While I was refrigerated, did anyone wrap me up in Wool?"

"No, we just slapped you with Hot Towels."

"Then I can still hold up my Head and Face the World."

"Meaning which and what?"

"Perhaps you have not identified me. I am the anemic Skin and Bones with a Blood Pressure of 85, no Red Corpuscles and nary a Spark of Vitality, who has taken a Vow to go through the Winter months wearing Undies made of Cheesecloth."

"What is the large Idea?"

"I work in an Office with a lot of College Eskimos, former Football players and other Huskies delicately constructed on the order of Oxen, and every one in the Bunch glories in the Fact that he wears the same Weight the Year round. If I ever admitted to these Grizzly Bears that I was Concealing, under my clothes, the same kind of double-thickness Flannel that Peary wore when he found the North Pole, I would be hooted at as a Weakling, cast out of their Society as a Pariah, and my Business Career would be wrecked. The Manager of our Department has not worn a Vest since he matriculated at college."

"Do you suffer much?"

"Ten thousand Agonies—but I must carry on."

The Fable of the Mistreated Missus and the Fortunate Frau.

Once upon a Time two Women waited at the Curb for their Motors to come and pick them up.

One, with about a Million Dollars' Worth of Furs and other Trappings, was waiting for a Limousine that looked like a Cathedral on Wheels. The other, wearing a Blanket with Sleeves attached and a 90-cent Lid, was preparing to hop a Pink Bus.

The Lady whose Rigging advertised an abnormal Prosperity was the Picture of Grief and sniffing in a secretive Manner. The one with the tacky Regalia was grinning like a Cheshire Cat.

"Why the Weeps, Sister?" asked the humble Specimen of the Common People.

"The Breaks are against me," replied the Queen. "A certain Nit-Wit known to the World as my Husband got into a Jam last Fall when the Bottom fell out of Stocks and now I am camping around in this Dump instead of being on the Riviera. I didn't suppose anyone in the world could work up a Laugh in these troublous Times, but you are giggling and snickering as if Good News had come and kissed you on the Forehead."

"Why not? Herman got in a little Overtime last Week and copped Four Dollars extra and we are going to have Oysters for Supper."

VOTE NO ON SARDINES

AT DAFUNDO, a suburb of Lisbon, Portugal, an international sardine conference will be held in the near future. Topics relating to sardine life and the sardine industry will be discussed. Delegates from Spain, France and Great Britain will take part in the discussions. Dafundo is in the heart of one of the most important sardine centers.

There are some points I should like to discuss, relating to this conference.

Why wasn't the United States invited? We eat as many sardines as the British do. Wouldn't a roar go up from the French Chamber of Deputies if Uncle Sam had the effrontery to call a French pastry conference and not invite France! Wouldn't we hear from the London Morning Post, though, if Secretary of State Stimson called a roast beef and Yorkshire pudding conference at Washington and failed to ask Ramsay MacDonald to come!

Not that I hold any brief for the sardine. They could hold their old sardine meetings until doomsday and I wouldn't care whether I went or not, if I were the United States.

I like a fish that can stand on its own two legs, or the nearest available two legs. And does a sardine do that? Certainly not. Did anybody ever meet a sardine outside of a sandwich or a dish of hors d'oeuvres? No. On the other hand, take the salmon and the halibut. Two good, up-standing, virile fish. Did anybody ever see a salmon or a halibut in a plate of hors d'oeuvres? No, a halibut would rather die first. A halibut is a good old American fish with pride.

Does a halibut have to be soaked in olive oil before it can begin to taste like anything? No sir. Does a sardine? It certainly does. Unless a sardine is soaked in olive oil it is tasteless, and I've wrestled with sardines that were tasteless even after they had been soaked in olive oil. A sardine without olive oil would feel as helpless as Mrs. Fiske acting without a pocket handkerchief.

I never courted the sardine. I never made any advances to it as a dish. I have sought the halibut, the salmon, the shad and other fish, but every time I have consumed a sardine, it was in the course of a routine consumption of a plate of hors d'oeuvres. I never said to a waiter, "Chico, bring me some sardines." I have said, "Chico, I'll have some hors d'oeuvres." And the sardine came with the hors d'oeuvres, ipso facto, ex-officio, automatically and willy nilly.

Furthermore, I have had moments when I have been very, very fatigued by that silver tummy every sardine wears. In the first place it is an unnecessary and gaudy display, in bad taste. It's like wearing a check suit with a red necktie and a large diamond in the necktie. No fish needs a silver tummy any more than I need one.

IN THE second place, I have never been able to find out the etiquette of that silver lining to the sardine. Is it to be eaten, or peeled off and left on the plate? Don't answer, because it would make no difference to me anyhow. No matter what fashoin dictates in this matter, I refuse to eat the silver. I fly right bang into the face of convention in this matter, if convention stipulates that I must eat the silver part of a sardine. I am going to be just as adamant about eating that silver as I have been about eating the rind, the green part, of a piece of Camembert cheese. I am no longer welcome in the best Camembert circles because of my allegedly heterodox attitude in this matter. I have lost a few friends, ardent Camembert addicts for the most part, but I do not mind that. If the cord of friendship is so gossamer that it can be sundered by a piece of Camembert cheese, then I do not want that kind of friendship, and I am at least grateful to Camembert cheese for letting me know just who my real friends are, and just who my cheese friends are.

It is a far cry from the sardine to Camembert cheese but occasionally one's sense of the injustice of things carries one away from one's subject. Anent the sardine, just a few words more—I suppose I have peeled enough silver gilt off sardines to gild the steeple of the Chrysler Tower. And I am only one (at least I flatter myself that I am one) of 120,000,000 Americans. Yet they have this sardine conference, and they never invite Uncle Sam.

Well, let 'em have it. Any sardine that goes anywhere near their old conference is a fool. My advice to the sardine would be: Go out and make a reputation like a salmon. Go out and make food on your own hook.

"The Breaks are against me," replied the Queen. "A certain Nit-Wit known to the World as my Husband got into a Jam last Fall when the Bottom fell out of Stocks and now I am camping around in this Dump instead of being on the Riviera. I didn't suppose anyone in the world could work up a Laugh in these troublous Times, but you are giggling and snickering as if Good News had come and kissed you on the Forehead."

"Why not? Herman got in a little Overtime last Week and copped Four Dollars extra and we are going to have Oysters for Supper."

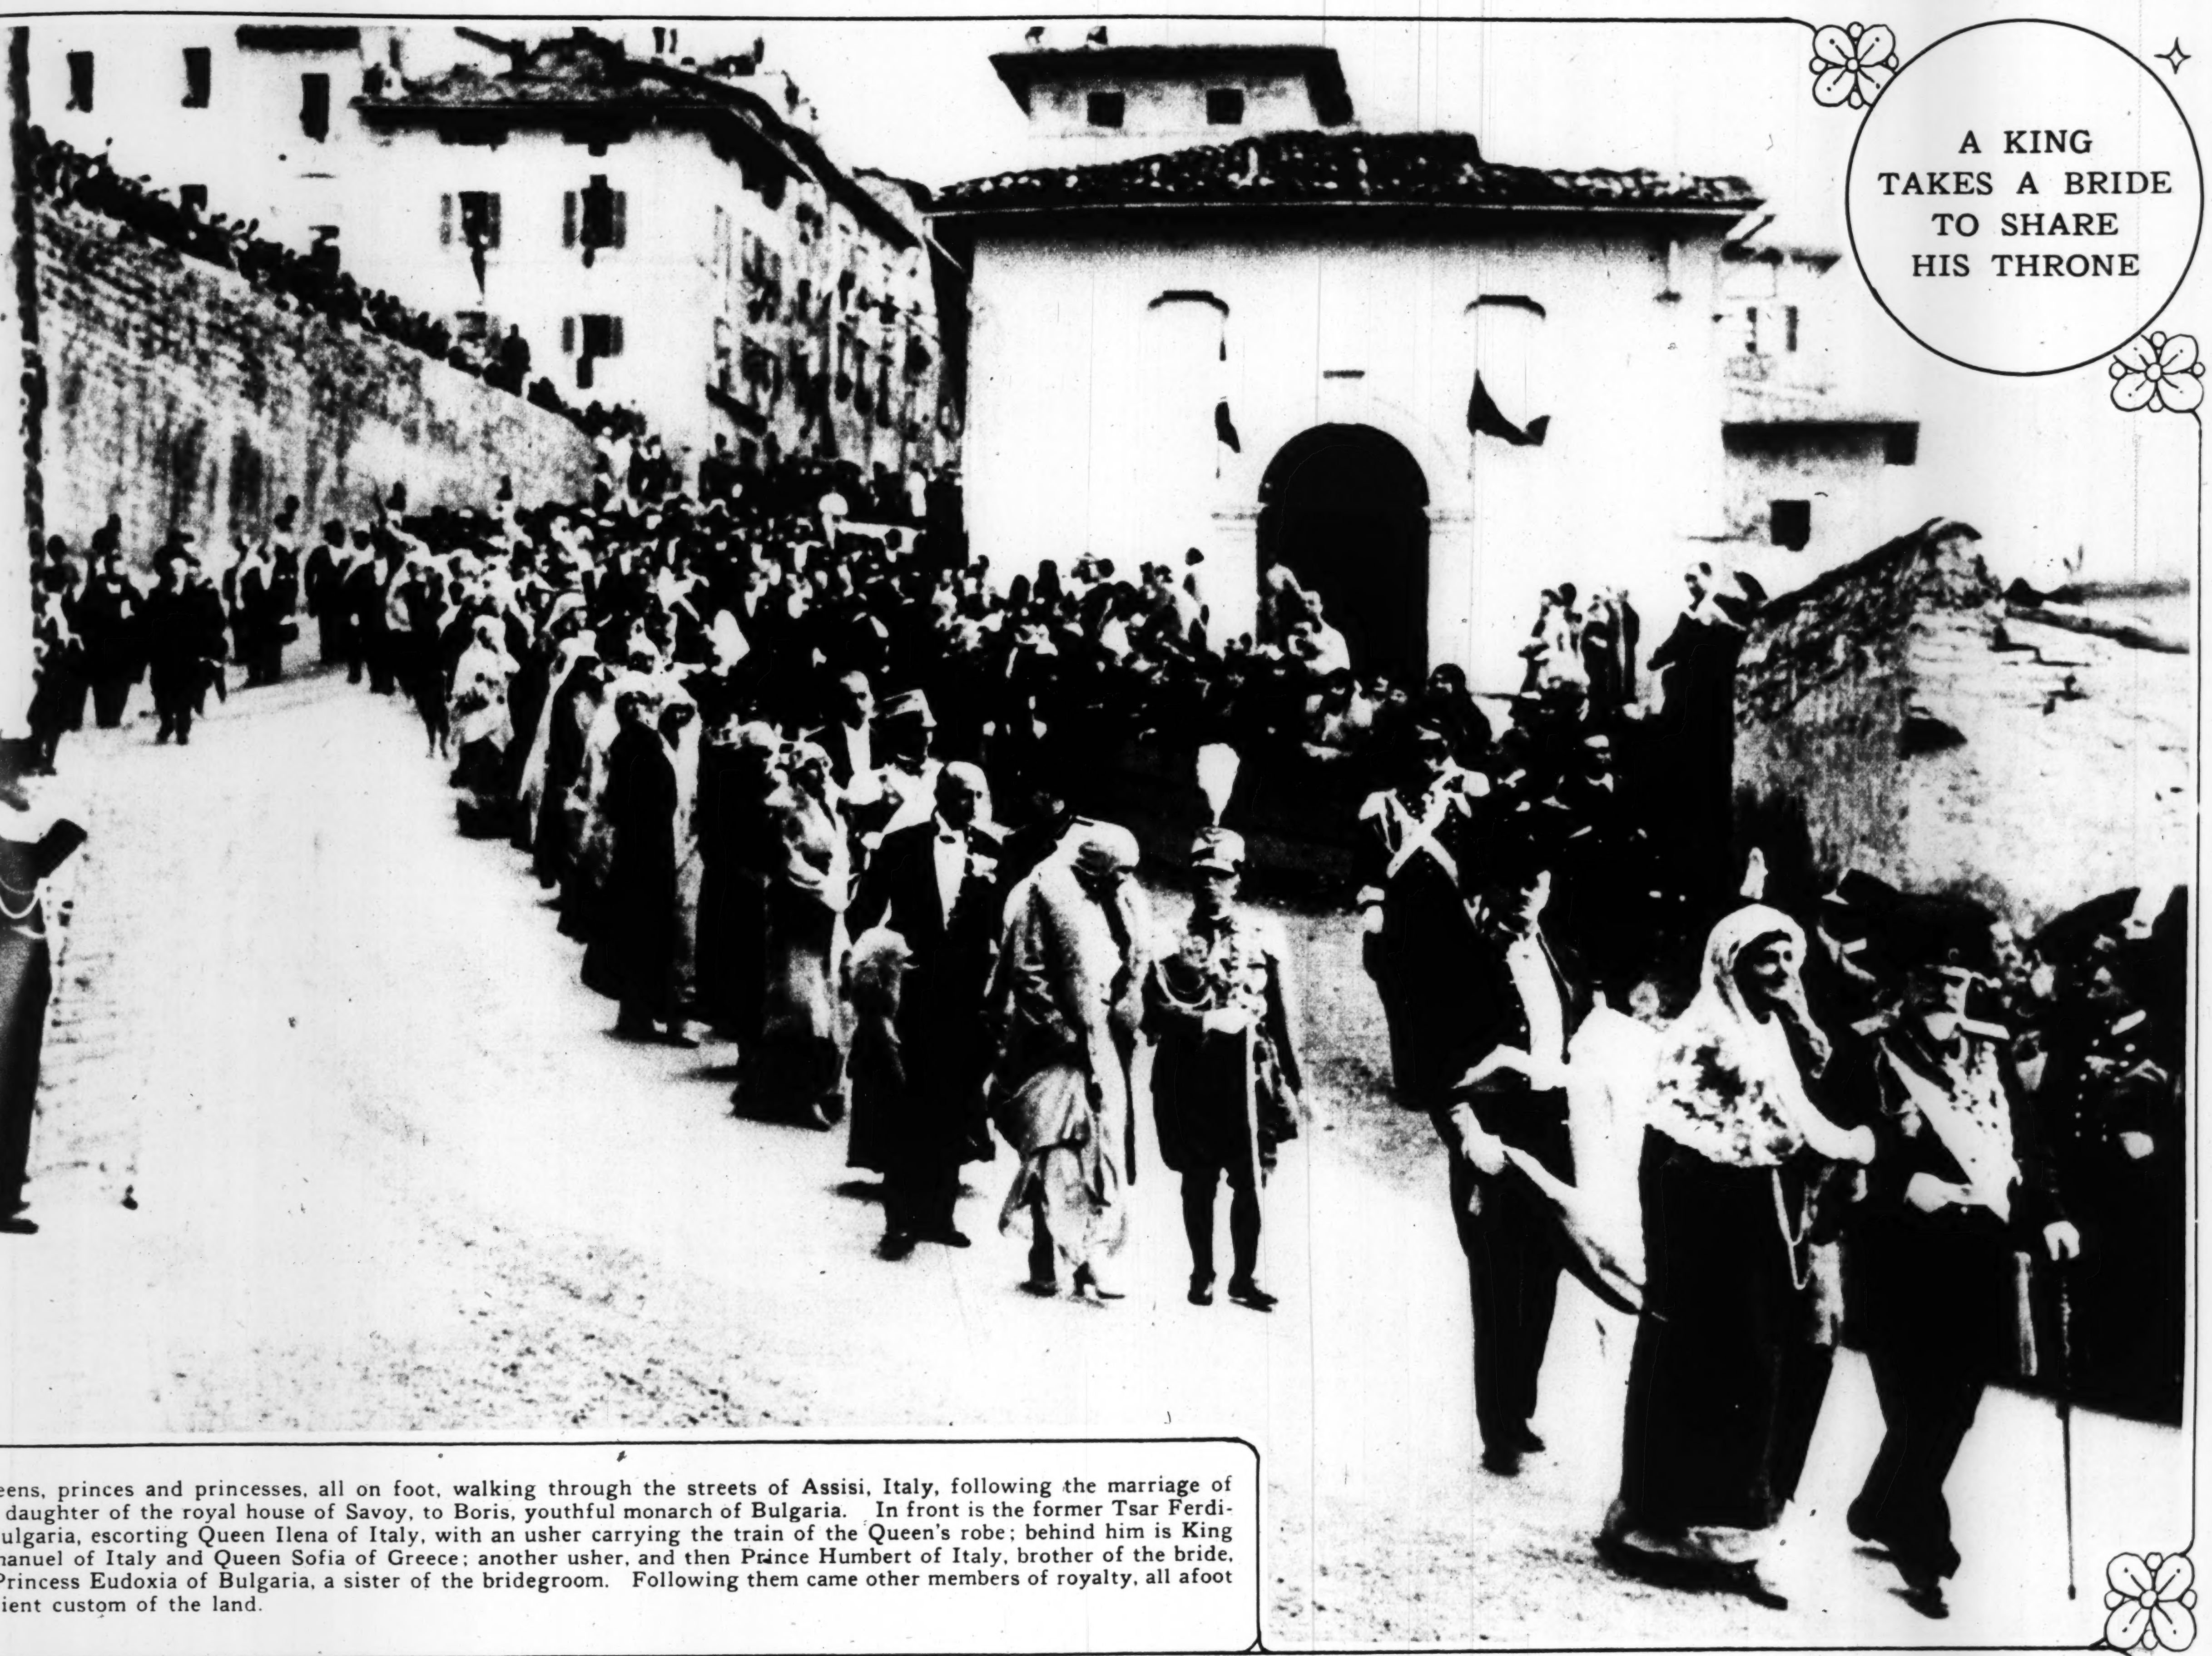
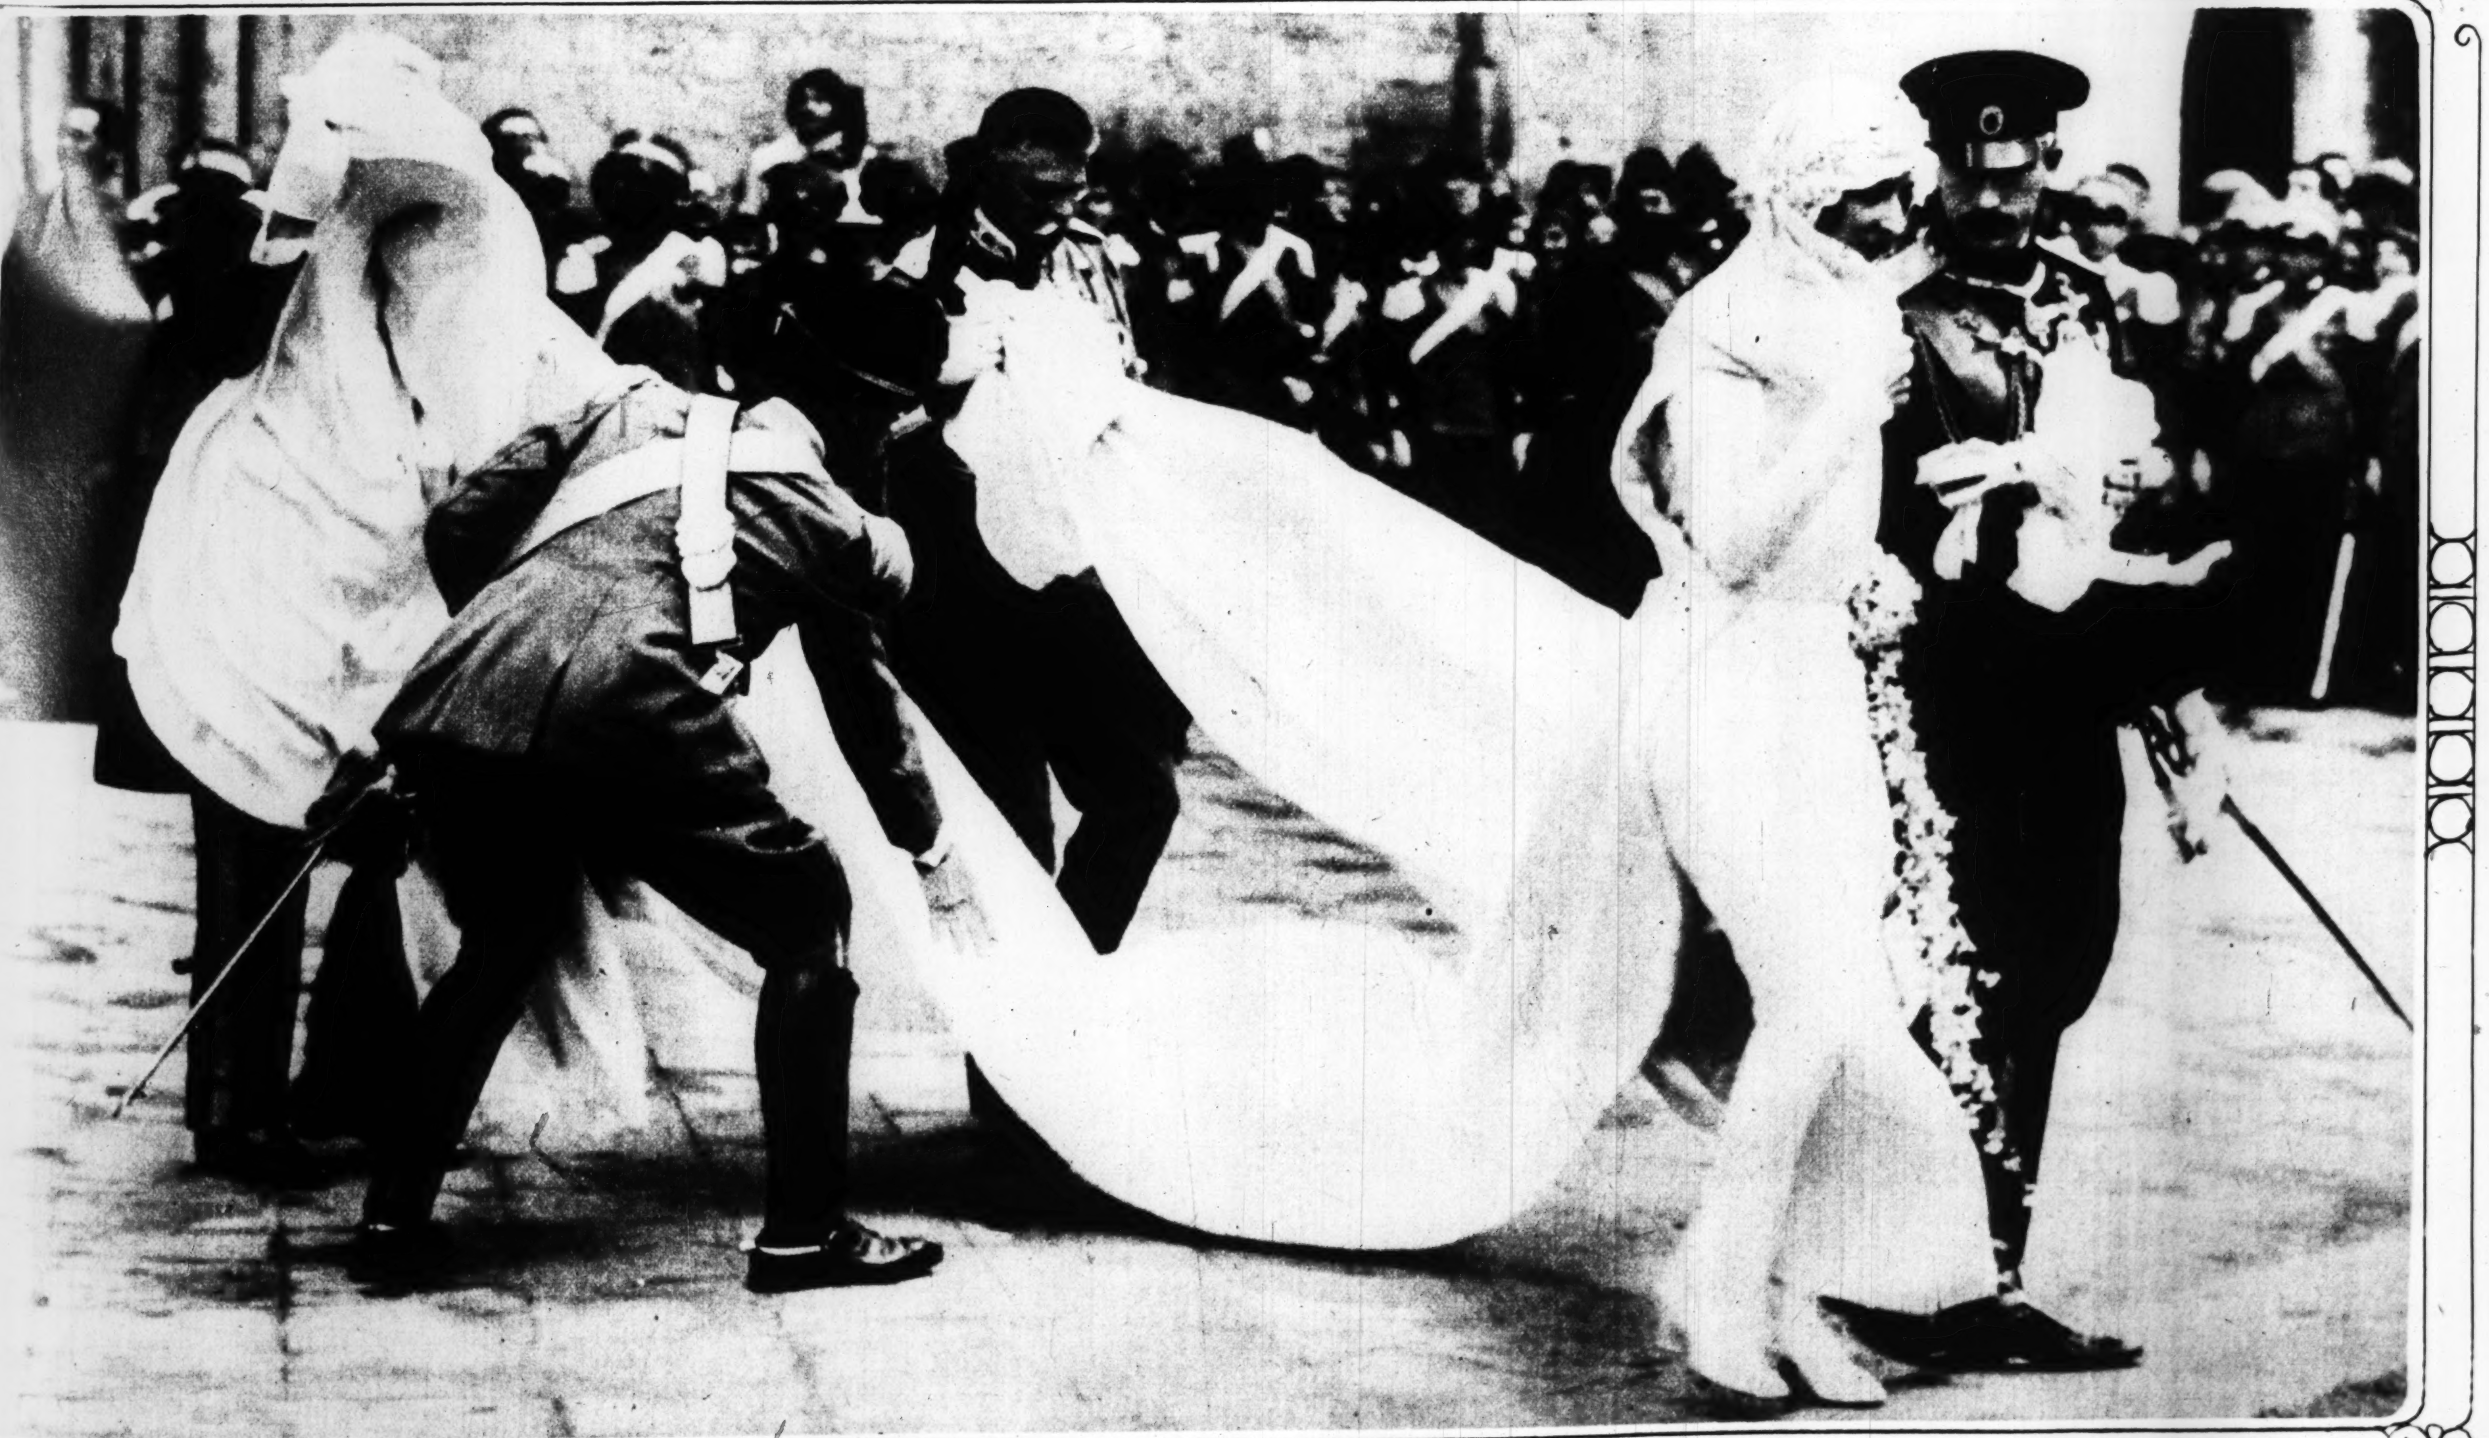
A KING TAKES A BRIDE TO SHARE HIS THRONE



Kings, queens, princes and princesses, all on foot, walking through the streets of Assisi, Italy, following the marriage of Giovanna, daughter of the royal house of Savoy, to Boris, youthful monarch of Bulgaria. In front is the former Tsar Ferdinand of Bulgaria, escorting Queen Ilena of Italy, with an usher carrying the train of the Queen's robe; behind him is King Victor Emanuel of Italy and Queen Sofia of Greece; another usher, and then Prince Humbert of Italy, brother of the bride, with the Princess Eudoxia of Bulgaria, a sister of the bridegroom. Following them came other members of royalty, all afoot in the ancient custom of the land.



The new Queen Giovanna of Bulgaria, daughter of the King of Italy, leaving the medieval Church of St. Francis, in Assisi, on the arm of her husband, King Boris of Bulgaria. The bride's long train and a gust of wind provided an armful of trouble as this snapshot was taken.

AT LAST!
A QUICK SURE WAY TO BANISH
*Skin Congestion
"But I keep my skin perfectly clean!" you answer if someone suggests Skin Congestion as the cause of your complexion worries.
Of course....soap-and-water clean! But if you want lovely skin in spite of smoky cities and dusty roads, you must cleanse deep down in the pores where these millions of tiny "breathers" become clogged.
This Cream eliminates impurities from millions of pores
Plough's Cleansing Cream makes this deep pore-cleansing easy. Its light oils quickly free every pore of dust, smut and make-up and effectively overcome the causes of skin congestion.
Plough's Cleansing Cream is of the highest quality and economically priced wherever beauty creations are sold. The 50c size contains more than twice the quantity of the 30c size, and the 75c size is the most economical to buy.
*Skin Congestion denotes the presence of a hardened substance in the pores caused by the accumulation of dust, smut and make-up.
We also suggest Plough's Peroxide (Vanishing) Cream, 50c and 30c, for protection and Plough's Cold Cream, 50c and 30c, for nourishing the skin.

MELLOWED A HUNDRED MILLION YEARS
While fearful monsters sported on the shores of PENNSYLVANIA
A HUNDRED MILLION years ago—millions of years before even these strange monsters sported in the seas—nature formed the Bradford-Allegany oil pool.
That was in the Devonian Age. In this age the conditions of heat, pressure and raw materials in the Bradford-Allegany District were most favorable to forming high grade crude for lubricating oil—so favorable that today Bradford-Allegany crude commands the highest price per barrel of all Pennsylvania grade crudes. Just note the prices in any petroleum journal.
When you buy the new, improved Sinclair Mobiline Motor Oil for your car you get a pure Pennsylvania grade oil that is made 100% from Bradford-Allegany crude. You get an oil that has gone through the most up-to-date refining processes in the biggest single refinery using Pennsylvania grade crude exclusively—an oil that is triple-filtered, de-waxed at as low as 60° F. below zero—and guaranteed to flow at zero.
Have the nearest Sinclair dealer change your oil to Sinclair Mobiline according to the Sinclair Law of Lubrication. After long, hard driving note how this Mobiline stands up—how it comes out of your crankcase almost as good as it went in. Note, especially, how very little Mobiline has been used up—positive, visible proof that this rich Devonian oil protects the last mile as well as the first!
Send our nearest office your name and address and a list of the states where you intend touring and we will send you road maps and the Sinclair Law of Lubrication booklet, free. Sinclair Refining Company, (Inc.) New York, Atlanta, Chicago, Houston, Fort Worth, Kansas City.

Each application has four distinct actions on the skin.

Tissue stimulating action that invigorates the deep tissues of the skin. And thus that ends the use of a special "skin food."

Astringent action that eradicates worry, strain and premature age lines, refines pores. And thus that makes the use of youth creams and astringents a folly.

Softening action that forms a perfect base for powder. And thus banishes the need of a powder base. Thus the four fundamentals of skin care are condensed into a single, 3-minute application.

Age lines soon go under this daily care. Flabby tissues strengthen and become firm. The skin is kept clean—for the astringent action of this cream closes the pores after they've been cleaned.

YES SIR, A GREAT DAY FOR A WALK. THE SUN SHINING. EVERYTHING IS SO—
OH, OH. WHAT'S THAT IN THE ASH CAN? IT LOOKS LIKE A—?
—A BOOK. IMPORTANT LOOKING TOO. EVEN IF THE COVER IS GONE. MY WORD WHAT WILL PEOPLE THROW AWAY NEXT? WHAT'S THE TITLE? THESE ASHES MESS UP EVERYTHING.
ONE MILLION MEDICAL FACTS. WRITTEN BY TEN THOUSAND EXPERTS. MEDICAL FACTS. SOME DOCTOR LOST THIS. WELL ONE PERSONS LOSS IS ANOTHERS GAIN.
I WONDER IF IT WILL TELL ME WHY MY PUPPIES GET TIRED WHEN I WALK A LOT? LET'S SEE—?
MY WORD, I WONDER IF I COULD HAVE A TOUCH OF LUMBAGO.
MY UNCLE HAD IT. IT PROBABLY RUNS IN MY FAMILY. AND ME ON MY FEET AT A TIME LIKE THIS. I'VE FELT SOMETHING SERIOUS COMING ON FOR A LONG TIME.
LUMBAGO! I'M COOKED.
NO WONDER I'M AS WEAK AS A CAT. I SHOULD BE IN BED RIGHT NOW.
TAXI!
IT'S THE THIRD HOUSE ON THE RIGHT, DRIVER. AND GIVE ME A HAND UPSTAIRS TO MY DOOR, TOO.
GEORGE BUNGLE, WHAT IN THE WORLD IS WRONG? YOU LOOK SO—
THIS BOOK TELLS THE WHOLE STORY. LOOK ON PAGE 248. READ IT. 248.
PAGE 248 IS MISSING....WHY THIS IS AN OLD MEDICAL BOOK.
PAGE 248 MISSING? MY WORD! WELL, LOOK IN THE INDEX FOR....DON'T TELL ME THE INDEX TOO IS GONE. I MUST HAVE LOST THOSE PAGES WHEN I DROPPED THE BOOK GETTING OUT OF THE TAXI. LET ME THINK..... WHAT'S THE NAME OF THAT DISEASE?
HEY! JO, WAIT. HEY! THE IDEA OF MAKING A MAN IN MY CONDITION CHASE YOU DOWN THESE STEPS THREE AT A TIME. STOP! ONE MOMENT.... JO!
HEY! WAIT! DON'T BURN THAT GOOD—
THE IDEA! EVERY TIME YOU GET AN OLD MEDICAL BOOK YOU CATCH THREE OR FOUR DISEASES. WELL I KNOW HOW TO CURE YOU. THERE GOES THE BOOK....

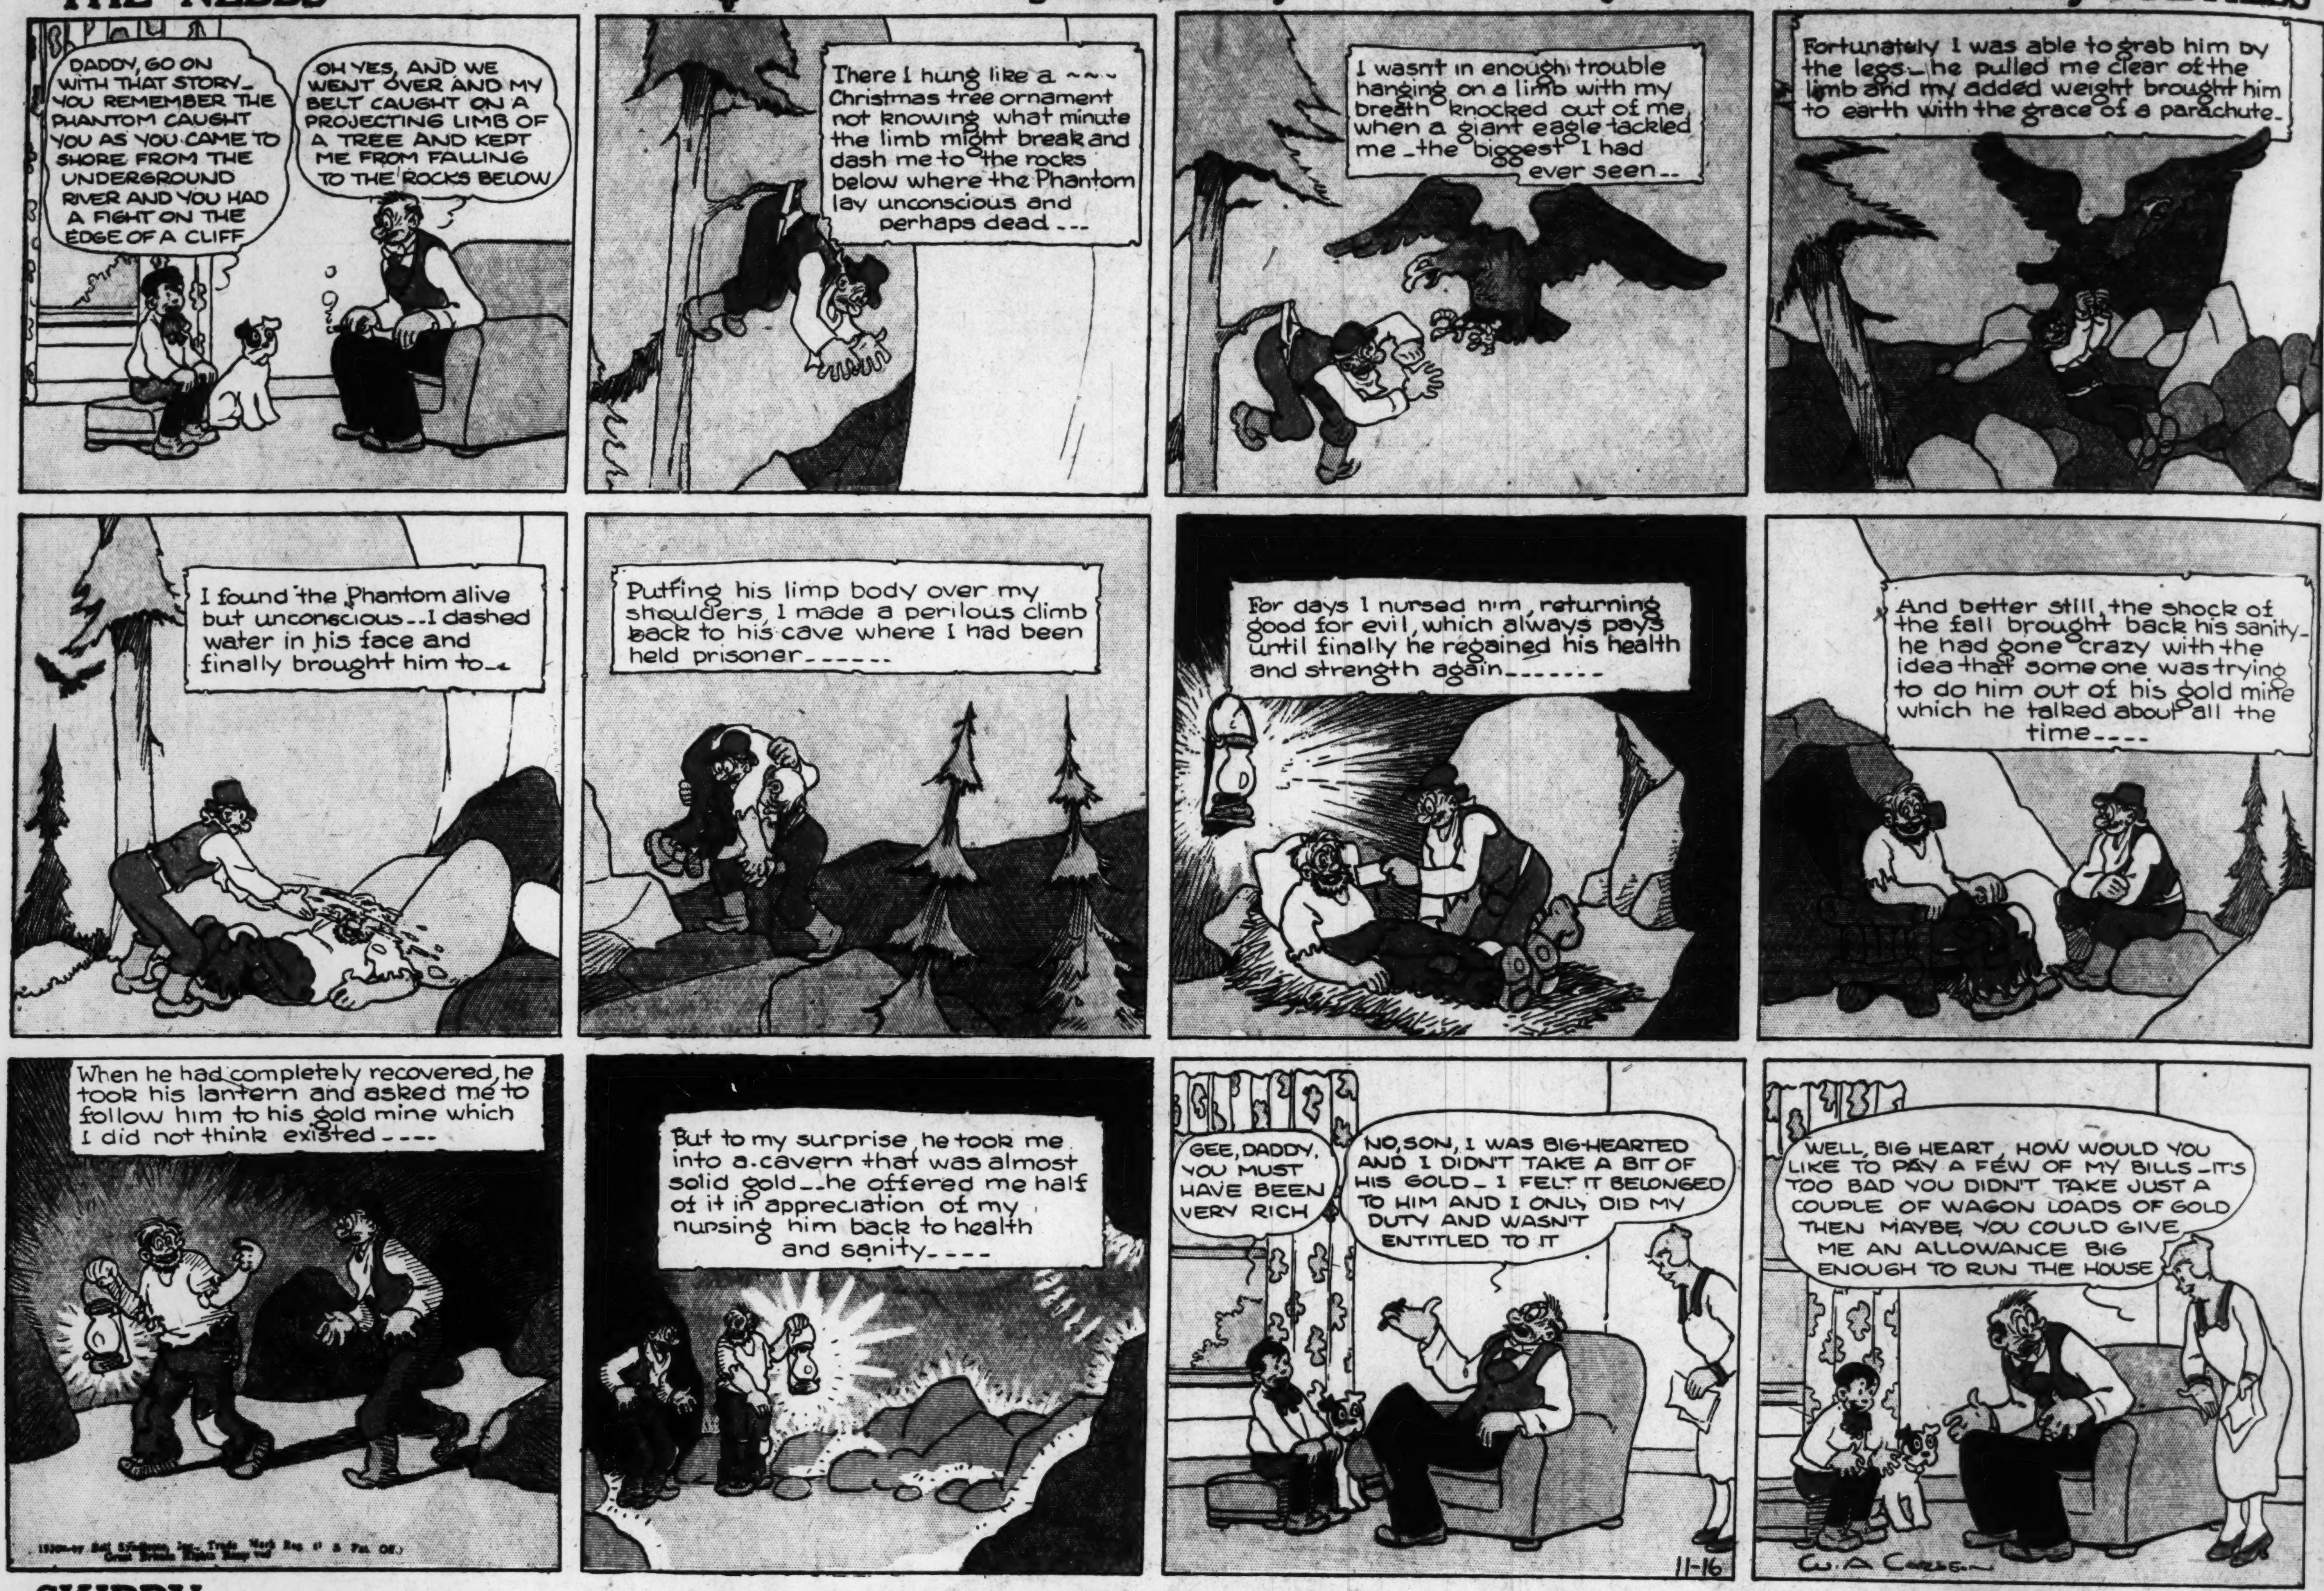
THE NEBBS ◆ Big-Hearted Rudy ◆ By SOL HESS



DADDY, GO ON WITH THAT STORY_ YOU REMEMBER THE PHANTOM CAUGHT YOU AS YOU CAME TO SHORE FROM THE UNDERGROUND RIVER AND YOU HAD A FIGHT ON THE EDGE OF A CLIFF
OH YES, AND WE WENT OVER AND MY BELT CAUGHT ON A PROJECTING LIMB OF A TREE AND KEPT ME FROM FALLING TO THE ROCKS BELOW
There I hung like a ~~~ Christmas tree ornament not knowing what minute the limb might break and dash me to the rocks below where the Phantom lay unconscious and perhaps dead ---
I wasn't in enough trouble hanging on a limb with my breath knocked out of me, when a giant eagle tackled me _the biggest I had ever seen__
Fortunately I was able to grab him by the legs_ he pulled me clear of the limb and my added weight brought him to earth with the grace of a parachute_
I found the Phantom alive but unconscious--I dashed water in his face and finally brought him to_ Putting his limp body over my shoulders, I made a perilous climb back to his cave where I had been held prisoner------
For days I nursed him, returning good for evil, which always pays until finally he regained his health and strength again-------
And better still, the shock of the fall brought back his sanity_ he had gone crazy with the idea that some one was trying to do him out of his gold mine which he talked about all the time----
When he had completely recovered, he took his lantern and asked me to follow him to his gold mine which I did not think existed----
But to my surprise, he took me into a cavern that was almost solid gold__he offered me half of it in appreciation of my nursing him back to health and sanity----
GEE, DADDY, YOU MUST HAVE BEEN VERY RICH
NO, SON, I WAS BIG-HEARTED AND I DIDN'T TAKE A BIT OF HIS GOLD_ I FELT IT BELONGED TO HIM AND I ONLY DID MY DUTY AND WASN'T ENTITLED TO IT
WELL, BIG HEART, HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO PAY A FEW OF MY BILLS_IT'S TOO BAD YOU DIDN'T TAKE JUST A COUPLE OF WAGON LOADS OF GOLD THEN MAYBE YOU COULD GIVE ME AN ALLOWANCE BIG ENOUGH TO RUN THE HOUSE

ELLA CINDERS

This comic appears every day in the daily Post-Dispatch

By Bill Conselman and Charlie Plumb

THOSE TWO WOMEN HAVE DONE NOTHING BUT TALK ABOUT PEOPLE EVER SINCE THEY GOT ON THIS BUS! I'M GOING TO CHANGE SEATS! EVERYTHING THEY HEAR GOES IN ONE EAR AND OUT THE ETHER!
ARE YOU ENJOYING THE TRIP?
YES, MISSY — A DANGED SIGHT MORE'N I DID THE FIRST TIME I CAME THROUGH THIS PART OF THE COUNTRY! I PASSED RIGHT BY HERE IN "FORTY-NINE."
I CROSSED THE COUNTRY IN AN OX CART WHEN I WAS A BOY! THOSE DAYS WERE TOUGH ONES— WE COULDN'T MAKE MUCH SPEED. BUT WHEN INJINS CAME AROUND TO GIVE US SCALP TREATMENT, WE KINDA STEPPED ON IT A BIT!
AS CIVILIZATION PROGRESSED, THE STAGE-COACH CAME WITH IT! A REGULAR ROUTE WAS OPENED FROM CHICAGO TO SAN FRANCISCO AND STAGES MADE THE TRIP IN TWENTY-FIVE DAYS.
THE CRY FOR MORE SPEED PRODUCED THE LOCOMOTIVE, AND SOON THERE WAS A TRACK THAT SPANNED THE CONTINENT. THEY WERE ROUGH RIDING CRITTERS, BUT THEY KNOCKED A LOT OF HOURS OFF TRAVEL TIME.
OF COURSE THEY WASN'T MUCH COMPARED WITH OUR MODERN TRAINS! THEY WERE RUN ON A ONCE-IN-A-WHILE SCHEDULE! BUT Y'KNOW, MISSY, YOU'VE GOT TO LEARN TO CRAWL AFORE YOU CAN RUN!
THEN CAME THE FIRST AUTOMOBILE —THE LESS SAID ABOUT THAT THE BETTER! BUT TAKE MY WORD FOR IT, THERE WAS PLENTY SAID ABOUT IT THOSE DAYS — AND TO IT!
NOW WE HAVE THESE BUSSES - THEY CROSS THE CONTINENT IN FIVE DAYS IN ANY KIND OF WEATHER, AND GO PLACES THAT NO TRAIN WILL EVER REACH! SPEED, COMFORT, AND SAFETY! ARE Y' LISTENIN?
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.; Copyright, 1930, by Metropolitan Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.
JUST THINK, AIRPLANES CROSS THIS COUNTRY OF OURS IN TWELVE HOURS! SOON THEY'LL RUN PASSENGER LINES ON THAT SCHEDULE! SPEED- SPEED — SPEED!
NOW THEY CLAIM THEY CAN PERFECT ROCKET PLANES THAT WILL LEAVE NEW YORK AT SUNDOWN AND REACH CALIFORNIA IN TIME TO SEE THE SUN SET AGAIN! YOU'LL SEE THE ROCKET IN CALIFORNIA BEFORE YOU HEAR THE REPORT OF THE SHOT THAT STARTED IT IN NEW YORK.
AN MRS. WOTZIS TOLD ME THAT SHE HEARD THAT MRS. GLIMPH IS GOING TO LEAVE HER HUSBAND IN A FEW DAYS BECAUSE SHE HEARD HE — BZ-Z-Z-Z-Z!
I ENJOYED YOUR TALK ON THE PROGRESS OF SPEED, MR. BINGHAM, BUT I THINK GOSSIP IS THE FASTEST TRAVELING THING IN EXISTENCE! WHY, YOU CAN EVEN HEAR A REPORT TWO MONTHS BEFORE A REPUTATION IS SHOT!

GEE, THAT'S PERFECT--- YOU'VE GOT YOUR PROPOSAL DOWN PAT
NOW, GO RIGHT IN THERE AND PROPOSE TO MY MOTHER BEFORE THAT MORTON MINNICK BEATS YOU OUT
I'M ALL CONFIDENCE-- NOTHING CAN STOP ME NOW
GOODIE --- HE'S GONE RIGHT INTO THE PROPOSAL--- I WAS AFRAID HE'D GET COLD FEET ---- NOW, IT'S UP TO ME TO SEE THAT THEY'RE NOT DISTURBED
I'M VERY SORRY, BUT MOTHER IS TERRIBLY BUSY--- NO---NO----YOU'LL HAVE TO CALL TOMORROW
---- THRU ALL THESE LONESOME YEARS I'VE LONGED FOR A LOVE LIKE YOURS --- MY HEART HAS BEEN CRYING FOR YOU, MY DREAM GIRL ---
OH, MR. JINKERS--HOW BEA--UTIFUL
AW, COME ON, BLONDIE, LET ME IN--LOOK AT THE NICE BOX OF CANDY I BROUGHT FOR YOUR MOTHER
POSITIVELY NO! MR. JINKERS IS HERE THIS EVENING AND I'M NOT GOING TO ALLOW YOU TO DISTURB THEM
WELL, I GUESS MOTHER WON'T BE A LONESOME LITTLE WIDOW MUCH LONGER --- MR. JINKERS IS SUCH A SWEET SOUL --- I KNOW MOTHER LOVES HIM SO
I HEAR MR. JINKER'S FOOT STEPS --- WELL, I GUESS IT'S ALL OVER BUT THE WEDDING --- I'LL GO IN AND BE THE FIRST TO CONGRATULATE THEM
CONGRATULATIONS? I NEED SYMPATHY --- YOUR MOTHER REFUSED ME -- I'M THE UNHAPPIEST MAN THERE IS -- I DON'T WANT TO LIVE ANY MORE
WHY I CAN'T BELIEVE IT!
IT'S NO USE--I'M GOING TO LEAVE TOWN--I. COULD NEVER FACE HER AGAIN
BUT I KNOW SHE LOVES YOU-- SHE'S BEEN WAITING MONTHS FOR YOU TO PROPOSE
WHY, MOTHER, WHAT EVER CAME OVER YOU? YOU TOLD ME YOU LOVED HIM DEARLY
I DO LOVE HIM-- BOO-- HOO
BUT I WAS SO SURPRISED AND THRILLED OVER HIS PROPOSAL THAT I GOT MIXED UP AND SAID "NO" WHEN I MEANT "YES"
